Strand polling opinion on local schools

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The new superintendent and other school officials are sampling public opinion in an effort to turn around a trend of parents enrolling their children in private schools.

If the trend of rising private school enrollment is any indication, many parents are thinking about the jump from public to private schools next year.

Finding ways to change these parents' minds or satisfy them by making improvements in the school system is one of the top priorities for this year and next for the School Committee and new Superintendent John Strand.

School officials are preparing to take act to stop this trend, but first they want to get at the heart of parents' discontent.

Following on the heels of a survey of a random sample of 400 private school parents and 140 parents who had returned their children to public school last year, the Newton schools are again launching a public opinion survey. This time officials want feedback from a random sample of 1,000 public school parents as well as from all 716 households with 3-4 year olds.

With the questionnaires, school officials hope to learn not only of problem areas, but also what parents find praiseworthy. The responses to the questions may help them to change some parents minds who may be considering taking their children out of the public schools.

The size of the survey of public school parents will allow officials to drawn conclusions about particular schools in the system and was selected by School Committee members largely for this reason. The cost of this survey is expected to reach $3,570 for the questionnaire which contains both objective and open-ended questions.

Other sample sizes considered were 365 parents and 500 parents, but officials were told neither of these smaller surveys would allow the system to draw any conclusions about specific schools.

This questionnaire will be mailed out in January and the report will be completed in the late spring, a school official said.

Private school parents make up only 15.9 percent of the parents of school-aged children in Newton, so it made sense, in the minds of most School Committee members and the superintendent, to poll a sample of public school parents as well to hear what is good and bad about the schools.

Private school enrollment is up this year to 15.9 percent from its most recent low of 11.6 percent in 1973-1975. Holding the trend at its present level is one of Strand's foremost goals, but it won't be easy, he told the School Committee recently.

NEWTON — What do 3,300 Newton people have in common with a man named Boston?

The man is F.A. Day Junior High science teacher John Boston, who retires this month after enduring, and enjoying, 31 years in junior high classrooms.

Day Jr. High students figure he has taught some 3,300 individuals and evaluated 99,000 pages of science reports since he first took a job teaching at Day in 1951.

Boston's current crop of eighth graders is compiling a book featuring personal notes of remembrance from former students which will be

Some reclaim stolen jewelry

NEWTON — For at least a dozen Newton people who made their way to Boston Police headquarters this weekend, a different kind of Thanksgiving Day came a day or two late — not that they are complaining.

The Newton residents were among more than 2,000 burglary victims who went to Boston Police headquarters to look at more than $200,000 worth of jewelry on display in a fourth-floor conference room.

Police seized the jewelry in a raid of the A and B Imports and Jewelry Store, 373A Centre St., Jamaica Plain, Nov. 15.

The store owner, Alfonso Barrero, 52, of 6 Morgan St., Randolph, was arraigned in West Roxbury District Court on a charge of receiving stolen property worth more than $100.

Three Boston teenagers also were arrested but only one, a 17-year-old boy, has been charged with a burglary; that burglary occurred in Newton.

The two other teenagers were charged with marijuana possession.

Police believe the jewelry was stolen during numerous burglaries in Newton, Wellesley, Boston and Brookline.

Newton Det. Sgt. Arthur Fryar said Sunday the case remains under investigation and additional charges may be brought against the

First step taken on lounge hours

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Concerns about noise and drunk drivers prompted a majority of votes from an aldermanic committee to back a one-hour rollback of liquor establishment closing times but at least two alderman voiced concern over the possible economic hardship on the license holders.

A resolution to rollback the closing hours of all liquor establishments to 1 a.m. for safety reasons passed 4 to 0, with two abstensions, at a special meeting of Public Safety and Transportation on Monday.

"The 1 a.m. roll back will eliminate the problem of intoxicated people, from Waltham and Watertown, crossing over to take advantage of our longer drinking hours," said Committee Chairman Joseph DePasquale.

Seventeen establishments in the city hold 2 a.m. closing times on licenses for an annual fee of $2,500 for restaurants and $3,500 for hotels.

The Licensing Commission will hold a public hearing on the roll back of the hours on December 14, at 7:30 p.m. in City Hall and a decision is expected to be made that night.

"You get these people coming into the city already half drunk," said Alderman Rodney Barker.

But Aldermen Richard Bullwinkle and Richard McGrath both voiced concern over the proposed 1 a.m. closing rule.

"The guy who has run a good business is going to have to pay for the others who haven't," said Bullwinkle, who abstained from the resolution vote pending further information on alcohol related accidents after 2 a.m.

Alderman McGrath said he felt only restaurants with a poor track record for not controlling their patrons should be chastised with earlier closings.

"I'm concerned about the negative financial impact on well run establishments," said McGrath.

Most aldermen said they were concerned about alcohol related accidents, with Nonantum pegged as a particular problem area, according to DePasquale.

"At 12:30 a.m. there's a large in-

Teachers approve contract

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Teachers gave a lukewarm reception to a new two-year contract with 5.5-percent salary increases in a close ratification vote last week.

Teachers voted 285 to 217 to ratify the contract, a 68-vote difference which union leaders linked to continued dissatisfaction with the wage-increase offer.

"We're pleased that the contract has been resolved," said Burt Weiner, who headed the Newton Teachers' Association bargaining team, "but the vote clearly shows a lot of frustration on the part of teachers whose economic needs weren't fully recognized."

Rosetta Johnson, NTA president, echoed Weiner's concern, but was clearly pleased by the ratification vote.

"Maybe I won't have so many sleepless nights," Johnson joked following the ballot count.

Both Weiner and Johnson said the sticking point for the majority of teachers who opposed the contract was the salary offer.

One Newton North High teacher called the salary offer "insulting to a professional staff that is as devoted to Newton as this one is."

The previous two-year teacher contract called for 7.5 percent yearly increases.

Under the old teacher contract, a beginning teacher with a bachelor's degree was paid $14,032 a year. At the top of the scale, for teachers with 13 years of experience and a doctorate degree, the salary was $28,962.

Teachers settled in Brookline for 7 percent this year. In Wellesley, teachers settled for 6 percent this year and 7 percent next year. In Waltham, the mayoral policy is to award no pay raises to city employees.

School Committee Chairperson Nancy Mann said she was "delighted" that Newton teachers ratified the contract. "Now I think it will be a good time for teachers and the new superintendent to work together in productive ways," Mann said.

According to Mann, the School Committee voted, in a closed, executive session following the public meeting last week, to ratify the contract pending the teachers' vote Tuesday afternoon.

The executive session was called for the purposes of discussing collective bargaining. Mann said a roll call vote was held and the School Committee unanimously voted to ratify the new contract.

Committee member Susan Silbey was absent and ex-officio member Mayor Theodore Mann left the meeting prior to the executive session.

When presented with the terms of the proposed contract at a meeting last week, teachers voted 2-1 last week to lift all job actions prior to the ratification meeting, thus ending over two months of work-to-rule.

Teachers also began writing recommendations for students again last week.

2 seek principal's job

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Two Newton residents who have long track records with the Newton schools have been named as finalists for the Horace Mann Elementary principalship.

The two finalists, Elaine Whiteside and Kenneth Gatto, were selected by a screening committee of parents, teachers and school administrators from over 100 applicants.

A new Horace Mann principal is being sought following Principal Andrea Dembrowsky's announcement earlier this year that she would resign Jan. 1, 1983, as the result of a job transfer of her husband. She became principal of the school in September 1981.

Both finalists were interviewed for 45 minutes by the School Committee Monday night in a special meeting at the Education Center.

The first interview was with Whiteside, a Newtonville resident, who is a school psychologist for the Newton kindergarten through 9th grade classes.

She was hired for this job in 1973 after working as a school psychologist, teacher, guidance counselor and Title I administrator for the Milwaukee public schools in Wisconsin, from 1963 to 1973.

Prior to her experience there, Whiteside worked in Kansas as a 5th grade teacher from 1961 to 1963 for the Kansas City public schools.

Whiteside said her overall goal as principal of Horace Mann would be "to make Horace Mann a positive, productive, successful place" and

School again seeks bids on classic car

WEST NEWTON — The Learning Prep School is again seeking bidders for a cream-colored '37 Plymouth which students refurbished to benefit their automotive program.

The car was featured recently at the New England Auto Show and was to be raffled off in a closed bid auction with a minimum bid of $5,000.

Shining under the showroom lights, the car looked like a steal for $5,000, especially since the price is tax deductible.

After putting weeks of work into sprucing up the car, the 25 students in the vocational high school's automotive program also thought the car was well worth the price.

The car was donated to the private, non-profit school for learning disabled children by ADAP Discount Auto Parts Stores and ADAP had the engine rebuilt and the car painted prior the to giving it to the school.

Newton MD earns research grant

BOSTON — There is a lot to see if you look behind the scenes in the Elliott P. Joslin Research Laboratory at the Joslin Diabetes Center. There is experimentation, patient education and – education of promising young investigators.

"It is important to understand that the research effort includes not only experimentation, but also training young investigators to continue the research tradition," according to C. Ronald Kahn, M.D., Director of Research. The Mary K. Iacocca Fellowship perpetuates this high priority mission.

Mary T. Meistas, M.D., of Newton, has been awarded the Mary K. Iacocca Fellowship for 1983. Established in 1981 by Mr. and Mrs. Lee Iacocca, members of the Joslin Diabetes Center Corporation, the fellowship is awarded to a young scientist who has made contributions to the study of diabetes.

Dr. Meistas is a 1975 graduate of the University of Michigan Medical School. She completed her postdoctoral training at the Cleveland Clinic and Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Dr. Meistas has been working with Thomas T. Aoki, M.D., head of the Section on Metabolism in the Joslin Research Laboratory, and is interested in the relationship of insulin production and deficiency to diabetes.

Her current research includes work with the artificial pancreas. She has published related papers and recently presented some of her work at the national meeting of the American Diabetes Association

The Joslin Diabetes Center is dedicated to providing comprehensive care to people with diabetes mellitus and to the investigation of cures for the disease. Ninety percent of the former research fellows are active in diabetes research and many are active heads of divisions of diabetes and endocrinology throughout the United States and Europe.

Diabetes affects as many as 10 million Americans and contributes to the death of an estimated 300,000 people per year.

Chemistry prof wins $50,000 grant

WALTHAM — Barry Snider, of Newton, associate professor of chemistry at Brandeis University, has been awarded a 1982 Dreyfus Teacher-Scholar Grant from the Camille and Henry Dreyfus Foundation of New York City.

The Brandeis chemist is one of only 15 scientists nationwide to receive this $50,000 grant. The money may be utilized over the next five years.

Awarded to young faculty members in chemistry, biochemistry and chemical engineering, the Dreyfus Teacher-Scholar Grants provide unstructured financial support to individuals "with exceptional promise who combine interest and demonstrated ability in teaching and performing imaginative research."

These one-time grant, which supplement the funds normally available from institutional and governmental sources, allow professors maximum flexibility to develop innovate research and training projects.

Snider, who joined the Brandeis faculty in the fall of 1981, holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan and received his doctoral degree in 1973 from Harvard University.

An organic chemist who studies the uses of the "ene" reaction and Lewis acid catalysis, Snider explores methods of synthesizing complex molecules which have potential use as drugs.

His work includes research on the synthesis of compactin, a molecule shown effective in lowering cholesterol levels in the blood. He is also developing new methods for steroid synthesis and for the synthesis of compounds which may prove useful in combating cancer.

A Sloan Fellowship recipient, Snide lives in Newton.

Waban doctor to research stroke

WABAN — Waban resident Phillip A. Wolf, M.D., an assistant professor of neurology at Boston University School of Medicine, has been awarded $174,029 grant by the National Institutes of Health. Wolf is researching the causes and treatment of stroke, the nation's third leading cause of death.

Wolf, who has been a member of the BUSM faculty since 1972, received his M.D. degree from the State University of New York College of Medicine at Syracuse, and a Certificate of Epidemiology from the University of Pennslyvania.

Stroke is caused by the rupture of a blood vessel or hemorrhaging into the brain. Wolf's study focuses on the role of noises (called cartoid bruits) that have been identified as sometimes emitting from the arteries leading to the brain. The researchers hope to determine whether the noises can be used as a warning indicator for stroke.

Also being studied is the relationship between stroke and diabetes. People with diabetes have a higher risk of stroke, but it is not clear if this correlation exists because diabetes affects the system in such a way as to increase the risk of stroke, or because the two diseases share the same risk factors (i.e. hypertension).

Why stroke generally occurs much later in life than related diseases such as heart attacks is also being investigated.

Wolf will also be investigating the improvement of treatment strategies. He is hoping to determine the best type of home-care for stroke victims and to improve the identification of different types of stroke.

Wolf resides on Collins Avenue with his wife Barbara and their two children.

Strand eyes K-7 priority

NEWTON — Superintendent John Strand is setting his sights in his first year as superintendent on ways to make improvements in those grades where the increase in private school enrollment particular high, namely kindergarten and 7th grade.

Strand told the School Commitee recently that he will report back to them in the spring with assessments of the job the schools are currently doing at these grade levels as well as plans for improvements.

As the north side of the city moves to the 7-8 junior high and four-year high school already in place on the south side of the city, school officials and all three junior high principals are working together on improving the junior highs.

Strand said these discussions will focus on: setting and assessing uniform standards of student performance and academic standards; challenging more able or bright students; and counseling to provide sufficient personal attention within the collapsed time frame.

Other issues the principals, Strand and Assistant Superintendent of Program, Norman Colb, will study are the possibility of more after-school activities and "improved methods of teaching diversity," particularly grouping practices.

At the kindergarten level, Strand told the School Committee recently that he is particularly concerned with the following: assessing the readiness of children in kindergarten to begin reading and writing; urging elementary principals to alert junior highs to information about families contemplating private schools; studying the possibility of lengthening the kindergarten school day; and publicizing these efforts.

superimposed on a timeline of scientific achievements discovered during Boston's teaching career.

A committee has been formed to coordinate the effort with members Kim Baker, Anne Bilodeau, Liz Chinian, Annie Cohen, Deirdre Cohen, Kendra Daly, Jody Fantasia, Deirdre O'Reilly, Ruth Schmidt, Lara Solomon and Nancy Sullivan. Now the group is inviting former students of Boston to send messages for inclusion in the tribute book to their sponsoring teacher, Mrs. Anne Crosby, F.A. Day Jr. High, 21 Minot Place, Newtonville, 02160 before Decemeber 15.

Boston, a graduate of Tufts University who served in the Air Force during World War II, has received two National Science Foundation grants and taught during two leaves during his career in the Newton schools.

Roundtable focus on school finance

NEWTON CORNER — School Finance: Educational Excellence and Dollar Limitations, will be the topic of the next meeting of the Round Table on Education, a committee of the citywide PTA Council. State Rep. James Collins of Amherst, co-chairman of the Joint Committee on Education, will be the speaker.

The meeting will be held on Thursday, Dec. 2, at 7:45 p.m. in the Bigelow Junior High Auditorium at 101 Vernon St. The meeting is co-sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Newton and is open to the public.

Among the issues to be addressed are the impact of Proposition 2½ on public education and the status of state aid to education and the implication of recent federal actions and the possible role of private industry in financing the public schools will also be discussed.

Collins, sponsor of 1978 legislation to equalize school spending, has proposed private industry supplement salaries of science and math teachers to avoid the drain of these teachers from public schools to higher paying private sector jobs.

Discussion and questions will follow the presentation. For more information call 965-0678.

Officials seek opinion of schools from parents

"I think it would be a significant achievement if we could cause the trend to level off," he said at that time.

The questionnaire mailed recently to all Newton parents of 3-4 year olds (as listed in the Jan. 1982 census) is a measure Strand strongly endorses, despite some opposition.

"There are some people who are concerned that we are overdoing it," he said. "My own view is that the trend now...is so widespread with regard to parents' thinking about private schools that we have to bring this issue out into the open."

"I think we need to talk about this issue," Strand said.

The schools also urged all families who have moved into the city since the Jan. 1982 census to contact the schools in order to receive a questionnaire. Parents who have already received the card in the mail are urged to send it in as soon as possible.

Dr. Vincent Silluzio, director of Research and Planning for the schools, says 62 percent were returned in the first eight days.

This survey, more than any other conducted so far, may assist the schools in retaining some would-be private school parents. Kindergarten is already targeted as a critical time when many parents decide to place their children in private school.

Strand has pledged to focus on improving this grade level, as well as the 7th grade, since enrollment studies reveal these grades to have particularly large increases in private school enrollment.

Committee member Marcia Mitchell stressed that she was looking for improvements to the kindergarten program to be implemented in September, 1984, at the latest.

"That's the September that I would like to see action take place, whatever that action may be," she said.

to insure "that the children have a good school day." She cited the school's current homework policy as one area which needed review.

Whiteside also stressed the importance of working with parents and of listening to many viewpoints from both parents and teachers.

"You want to keep new information coming into the schools," she said.

A 1961 graduate of Tennessee State University where she majored in sociology and education, Whiteside received a M.S. degree in educational psychology in 1971 from the University of Wisconsin.

Whiteside's other experience includes leadership and on-site supervision of undergraduate, masters and doctoral level students enrolled in classroom teaching, guidance, school psychology, and counseling and consulting psychology programs.

She has also worked extensively with implementing Chapter 766, the state's special education law, in the Newton schools.

She is a member of the Child Study Association of the MA Board of Directors and has served on several principal and administrative screening committees for the Newton schools.

The other finalist, Kenneth Gatto, also lives and teaches in the city.

A Newton Upper Falls resident, Gatto has taught grade 7 math at Day Jr. High since 1980. From 1972-80 he was a grade 2 and grades 2/3 teacher at Davis School.

From 1965 to 1967, Gatto was stationed in Columbia, South America, as a Peace Corps volunteer whose job was to develop a math course of study for other teachers.

Gatto is currently a member of the Mayor's Advisory Committee on Recycling and from 1981 to 1982 was a member of the Board of Directors of the Newton Upper Falls Community Development Corporation. He has led several teacher workshops in the Newton schools, including in 1982 a workshop on math curriculum for grade 7.

Gatto has experience with computer programming and both BASIC and LOGO languages as well as the use of computers in the public schools. Gatto called computers "great motivating forces" which are "not toys."

A 1964 graduate of Boston College where he majored in math, Gatto received a M.A. in teaching in 1965 from Harvard University and a Certificate of Advanced Graduate Studies in Human Relations from U. Mass. in 1972.

Gatto stressed that Horace Mann should provide a "good solid core" of courses and that "parents should be made to feel welcome" and have the opportunity for greater input to the school.

As for encouraging a school-wide homework policy, Gatto said it depends on the grade level, and he termed homework in the upper grades "appropriate."

Gatto said he has had experience which is "analogous" to experience with teacher evaluations. While at Davis School, Gatto said he evaluated many student teachers working in his classroom.

Gatto called teacher evaluations an "exciting" process because it produces a "growth situation." Most teachers, in Gatto's opinion, "have a capacity for growth" and will accept "honest praise and justified criticism."

Trash pickup agenda item on tap Wed.

NEWTON — The Public Facilities Committee is expected to have a busy agenda tonight with proposals concerning a private trash contract for the city, combining the Recreation Department with the Forestry Department, discussion on plans for the $96,000 construction of a parking lot in West Newton and safety procedures in the Sanitation Department, according to its Chairman Richard McGrath.

Members of the city's unions, administration, local organizations and interested residents will all be watching for the outcome of the city's proposal to get out of the trash collection business and give the job to a private firm.

The item on the agenda calls for a transfer of $341,953 from the Public Works Department to an account set up for SCA Services, the winner of the city contract.

By transfering funds the firm will be able to begin collecting trash by January 1.

The transfer of funds has been requested by Acting Commissioner of Public Works Nunzio Piselli.

flux of people from Waltham and Watertown, who are already drunk, coming into Nonantum," said DePasquale.

He said bar patrons "pour out" onto the street after closing, causing problems for area residents.

McGrath and Bullwinkle wanted information on the possible impact the new stringent regulations placing the responsibility of an intoxicated patron in the hands of the bar owner.

Alderman Michael Malec stated the licensing commission should curtail the licenses of individual bars rather than all of them.

DePasquale said the problem would be shifted if a few bars were still open until 2 a.m..

"People would go from one bar to another with later closing hours," said DePasquale.

School board interviews represent new policy shift

NEWTON — In what represents a major change in policy for the Newton schools, two finalists for a school principalship were publicly interviewed by the School Committee Monday.

The interviews with candidates for the Horace Mann Elementary School principalship, Elaine Whiteside and Kenneth Gatto, resulted from an initiative taken by Superintendent John Strand to involve the committee more in principal selections.

In previous principal searches, the School Committee interviewed only one candidate who was recommended by the superintendent. The new policy is for the Screening Committee to name more than one finalist for interviews with the School Committee.

Only two finalists were chosen by Horace Mann's Screening Committee to be interviewed by the School Committee.

Strand suggested the policy shift this fall following current Principal Andrea Dembrowsky's announcement that she would resign as of Jan. 1, 1983. Strand's policy change was welcomed by the School Committee.

Under former Superintendent Aaron Fink's policy, the School Committee interviewed only one person, the candidate recommended by Fink after a screening process with parents and school administrators and teachers.

It was Fink's belief that the School Committee could involve itself sufficiently in the screening process by attending screening committee meetings with candidates.

While it is the School Committee's sole responsibility to hire a new superintendent, it is by law the superintendent's responsibility to recommend to the School Committee his choice for all other positions.

The committee must then vote on whether to appoint the candidate or not.

But despite the new interview policy, the School Committee opted not to discuss the candidates Monday, with member Katherine Jones saying last week there was "absolutely no purpose to be served by us discussing candidates after interviews."

"Whatever we need to communicate should be done individually to the superintendent," Jones said.

Mann said Strand will hold another meeting with the Screening Committee prior to the next School Committee meeting on Dec. 13. At that time, Strand will announce his recommendation and the School Committee is expected to vote on appointment.

Goods reclaimed by local owners suspects in connection with the burglaries.

"We have about 12 to 14 burglaries from Newton that have been cleared up," Fryar said. "People from Newton have come in and identified some of their stolen property" with a cumulative value of at least several thousand dollars, he said.

Newton homes south of Commonwealth Avenue had been the targets of an alarming number of burglaries this year by a person or persons who usually broke in on the second floor.

Police frequently found ladders left beneath the second-floor windows where the burglars broke in. Police beefed up patrols and elicited cooperation of residents as a means of combating the crime wave.

Fryar confirmed Sunday that a routine traffic stop of the three teenagers by Newton Patrolman Frank Fall was crucial in leading to the raid on the jewelry store.

The boys' car was stopped on or about Nov. 12, but police did not say how that traffic stop fit into the three-month investigation by Newton and Boston police into burglaries in the two cities and the Nov. 15 raid on the jewelry store.

During that raid, $16,300 cash and two semi-automatic rifles were seized in addition to the jewelry, which included diamond and other gem stones, rings, watches, bracelets and necklaces.

Boston Police have "cleared up" many more burglaries, Fryar said, and may have solved an armed robbery as well.

Fryar said that as of 1:30 p.m. Sunday, the Boston Police building "was packed" with more people who had not gotten to see the jewelry on display.

Police had inventoried the jewelry since it was seized and then phoned victims who had reported the thefts of jewelry similar to some of that found.

The darkest side of human nature

A private school for special kids in West Newton called the Learning Prep School recently encountered a strange kind of disappointment which highlighted a dark side of human nature.

Staff and kids at the school had fixed up a classic 1937 Plymouth coupe, donated by ADAP auto supply stores, to be auctioned off at a recent Boston auto show.

The car was put into top running condition by the kids and a shine buffed into the body that would make even the hardest-working hotrodder envious.

Then, to raise money for a new automotive wing at the school, the Plymouth was put on display at the auto show and sealed bids were accepted.

Officials of the school had said beforehand that they would not accept a bid below $5,000. The car had been appraised at considerably more than that.

Somewhere around 100 bids were submitted and Karen Jacobs of the school staff started calling bidders to complete the transaction.

But there was a rub. It seems most of those who bid were not really serious. Some bids were turned in with fictitious names or names of people scrawled in who knew nothing about the fund-raiser, the school or the car.

And still other "bidders" wrote down outrageous sums on which they never seriously intended to come through.

The kids who worked so long and hard to put the car into the best shape for the show were broken-hearted. Jacobs, who had high hopes and hard work invested in the fund-raising effort, was disappointed, to say the least.

Rather than practically giving the car away at a low price the school is trying again, this time hoping that those who covet this classic auto will be more honest and mature than before.

It was a dismal lesson in human nature for those kids to learn. We hope this time they meet success.

A change in the county

By Judy Jaffe

For many years county government has had a notorious reputation for excessive patronage and scandal.

In a system that allowed county commissioners to formulate the budget and then send it to the state for approval, there was ample opportunity to camouflage questionable appropriations.

Now, in fiscal year '83, local advisory boards have control over their respective county budgets.

Reformers hope the cap placed on county spending by Proposition 2½ and the recent legislation moving budget approval from the state to county level will lead to greater accountability and more efficient spending by county officials.

Taxpayers should know what county government is and what county government does.

Newton, along with 53 other cities and towns, make Middlesex County the largest in the state. The cost of Middlesex government is paid directly from a portion of property taxes. Newton pays its weighted share of 8½ percent or $1.5 million.

The elected officials charged with the task of administering county government consist of three commissioners, a sheriff, a treasurer, a district attorney, a clerk of the criminal courts and two registers of deeds.

For $38.3 million these salaried administrators maintain a chronic care hospital in Waltham, which is self-sustaining; an engineering department which only keeps records since the county has no highways and roads to maintain; an agricultural extension service in Concord; and two correction facilities, one in the East Cambridge Court House and the Billerica House of Correction.

The Billerica facility houses a jail on the first floor which serves as a detention hold. At the House of Correction, no inmate serves time longer than 2½ years and the average stay is less than nine months.

The county also maintains two registries of deeds (Lowell and East Cambridge) and a contributory retirement system for personnel not covered by civil service.

Although the state now operates the court system, the county still maintains the courthouses and other properties for its own purposes, according to David Wilkinson, a member of the standing budget committee for the Advisory Board (and chief budget officer to Newton Mayor Theodore Mann).

"County building maintenance is a major part of the budget," Wilkinson explained. "In the past, the Advisory Board filed legislation to sell the (courthouse) buildings, and will probably do so again."

So what does Newton get for its $1.5 million from county government?

"The county gives almost nothing to Newton," Mayor Mann, the new County Advisory Board Chairman, said candidly in a recent interview with officers of the League of Women Voters. "We used to get about $100,000 worth of work a year in a small engineering capacity, but no longer."

That service was turned over to the state and cities and towns in 1979.

Is county government a dinosaur whose time has come? Or could county government be adapted to play a role in regional planning?

Mann calls county government "an anachronism," and favors its abolition. The county no longer serves the cities and town to any constructive purpose, he feels. In its place, Mann supports a system of regional consortias as a more efficient means of providing services to cities and towns regardless of county boundaries. Mann cited the Greater Boston Communication Center, which operates out of Newton, the MDC water and sewer treatment, and the Metrofire back-up as some of the collective purchasing projects already working successfully.

Reforming county government is not a new idea. Twenty years ago the League of Women Voters studied the county government structure. Instead of recommending its abolition, the League suppored legislation for the establishmentv of regional planning districts to enable communities to plan together for their orderly development.

The 1961-63 League study will be up-dated this year as leagues across the state take another look at county government.

Is county government a dinosaur whose time has come? Or could county government be adapted to play a role in regional planning?

The Newton League of Women Voters will host a public meeting on Thursday, Dec. 9 at 7:45 p.m., at the Jackson Homestead in Newton, as part of its study. Bill Schmidt, newly-elected County Commissioner and Newton resident, will be the featured speaker.

The League encourages all taxpayers to attend.

Time to tell it to board

By Verne Vance

A serious limitation on the responsiveness of representative government in Newton and elsewhere is that many issues of importance to the citizens as a whole get decided with little input from anyone except those most immediately affected by the decisions.

So on a matter such as the mayor's proposal to put the city's trash pickup service out to private contract, the members of the Board of Aldermen are hearing lots from the city employees who fear their jobs will be affected but we are hearing little from other people whose taxes, or whose city services, may be affected by the decision we make.

If we on the board are to function as informed representatives of all citizens of this city, those citizens, individually and through organizations such as the League of Women Voters, the Newton Taxpayers Association and the Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce, as well as the city employee unions, must tell us what they think and why.

It will do no good for citizens to wake up after our decision and tell us what a lousy decision it was. By then, it will be too late.

The issue of putting city services such as trash pickup out to private contract is one of the most important that Massachusetts communities - hard-pressed to live within the limits of Proposition 2 1/2 - are called on to face at the present time.

Many difficult questions are presented by the proposal to put private trash pickup out to private contract. Would going to a private service save substantial amounts of money?

Would private contract service be comparable in quality to the city service? Could substantial amounts of money be saved by retaining trash pickup as a city function with certain changes in carrying out the function?

If so, could such changes by implemented, as a practical matter?

Would going to private contract by inhumane by effectively transferring certain positions from public to private employment?

Would a failure to develop a more cost-effective means of trash pickup lead to cuts in other city services such as public safety and schools, or should we consider an override of the Proposition 2 1/2 taxing limits?

These are the kinds of questions the aldermen are facing and on which we want and need all the citizen input we can get. Obviously we will not ultimately agree with all views that are expressed to us but we cannot even consider any view that is not communicated to us.

One way or another, all residents of Newton will pay the price of our decision on the trash pickup proposal.

Those who care about what we decide should tell us what they think - and tell us now.

(Verne Vance is an alderman-at-large, from Ward 7)

Letter

Conservators: keep linear park

To the editor;

(The following is an open letter to the Newton Traffic Commission.)

Gentlemen:

The Newton Conservators, a citizens' organization dedicated to maintaining and enhancing the quality of Newton's environment, wish to express their grave concern about the proposed reconstruction of Commonwealth Avenue in the section of Auburndale between Rowe Street and Route 128 to the west.

We oppose the plans currently before the Traffic Commission because they address the wrong goal - to expedite traffic through Auburndale. The goal should be to enhance the beauty of Commonwealth Avenue and the safety of the local population, as was recommended by the city's "Recreation - Open Space Plan for Newton" of 1969.

That plan said: "Commonwealth Avenue presents the city with a linear open space of great potential... It is recommended that Commonwealth Avenue be beautified and improved to stimulate its use by pedestrians.

"As a first step, the existing plantings along the median should be improved...Although it would be expensive to replace (dead and small) trees...with larger trees, it is strongly recommended that this be done to preserve and maintain the character of Commonwealth Avenue."

The street is indeed distinguished by its median, which forms a linear park throughout Newton.

It presents an appropriate entrance to Newton, which prides itself on being "The Garden City." The current plan whittles away at the green median in some areas and removes it entirely in others.

Newton's only boulevard should not be destroyed in the interest of expediting through traffic.

This western end of Commonwealth Avenue happens to pass through a relatively narrow residential traingle that is bounded by two major highways, the Massachusetts Turnpike and Route 128.

Through traffic has the option of using either of those roads; it is not necessary to transform Commonwealth Avenue into a third major artery in this area.

In fact, one should recall that the Mass. Pike was permitted to traverse Newton in the hope of keeping the high speed through traffic off the city's streets.

A widened pavement with less greenery and increased traffic flow at increased speeds would seriously impair the quality of life in this neighborhood.

Because of the mix of park, homes, shops and churches concentrated here, this short stretch of Commonwealth Avenue is heavily used by pedestrians.

Many of them are older citizens and children, who would find it even more difficult than at present to cross the avenue. In addition to the logistical considerations are the aesthetic ones. Trading grass and trees for asphalt and cars can only destroy the residential character of a neighborhood.

In this case, it is an unnecessary sacrifice.

Bart Hague, President
Newton Conservators

(Editor's note: The Newton Traffic Commission will hold a public meeting on this issue Tuesday, Dec. 7 at 7:30 p.m. in Newton City Hall.)

Graphically speaking

Run that by again, Father

Name, rank, serial number

Local youth were selling raffle tickets on a recent Sunday to benefit St. Bernard's Church in West Newton.

Among them was young girl who apparently is not acquainted with the church pastor, Fr. Gerard Barry.

As Fr. Barry approached the church steps, the girl asked him if he would like to buy a raffle ticket for St. Bernard's. He said "yes" and the girl asked, "Your name please?"

Fr. Barry gave her his name but she was still unenlightened. "And your address?" she asked. Again the pastor responded but the girl still did not make the connection.

So she politely handed Fr. Barry his ticket, said "thank you" and went on to the next customer.

Parishioners were entertained when Fr. Barry told the story during Sunday service, but Fr. Barry said he's just happy the parish has such tenacious young workers.

Retirement board

During a prolonged discussion of a plan to include handicapped housing in the mixed re-use of the Hyde School, Fincom Chairman Ed Richmond asked if, given the trend toward declining enrollment, more housing might be added if the school's portion of the building were not needed in the future.

"Maybe they'll make it a home for retired aldermen," Richmond wondered.

"And retired planning directors," Barry Canner, the city's Planning Director, added.

Honoring the good doctor

Seems Dr. Helen Caldicott of Newton, president of the Physicians for Social Responsibility, is making headlines again - in Beverly.

A recent article in North Shore: Sunday notes the Beverly High School newspaper, The Ledger, in a somewhat controversial move, presented the 1982 Woman of the Year award to Dr. Caldicott for her efforts in promoting world peace.

The good doctor, who has worldwide received coverage for her efforts toward nuclear disarmament, journeyed north and graciously accepted the award, according to Sunday.

The editor of The Ledger, Danny LaSota, said the paper honored Dr. Caldicott because she had made "an impact on the students who are trying to get by in a nuclear age."

"The Pentagon throws out figures and then the other side throws out figures," LaSota reportedly said. "But (Dr. Caldicott) got a lot of kids concerned. She made me more concerned."

She's branching out

Kudos to Newton Alderman Carol Ann Shea who was recently elected president of the statewide Mass. Municipal Councillors' Association.

In this position she'll preside over regular meetings of the association and represent the interests of municipal councillors and aldermen on the governor's Local Government Advisory Committee.

Shea, the current vice-president of the Newton Board, is a seven-year veteran of the aldermanic chambers.

Speaking of political wars

Seems a Newtonville resident, Eugene Mullen, just can't stay away from politics.

Mullen is a junior at Ohio Wesleyan University and has worked on two political campaigns as part of an independent apprenticeship this term.

Mullen began working on the campaign of Gov. Ed King, who was defeated by Michael Dukakis in the primary. And then the Newtonville native worked on the field organization of Robert Shamansky in the Ohio 12th District Congressional race. Mullen, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene M. Mullen of Kensington Street, was in charge of all volunteer workers in the campaign.

Girl Scouts lining up new year's activities

NEWTON — Newton Girl Scouts are starting initiation or rededication ceremonies to begin the Scouting year. Brownies and Juniors especially are involved in bolstering rather sparse troop treasuries through G.S. Calendar (1983) sales.

Brownie Troop 2351: These young girls from Emerson and Countryside Schools are led by Eleanor Brayman this year. On one of their first meetings everyone enjoyed the colors of autumn in Newton Upper Falls on a walk from Emerson School to Newport Creamery where they re-energized on a snack of ice cream before starting back to Emerson.

On the way back, the girls picked up roadside and sidewalk litter, much of it near Oak Street in the vicinity of a local restaurant. The next week an associated crafts activity was making bright orange and black Litter Bug Pins to wear.

Brownie Troop 2583: The Franklin School Brownies, led by Carol Paul and Judith O'Brien began their year with a splendid trip to Lookout Farm in South Natick, during which everyone had fun applepicking, singing Scout songs, and going on a hayride. With money which had been earned last Spring by selling Girl Scout Cookies, the troop members purchased three huge farm pumpkins.

At the next troop meeting, the large troop divided up into patrols, and each patrol worked together to decorate its own pumpkin, utilizing natural materials. Then they took the enhanced pumpkins to the school Halloween party to lend a harvest decor to the stage and troop members took turns telling everyone about Lookout Farm and the good time they all had there.

Three lucky Emerson students won the decorated pumpkins as door prizes. Also, it should be noted that the founder of the United States Girl Scouts, Juliet Lowe was born on – October 31!

Junior Girl Scout Troop 2431: It is said that variety is the spice of life. Then Troop 2431 sounds like it has gotten off to a zinging start! Exploring the ways, foods, games from various other countries are inspiring activities at fall troop meetings.

The Juniors from Horace Mann School held an International Day; which featured foods from different lands and all played a game French children play. Perhaps the troop members got a bit more of Mother Nature than had been planned or a cookout at Cedar Hill in Waltham, as they rushed to gather their firewood and the rains came down. Beforehand though, one group had participated in ponding experiments, examining Cedar Hill pond water with magnifying lens.

Another group identified nearby trees by learning to recognize leaf shapes. And of course, everyone joined in playing games.

Other troop activities this fall include making leaf-print stationery, practicing developing coordination skills necessary to excel at Double Dutch Jumproping. They look forward to a course on babysitting hints to be given at Red Cross Chapter House, West Newton.

Nominating committee: Patriots' Trail G.S. Council nominating committee, including past Newton neighborhood chairman, Marcia Eldredge of West Newton is seeking suggestions for filling positions for officers to help run the Council. Chairman is Pauline Spencer. Submit recommendations to the Waltham office, 983-6114.

Kaleidoscope activities: Girls, young women between the ages of 12 to 17. There are some specially interesting activities which Kaleidoscope Program is planning. If you are not a Girl Scout, you can participate by paying a fee $3 to join Girl Scouts, making you eligible for all event.

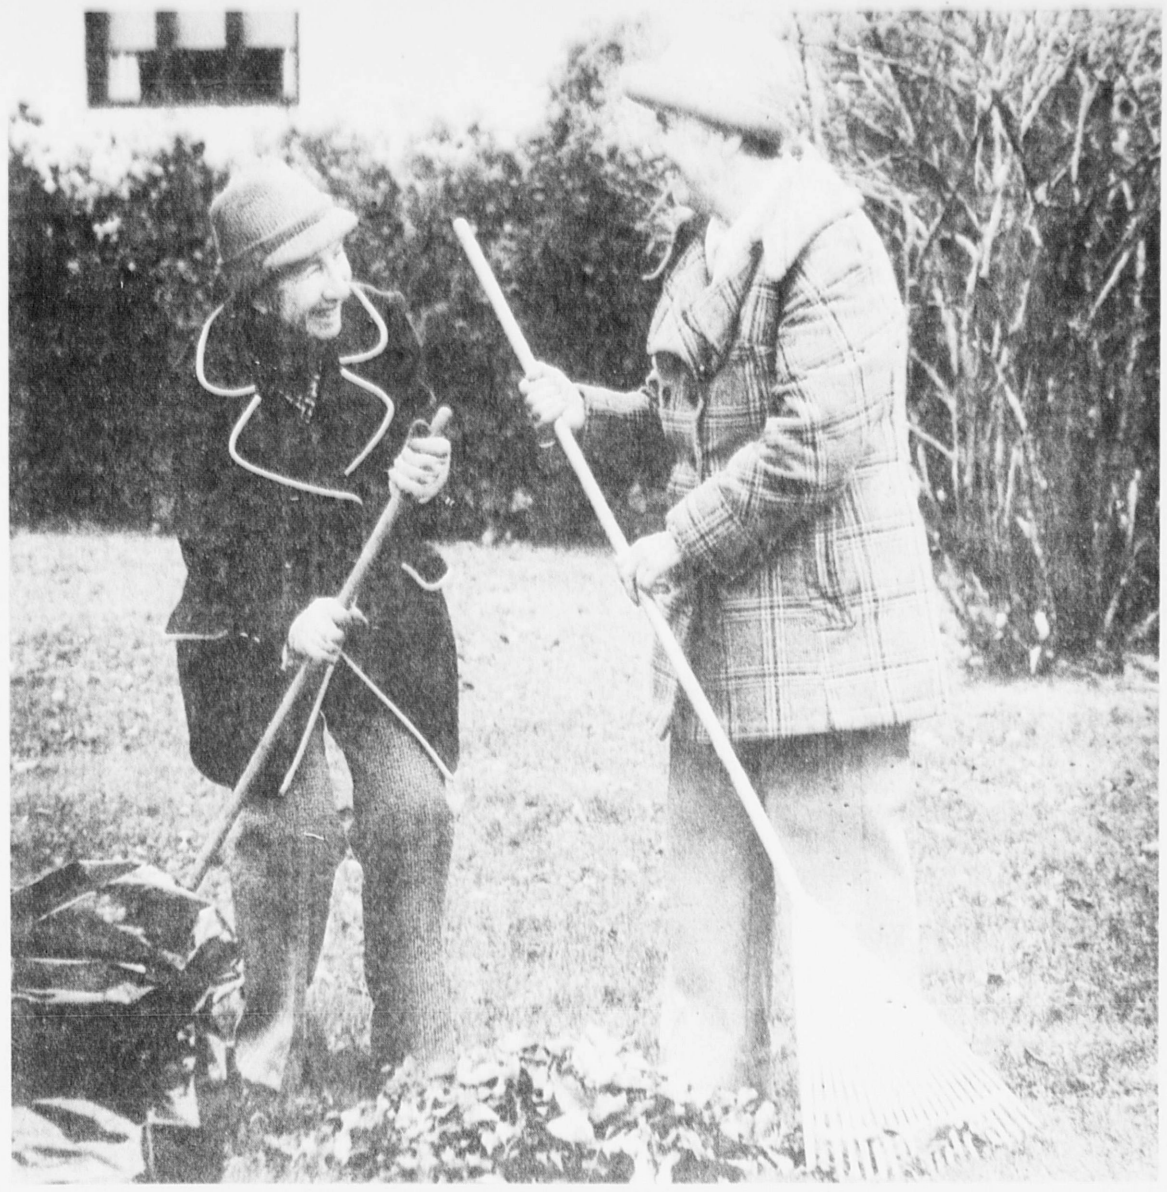
Girl Scouts may participate as individuals or as a troop. A non-member of Kaleidoscope pays an additional non-member fee of $4. When you're ready, come try Kaleidoscope on for size. On Thursday, Dec. 9, 6-9 p.m. at Massachusetts Hospital School, Randolph Street, Canton there is a special opportunity to meet some of the kids who live there; learn a little about the varieties of orthopedic problems and challenge them to a wheelchair obstacle course. Meet and talk to recreational therapist about some of the careers that involve working with handicapped persons.

Here is a unique opportunity for a small number of girls to go on location with a cable T.V. crew, possibly to cover a sports event, hot new item of special feature. Come prepared to lug equipment, help with the filming at Quincy Cable T.V. Station. Sign up now and a production date sometime between December and next May will be arranged.

Spend a day on skiis at Crotchet Mountain, Francestown, N.H. Buses leave every Sunday mentioned from: Dedham Square (Mug & Muffin) 6:35 a.m., also from Walpole, Norwood, Islington - on December 12, January 9, February 13.

Come prepared to meet people, even bring along a friend an plunge into the glitter, bustle of holiday shopping in Boston on Saturday, December 18, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., including a walk through decorated Boston Common, Quincy Market for shopping and luncheon.

For all of these activities, just call the Boston office 482-1078 for signup form and Kaleidoscope Catalog.



Armen and Arpy Arsenian of Waban worked at getting the fallen leaves raked last week.

Cantor Sheila Cline

First female cantor speaks to sisterhood

NEWTON - Cantor Sheila Cline will share her experiences as one of the first two women in Jewish history to be invested as a cantor during a special program Wednesday, Dec. 15 at the Sisterhood Temple Emanuel meeting.

Cantor Cline, the first Hazzanite to sing in synagogues and concert programs in Israel and Holland, will speak on "All that you wanted to know about a Hazzanite but never asked" at the meeting, which starts at 9:15 a.m. in the chapel. At that time a Chanukah service will be conducted, completely involving women.

At 10:15 a.m. a brunch will be served in the temple community hall. Brunch guests are invited to participate in group singing and dancing. The program to be presented by Cantor Cline will follow the brunch, according to program chairman Cele Kaufman.

specializing in blending tune with text to create original sermons-in-song and concert programs on a vareity of themes, Cantor Cline has sung throughout the US, Puerto Rico, St. Thomas and Santa Domingo.

She has served both conservative and reform congregations and has sung leading soprana roles wiht the Music-Drama Theatre of New York, a Jewish opera repertory company. She will sing special selections in celebration of the holiday.

Cantor Cline, as winner of the Mass. Young Artists' Award, was a national scholar in the Creative Arts at Brandeis University where she received a bachelor of arts degree. She also holds a diploma from the New England Conservatory of Music and a bachelor of sacred music degree from Hebrew Union College.

Doris Rosoff and Denise Telio are in charge of hospitality. For brunch reservations call 332-5792 or 527-8638. For baby sitting reservations call 965-5426.

Private trash proposal praised

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The League of Women Voters and Newton Taxpayers' Association have applauded the mayor's dramatic plan of letting a private firm collect residential trash.

"We favor private trash pick up primarily for economic reasons," said Sandy Butzel, president of the League of Woman Voters (LWV).

According to Butzel, the LWV will make a formal statement on Wednesday at a special meeting of the Public Facilities Committee.

Mayor Theodore Mann has said the city will save nearly $3 million over the next 4½ years (the life of the contract) by having SCA Services, Inc. collect trash.

"We applaud the administration's plan to go out to private contract for trash collection and think it's a good trend," said Newton Taxpayers' Association (NTA) Executive Director Joseph Alexander.

According to Eleanor Samuels, PTA president, the LWV, the PTA and the NTA attended a briefing on the subject by the mayor last week.

Samuels said members of her group have not taken a position yet and they are not sure if they will take one.

But the Taxpayers' Association, a group which has traditionally acted as a critic and watchdog of fiscal policy in Newton, took a solid positive stand on the private trash pickup proposal.

"The city's claims of savings are conservative estimates and the amount could go even higher," said NTA director Alexander.

Alexander says the major roadblock for passage of the idea by the board of aldermen is simply "change."

"The only concern here is people fear change, but if they'd look at how the ambulance contract has worked out for the better, in spite of the initial objections, they'd realize what a solid proposal this is," said Alexander.

Lobbying hard on its own behalf is SCA services.

The private firm has sent a four page letter personally addressed to each alderman.

"I don't need any additional information or intimidation in regards to my vote on a private contract. The city men have been good not to pressure me," said Alderman Paul Coletti in reaction to the SCA letter.

Coletti called the letter, "bypassing the legal method of giving information to the clerk of the board and having it distributed to everyone."

"This method brings Boston politics close to Newton," said Coletti.

According to Alderman Robert Tennant, who says he's keeping an open mind on the contract, SCA answers questions raised about its service to the city.

"SCA refuted the idea they would hold us hostage by increasing rates once the city has eliminated its sanitation department," said Tennant.

The sanitation department's 52 workers will not be fired, but will be placed in other city departments and then their positions would be absorbed by other worker's retirements, according to the mayor.

Statements made by city union officials seem to indicate many workers are not interested in retiring anymore, because they can't afford not to work.

The sanitation department is said to be the second most popular city service next to police protection, according to a city census, and SCA hopes to provide the same service at less the cost, according to the mayor.

SCA has offered to collect city trash for $541,414 from January to June, according to City Purchasing Agent Blair Kanbar.

According to the administration's figures the city would pay $789,189 for the same period (including a five percent pay increase) for its own workers to collect trash.

The following year SCA would charge $1,103,768, while the city's own collection service would cost $1,641,151, according to the administration's figures.

Newton's Zakim now coordinating campus network

BOSTON — The New England Office of the Anti-Defamation League announced the formulation of a campus Hasbara network consisting of over 100 student activists to deal with anti-Zionism, Arab propaganda and to promote pro-Israel activity on the campuses.

Coordinated under the auspices of ADL Civil Rights Director Leonard Zakim, of Newton, the establishment of the network is a project two years in the making. ADL Civil Rights Chairman, Alan Dershowitz, a Harvard Law professor, described the project as "important and timely, more necessary now than ever before in light of the events of the past summer."

Zakim said the students involved in the network represent over 20 New England campuses. He noted the network could not have been put together without the active support of Hillel and the American Zionist Youth Foundation (AZYF) staff people and students.

The ADL hopes that this project will serve as a bridge to all Jewish organizations interested in the campus, utilizing already existing student groups while actively recruiting heretofore uninvolved Jewish students. All information obtained through the network will be shared with Hillel and AZYF and both will be consulted with regularly on any and all developments on campus.

One of the first regional meetings of the network took place in October when the American Zionist Youth Foundation (AZYF) held its New Englad Regional Organizing Conference in Marblehead.

At the conference, Zakim and Michael Cohen, former AZYF New England Regional Coordinator, introduced and supplemented the idea of this unique intercollege network of concerned Jewish students. The Hasbara Network, whose purpose it is to monitor and counter Israel's detractors, as well as promote a positive image of Israel on college campuses throughout New England, will be working along with Hillel and AZYF on the campuses as well as college media and political organizations.

The ADL in Boston has allocated space for the Hasbara Network to compile resources to counter Israel's detractors, as well as providing a central base for information to flow from the coordinator to the rest of the Network and vice versa.

NWH symposium drew 100 specialists

LOWER FALLS — Close to 100 pediatricians, nurses, social workers and medical personnel involved in early intervention programs at nearby hospitals attended a High-Risk Infant Symposium at Newton-Wellesley Hospital held last week.

According to program chairperson Eugenia Marcus, M.D., associate chief of the Department of Pediatrics and chairperson of the Perinatal Care Committee at NWH, the symposium was held in honor of the opening of the hospital's new Birth Center and Special Care Nursery.

Guest speakers talked on a wide range of topics, including the medical difficulties that high-risk babies encounter; the psychological and social impact that these babies have on their families; and the services that they require.

Dr. Marcus said that 10 years ago, 90 percent of these babies, most of whom weigh less than two pounds, would have died. "Today," she says, "more than 50 percent of them are surviving."

Sponsored by the Newton-Wellesley Hospital Perintal Committee, the Massachusetts Chapter Academy of Pediatrics and the Joint Program in Neonatology at Harvard Medical School, the symposium is part of an on-going education program designed for physicians, nurses, and staff members involved in the care of high risk babies.

Among the featured speakers were Elizabeth R. Brown, M.D., associate in newborn medicine at Brigham and Women's Hospital; Robert A. Peterson, M.D., senior associate in ophthalmology at Children's Hospital Medical Center; Karl Kuban, M.D., assistant in neurology at Children's Hospital Medical Center; John Cohen, M.D., chief of NWH Department of Pediatrics; Linda Cooper, M.D., assistant in pediatrics at Massachusetts General Hospital; F. Sessions Cole, M.D., assistant in pediatrics at Brigham and Women's Hospital; Sally Mack, M.S.W., Department of Social Services at Children's Hospital Medical Center; Stephanie Skoolicas, R.N., Department of Nursing at Children's Hospital Medical Center, and Eugenia Marcus, M.D., associate chief at the Department of Pediatrics at NWH.

Monitor's Goodsell due in city Dec. 9

WEST NEWTON — James Nelson Goodsell, Latin American correspondent for the Christian Science Monitor, will deliver a talk on Thursday, Dec. 9 at 7:30 p.m., on current political events in Latin American and on United States' foreign policy toward Latin American countries, in a lecture entitled, "We and Our Latin Neighbors."

The lecture, the third in the fall series "You and World Affairs," will take place at the First Unitarian Society, 1326 Washington St.

Tickets are available at the door for $3, and the public is invited to attend. For information, call 527-3203.

Coffeehouse hosts concert by folk singers

NEWTONVILLE — Folk singers participating in the first season of concerts at the Newton Arts Center are enjoying the unusually beautiful space of the converted Gothic church. The next concert scheduled for Friday, Dec. 3 at 8:30 p.m. features Cindy Kallet and the Dennis Pearne Band.

Cindy Kallet - a Folk-Legacy recording artist - plays a combination of original, contemporary and traditional folk songs, usually accompanied by guitar. Included are sea shanties, instrumentals and an occasional dulcimer tune.

Dennis Pearne is a songwriter, guitarist and singer who has performed his music throughout New England for many years. His writing is lyrically and musically innovative, weaving strands from many traditions while actively shaping and influencing new directions in folk music. Other musicians in the group include Shelley Roth on mandolin and Barbara Herson on viola.

NEWTON PLANNING AND DEVELOPMENT BOARD

Proposed Statement of Community Development Objectives and Proposed Use of Funds

Community Development Plan For Newton-FY84 (Year 9)

For discussion at PUBLIC HEARING prior to submission to the Mayor

December 8, 1982 • 7:30 p.m.

Newton North High School, Newtonville - Small Auditorium

I. INTRODUCTION

Newton's Planning and Development Board, as the city-wide citizens advisory board to the Mayor for the federally funded Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) Program, is sponsoring a public hearing on 8 December 1982. The purpose of the hearing is to provide an opportunity for residents of Newton to comment on the projects proposed for funding under the CDBG Program in Fiscal Year 1984 (July 1983 - June 1984), the second year of the FY83-85 Three Year Plan, and to comment on the City's performance in carrying out the CDBG Program. Following consideration of citizen comments and suggestions which result from the Public Hearing, the Planning and Development Board will submit the proposed FY84 Plan to the Mayor for his consideration and approval. Finally, the Mayor's approved FY84 Plan will be submitted to the Board of Aldermen for authorization of submission to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

New CDBG funds anticipated to be available for the FY84 Program will be $2,099,000. In addition, the Newton Housing Rehabilitation Loan Program is just beginning and is expected to provide program income during FY84. At this point, the exact amount of income is unknown, however, it is projected to be approximately $20,000. It is anticipated that this income will be allocated for additional housing rehabilitation loans.

II. NEWTON COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM OBJECTIVE

- To improve the quality of the housing, physical, economic and social environments in Newton through a variety of projects which primarily benefit low and moderate income persons and families or which remove slums and blight.

In order to achieve this primary objective of the Newton Community Development Program, two kinds of projects have been developed:

(1) neighborhood projects — which target eligible physical and housing improvements to meet identified needs in designated areas which have the highest proportion of low and moderate residents; and

(2) city-wide projects — which either provide assistance directly to low and moderate income individuals or which generally provide benefit to low and moderate income persons in activities such as low income housing development, architectural barrier removal, social services support, and economic development.

The range of activities eligible for funding under the Community Development Block Grant Program include a wide variety of activities. These include such things as provision of or improvements to public facilities such as streets, parks, and playgrounds; removal of architectural barriers to the handicapped; housing rehabilitation; development of low and moderate income housing (site acquisition and improvement, but not actual construction); support to human services; economic development activities; historic preservation; and support to neighborhood non-profit corporations. To be funded, any of these activities must be targeted directly to low and moderate income individuals, take place in an area with a majority of low and moderate income families, or the project must remove slums or blight. Projects may also be designed to meet community development needs having a particular urgency.

In establishing the FY83-85 Three Year Plan a year ago, the Planning and Development Board reviewed neighborhood and city-wide needs. The following projects proposed for FY84 funding address those needs in light of the program's objective.

III. PROJECTS PROPOSED FOR FY84 FUNDING

Ellen S. Lane marries Joshua Traub of Dublin

WEST NEWTON - Ellen Suzanne Lane, daughter of Mrs. Evelyn Lane and the late Mr. William D. Lane of West Newton, was married recently to Harold Joshua Traub, son of Mr. and Mrs. Colin Traub of Dublin, Ireland.

The ceremony at Belmont Country Club was performed by Rabbi Paul H. Levenson.

The bride was attended by her sister, Janice R. Lane, as maid of honor. Alan S. Traub was best man for his brother.

The bride, a graduate of Case Western Reserve University, received an M.S.A. from Northeastern University School of Professional Accounting and an M.S.T. from Bentley College Graduate School in Taxation.

She is a licensed certified public accountant.

Mr. Traub earned a B.B.S. degree from Trinity College, Dublin, and a master's degree in business administration from the Harvard University Gradaute School.

The couple are working and living in New York City.

Jarell—Perrin vows given on Nantucket

WABAN — Ann Jarell and Karl Perrin, both of Vancouver, B.C., were married by the Rev. Edward Anderson at the Second Congregational Meeting House, Nantucket, on Oct. 10. The service was attended by a small group of family and friends.

Mrs. Susan Jarrell, aunt of the bride, was the organist and accompanied Dorothy Bronson-Thompson, flute; Richard Kartin, brother of the bride, flute; and Valerie Norwood, cousin of the bride, mezzosoprano. She sang "Sunrise, Sunset" and "Sabbath Prayer" from Fiddler on the Roof, "Simple Gifts" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Mrs. Paul Bradshaw of Downer's Grove, Illinois, was matron of honor for her cousin and the groom was attended by his brother-in-law, William Berecki, of Columbus, Ohio.

Following the ceremony, a reception luncheon was held at the Jared Coffin House in Nantucket. Sandra Bittermann on the harp, Dorothy Bronson-Thompson, flute, and Jim Sulzer, classical guitar, provided dinner music.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jarrell of Waban, and Surfside, Nantucket. She attended Newton High School and Antioch College in Yellow Springs, Ohio. She is executive director of Crossreach Adult Daycare Center in Vancouver, British Columbia.

Mr. Perrin, son of Mrs. Octavia Perrin and the late Paul Perrin of Detroit, Mich., graduated from the University of Michigan. He was a teacher in the Peace Corps in Afghanistan and is a speech and language specialist with the Provincial Inservice Resource Team of British Columbia.

After a trip to Scandinavia, the couple will make their home in Vancouver, B.C., Canada.

Chorus pro Musica holiday show slated

BOSTON — The Chorus pro Musica will present music for the Christmas holidays on Saturday, Dec. 11, 8 p.m., at Old South Church, Copley Square in Boston.

The 1982 "Christmas at Old South" concert will feature Arnold Schoenberg's Friede auf Erden and choruses from G.F. Handel's Messiah, together with a variety of traditional and non-traditional carols. Accompanists for the program will be Florence Dunn and James Christie, organist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Admission will be $3.

Members of the Chorus pro Musica from the Newton area include: from Newton, Victor Calcaterra; from Newton Highlands, Elizabeth Sheldon Mandelbaum, Marvin R. Mandelbaum and A. Toby Simon; from Newtonville, Richard M. Sobel; and from West Newton, Edmund G. Dyett, Jr.

This program will be the second of the Chorus's 34th season, and will make the return to the podium of its Musical Director and principal conductor, Donald Palumbo. During the fall, Mr. Palumbo is Chorus Master to the Dallas Opera.

Last month, the Chorus successfully joined forces with the Boston Philharmonic Orchestra, under the direction of Benjamin Zander, to perform Mahler's Second Symphony ("The Resurrection") at Carnegie Hall in New York. Two more collaborative efforts are scheduled for later this season: Beethoven's Ninth Symphony at Symphony Hall in March, and works of Brahms at Jordan Hall in May.

For tickets and further information, call 267-7442.

Garden Club hosted rehab center residents

BROOKLINE — Some 125 residents of the Hebrew Rehabilitation Center For Aged (HRCA) recently enjoyed a plant show arranged at the Roslindale facility by the Putterham Garden Club of Brookline.

The show, which judged plants grown by the HRCA elderly, was part of the Putterham Club's weekly participation in the Center's Recreational Therapies program.

Blue Ribbons were awarded by the judges in several categories, and all entries were displayed as part of a program that included a lecture on horticulture and visits by members of the Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts.

According to Theresa DeSantis of Chestnut Hill, chairwoman of the event, the club women visit the Center weekly, year 'round, working with the elderly in the HRCA Hobby Shop, in resident's rooms and in the flower and vegetable gardens cultivated on Center grounds by the residents.

"By helping to keep the elderly occupied and productive, we are part of an overall therapy program at the Center which also includes physical, occupational, expressive and recreational therapies," Mrs. DeSantis noted.

Recreational therapy helps occupy the resident's leisure time; physical therapy deals with movement, occupational therapy deals with dressing and grooming, and expressive therapy addresses the emotions and psychology.

Diabetes program Dec. 6

NEWTON — The Newton Health Department wants to remind residents of an up-coming program, "Diabetes: The Basic Facts"; a two evening seminar to be held on Monday, Dec. 6, from 7:30-9:00 p.m. The program, offered free of charge, will be held at the Nonantum Multi-Service Center, 48 Silver Lake Avenue, Newton.

A registered nurse and registered dietitian affiliated with the Department will discuss all aspects of diabetes, including its signs, symptoms, complications, and methods of treatment. Both participants have had extensive experience in diabetic teaching and will be available to answer any questions.

Diabetes is a serious health condition which fortunately can be controlled with appropriate treatment, and the conscientious cooperation of the patient and his/her family.

The Newton Health Department program will provide an excellent opportunity to learn more about the disease and encourage participants to follow good health practices.

Any questions regarding the program can be directed to the Newton Health Department at 552-7058.

Citizen Action Day set with 'Covenant' update

NEWTON CORNER — Citizen Action Day, sponsored by Church Women United in Newton, will be held Friday, Dec. 10 at Our Lady Help of Christians Church, 573 Washington Street, Newton Corner. The program will begin at 9:30 a.m.

Theme of the day is "The Covenant for Racial Justice: An Update" Phenola Valentine Carroll, 1982 Mother of the Year and wife of retired Methodist Bishop Edward G. Carroll, will be guest speaker.

Mrs. Carroll is a graduate of Morgan State University and attended Catholic University in Washington, D.C. She has held positions as analyst in the Foreign Economic Administration during World War II, as social investigator in the New York City Department of Public Welfare and she has been a management aide in Baltimore Public Housing.

A strong advocate of day care who works as a volunteer at the Crispus Attuck Day Care Center in Boston, she has travelled around the world with visits in China, India, Bali and Taiwan.

With her wide variety of experiences she is considered to be very qualified to bring a message on the status of the Covenant for Racial Justice and the impact it has for positive results in Newton and the Boston area.

Chairperson of the day is Mrs. Hazelle Ferguson and hostess for Our Lady's is Mrs. Jeanne White.

As a special part of the day those who attend are asked to contribute gifts for babies around the world. With the holiday season approaching the gifts for needy youngsters will be distributed by Church World Service. Church Women United asks for donations of such things as baby shirts, gowns, receiving blankets, baby towels, crib sheets, bibs, cloth diapers, and crib blankets. Those attending are asked to not bring such things as plastic pants, bottles, shoes, toys or talcum sets.

Phenola V. Carroll

Donations of money are welcome and those attending are also invited to share the cost of a more expensive gift with others.

All are welcome and child care is available.

For information call either 527-5765 or 969-6734.

Visual art class for children is now available

LOWER FALLS — Creative Movement and the Visual Arts, a two morning per week program taught by Phyllis Bernstein and Joan Kurzweil, has been found by many participants to be the perfect pre-kindergarten experience.

In the twice weekly sessions, the environment is nurturing, encouraging and fun. It is in this setting that the child becomes comfortable learning - and learning things that are both traditional, and those concepts which are less frequently approached with children.

Children experience holidays through making up stories and then enacting these stories in costumes which they have made. They learn about the colors in music - they also think about nature, feeling and family. It is a special kind of class which can expose a maximum of 15 children to two who are able to present an interesting curriculum for 3 and 4 year olds.

Arts in the Parks, Newton Recreation Department, is the sponsor of this class which meets from 9:30 to noon Tuesday and Thursday mornings at the Newton Lower Falls Community Center (formerly Hamilton School).

Sessions begin Jan. 3 through March 21, and again from March 28 to June 6. Each session is $165. Send checks made payable to Arts in the Parks, Newton Recreation Department, 70 Crescent Street, Auburndale, 02166. For more information, call 552-7120.

CJP to hold fundraiser December 5

NEWTON — Tom Lantos, whose recent successful run for re-election to Congress attracted national attention as it became a battleground for pro-Israeli and pro-Arab groups, will be the featured speaker at the major fundraising event of this year's Health Professions Team of the Combined Jewish Philanthropies of Greater Boston.

The Health Professions Breakfast, sponsored by the combined Dentists and Physicians Teams, will be held on Sunday, December 5 at the Marriott Hotel in Newton.

Lantos (D, California), a strong supporter of Israel, was targeted by far-right political action committees (PACs) and oil lobbies, who spent thousands of dollars to try to defeat him. His opponent, Republican Bill Royer, chose for his campaign slogan, "He's one of us," which Lantos pointed out, constantly reminded voters that Lantos must be "one of them."

The only Holocaust survivor to serve in Congress, Lantos is a member of the House Committees on Foreign Affairs (including the Middle East Sub-committee) Government Operations, and Ageing.

The Health Professions teams are among the fastest growing in CJP's Trades and Professions Division, now including over 2,000 contributors. Last year, the physicians and dentists contributed a total of $766,000 to CJP's campaign.

Chairing the breakfast are David Neustadt, D.D.S. of Newton, and Harris S. Yett, M.D. of Weston.

For more information and reservations for the breakfast, call CJP at 542-8080.

Tay-Sachs annual meeting

NEWTON — The Annual Meeting of the National Tay-Sachs and Allied Diseases Association of New England is scheduled for Wednesday, Dec. 8 at 8 p.m. Election of officers will be followed by a speaker who will discuss the "Tragedy of A Fatal Genetic Disease From A Mothers Perspective."

Tay-Sachs is a rare fatal genetic disease of children that occurs predominantly in the Jewish population, but not exclusively. The disorder causes the deterioration of the nervous system and ultimate death by the age of five. Although there is no cure for this disease or for the allied disorders, Tay-Sachs disease can be prevented.

A simple blood test can detect whether a parent is a carrier of the Tay-Sachs gene. Only if both parents are carriers of the gene can a child be born with Tay-Sachs disease.

The organization strives to educate the public about Tay-Sachs and the allied disorders and urges couples of childbearing age to be tested. It also helps to maintain a quality control program to ensure accurate testing in laboratories throughout the country.

The New England chapter has two National officers on its board. Harvey Greenstein of Newton is currently national treasurer and Dr. Michael Sheff of Waban is vice-president. Yvonne Sacks of Newton is New England's chapter president. This meeting is open to the public and more information is available by calling 965-2508.

Artist shows at Hebrew College

BROOKLINE — Sharon Savitsky of Newton, whose art and illuminations were recently featured at the by-invitation-only Ketubah show at the Yeshiva University Museum in New York City, will exhibit her work at Hebrew College in Brookline, starting Sunday, Dec. 12 with a wine and cheese reception from 3 to 5 p.m.

Savitsky's work is characterized by a combination of familiarity with Biblical and medieval Jewish sources plus a strong sense of colorful geometric and floral designs.

A native of northern England, Savitsky has studied at the internationally known Bezalel School of Art in Jerusalem and the Washington School of Art. Her works have been exhibited at the Kolbo Gallery in Brookline and Gallery 1207 in Newton Center. One of her works now appears in the Israeli Institute of Medicine in Jerusalem where it was commissioned by the American Physicians Fellowship.

The Savitsky exhibit will run through Sunday, Jan. 23.

Coupled with the opening reception on Dec. 12 will be a concert announced as a tribute to Friends of Hebrew College, by pianist Allan Sternfield, who has concertized extensively in the United States, Europe, Israel and the Far East, including solo appearances with the Tokyo, Jerusalem and Baltimore Symphony Orchestras.

His 3:30 p.m. recital at Hebrew College will include works by C.P.E. Bach, Franz Schubert and Moussorgsky's "Pictures at an Exhibition."

Student on dean's list

SPRINGFIELD — Paula J. Buckley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Buckley, of 15 Owatonna Street, Auburndale, has been named to the Dean's List at Springfield College, it has been announced by the college's Academic Dean, Paul U. Congdon.

A graduate of Newton North High School, she is also an Athletic Trainer, and a volunteer in the Physical Therapy Laboratory located in the campus Health Center.

Assessors win 10% of funding request

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — After weeks of dissent and acrid debate, members of the Board of Aldermen exhibited unexpected harmony one night last week as they voted to give the Board of Assessors less than 10 percent of the amount requested to keep temporary personnel in the department.

Aldermen voted unanimously to approve an appropriation of $6,000 to keep the department's temporary staff for two weeks, until the assessors' needs can be analyzed.

Board President Matthew Jefferson complimented the board after the vote for the absence of the "acrimony" which had plagued all previous discussions of the assessors' original $67,360 request.

The compromise appropriation was hammered out during a special meeting of the Subcommittee on Revaluation, which took place before the special meeting of the full board.

Chairman of the Board of Assessors Robert Palmer told the subcommittee he needed the full amount, on top some $92,000 his department was given several months ago, to keep a temporary staff to process new abatement requests and to bring his computer files up to date.

Palmer said much of his staff would have to be laid off without the appropriation. He added there were thousands of abatement applications to be processed and approximately 50,000 errors in the files that had to be corrected before he could move into the next fiscal year.

Some members of the subcommittee and representatives of Save Our Homes II (SOH II), a taxpayers' group, complained that Palmer needed the additional funds because his department was in chaos and delinquent in many of its duties.

James Hennelly, speaking for SOH II, told the subcommittee, "The Assessing Department has been operating in an inefficient and arrogant manner for the last ten months. They should have known at the end of September if they needed more money, not the end of November."

Alderman Richard McGrath, who recently asked for an independent audit of the Assessing Department's methods, told the subcommittee they could give the department the $67,000 "and hope they catch up," or they could insist on close scrutiny of its operations. "We can't put it off any longer," he said.

Alderman Richard Bullwinkle delved into the present resources of the Assessing Department, saying he thought there might be as much as $79,000 in the account which could be used to maintain the temporary staff.

Palmer pointed out that a large part of his department's account was tied up in litigation with Finnegan Associates, the Acton-based firm that conducted the city-wide revaluation. He said $54,000 could not be used until legalities were ironed out regarding Finnegan's performance.

Palmer, for the most part, refused to face his critics, concentrating, instead, on some intricate doodling which almost covered his copy of the subcommittee's agenda before the meeting was over. When one member of SOH II stood beside him to register his complaints in detail, the Chief Assessor responded to the man without once looking up at him.

Palmer, for the most part, echoed Mayor Theodore D. Mann's comments earlier in the day. Mann said the Assessing Department was expected to make mistakes because of the sheer bulk of data it had to handle.

Palmer told the subcommittee, "The Assessing Department is the most judgemental of all the departments in the city." He added that he would welcome an audit and any recommendations that might come from it.

The compromise proposal to give the department enough money to function for two weeks, while its needs were better defined, was struck in the closing minutes of the subcommittee meeting. The vote was unanimous.

Chairman Paul Coletti recommended to the full board that his subcommittee's vote for the compromise be substituted for a previous Finance Committee vote which unanimously approved the $67,000 appropriation "after three minutes of discussion." He told the full board that Palmer concurred with the action of the subcommittee.

President Jefferson, still anticipating some heated debate or a parliamentary move to send the appropriation back to the beginning of the aldermanic process, said, "It seems like a good solution."

When the final vote on the compromise came in at 18 to 0, Jefferson complimented the members of the board on the spirit of cooperation they had shown.

Brimmer and May antique fair Dec. 4-5

CHESTNUT HILL — Over 45 exhibitors from throughout New England will gather at the Brimmer and May School Holiday Benefit Antiques Show and Sale on Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 4-5, to participate in this fundraising holiday event, according to an announcement issued by Martin Silverman and Michael Thompson of Serendipity Antiques of Boston, who are serving as coordinators of this event.

Hours to the general public will be 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. both Saturday and Sunday of the show.

It will be held at the Chestnut Hill campus, Middlesex Road, directly behind the Longwood Cricket and Tennis Club.

Heading the Brimmer and May committee is Mrs. George Roland of Wellesley, president of the Parents and Teachers Group.

Church planning Madrigal Market

WEST NEWTON — The Women's Alliance of the First Unitarian Society of Newton announces that its biennial holiday fair, this year called a "Madrigal Market," will take place on Saturday, Dec. 4, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at 1326 Washington St.

A variety of handmade items and new and old treasures will be available for purchase, and old friends and new customers are invited to attend the festivities.

Entertainment includes Kodaly Madrigal Singers, Helen and Susan Gloor on the Recorder, and films for children to watch. A French Breakfast Cafe, under the direction of Barbara Buell, will be open from 10 a.m. until noon, and Marc Kimball and a crew of gourmet chefs will serve Luncheon from noon to 2 p.m.

Chairpersons and their respective tables include: Carol Karlson, Quilt Raffle; Joan Witt and Nuria Morey, Silent Auction; Bob Neumann, Sporting Goods; Cleone Graham, Attic Treasures; Jan Hollett, Garden Shoppe; Janet Norstrand, Preserved and Baked Goods; Elizabeth Nicholson, Handknit Items; Mary Rossborough, Books; Jane Yoffe, Jewelry and New Gifts; Eleanor Phillips, Games and Puzzles; and Judy Friedman, Handwriting Analyst.

Additional members of the holiday fair committee are Co-chairpersons Florence Walker and Michele Olem; Helen Levy, President of the Women's Alliance; Bill Carton, films; and Marion Kaufmann, publicity. For additional information call 527-3203.

Novelist is guest speaker

NEWTON — "Can You Trust A Novelist's Vision?" will be the topic of a talk by novelist Myron S. Kaufmann. Kaufmann will speak at an adult education breakfast on Sunday, Dec. 5, at 9:30 a.m. at Temple Beth Avodah, 45 Puddingstone Lane, Newton. The breakfast is open to the public.

His latest book, "The Love of Elsbeth Baker," is about the odyssey of a young Boston girl who conceives out of wedlock and refuses to have an abortion.

For information call 527-0045.

City may pocket dog fine

NEWTON — The city plans to add $40,000 annually to its embattled coffers by keeping money collected from dog fines.

Legislation to take control of money now given to Middlesex County received a 15 to 2 endorsement by the alderman at Wednesday's special meeting of the board.

The legislation from the mayor's office will also prohibit scientific experiments on unwanted dogs from the pound.

"This legislation is similiar to the city taking control of parking fines from the state," said Alderman Joseph DePasquale.

Beginning last January, the city began collecting all money from parking fines, according to DePasquale.

"The city does all the work and it should also reap the benefit from its labor," said DePasquale.

Aldermen stated the present fee structure of $10 for licensing and graduated fines from $10 to $25 for unleashed dogs would remain intact.

State law limits fines to a maximum of $50 for violations of ordinances relating to licensing or the failure to restrain a dog.

Liability for damages caused by a dog will remain with the county, according to the bill to be filed during this year's legislative session.

Now, the city keeps $1.75 from each $10 dog-license fee. It sends the rest to Middlesex County, according to DePasquale.

DePasquale termed the county system of collecting the fees "archaic," because the fees were primarily for compensating a farmer for loss of livestock caused by a dog.

Alderman Robert Tennant voted against the measure because he felt the board would increase the fines later and called the idea a "back door tax."

Prior to the aldermanic board meeting, the Committee of Legislation and Rules voted 6 to 0 in favor of the idea.

However Alderman Matthew Jefferson voiced some dissent.

"I don't think most dog owners can afford a $50 fine, I think it's just another way of supporting the animal control unit."

Helmet injury claim filed in court

By Gary Dorion
Middlesex County News Service

CAMBRIDGE — An 18-year old Newton man injured in a 1980 hockey game between Newton South High School and Dracut High School has brought suit against a hockey helmet manufacturer and a sporting goods store for $500,000 in a negligence action.

Stephen Mosca, who played hockey for Newton South during a game with Dracut Dec. 15, 1980, got checked into the boards at an ice rink by an opposing player and suffered severe head injuries.

According to Boston Atty. Philip J. Crowe, Jr., representing Mosca, the metal studs fastening the padding to the frame inside Mosca's helmet protruded through the padding and tore Mosca's forehead during the check into the boards.

Crowe said Mosca will name the City of Newton as a defendant after the required six month advance notice under the Mass. Tort Claims Act expires.

Named in the current complaint, filed in Middlesex Superior Court, are Marciano-Shaw Sporting Goods, Inc., of 363 North Main St., Mansfield and Cooper International, Inc., of Lewiston, N.Y., the manufacturer of a Cooper helmet model HM650.

Neither defendant has had opportunity to make an official response to the suit. A response is expected within a required time period of 20 days.

In the complaint, Mosca alleges the sporting goods store was negligent for selecting, advertising and marketing the helmet when the helmet was "unreasonably and inherently dangerous in nature and condition." Mosca also claims the sporting goods store failed to give adequate warning regarding the potential dangers of using the equipment and of its alleged defective condition. He is also suing for breach of warranty.

The complaint against Cooper International Inc. is based on similar counts of negligence in that Mosca alleges Cooper International Inc. caused his injuries because it placed the alleged defective helmet in the channels of trade by manufacturing, advertising and marketing it. He is also suing the company for breach of warranty, alleging that the helmet was not of merchantable quality because "it was unfit for the purpose for which it was intended."

According to attorney Crowe, Mosca had to undergo "emergency plastic surgery" following the injury.

'Yachad' mission discussion slated at Mishkan Tefila

CHESTNUT HILL — In preparation for an historic "Yachad" mission to Israel next April, in which some 80 Boston-area persons will participate. Carl H. Kaplan of Washington, DC, chairman of the Young Leadership Cabinet for Missions of the United Jewish Appeal, has been describing the trip to interested audiences around the country.

On Thursday, Dec. 2 at 7:30 p.m., Kaplan, who also is chairman of the 1983 Yachad mission, will speak about the trip at Temple Mishkan Tefila in Chestnut Hill.

The meeting is sponsored by the Boston area Recruitment Committee for the Yachad mission, which is made up of local members of the Young Leadership and Young Women's Leadership Cabinets of the UJA, sponsors of the mission.

The mission, whose departure is timed to coincide with Yom Hashoa–Holocaust Day – will begin with remembrance ceremonies at a number of US airports.

Participants will celebrate Israels's 35th anniversary with the people of Israel on April 18, Yom Haatzmaut, Israel Independence Day.

On April 19, American participants will join with Israelis to commemorate the 40th anniversary of the Warsaw Ghetto uprising.

The New England Regional Chairman for the mission is attorney Jules Fried of Brookline.

Fried said, "The name of the mission-Yachad'–means 'together'. This is particularly appropriate for this mission, in which we will celebrate a number of historical occasions with our Israeli brothers."

Locally, the four area co-chairman are Andrew Eisenberg of Newton, Michael Hammerschmidt of Boston, Devra Lasdon of Brookline, and Richard Rosman of Newton.

According to Eisenberg, some 30 persons from the Boston area have already committed themselves to participating in the mission.

Says Eisenberg, "We're looking for individuals who want to find a way to become involved in Federation activities. This mission will be an active experience, not a passive one."

The mission is targeted for persons ages 28 to 40 who have not been previously on a mission to Israel. Spouses are encouraged to participate.

An international look at Thanksgiving

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

WEST NEWTON — Students at Franklin Elementary School took an international look at Thanksgiving in a performance last Tuesday.

The story of the pilgrims and the Indians was retold as part of the performance, but celebrations of harvests in other countries were also part of the show held in the West Newton school's auditorium.

During the show, each class focused on songs and dances of harvest celebrations of a particular country, often drawing on the variety of ethnic backgrounds within the school.

Following a performance by the "Indians", third grade students in Tom Etre's class who created costumes resembling the native dress using paper sacks, a group of kindergarteners dressed as pilgrims arrived on the Mayflower at a makeshift Plymouth Rock.

From this familiar Thanksgiving story of brotherhood, the performance moved to celebrations of annual harvests in Italy, Latvia, Hawaii, Germany, Denmark and China.

Prior to the show Tuesday, classes spent several weeks studying and discussing a particular culture's harvest festivals and class activities included cooking, dancing, singing and art projects. Teacher Xonna Clark was credited with bringing the idea for the performance to life.

Several students in Connie Carven's second grade class speak Italian so her class chose to study the Italian grape harvest festival, Festi di Vendemmia, which is celebrated in many districts of Italy. The grape harvest is a community affair, Carven's class learned, where friends and neighbors help gather the fruit from a vineyard in return for food and gifts.

In northern Italy, there is a celebration of the wheat harvest in August after the wheat is threshed.

Second grade teacher Helen Chiate lived in Hawaii for several years and her students' performance was based on the Hawaiian harvest festival called Makahiki, which is celebrated one day in November.

Ancient Hawaiians had a Makahiki season which lasted from October through January. All work and fighting was stopped for several weeks and replaced with luaus (picnics) and games.

A split-grade class of first and second graders chose Germany for their country because one of their classmates, Karin Bruaing, is from Germany and attending Franklin for three months. Students learned of several harvest festivals celebrated in Germany, but based their performance on St. Martin's Tag, a holiday in November 11.

The holiday marks the end of the harvest and the beginning of standard time. As part of the celebration, German children make colorful lanterns. Franklin students also made lanterns (using flashlights inside colored construction paper) and used them while performing a German dance.

Another performance focused on China's Harvest Moon Festival on September 15, the day when the moon is the brightest. The festival is a celebration of "the Moon's birthday," and it coincides with the time when harvests are in.

The celebration of the Moon's birthday lasts for three days. Round cakes are baked and when families gather together for a festive meal, it is by moonlight.

Police log

Silver, stereo system stolen

NEWTON CENTRE — Silverware and a stereo system were reported stolen Sunday from a Waverly Avenue home, police said.

The thieves entered the house by forcing a rear door, according to repots. A cassette player, television set, coffee and tea service set and a purse containing credit cards and cash were also stolen, police said.

Assorted jewelry stolen

NEWTON — Assorted jewelry and two goblets were reported stolen Sunday from an Evelyn Road home, police said.

The theives entered the house by kicking in a rear porch door, according to police. The intruders also cut the telephone lines, which are connected to the burglar alarm, according to reports.

Thief takes vacationer's mink

NEWTON — A mink coat and cameras were reported stolen Sunday from a Puritan Road home while the residents were on vacation during the past week, police said.

The thieves entered the house through the back door, police repoted. Stolen were two 35 mm cameras and the mink.

Attempted breaks were reported Sunday on Fairway Drive and Barnes Road but the culprits failed to enter the homes, according to police.

Volkswagon reported stolen

NEWTONVILLE — A 1973 Volkswagon was reported stolen Sunday night or early Monday morning from a driveway on Lowell Avenue, police said.

Tigers hit stride in routing Brookline

By Steve Tiberi
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The question stuck in the back of everyone's mind throughout the pre-game warmups. Which Newton North football team would show up? The crisp executing, emotional unit that dropped a quality Malden team or the mistake-riddled squad that was defeated by rival Waltham.

Much to the delight of the Dickinson Stadium faithful, a fired-up Tiger eleven rolled out to a 36-0 lead at halftime and breezed to a 36-6 Thanksgiving Day victory over long-time rival Brookline High in the final Suburban League contest for each team.

The "lost" season is now over and the Tiger seniors, who stuck with the team during the lean times, can depart knowing they were the first group to defeat a Brookline team in three years. Newton North ends the season with a 3-6 record overall and a 2-4 mark in the league. It was the 40th victory for Newton in the Brookline series, which started in 1894.

The victory over Brookline is one for the Tigers to cherish. The past two seasons Newton North has entered this game with a superior record and lost.

"Some people may say we beat a winless Brookline team, so what," said Newton North coach Norm Walker, who suffered through his first losing season in nine years as head coach. "This was a tight game until our defense makes a big play and the offense executes. Brookline is a sound team and we had to go out there and play well to win.

"This was just what are seniors needed," said Walker. "This is the finest group I've had. They never gave up this entire season. Our team came out and put Brookline away early. That is just what you have to do. We never let them into the game. I'm very happy it ended this way for the seniors and the rest of the team. We finished 3-6, but the players realize it could have easily been turned around."

The Newton North defense was doing an excellent job of stuffing the Brookline offense in the first half. The Tigers didn't allow a first down the entire half and held Brookline to 11 yards rushing and just one yard passing.

The offense, meanwhile, scored the its first touchdown on the ground. Senior Tim Mulvey capped a seven-play, 49-yard drive by rolling over left end from eight yards out in the first quarter. Mulvey was the leading ball carrier on the day with five carries for 63 yards.

Brookline fumbled on its next possession and Newton North had a first down on the Wealthy Towners' 28-yard line. The Tigers went for a qiuck score. Quarterback Tim Brandon, who threw three touchdown passes on the day, lofted a pass into the endzone.

George Claflin and Brookline's Steve Doron went up for the ball. Doron came down with it in the end zone for the interception. Brookline took over and pulled out a halfback option. tailback Doron came up throwing and he had his man open.

End Steve Cronin was cutting across the field and seemed to be all alone. Doron lofted the pass and Cronin caught the ball, but at the last minute sophomore safety Jeff Drew came flying over to knock the ball away from Cronin and keep Newton in conrtol of the contest.

"In my mind that was the biggest play of the game," said Newton North coach Norm Walker. "Brookline was right with us and if they complete that pass they had something going. Jeff Drew made a great play to get over there. Our offense took control in the second quarter."

The Tigers took advantage of two Brookline fumbles to put 30 points on the board in the second quarter. It was the most productive quarter of the season for the Tigers.

John McDonnell recovered the first Brookline fumble of the second quarter. Brookline quarterback Edgar Howe and halfback Jones missed connections on the handoff. McDonnell was right there to scoop it up.

The Tigers went right for the score and this time it worked. Brandon drilled a 26-yard pass to Claflin for the score. Brandon also hit Clalfin for the extra point conversion.

Newton North kicked off and Brookline fumbled the ball away on the second play from scrimmage. Doron tried another halfback option, but he was sacked and fumbled. Eric Fortune pounced on the loose pigskin for the Tigers.

Two plays later, Brandon connected with Claflin for a 10-yard scoring pass. Brandon passed to Ed Tafe for the two point conversion for a 22-0 lead. That was just half the story of the all-Newton second quarter.

Brookline didn't fumble away its next possession. The Wealthy Towners tried to go on a fourth and one and were stopped by the aggressive Newton defense.

Defensive linemen Deane Morreale, Leo Butera, Tom Keefe, Ed Cohen and Bill Sweeney were determined in the first half. They held Brookline's offense to practivally no yardage. Linebackers Ralph Torres and John Callahan also played well.

It took the Tigers just five plays to march 47 yards for the third score of the quarter. Paul Wessell scored his first touchdown of the season. He hauled in a 20-yard pass from Brandon on a well-executed pattern crossing pattern. Brandon placed the ball between two Brookline defenders for his third touchdown pass of the contest. Brandon finished the season with six touchdown passes.

Backup quarterback Larry Tafe came in with just as much success. With under two minutes left in the half, Tafe engineered a 4-play, 45-yard drive for the final score of Newton's season. Tafe hit Claflin with a 16-yard scoring pass off a roll-out. It was Tafe's first TD toss of the season. Tim Feeney booted the extra point for the final two Newton North touchdown.

Brookline scored its lone touchdown on the final play of the game. Eric Sargent slammed in from one yard out to spoil the Newton shutout bid.

SUDBURY — Chalk up another one for the underdog!

In a game that was a "Thanksgiving Day Classic" in every sense of the phrase, a gutsy Newton South team spoiled Lincoln-Sudbury's Super Bowl aspirations in a come-from-behind 22-22 stalemate at Sudbury Thursday morning.

The heavily favored home team took a 14-point lead into the fourth quarter only to see it evaporate. The previously once beaten Warriors simply could not control the Newton South rushing attack, led by tailback Steve Anglin (46 carries for 255 yards) and Joe Spagnuolo (8 carries for 126 yards).

Spagnuolo ran around left end for a 56-yard touchdown with 4:39 remaining in the game and Anglin ran for the tying two-point conversion.

The Lions took the opening kickoff and drove 74 yards for a score. Anglin did most of the work on the ground leading to a 13-yard Spagnuolo tally. Anglin ran for the two-point conversion to give South an 8-0 lead.

The rest of the first half was all Lincoln-Sudbury. Rob Mathews recvored an Anglin fumble at the Lions 39. Jerome Croom and Jim Finamore ran the ball to the 13-yard line where quarterback Chris DeFranco and pass receiver Harry McPherson hooked for a touchdown on a beautifully timed pattern. Croom tied the game with a conversion run.

In the second quarter, the Warriors used the same formula to propel them into the lead. Again, the rushing of Finamore and Croom set up a DeFranco TD pass. It was a screen to Finamore, which the 195-pound fullback ran 19 yards on his way the end zone, breaking two tackles. Scott Semple booted the extra point.

On the next possession, Lincoln-Sudbury turned to its passing attack for another score. DeFranco connected with Finamore for 33 yards on a key third down screen pass. McPherson then caught his second touchdown pass, a 23-yard toss, DeFranco's third payoff peg. Semple's kick for the uprights to give the Warriors a 22-8 halftime edge.

The Lions defense stopped Lincoln-Sudbury on three plays following the second half kickoff.

Newton South took over after a punt at its own 19 and drove to Lincoln's 14 before Anglin was stopped on a fourth-and-one play.

The Warriors took over but again were stopped cold and forced to punt. This time the Lions drove 70 yards for a score with Anglin carrying on seven straight plays.

Following another Warrior punt, Newton South took possession at its 31. After four Anglin rushes netted 13 yards, Spagnuolo faked to his tailback and bootleg around the left flank where he cut up field and ran for 20 yards. He then turned back to the middle of the field and went all the way for his 56-yard TD sprint. Anglin slammed through the middle for the game-tying conversion points.

The Lions had one more offensive opportuinity in the remaining 4½ minutes. Two long Anglin and Spagnuolo runs brought them to the home team's 17, but they culd not get a snapoff for a field goal try.

Newton South ended the season very successfully after an 0-3 start, going 4-2-1 in their final games. The Lions finished 4-5-1.

Anglin, the all-time Newton South single-season rushing record holder ended the campaign with 1,463 yards. It was his seventh straight 100-plus game this fall.

South coach Art Kojoyian praised his palyers for their performance and said, "the team showed a lot of character coming back from a 14-point deficit in the fourth quarter and not giving up." He was also happy that Newton South had retained possession of the trophy which goes to the winner of the game. The Lions had won last year's contest, 13-0.

Newton PeeWee AA 2nd in tourney

FALMOUTH — The Newton PeeWee AA team placed second in the ninth annual Eric Economides Memorial Hockey Tournament with a 3-1 record at the Falmouth Ice Arena over the Thanksgiving Day weekend.

Newton lost in the finals to Arlington, 2-1, in a double overtime thriller on Sunday morning before a crowd of 2100. Newton had defeated Arlington, 3-2, the night before to reach the finals as the only undefeated team.

Newton and Arlington played through two scoreless periods in the overtime game. Newton then drew first blood at the 1:05 mark of the final period. Mike Dezotell drilled a shot from 20 feet out and Fred Mitchell banged the rebound over the fallen goalie.

Newton tried to hold on to the lead and did so for most of the remainder of the third period. Charlie Goldman and Doug Michaels played brilliantly in the goal for Newton.

Arlington managed to tie the contest with just 49 seconds left in the contest. The puck was jammed home after a scramble in front of the net.

In the first overtime, Newton had three chances to score, but were turned away. Arlington scored on another scramble in front with three minutes played in the second overtime.

On Saturday night, Newton managed to hold on to a 3-2 lead in that contest. Arlington opened the scoring, but Newton answered with three straight goals. Jay Cappello tied the game for Newton with a goal in the first period.

Newton tallied twice in the second period and hung for the win. Dave Frechette and Steve Silk scored the goals for Newton. Arlington scored with just 25 seconds gone in the final frame, but Newton led by defenseman Dave O'Connor held on to the victory.

On Saturday morning, Newton spotted host Falmouth two goals before rattling off six straight goals for a 6-2 win. Willie Bachner led the scoring parade with a second period goal. Dave Frechette notched the game-tying goal in the middle period.

Silk popped in the eventual game winner in the second frame. Cappello, Frechette and Micthell all scored to ice the contest in the third period.

Newton opened the tourney with a convincing 8-1 blasting of Hyannis. Silk led the scoring barage with five goals. Cappello, Tom Tossi and Frechette also scored for Newton.

Area gridders

Sharton to receive tennis award

Jim Sharton of Newton Centre will be among 10 junior tennis players to be honored for making their mark during 1982 at the New England Lawn Tennis Association Annual Awards Luncheon to be held Saturday at the Marriott in Farmington, Conn.

Sharton is being cited for exemplary sportsmanship. He will receive the Colonel Bernard Gorfinkle Boys 18 Award, marking the second time (1980) he has been so honored in his age division.

The William W. Hoblitzelle Girls 18 Award goes to Linda Oeschle of Sudbury, who clearly demonstrated that winning and sportsmanship can go hand in hand. Oeschle, the top ranked 18 in New England, has had a sensational season in 1982.

The Bancroft Junior Improvement Awards will be presented to Cindy Basler of Hingham and Glen Ciotti of Winchester.

The Spalding Sportsmanship Award winners in all the other age divisions are as follows: Boys 16, Bill Benjes (Duxbury); Girls 16, Terry Elio (Winchester); Boys 14, John Karcher (Darien, Conn.); Girls 14, Diana Gardner (Brookline); Boys 12, twins Greg and Tim Hatch (Greenwich, Conn.); Girls 12, Jennifer Lane (Sherborn).

BC gains poll rank again

CHESNUT HILL — When it's good it's oh, so good.

Ask Boston College's football Eagles. A month ago they'd been drubbed by Joe Paterno's Penn State, 52-17.

Their precarious perch, last at 20th, in United Press International's college football poll had been wiped away in a fell swoop. They before that had been dropped from The Associated Press' coaches' poll.

Then, a second (remember the first?) rebirth of sorts happened on The Hill. BC was winning again, its quarterback, Doug Flutie, pulling the troops from the throes of defeat — and oblivion — on more than one occasion.

The razz-tazz offense made waves. People again took notice. The Eagles were in the running for a post-season bowl berth, albeit the Tangerine Bowl.

Most of the rest is recent history, expect that today BC has come just about all the way back: UPI again has ranked it, again 20th, this time tied for that last but notable spot with Brigham Young.

The 8-2-1 Eagles surely have been boosted. They'll need impetus: Dec. 18 they face semi-powerhouse Auburn in Orlando, Fla.

A win there would put icing on a cake of a season — the best at BC in 40-odd years.

Mishkan Tefila Juniors lose 1st in hoop league

NEEDHAM — The Mishkan Tefila junior basketball team put on a strong finish, but it couldn't overcome a strong Needham start in a 66-58 loss Monday night at the Brookmeadow Gym in the first USY game of the season.

Needham jumped out to a 20-12 lead after the first period and led 33-24 at the half. Scott Devore scored 16 points and Mike Levine added 10 points to help Mishkan Tefila take a 46-42 lead after three quarters.

Needham's Eric Aronson, who finished with 25 points, scored 10 points in a 14-point Needham run to ice the game. Mishkan closed to 62-58 in the closing minutes, but Needham held on for the win.

The summary:

NEEDHAM(66)-Bower 6-1-13; Mendelsohn 1-1-3; Rosenbaum 7-0-14; Aronson 11-3-25; Baker 1-1-3; Hamburger 3-0-6; Rothman 1-0-2. Tot. 30-6-66.

Cathedral runs past Lancers

NEWTON — Newton Catholic couldn't stop the title drive of Cathedral High as the Lancers dropped their Thanksgiving Day eve contest 29-9 under the lights at Albemarle Field.

Cathedral unloaded a corps of talented runningbacks and the strong arm of quarterback Bob Barrett to dominate the smaller Lancer squad. The Chiefs combined a 25-yard off-tackle run and recovered Lancer fumble to post an early 14-0 first quarter lead.

When the two teams switched ends of the field in the second quarter, Newton Catholic had the advantage of a strong wind at its back that Cathedral had enjoyed earlier.

Newton Catholic called on its playbook and came up with a big flea-flicker pass to drive to the Cathedral four-yard line. Quarterback Tom DeRosa handed off to senior Marc Hung, who handed off to Billy Martin coming around the end. Martin flipped the ball to DeRosa. The senior quarterback hit end Scott MacAdam for a 27-yard completion and a first and goal situation.

Hung brought the ball to the one yard line on two carriers before DeRosa broke the goalline for the score. Newton Catholic failed on a pass-after conversion attempt and trailed by eight.

With time running down in the half, Newton Catholic's defense got the ball back for the Lancers. MacAdam picked off a misguided Barrett pass at the midfeld mark and returned the ball to the 6-yard line. Newton Catholic coach Tom Raeke praised the performance of MacAdam and said "Scott MacAdam was the player of the game. He is an outstanding individual and an outstanding football player."

With two seconds on the clock Hung, playing in his last game as a Lancer, drilled the uprights for a 20-yard field goal and pulled the Lancers to within five at the half, 14-9.

Though Hung was shut down by the Chiefs, Raeke still has plenty of praise for his retiring senior, who has sparked the Lancers for the past two seasons.

"Hung stuck well defensively," said Raeke. "He gave it his best shot as he always does and pound for pound Marc Hung was the best player on the field."

The Lancers watched Barrett and a host of Cathedral backs carry the offense in the second half as the victors tacked up two more touchdowns and 15 points. "Barrett is an outstanding player," said Raeke. "He was the difference in this game and has a chance to go on and play college ball."

Newton Catholic ended the season 4-6, but has a number of underclassmen returning and coach Raeke is optimistic.

Auburndale wins Tag crown

The Auburndale Cafe settled a season-long sore spot enroute to winning its second consecutive Newton Tag Football League title Wednesday night at Boston College's Alumni Field.

Auburndale defeated the Everett Untouchables, 12-6, on a 70-yard scoring pass from quarterback Pat Ball to Chris Flaherty for the title with 47 seconds left in the contest. Everett beat Auburndale in two regular season battles, but Auburndale won the war.

The last-minute touchdown toss was set up by a Bob Manning interception with 1:40 to go. Auburndale's defense picked off four passes, including a Gary Tutingian interception in the end zone in the fourth quarter.

Artie Murphy picked off a pass for Auburndale on the five-yard line in the first quarter. E.A. Morgan also intercepted a pass for the winners.

Both teams got on the scoreboard with touchdowns in the second quarter. Auburndale moved down with big pass completions to Billy Carter and Jerry McHugh. Ball capped the drive with a five-yard toss to Larry Pellegrini. The pass for the two-point conversion failed.

Everett came right back to tie. Quarterback Dennis Haggett connected with Kevin Giannino for a 10-yard touchdown pass. The pass for the two-point conversion failed.

Auburndale defeated the Packers to make the finals, while Everett defeated Brandon's. Auburndale was successfully coached by Don Murphy and Harold Breen.

The summary:

Swimmers pooled efforts to give Robby a Disney trip

WALTHAM — Eleven-year-old Robby Lavash and his parents are headed to Disney World, courtesy of the Newton North girl's swim team.

Robby suffers from a bone disease that has left his skeletal structure so weak that frequent bone breaks, some 200 so far, have plagued him throughout his life.

Just five weeks ago, a group of small businessmen spearheaded a drive which raised more than $4,000 to buy Robby an electric wheelchair, and to build a ramp on the Lavash's Banks Street home.

The Newton Tigers' swim coach, Colleen White, read of Robby's plight, and decided to ask her swimmers if they would like to help.

"I knew people would always come up with money for medical expenses. But everyone needs a vacation sometime. Disney World is a happy place. I figured it was the place for him," White said.

What surfaced was a benefit swim meet between the Newton North girls and boys swim teams Nov. 1. Some $800 was raised.

Robby and his parents, Robert and Jean attended the meet.

"Robby was rooting for the boys team," White said, "until he heard the girls raised more money." The swim meet ended in a tie, which is a very unusual thing in a swim meet, White said.

White presented the checks to Robby Monday evening.

Virgil Mullins, commander of the Felton Street VFW Post 2152 and one of the orginal organizers of the first fund drive, has planned a country and western benefit dance for Robby at the post, scheduled for January.

Landscape artist to demonstrate for Arts Association

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — Newton Art Association President, Henry Schoenberg of Newtonville, invites members and guests to continue their commitment to "Fun in Learning" on Thursday, Dec. 2 at 7:30 p.m. when they meet at the Newton Highlands Workshop, 72 Columbus Street, to watch artist Roberta Thresher as she begins and develops a New England landscape in watercolor in her lecture-demonstration.

This "Fun in Learning" experience is open to the public. A fee of $2 will be assessed non-members. There is no fee for members. A social hour, with refreshments, will follow the demonstration. Evelyn Myers of West Newton will be hostess for the evening.

Roberta Thresher is director of art, emerita, of the Reading public schools and is now teaching privately and at The Melrose Art Center.

A Melrose resident, Thresher holds a B.S. in education from the Mass. College of Art and a Master's in Education from Tufts University. Winner of many awards, she has exhibited at the National Academy of Design, the American Watercolor Society, the Allied Artists of American, the American Artists Professional League, the Catharine Lorillard Wolfe Art Club, all in New York City; as well as at Boston City Hall, Brockton Art Center, Duxbury Art Complex, and, the Academic Artists Association in Springfield, Mass.

A member of the New England Watercolor Society (formerly the Boston Watercolor Society), the Salmagundi Club of New York City, the North Shore Art Association, her awards include the William Schultz Art School Award and the Robinson Memorial Award from the Academic Artists Association; the Strathmore Award for Academic Artists; the Winsor Newton Awards (Knickerbocker Artists, New York City); Chairman's Award of the American Artists Professional League (New York); the New Member Award of the Rockport Association; and the Kughler Memorial Award of the Salmagundi Club. Her work is represented in the collections of the Melrose Public Library, the First National Bank and the National Shawmut Bank of Boston and the Holyoke National Bank.

Christmas shoppers are invited to view the paintings of Newton Art Association members that are on exhibit at The Mutual Bank for Savings, 40 Austin Street, Newtonville, and at 1188 Centre Street, Newton Centre; and, at the Auburndale Co-operative Bank, 307 Auburn Street, Auburndale.

Pro Musica concert Dec. 12

WEST NEWTON — Youth pro Musica, Greater Boston's concert chorus for young people, will appear in a concert of holiday music on Sunday, Dec. 12 at 4 p.m. at the First Unitarian Society, Rte. 16 in West Newton Square.

The 60-voice chorus of boys and girls ages 9 through 15 from over 20 Boston-area communities–nearly a third of them from Newton--will perform Vierdanck's Weinachtskonzert, a miniature version of the Christmas story with recorders and continuo; along with authentic medieval carols and excerpts from oratorios by Bach, Schutz and Pergolesi.

Other music includes Christmas pieces by Praetorius, Schein and Kodaly a Schonberg canon and Chanukah songs, followed by traditional carols with audience participation.

Directed by Roberta Humez and accompanied by Bara Roth, members of Youth pro Musica will also play flute, recorders, piccolo and percussion in a holiday program reflecting a range of traditions and musical styles.

Youth pro Musica presents eight to twelve concerts each year at concert halls throughout the area, and appears on radio and television. Singers from Youth pro Musica have appeared with the Opera Company of Boston and with the Boston Symphony Orchestra at Tanglewood.

While they enjoy singing challenging music before discerning audiences, Youth pro Musica singers are exposed to repertoire, vocal training and choral discipline in an educational experience signigicant for its impact on members, many of whom go on to participate in choral groups in college and thereafter. Youth pro Musica maintains a select Chamber Chorus for girls of high school age, and a Training Chorus for younger aspiring singers.

Auditions for new chorus members will be held in January, Monday through Friday, afternoons and evenings by appointment. For information call: 237-0465 or 653-1092.

Youth pro Musica members from Newton are:

Joy Densler, Laura Heiss, Jennifer Michel, Benjamin Sloss, Rebecca Cohen, Lucy Rinehart, Tina Rosenthal, Nisha Charkoudian, Jennifer, Holst, Karen Kaufman.

Jennifer Leka, Kim Marquis, Douglas Satran, Jael Wanger, William White, Caitlin O'Connor, Maeve O'Connor, Melanie Armer, Christine Hudgin, Erica Hurwitz.

Thomas Leigh, Melissa Tvirbutas, Gwendolyn Gross, Marcella Fleischman, Robin Jones, Rachel Simon, Sara Stackhouse, Anike Tourse.

Evelyn Perry, Elizabeth Hague, Julie Snowden, Meredith Pearson, Emily Dolbear, Karen Guttentag, Shayna Wachman.

Big Brother / Sister day noted

NEWTON — Mayor Theodore Mann proclaimed Nov. 14 as "Jewish Big Brother/Sister Day" at the agency's annual breakfast held at Temple Emeth in Newton.

In making the proclamation, Mann praised the Jewish Big Brother/Sister Association of Boston for its 63 years of service to the Jewish community.

"Thousands of volunteers big brothers and sisters have the difference in the lives of children who are serviced by the association," Mann said.

Volunteers are men and women, 21-years-old and over, who spend several hours each week with their little brother or sister.

The association is a constituent agency of the Combined Jewish Philanthropies.

Oath planned for new Vets' Council Dec. 8

NEWTON — Judge Monte G. Basbas, chief presiding justice of the Newton District Court, will give the oath of office to the officers of the Newton Veterans' Council when the public installation of officers is held on Wednesday, Dec. 8, 8 p.m., at the Nonantum Post 440 American Legion, California St., Newton.

Mayor Theodore D. Mann will extend the greetings of the city to the officers and council delegates who represent all of Newton's veterans organizations.

Due to be installed as the first president of the new Veterans' Council is Francis Howley of Auburndale who has been active for many years in veterans affairs as well as to have served as Commander of Newton Post 48 American Legion.

Howley, presently an officer with the Newton Fire Department, has also been active at the county and state level of the American Legion. Other officers to be installed include Betty A. Cunningham, Newton Women's Post 410, American Legion, as vice president; Saul Klashman, commander of Chaplain William J. Farrell Chapter 23 of the Disabled American Veterans, as secretary-treasurer; and Philip Geller of Newton Post 211 Jewish War Veterans as sergeant-at-arms.

The Newton Veterans' Council has been in the forming stage since last May and is made up of delegates and alternate delegates representing the seven veterans organization in Newton.

The purpose of the Council will be directed towards the consideration of the welfare of veterans of all wars, to the promotion of city, state and federal legislation that will benefit the veteran and the dependents of veterans, to perpetuate Memorial Day and the solemn observances thereof, to assist, as requested, in the ceremonies of other patriotic observances as well as to serve as a forum for discussion and as a general board for action by member organizations on matters pertaining to veterans.

Along with the officers, who are also delegates to the council, other delegates to be installed include Eugene Cronin and Francis Daly of Newton Post 48, American Legion; Anthony DeMaio, Charles Quirk and Charles Rezzuti of the George D. Carson Post 141, American Legion; Jayne Driscoll and Helen Keefe of Newton Women's Post 410, American Legion; Anthony Salvucci, Roy Harris and Mike Volpe of Nonantum Post 440, American Legion; Henry R. Lever and Arnold S. Brown who will represent Newton Post 211, Jewish War Veterans; Arthur Homsy and Vincent J. DeGironimo of Chaplain William J. Farrell Chapter 23 Disabled American Veterans and Albert Sementelli; and George Sementelli and Edward Costanzo, Italian-American War Veterans Post 50.

The recording secretary is Carleton P. Merrill of Newton Post 48, American Legion. Merrill was appointed to this position by president-elect Howley and serving as a non-delegate due to his position as Veterans' Agent of the City of Newton.

Nick Gentile of Nonantum Post 440, American Legion, is the chairperson of the installation program and advises that invited guests include members of the Newton Board of Aldermen, department heads of the city of Newton, State Representatives Joseph DeNucci, Susan D. Schur and David Cohen, State Senator Jack H. Backman and Governor's Councillor Herbert L. Connolly.

Review of service for children

NEWTON — State legislators say they do not have an accurate picture of the social service needs of Newton children and the state's human services network needs to be reorganized.

"It's hard to make a case for Newton's needs," said State Rep. Susan Schur.

During a meeting last week of The West Suburban Council For Children, Schur said the problem for Newton and other communities is that information concerning children who need social services is scattered throughout numerous state agencies.

She also said Newton needs a central facility that offers various services so people do not have to refer to a different agencies for individual needs.

Schur, State Senator Jack Backman and State Rep. David Cohen met with the council at the Eliot Church to discuss the legislature's priorities for the Office for Children, the state agency which has 45 area councils under it auspices.

Cohen said his foremost priority for the OFC is increasing its budget. He said the OFC is "unique" and its political strength can "put extra money in the budget."

The OFC's political strength is in part a result of its "successful" watchdog role over other children-orientated agencies, the legislators said.

One way of measuring the OFC's effectiveness is by observing how tenaciously others work to abolish it, Cohen said.

The OFC by law is an advocate for children. Along with making sure other agencies are doing their jobs, the office is a referral service. For instance in child abuse cases, workers can help families find help with the appropriate agencies, negotiate financial assistance and follows-up on cases.

United Way tops its fundraising goal

The United Way of Massachusetts Bay has completed its 1982 fundraising drive, breaking its goal of $28.5 million and achieving a record $28,533,176 in pledges, for 100.1 percent of goal.

It is the first time since 1973 that the United Way of Massachusetts Bay has met its goal.

General Campaign Chairman John P. LaWare, chairman of the Shawmut Bank of Boston, told 1,000 campaign volunteers at the Sheraton-Boston Hotel Tuesday evening that the amount pledged reflects a 13 percent increase over the 1981 campaign attainment, for $3,286,797 in new money.

The 13 percent increase is also the highest percentage increase reported among the United Way campaigns of all major cities nationwide.

Leading the campaign in the West Region was Chairman Dr. Arthur J. Schneider, vice president and general manager, Sperry Research Center.

The West Region raised $1,064,085 or 97.7 percent of its goal. Area companies and organizations giving strong support to this year's campaign were Marshall's, Lechemere, Baird Corporation, Unitrode Corporation, and NCR Regional.

Legislation is filed to simplify ballot questions

NEWTON — Legislation to simplify and clarify questions which appear on the ballot will be filed by Rep. A. Joseph DeNucci (D. Newton-Waltham) on behalf of Alan Licarie, executive secretary to the Newton Election Commission.

The bill which DeNucci is submitting to the state legislature would require a one sentence statement following the summary presently on the ballot, and the effect of a yes or no vote to be prepared by the Secretary of State.

"I can say," Licarie commented, "that my 16 years in the Election Department have shown me that referendum questions on the ballot have always been a problem. Often people need a great deal of time to read and understand the question. As a result it lengthens their time in the voting booth, makes the waiting line longer and can tie up a precinct for long periods."

"I believe a one line explanation is something that most people would like to see and would be happy to go along with," Licarie added.

The proposal is the same as current law which requires the Secretary of State to provide a one line sentence in the "Redbook" following the ballot question summary and the proponent and opponent statements. This one line would state the impact of a yes or no vote. The DeNucci-Licarie bill would extend the one-line "Redbook" explanation to the ballot.

DeNucci said, "I believe this is a vital instrument in helping the democratic process work. It will be a valuable tool in assisting voters decide how they wish to cast their vote."

Rep. DeNucci indicated the bill will receive a public hearing before the Election Laws Committee after the 1983 session of the Legislature convenes in January.

Library hosting sculpture show by family duo

NEWTON CORNER — Handmade paper, sculptural as well as two dimensional, created by the mother-daughter team of Elaine and Donna Koretsky will be exhibited in the Newton Free Library Gallery, 414 Centre Street, Newton Corner, December 1 - 30.

A reception for the artists is scheduled for Wednesday, Dec. 1 at 7:30 p.m. at the library.

The women, innovative artists who make paper by hand which they manipulate in various ways, create fascinating art forms. They band, fold, stretch, tear and weave the paper. They dip, form, cast and otherwise manipulate the wet sheets, continually testing the paper's possibilities and limits.

Donna's new work is large and irregular in shape. The forms come out and away from the wall, creating irregular patterns that are full of motion.

Elaine's work, on a much smaller scale, is flat and framed like a painting. She is now working in a square format, repeating squares with slight variations, which gives the work a patchwork, quilt-like appearance.

Elaine and Donna Koretsky are co-founders of the Carriage House Hhandmade Paper Works. Donna's work has been included in many exhibitions including Boston's Society of Arts and Crafts, the San Francisco Museum of Modern Art, Jubilation in Newton, and the Sterling and Francine Clark Art Institute in Williamstown, Mass. Currently Donna is working on a book about papermaking.

In her research on papermaking, particularly in the area of coloring agents for hand papermaking, Elaine has traveled extensively. Elaine has carried out basic field work in a dozen countries to study fiber-types, fiber stripping, pulping, beating and numerous methods of forming sheets of paper.

Main Library hours are Monday - Thursday 9-9; Friday 9-6; Saturday 9-5 and Sunday 1-4. For more information call 552-7145.

2nd annual turkey day held at schools

AUBURNDALE — The second annual Thanksgiving Dinner was held at the Auburndale Community Nursery School and Daycare Center.

Ms. Medlar and Ms. O'Conner's classes made 200 home-made chocolate chip cookies for dessert. One hundred pieces of home-made corn bread were made by Ms. Der Marderosian's four year olds. Ms. Wilson's Transition class used "Grandma's old-fashioned cranberry-orange relish recipe."

The Day Care children made the turkey dressing and all the children helped to cook the turkey.

The children dressed as Pilgrims and Indians and each of the four classes made a special presentation. Dr. Walter Holcomb, invited guest, shared with the children a special grace.

'Windfall' of fund earnings studied for distribution

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Mayor Theodore Mann thinks the more than $300,000 in accumulated earnings from the $1 million Horace Cousen Industrial Fund (HCIF) would be a wonderful "windfall" for Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

"I would love to see Newton-Wellesley Hospital come up with a program to help the deserving poor, or the trustees should come up with a plan for the hospital for handling the excess income," said Mann at last weeks's meeting of the aldermanic subcommittee of the HCIF.

In a previous interview, Newton-Wellesley officials siad they would be more than glad to set up such a program, but they want the city to determine the status of the accumulated funds.

The HCIF, a city fund run by three trustees appointed for life terms by the mayor, has over $300,000 in earnings believed to be in need of distribution, according to the terms of Horace Cousen's will to the city and the subcommittee.

"I don't think we've made a decision what to recommend for the $300,000, but it's an accumulation which first of all shouldn't happen in the future," said Alderwoman Sondra Shick.

Shick said she wasn't particulary "thrilled" with the mayor's idea and if she had her way she would opt for an idea proposed by Alderman Lane Sofman - to set up a city scholarship fund for needy students wanting to go on to college.

Mann wants the money distributed to NWH before a Boston hospital comes in and asks for the money.

"Three hundred thousand dollars is a beautiful windfall and would come at the right time," said Mann.

Cousen's will stipulates if the earnings from the fund are not distributed the excess should go to needy patients in a Newton or Boston hospital.

Shick said she felt there might be more deserving patients at Boston City Hospital.

The mayor said he and then-Deputy Mayor Jane Pitt, now a trustee of the fund, wrestled with the idea of how to distribute earnings from the fund.

Shick believes the trustees have been "conservative" as opposed to "agressive" in distributing the money.

"In talking to people this conservatism is in terms of the kinds of debts they will pay for people," said Shick.

Shick said, she felt the trustees could often make grants, but because of their conservative approach to distributing the money, they don't.

"They are conservative because of the excess they've built up," said Shick.

"I happen to agree with that philosophy of giving money only to those who are most industrious and in need," said Alderman Harold Levinsky.

"That's fine and you may be right," said Shick to Levinsky.

Alderman Sofman who was previously quoted as saying people who filed abatement applications, meant his statement only as an example of extending the eligiblity guidelines of the fund.

He believes grants really revert back to an individual's financial situation and should not be linked to something such as abatement applications.

The subcommittee also focussed its attention on the life terms of the trustees and appeared to agree a more finite term would be more appropriate.

'Partners' aims for sharing with kids

NEWTON — For those first-time parents who want to learn how to play with, and stimulate their two or three year old, or for those parents who want to have this special sharing experience with their child, despite "knowing" what to do, Partners meets the needs of those adults who realize that the special inquisitiveness and curiosity that is the trade-mark of their toddler, is something to celebrate together.

The art and music projects are appropriately designed for parent and chid, and adults are helped in determining realistic goals for home projects and music making.

The program, sponsored by Arts in the Parks of the Newton Recreation Department, meets either Monday or Wednesday morning from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the Newton Lower Falls Community Center, Grove Street. While there are not may openings left for the Jan. 3 to March 21 semester, registration is being accepted for the March 28 to June 6 semester.

When registering, specify whether you want Monday or Wednesday mornings, and send checks for $58 made payable to Arts in the Parks, to the Newton Recreation Department, 70 Crescent Street, Auburndale, 02166. For more information call 552-7120.

Special holiday project planned to help seniors

NEWTON — West Suburban Elder Services, Inc. (WSES) is a private non-profit elderly social service agency serving eight communities including Belmont, Brookline, Needham, Newton, Waltham, Watertown, Wellesley and Weston. WSES provides services to persons 60 and older to help them remain in their own homes and communities in dignity and comfort.

This year the WSES-Elderly Nutrition Program will be coordinating a special project in these eight communities for the Christmas Holiday. We are looking for people who will share their own Christmas dinner with a homebound, elderly person in their community on Christmas Day.

If you are interested in sharing a part of your meal or if you know of someone 60 and older who will be home and alone, please call Anne Baritz at 969-0170 by Wednesday, Dec. 15.

WSES will coordinate the names of people who will be needing a meal with those people who will be sharing a part of their meal.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

CREATIVE HOME FINANCING

If you're in the market for a home of your own, you're probably in the market for a home loan, too. A conventional mortgage is usually the first kind that comes to mind, but other alternatives do exist.

These include • privately insured loans • GI-insured loans • FHA/HUD-insured loans • Farmers Home Administration loans • urban "homestead" loans • "house-to-house" loans • variable interest rate loans • graduated payment mortgages and • HUD's subsidized homeownership program.

To learn about these possibilities, talk to a member of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® before you start looking. REALTORS® are real estate professionals, and terms of financing are part of their expertise. They can tell you what's available in your community, and how you can qualify.

Mayor lobbies for winter help for poor

NEWTON — Mayor Theodore D. Mann, recently returned from an emergency meeting of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, is voicing his concern for the problems being faced by the nation's poor given "the current unemployment situation and predictions of a colder-than-usual winter."

The emergency meeting consisted of lengthy discussion with representatives of major national service organizations across the country, according to Mann.

He added that health and human service officers from eight of the largest U.S. cities participated.

"Judging from the testimony of these national experts, it would appear that 1933 is being revisited by our nation. It has been reported that more than 20 percent of the people in this country are ill-housed, ill-clothed and ill-fed," Mann said.

"What a terrible situation to exist in America!" the chairman of the conference's Subcommittee on Health added. "We take this opportunity to call these conditions to the attention of our national leaders, with the recommendations passed unanimously by our emergency conference."

The recommendations reported by Mann included:

- An increased supply of surplus commodities to soup kitchens and other institutional feeding sites by the Department of Agriculture.
- An emergency appropriation, during the "lame duck" session of Congress, of $500 million for use this winter in cities. Funds would be available to meet emergency needs such as food, shelter, heat, medical care or clothing.
- Immediate consideration by Congress of ways to provide health insurance to recently unemployed people.
- The provision of funds to rehabilitate existing structures as emergency shelters.
- Action in the "lame duck" session of Congress to stimulate job creation at the local level through immediate increases in funding for the repair of public facilities.

Henry S. Pinkham, 82

NEWTON — Henry S. Pinkham, 82, of Copley St., Newton, retired vice president of R.M. Bradley, Inc., a Boston-based real estate firm, died on Nov. 22 in Newton-Wellesley Hospital after a long illness.

Mr. Pinkham had served as the firm's residential broker in the Beacon Hill and back Bay areas for 41 years before retiring in 1977.

His association with the firm stemmed from a friendship begun during World War I with the late Theodore L. Storer, a fellow member of Battery A, 101st Field Artillery, Yankee Division, who went on to become president and chairman of the board of R.M. Bradley, Inc.

A lifelong resident of Newton, Mr. Pinkham was graduated from the Noble and Greenough School in Dedham and from Harvard in 1925.

He was a member of the Longwood Cricket Club and the Longwood Covered Courts Club. He was also a member of the Union Boat Club for 43 years, serving as its treasurer at one point, and of the Beverly Yacht Club.

Mr. Pinkahm had also served on the board of directors of the Harvard Musical Assn. and was a member of the Apollo Club, one of the oldest vocal societies in the country, which, during his illness, made him the only homorary member in its history. Also, he was a member of the Highland Glee Club of Newton and the Saennger Fest.

Mr. Pinkham leaves a sister, Louise Lorimer of Newton and Los Angeles and a cousin, Wallace E. Higgins of Newton.

A memorial service will be held Friday, Dec. 3, at 4 p.m. in Memorial Church, Harvard Yard, Harvard University. Officiating will be Rev. Robert Crist, pastor of the Community Baptist Church, Hebron, Maine, where Mr. Pinkham summered and restored the 1813 homestead of his mother's family.

Francis V. Rice

West Newton native

MARLBOROUGH — Francis V. Rice, 72, of Marlborough, died Thursday in Marlborough Hospital after a lengthy illness.

Born in West Newton, son of the late Francis and Margaret (Hines) Rice, he lived in Marlborough the last 15 years, moving there from Waltham.

He is survived by his wife, Catherine (Clancy) Rice of Marlborough, one son, James K. of Marlborough, four grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

For the last five years, he had been employed by the Waltham Central Co., a transportation company serving special needs children.

Mr. Rice retired in 1973 from the United Car Co. of Burlington as a shipping manager after 25 years of service.

The funeral will be Saturday from the Sullivan-Fitzgerald Funeral Homne, 378 Lincoln St., Marlborough, with a funeral Mass in the Immaculate Conception Church at 9 a.m.

Pilgrims' progress

Josephine M. Dugas, 81

NEWTONVILLE — Josephine M. (Hayes) Dugas of Newtonville died Nov. 22 at St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Brighton after a long illness. She was 81.

Mrs. Dugas was born in Boston, attended Boston schools and later made her home in Newtonville.

An original and long-time employee of Mayflower Furniture Co. of West Newton, she had worked as a bookkeeper and office manager there for 35 years.

She leaves her husband, Joseph A. Dugas, five sisters, Margaret Oliver of Wareham, Irene and Esta Hayes, both of Auburndale, and Edna Dacey of Acton, and a brother, Joseph Hayes of Rockport. She is also survived by several nieces and nephews.

Funeral mass was in Our Lady's Church, Newtonville.

Burial followed in the family lot of St. Joseph's Cemetery in West Roxbury.

Thomas L. Norton

NEWTONVILLE — Thomas L. Norton, 55, died Sunday at Newton-Wellesley Hospital after a brief illness.

Born in Waltham, he worked for 28 years for the City of Newton Forestry Dept.

Mr. Norton was a veteran of the U.S. Army, having serverd in Korea.

He was a member of the Post 2152 V.F.W. of Waltham and the Waltham Elks.

Mr. Norton is survived by his wife Priscilla (Hopkinson), three sons, Steven, Robert and Willliam, and one daughter, Lynda Norton, all of Newtonville, one brother, Frederick Norton of Waltham, and a sister, Mrs. Carol Pansire of Needham.

He is also survived by his mother, Mrs. Castherine Norton of Needham.

The funeral was to be from the Cate and Pratt Funeral Home, 1251 Washington St., West Newton, early today followed by a funeral Mass in Our Lady's Church.

Burial in Calvary Cemetey, Waltham.

Daniel B. Rakov, 50

BOSTON — Funeral services were held November 21 at Temple Israel, Longwood Avenue and Plymouth St., Boston, for Boston attorney Daniel B. Rakov.

Mr. Rakov, 50, of 11 Grayson Lane, Newton Lower Falls, died on Friday, Nov. 19 as a result of a spinal cord fracture received in a swimming accident on August 1 of this year in Nantucket.

Born in Boston, Mr. Rakov attended the Newton Public Schools and was a 1954 graduate of Harvard University and received his J.D. from the University of Pennsylvania in 1960. From 1960-1961 he was an attorney with the Federal Communication Commission and from 1962 to the present was a partner in the Boston law firm of Rappaport and Rakov. For a number of years he taught at Northeastern University as a Real Estate attorney.

During World War two he served in the US Army as a medical technician in Orleans, France from 1954-1956.

Very active in Newton politics, Mr. Rakov was on the Mayors Transportation advisory committee, a Democratic Ward Committee member, a past president of the Newton Lower Falls improvement association, a past president of the Hamilton School P.T.A. and was an unsuccessful candidate for Newton Alderman in 1969. He was also a member of Temple Israel, Boston.

He is survived by his wife Lucy (Simon), two daughters, Susan and Victoria, and a son, Simon, all of Newton. He also leaves a brother, David Rakov, of Springfield, Illinois.

Louise DiDonato, 78

NEWTON — Louise (Bucchiacchio) DiDonato, 78, died Sunday at Newton-Wellesley Hospital after a lengthy ilness.

Born in Abruzzi, Italy, she had been a Newton resident for over 55 years.

She was the widow of the late Francesco DiDonato and is surivved by two daughters, Mrs. William (Betty) Murphy and Mrs. Elio (Connie) Tempesta, both of West Newton and a son, Samuel DiDonato of Milford.

She was predeceased by one son, Robert and a brother, Paul Bucchiacchio.

Mrs. DiDonato was also survived by a sister, Lucia DiPaolo of Southbridge, one brother, Angelo Bucchiacchio of Italy, as well as nine grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held on Thursday at 9:15 a.m. from the Andrew J. Magni Funeral Home, 365 Watertown St., Newton, followed by a funeral mass in Sacred Heart Church in Newton Centre at 10.

Mrs. Sullivan was a life-long resident of Newton, having lived in the same house her entire life.

She worked in the production department of the United Drug Co. for 38 years.

She was the wife of the late Harry Sullivan, and the sister of the late Katherine Doherty and William Hurley, and is survived by a niece, Joan Hurley Rogers of Mission Viejo, Calif.

Funeral serices were held in Sacred Heart Church in Newton Centre.

Burial was in the family lot of Mt. Benedict Cemetery, West Roxbury.

But people at the New England Auto Show somehow didn't take the school's effort seriously and most of the more than 100 bids received turned out to be fictitious.

According to the school's Director of Public Relations, Karen Jacobs, people interested in bidding for the car (with a minimum bid of $5,000) are asked to call her at the school between 8 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Monday through Friday at 965-0764.

The money will go to the school's automotive program to expand the small automotive shop and to buy more equipment. This is the first year of the automotive program for the school at 1507 Washington St.

Against 'quad' condos

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — Residents of Winchester Street opposed to zoning changes in their neighborhood to allow for eight "quadraplex" apartment buildings have retained a lawyer and are considering a court challenge, if necessary.

The apartment buildings, proposed by developer Jack Antaramian, would be shaped like a cross and located near wetlands, according to Alderwoman Marcy Richmond of Ward 8.

Last weekend 23 residents met to plan a course of action and voted to retain attorney David Mofenson to represent them.

The group calls itself the Countryside Neighborhood Preservation Committee because the area is one of the last wooded areas of the city, according to spokesman Allan Ross.

"We don't oppose developments on the site, we oppose any dramatic zone changes or additions that are obviously in contrast to the character of the neighborhood," said Ross.

Richmond says if the neighbors are unified in their opposition to the zoning changes to allow for the "quadraplex" to be constructed she hopes they will collect the needed signatures to require a three-fourths vote by the aldermen for approval.

"These are two-story quadraplex condominiums that look like crosses, they have four arms (each being one unit) and they are the least desirable form of condominium," said Ross.

Attorney Mofenson said he plans to work with the neighbors, but had no comment at this time.

Antaramian was out of town for a few days, but his associate, former Department of Public Works head Charles Thomas, said he would talk about the plan, but he was unavailable at press time.

"They want to plunk something completely foreign to the neighborhood, between existing single-family homes," said Ross.

The elevation of the 534,325 lot in question is between a 120 feet to 112 feet, according to plans from Barnes Engineering.

According to the planning office, wetlands are considered to exist at 112 feet.

Wetland constitutes more than half of the lot, accounting for 293,372 square feet, according to the Barnes Engineering plan.

"No reasonable person would accept this kind of incursion. If it can happen here it can happen anywhere in the city," said Ross.

A public hearing on the matter will be held on December 14, at 7:45 p.m. in City Hall.

Lost: One 6-foot bruin

NONANTUM — Be on the lookout for a six-foot brown bear wearing a Santa Claus suit.

The bruin, a stuffed animal, is not considered the least bit dangerous but it may be the one stolen recently from Deborah Feldman, owner of Harpsichord Industries, a tailor shop in Nonantum.

Feldman said she was planning to use the bear, owned by a Boston store, as a model for tiny bear uniforms she is making for a Quincy Market shop.

She put the six-foot stuffed bear in her car a week ago but when she returned to her Revere home she

City retains good credit

By Stephen Capoccia

NEWTON — In spite of the eroding effect Proposition 2½ has on government finances, the city has retained its AAA bond rating, the highest given to any city in the state by Moody's Investment Service.

The rating will make Newton's bonds sought after by investors looking for tax free income, according to State Street Bank Assistant Vice President Jerry Haley.

Mayor Theodore Mann said the city will sell $7.5 million worth of the bonds this week to fund drainage work, install outside water meters, conserve energy, remove asbestos from Newton North High School, school remodeling and sewer systems.

"I am delighted that even with the rigors of Proposition 2½ and the difficulties experienced with revaluation, the financial management of our city has received this kind of recognition from the financial community," said Mann at a press conference Monday.

Part of the reason for the high rating is the city's small debt of $5 million, considering it has an allowable legal debt limit of $87 million, according to Mann.

The mayor said "hard choices" made by city management also contributed to the city holding on to the AAA rating, first given to Newton in 1974.

"It was an acid test for the hard calls we've made in the city," said

Kids' annual Christmas party Dec. 12

NONANTUM — The 83rd annual children's Christmas party will be held this year Dec. 12, preceded by a parade from Hawthorn Park.

The party, sponsored each year by the Nonantum Children's Christmas Party Association, a non-profit group, was started in 1879 by the Honorable Edwin O. Childs and since then it has drawn interest from thousands of children and parents in the area.

The big event will start with a parade from Hawthorn Park at noon, with the party beginning after Santa's arrival by helicopter at American Legion Post 440, 295 California St., at 1:30 p.m.

The party is open to children from toddler size through the age of nine.

The parade will include floats, bands, pixies, clowns, Santa and his helpers.

After Santa's arrival the party gets underway in the Legion post, and parents are asked to wait outside the building.

Inside will be a scene of festive music, games and prizes and after the party toy bags will be given out to the different age groups of boys and girls. The Christmas Party Association members have, in the past, distributed presents to as many as 3,000 children.

Another feature of the activity in Nonantum became evident last week when the huge 18-foot Santa Claus was erected in Colleti-Magni PFark by the Association with help from city workers.

The towering Santa looms over the mailbox which children are encouraged to use to send their Christmas mail off to the North Pole.

Santa and his staff will answer the letters but they must bear a return address.

The Nonantum Children's Christmas Party Association relies not only on donations for its projects but for help from many volunteers, merchants and local organizations.

If you wish to donate write Box 12, Nonantum, 02195. All donations will be acknowledged.

Holiday fare now in the air

NEWTON — 'Tis the season as people of all faiths prepare for dozens of church, temple and social festivities to mark the holidays.

Hanukkah begins at sundown Friday and in other corners of the Garden City the Christmas spirit is in full swing.

Thousands of children, who may have already spied the 18-foot Santa Claus and North Pole mailbox at Colleti-Magni Park in Nonantum, are getting ready for the annual Christmas party and parade Sunday.

So in spite of unusually warm (and not-so-seasonal) weather, the following is a cross-section of other holiday offerings in the coming weeks.

FOR MUSIC LOVERS — Musical offerings in the Garden City will be highlighted this year by a free concert Sunday, Dec. 12 by the Newton Symphony Orchestra at The Mall at Chestnut Hill. Doors will open at 11:30 a.m. to the noontime concert.

Musical Director Ronald Knudsen will raise his baton to lead the NSO in the concert of Hanukkah and Christmas music, including works by Handel, Corelli, Mozart, Vaughn Williams and LeRoy Anderson.

Also on Sunday, an early music consort, "Much Ado," presents its annual Christmas concert in the Newton Highlands Congregational Church, 54 Lincoln Street, at 7:30 p.m.

The program, entitled "A German Christmas," features Advent and Christmas music from Renaissance Germany.

Also on Sunday Youth pro Musica, under the direction of Roberta Humez, performs in a free concert in the First Unitarian Society of West Newton at 4 p.m.

Music includes selections by Bach, Schutz and Kodaly, with a carol sing for all.

The choruses of the Newton Country Day School of the Sacred Heart, located on Centre Street, perform traditional Christmas music in the chapel Wednesday,

School officials: No 'epidemic' but head lice exist

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

"Your child was sent home today because he or she was found to have head lice. This is an easily treated condition that is generally not associated with any serious medical complications."

NEWTON — Over 100 Newton parents received that message from their child's elementary school so far this year as Newton continues to be plagued by pesky head lice.

Head lice have been a growing problem for Newton's elementary schools for about four years. Communities both next door and across the nation and have also seen an increase in cases of head lice.

Health officials say 109 cases have been reported in the Newton elementary schools this year.

Although head lice can be treated fairly simply, the highly communicable and "epidemic" nature of the problem in Newton's elementary schools has a group of parents at Oak Hill School fed up.

Debbie Altschuler, an Oak Hill parent whose child has had four cases of head lice already this school year, calls the problem an "epidemic." School and health officials, she says, "are not even calling it (head lice) a problem, much less an epidemic."

Of great concern to Altschuler is the use of the special shampoos for treatment of head lice which contain an insecticide. If the problem were being handled with greater control, Altschuler feels there would be no reason for children to be treated more than once.

Joan York, coordinator of Child Health with the Newton Health Department, works with Newton's elementary schools and says the head lice problem is "not an epidemic."

Last year 280 cases of head lice were reported which was a reduction from the previous year, York says.

A group of parents at Oak Hill Elementary are not convinced.

"We are suspicious of those numbers," Altschuler says. "The numbers just don't come up the same, even in terms of our own neighborhoods." Altschuler and other Oak Hill parents met Tuesday morning to discuss the problem and have come up with a "statement of purpose" which calls the "denials of lice infestation in our schools along with a passive attitude on the part of health officials, in general, means repeated insults of lindane (the insecticide in the shampoos) to our children and to ourselves."

Dr. Don Fraser, director of the Drug Information Service of the Mass. College of Pharmacy, backs up some of Altschuler's concerns about repeated use of the treatment shampoos.

Fraser says the chemical which kills the lice – lindane – can be "somewhat toxic" if used improperly. For instance, Fraser says lindane can be absorbed systemically through the skin and children could be exposed to "too high a concentration" if treated at "too frequent an interval."

Pregnant women should wear rubber gloves, Fraser advises, if they are shampooing several people in a family who have head lice.

Fraser also notes that there have been reports in this country of parents putting children in a bath with lindane or washing them with it and then not thoroughly washing the lotion off. A March 15, 1982 article in the Canadian Medical Journal told of a child who had gone into

Steaks for 500? Take heart

Local chef says holiday cooking can be breeze

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Stuffed shrimp for 1,000? Ever serve steaks for 500? Do you consider handling eight or more dinner parties in one night a breeze?

Such entertaining, even during the busy holiday season, comes easily to West Newton resident Michael Minerd, who at 39 is the executive chef of Newton's Marriott.

Minerd has been entertaining at this pace and scale for years at the Marriott, where he first started as an assistant food production manager in 1969. His routine today includes the overall managing of the hotel's three restaurants and planning menus and preparing for numerous banquets and catered parties.

Minerd also manages the hotel's staff cafeteria, food inventory and staff of 45 chefs and food production personnel.

Minerd handles all this without looking worse for the wear. The small hole in the top of his chef's hat, he jokes, is there to let the steam off when things go wrong, but the genial, blue-eyed head chef seems unfazed by all the hustle and bustle which surrounds him on the job.

It's a business, he says, where "you have to be flexible and roll with the punches everyday."

Another aspect of the job, which many people forget, is that in the restaurant business, "you have to get accustomed to working when other people are really enjoying life."

"So you really have to love it," Minerd stresses.

Minerd defies the image of the plump chef. Managing the restaurants, several kitchens, and a loading area which span four floors is one secret to his trim build, he says.

Like many chefs who are adept at creating meals for large numbers of people, Minerd first learned to cook for an army...in the army.

As a mess sargeant, he worked in a cafeteria which served about 2,000 people for each of three square meals a day. It was up at 3 a.m. to fix breakfast and Minerd didn't get off the job each day until 3 p.m.

"It was quite a challenge," Minerd says of those days when his creations were slopped directly onto stainless steel food trays with built-in dividers.

But even under those conditions, it wasn't long before Minerd was snatched up to work as one of two personal chefs to the commanding general of the 8th Infantry Division.

The general "entertained quite a bit," Minerd says and kept his two chefs busy preparing and planning sumptuous feasts for large parties.

While it seemed a plum of a job for a career-minded chef, the job had its tense moments.

Like the time the two chefs wheeled out a crepes suzette dish meant to dazzle guests when the brandied dish was set on fire. Instead of the intended spectacular effect, the dish ended up frazzling a hanging plant which the chefs had noticed - too late - was positioned perilously above.

As the flames shot up and engulfed the plant, Minerd recalls with a laugh, "I suddenly saw my whole career go in front of me."

Luckily, guests were engrossed in conversation and the chefs managed to quickly extinguish the fire.

A graduate of the Culinary Institute of America, which is now in Hyde Park, N.Y., Minerd has advice for people interested in careers as head chefs – learn all aspects of the job, including dishwashing.

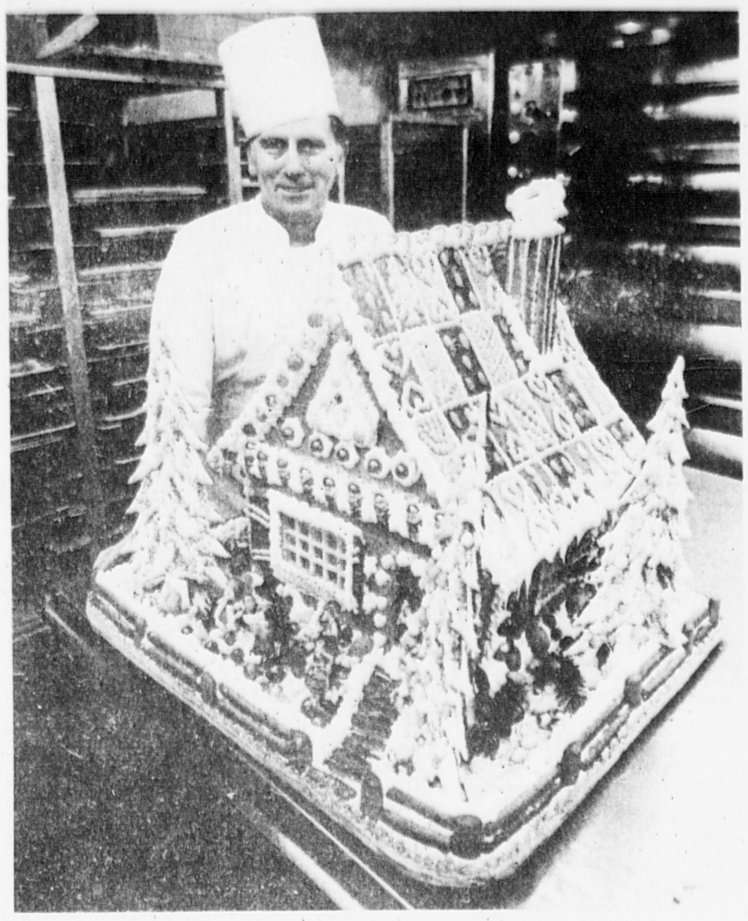
"You have to have that general knowledge in order to understand the problems of your people," he stresses. And when it snows one foot deep and someone can't make it to work on time, "you have to know their jobs in order to pitch in."

Minerd is proud of a reputation for good food he feels he has helped build at the Marriott. At home, however, he admits that most of the cooking is done by his wife, Linda.

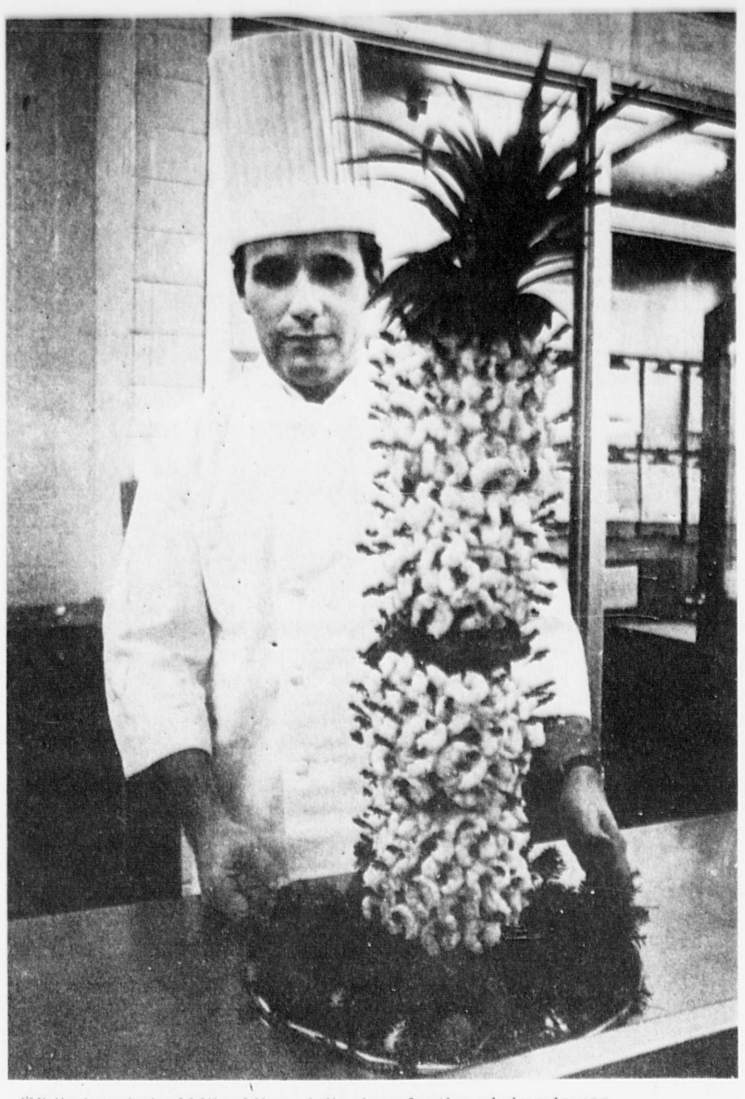
Of their two children, Mark and Merridith, Minerd says his wife gets a lot of help from Mark, who is six-years-old.

"As soon as my wife is in the kitchen, he's in there helping her," Minerd says.

As the holidays and holiday entertaining gather momentum, Minerd offers some dishes and hors d'oeuvres which are not time-consuming, but are tasty and festive.



Pastry chef Jens Feddersen shows off a more complex creation.



While head chef Mike Minerd displays festive shrimp tower.

Minerd suggests some of the following hors d'oeuvres for "working people who don't have a lot of time" to spend in the kitchen.

One of Minerd's dishes which will make a splash at a holiday party is "Teriyaki Ribs." To make this dish, the following ingredients are needed:

4 lbs. (2 racks) spareribs
1 cup chicken stock
½ cup soy sauce
½ cup honey
½ cup white vinegar
2 garlic cloves, minced
1 tblspn. fresh grated ginger

Remove the backbone from each rach and saw racks horizontally into 2 portions, each about 3 inches wide. Parboil and let cool.

Combine remaining ingredients. Place ribs in large pan or dish, spoon marinade over, cover and refrigerate 3 hours or overnight, basting occasionally.

Grill, or lace on spit accordion-style, and roast about 45 min., basting frequently. Ribs may also be baked in 350 degree oven for 45 minutes. Yields 6-8 appetizer servings which can be served with a Chinese mustard sauce or the Chinese plum sauce below.

To make the plum sauce, combine 1 cup plum preserves, 1/3 cup dry sherry, ½ tsp. of ground cloves, anise and fennel in a blender or food processor. Add ½ cup dry mustard, a little at a time, blending well until sauce is as hot and spicy as desired. (Longer blending makes it hotter).

A treat which is colorful, tasty and will be appreciated by fresh vegetable lovers is "Holiday Peppers with Dill Dip."

To make this hors d'oeuvre combine:

2 cups mayonnaise
½ cup sour cream
2 tblspn. Dijon mustard
2 tblspn. fresh dill
2 tspn. fresh lemon juice sweet red peppers green bell pepers cherry tomatoes
cucumber spears

Combine mayonnaise, sour cream, mustard, dill and lemon juice and chill thoroughly. Just prior to serving, transfer to glass bowl. Arrange into edge of dip, in alternating colors, ½ inch strips of red and green peppers. Garnish with fresh dill.

Serve with separate bowls of other vegetables, plus additional strips of peppers, if desired. Serves approximately 25.

A real quickie which guests will gobble up is "Zucchini Pizzas."

To make this recipe, start with large zucchini, cut into slices 1/4 inch thick. Be sure to preheat broiler, placing rack about 5 inches from heat.

Lightly salt each slice of zucchini and, in order given, place 1 tblspn. pizza sauce, 1 tspn. chopped black olives, 1 tspn. minced green onion, 2 tblspn. grated mozzarella, monterey jack or other white cheese.

Place on baking sheet and broil until cheese is melted and bubbly, about 4-5 minutes. (Zucchini should be crisp.) Servings depend on number of zucchini.

Planning Board hears from the public tonight

NEWTON — The city's Planning and Development Board will hold a public hearing tonight at 7:30 in the small auditorium of Newton North, to provide residents an opportunity to comment on the board's past performance and on projects planned for FY84.

The projects planned for the coming year are to be funded by the federal Community Development Block Grant Program (CDBG). New CDBG funds anticipated for the FY84 program are estimated at $2,099,000, according to the Planning and Development Board.

The board also anticipates income from the Newton Housing Rehabilitation Loan Program and looks forward to this money, approximately $20,000, being available for housing rehabilitation loans.

Activities considered eligible for funding under the CDBG program include improvements to public facilities such as streets, parks and playgrounds, the removal of architectural barriers to the handicapped, housing rehabilitation, the development of low and moderate income housing, support to human services, historic preservation and the support of non-profit neighborhood organizations.

To be funded, these activities must be targeted directly at low and moderate income individuals and neighborhoods, according to the board.

Input from the public hearing will be included in the board's recommendations to the mayor.

Hanukkah, Christmas offerings announced

Dec. 15 at 7:30 p.m. Beverly Jacques will direct the performance.

Featured will be the seventh and eighth grade chorus, the Glee Club and the upper-school chorus.

Selections in the free concert include a choral arrangement of "What child is this?" with solos by Katherine Dunton and Sarah Graving, and Bach's "Jesu, joy of man's desiring" accompanied by Sally Rumsey, flutist, and Vivian Handis, piano.

The evening will conclude with audience participation in familiar Christmas carols.

FOR SENIORS — The Newtonville Senior Drop-in Center at 345 Walnut Street hosts its annual Holiday Celebration Tuesday, Dec. 14 at 1:15 p.m. Refreshments and holiday songs (and maybe a visit from Santa Claus) are some of the planned festivities.

An Ecumenical Experience with Father Anthony Moore and Rabbi David Whiman is planned for Wednesday, Dec. 15 at 9:30 a.m. in the Newton Community service Center, 492 Waltham Street, West Newton.

Call Ellie Duntin at 332-3831 for more details.

On Thursday the Newton Corner Senior Drop-in Center, 191 Pearl Street, will hold its holiday party. The festivities start at 1 p.m. with refreshments.

And on Friday at 1 p.m. the Beethovan Senior Drop-in Center, located in the Zervas School in Waban, holds its special Christmas/Hanukka party. There will be a festive atmosphere and refreshments.

TO HELP OTHERS — At least two local projects are underway to lend a hand to the less fortunate during the holiday season.

West Suburban Elder Services, Inc. is coordinating a special program in which people able to share their Christmas dinners with a homebound, elderly person in the community are being sought.

If you are interested in sharing part of your meal or if you know of someone 60 or older who will be home, and alone, on Christmas, call Anne Bartiz at 969-0170.

Also this year the Christmas Service Committee is inviting everyone to donate to help needy individuals and families over the holiday season.

The committee, which has been running since the 1930s under the Newton Community Council, Newton Federation of Women's Clubs and Church Women United of Newton, contacts schools, churchs and social service agencies to find the names of those in Newton who may need help.

This is a Newton project for Newton residents. If you can donate make checks payable to Christmas Service Committee, 26 Sterling Street, West Newton, 02165.

FOR THE FUN OF IT — The Greek Evangelical Church, Centre and Homer Streets, Newton Centre, is hosting a Christmas Bazaar December 9-11 and 16-18 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Handmade decorations, gifts and Greek pastries will be featured.

A "Festival of Lights" with Paula Klimek, will be featured at Interface, 230 Central Street, Friday, Dec. 10 starting at 8 p.m. Call 964-0500.

Congregational Mishkan Tefila sponsors a Hanukkah and Maccabiah event, featuring local medal-winning athletes, 11th Maccabiah Game films, door prizes and refreshments, on Sunday, Dec. 12.

The events run from 1 to 5 p.m. at the temple, 300 Hammond Pond Parkway. Call 332-7770.

TO GET THE SPIRIT — And finally, to get the proper holiday spirit, at least two local groups are selling Christmas trees. On Friday from 1:30-5 p.m.; Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.; and Sunday from 10-3 the Newton Country Day School holds its annual fund-raising Christmas tree sale. The school is located at 785 Centre Street.

And the Nonantum Multi-Service Center, 48 Silver Lake Avenue, is selling Christmas trees from Nova Scotia, to benefit the senior citizen programs, from 2-7 weekdays and 10-7 weekends.

Call 965-6390 if you need directions.

discovered the bruin was too big to carry up the stairs.

She left the bear in the auto and that night it was stolen.

"We don't care who took it," Feldman said last week. "We just ask that it be put in a cab and sent to Harpsichord Industries."

The bear could also be sent back to its original home, the Bear Necessities, 21 Merchant Road, Boston.

If the bear is returned, Feldman said, she will send a similar Santa Claus bear to worthy children's facility in Boston.

Grand jury indicts Jordan Marsh exec

CAMBRIDGE — A 42-year old Jordan Marsh executive at the company's Auburndale accounting facility has been indicted by a Middlesex County grand jury for industrial larceny in connection with an alleged solicitation of a bribe from a computer consultant.

Charged by the grand jury with one count of industrial larceny, Edward Buckley, of 64 Main St., Stoneham, is expected to be arraigned in Middlesex Superior Court within the next two weeks. Buckley was working as Jordan Marsh's data processing director at the Auburndale facility at the time of the alleged offense.

According to the indictment the offense occurred between Nov. 1 and Nov 9, 1982 in Newton.

Jordan Marsh Vice Preesident Leon Slaton declined to comment on the indictment when reached by telephone. Slaton, however, said Jordan Marsh officials cooperated with law enforcement agents in the investigation.

Allegedly, Buckley solicited a monetary bribe from Robert I. Kahn, as Newton computer consultant and president of ARKAY Computer Inc., and promised in return a computer contract with the Jordan Marsh computer.

Newton Police reported that Buckley was arrested at the Leo J. Martin Golf Course in Weston following a two-week investigation headed by Det. James Cox.

State League meets in Newton next Wednesday

NEWTON CENTRE — Norma Shapiro, state legislative director of the League of Women Voters of Massachusetts, will be the keynote speaker at a regional League state program planning meeting on Wednesday, Dec. 15.

The meeting starts at 6 p.m. at the First Baptist Church in Newton Centre.

Representatives from eight area Leagues of Women Voters will gather to hear Shapiro critique State League positions and to plan future areas of study for Leagues across the state.

The dinner meeting is hosted by the Newton League.

For information, call 969-2051 or 332-8021.

Greek Church Bazaar planned

Greek Evangelical Church, Centre and Homer Street, Newton Centre, hosts its Christmas Bazaar from Dec. 9-11 and 16-18. Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. with handmade decorations, gifts and Greek pastries. Free admission. Call 332-0978.

(Part 4)
6. A WONDERFUL LIFE IMPARTED TO OTHERS
The sixth thing revealed in the Gospels is that by death and resurrection, LIFE is imparted to others. He imparted Himself to us for a purpose—to: (1) meet all our needs and (2) fulfill all the requirements of the Kingdom. While He was here on earth, divine life in His human nature was expressed to conquer the enemy and to express God . . . and to meet all the needs of man. After this, Jesus Christ went into death and resurrection in order that He might impart this life He had lived to all of us. Then we, in turn, can conquer the enemy and express God through His life in us. Matthew, Mark, and Luke give us the requirements of the Kingdom, and John shows us the life that fulfills these requirements. John's Gospel shows us further how this life could be imparted to us by His death and resurrection.
7. MAN BROUGHT INTO GOD
Jesus Christ's incarnation brought God into man. Now by His death, resurrection and ascension, He brought Man into God. By death and resurrection, the spirit of Christ is manifest in two ways. The Spirit of Christ is breathed into the disciples for life (John 20:22); and the Spirit of Christ is brought down upon man for power (Luke 24:49; Acts 2:1-3). When this happens, man has been brought totally into God: he is indwelt by God, and clothed upon with God, so he is in total oneness with God!
When Christ came to earth, there was God in man . . . a Man with God in Him. After death, resurrection, and ascension, there is a now a Man in the heavens! Now God has man in Him! Man's nature is now in God. This great event accomplished God's very desire, for the mingling is made complete. And this is God's great desire. God is in man; man is in God. Through Christ WE are in God, in the heavens! Through the Son, God the Father is in us on the earth. Where God is there we are, and where we are, there God is. These are the Gospels!

A welcome policy

School Superintendent John Strand has opened the doors to both the public and the School Committee.

With the recent public interviews by the committee of finalists for the principalship of the Horace Mann School, Strand signalled his intention to keep things in the public eye, allowing for better understanding by the public of the process of school administration.

Strand deserves praise for his openness and apparent wish to keep the public informed. He stands in contrast to former Superintendent Aaron Fink who, even in his final months, continued a tradition of simply recommending a single candidate for a principalship and then waiting for the expected School Committee ratification.

The public interviews of two principal finalists by the School Committee last week represented a major policy shift - one which we welcome.

While it is the committee's job to hire a new superintendent, it is, by law, the superintendent's responsibility to recommend to the committee his or her choice for all other positions. Former Superintendent Fink believed the School Committee could become adequately involved in the selection process by attending screening committee meetings with candidates.

The new shift in policy by Dr. Strand welcomes public scrutiny, input, interest and support. By bringing the School Committee directly into the interview process, and by opening the interviews to the public, Strand has made a major step.

It is a step which should produce good will and increase public confidence in the school system.

Murder by injection

They put Charlie Brooks to sleep just after midnight Monday.

Brooks, a convicted killer, became the first prisoner in this country to die by lethal injection.

Brooks "died so peacefully," according to an Islamic minister who shared the condemned man's final hours.

Prison officials strapped Brooks to a white-sheeted gurney, his right arm taped to a board protruding from the side of the bed. He died quietly and, presumably, within minutes after the lethal drug injection began trickling into his veins.

Advocates of capital punishment are probably praising the headlines this week about Brooks "peaceful" demise. For, after all, this man who committed a violent crime, and took another's life, went quietly to the grave. No mess. No fuss.

Death by lethal injection is one proposal before the State Legislature at present. And it appears since Massachusetts voters came out in favor of the death penalty, the argument is no longer whether condemned killers will die but how the execution will be done.

This injection method should catch on. No waste of electricity. No dangerous gasses. No outcries over "barbaric" practices.

The state may at last have found its "acceptable" way to commit murder.

Work-to-rule? not here

By Scott Gordon

"I don't think there is any way of measuring the influence of the walkout, but it definitely influenced both the teachers and the School Committee, and was clearly a factor in their settlement. It demonstrated, in a different way than had been demonstrated before, that the students were upset with work-to-rule, and that they wanted the contract dispute resolved."
Michael Wishnie

Work-to-rule is dead; long live cooperation.

I confess to a broad smile when I heard that the work-to-rule contract dispute between the Newton Teachers' Association and the city of Newton was close to a settlement, a settlement that should come soon. Many others are smiling, shouting, too, upon hearing the news. The buzzing in the cafeteria, courtyard, gym, parking lots, commons rooms, offices, halls, bathrooms and classrooms at Newton South was about little else.

There were many loud voices, saluting the organization and management of the complicated affair of the walkout from school, the march to City Hall, and the attendance at the School Committee meeting - a series of events which apparently led to a quicker settlement.

Some of these voices are louder than others, and mask the voices that deserve to be heard.

One voice that deserves to be heard is Mike Wishnie's because, if nothing else, his statements are lessons in clarity and directness, while also being points as valid as any.

Another voice that should be heard (and always will, I suspect) is that of Joshua Davis:

"The reason work-to-rule happened this time is that, from the teacher's standpoint, it worked last time. They seem to think this settlement is an equitable one. Therefore, it appears that work-to-rule worked again. It would also appear that this settlement will cement the opinions of the teachers' union, making work-to-rule no longer an act of desparation, but a regular action, taken any time the contract seems jeopardized."

I agree with Josh, and while I don't think work-to-rule will become commonplace I do think it might develop again. Though I will not, nor will any of my friends, be present, future students of Newton South will experience the same frustration and helplessness that I felt.

Should education be used as bargaining leverage? Of course not. If there is another contract dispute, it should be fought outside the schools, at the bargaining table.

I recall my doubts about the walkout when it was first proposed, and I'll wager others had doubts too. I worried that not enough people would walk out and I worried that those who did would not walk to City Hall.

I thought the School Committee meeting would be empty. I feared that the students of Newton South cared, but not enough to act.

Should education be used as bargaining leverage, by either side? Of course not. If there is another contract dispute, it should be fought outside the schools, at the bargaining table.

I realize now that I was wrong, and that a walkout was exactly what was needed in the situation.

For the walkout to be successful two things were needed: organization and leadership. South had both, in the persons of Mike Wishnie and Josh Davis, and the students responded better than anyone could have hoped.

The organization was Mike's and the leadership belonged to Josh.

Mike worked behind the scenes, and without him the walkout could not have succeeded. Josh was the leader once the walkout began, bullhorn in hand, shouting directions and encouragement.

The only worry I have now is the bad aftertaste that work-to-rule has left in the collective mouth of Newton South.

I heard some things at the gathering at City Hall and at the School Committee meeting that had better be forgotten now, because they have no place in a post-work-to-rule environment.

A few weeks ago, on a beautiful Saturday afternoon, I had an urge to visit Walden Pond. I called a friend and he and his dog joined me on the trip.

We parked the car and we walked around Walden, checking in on the site of Thoreau's hut, now a pile of stones left in his memory.

There was a light breeze; the leaves fell rapidly, covering everyone with colorful foliage.

We walked through the woods, following the dog, slipping down some slopes, climbing up others and walking to the edge of the pond. It was a good way to spend a sunny Saturday and I would certainly do it again.

I don't know why I went to Walden but I do know it is a tribute to my teachers that I travelled to the pond instead of spending the afternoon watching television.

My teachers have always been able to make things interesting and able to make me do more than required - to do more reading and to ask more questions. Under work-to-rule there is no encouragement to do more - not on the part of the teacher or the student.

Newton has always had a fine reputation for its educational system and work-to-rule is not worthy of that system.

Happy birthday to...

Totalling toys for tots

With First Lady Nancy Reagan as this year's honorary national chairperson, the 35th annual Marine Corps Reserve Toys for Tots Campaign got underway last week.

Brigham's is helping to collect new, unwrapped toys for children who might otherwise be forgotten at Christmas. If you can lend a hand to the Corps and the kids, drop your toys off at the Brigham's at 2050 Commonwealth Avenue, Auburndale, and the Chestnut Hill Brigham's at 11 Boylston Street.

For your efforts you will be treated to a free small ice cream cone or a Coke.

The birthday boy

In the aging gracefully category this week, we're told that Lieutenant Governor-elect John Kerry of Newton is turning 39 and will show up to celebrate at Jimmy's Allenhurst in Danvers Dec. 10.

Our source on birthdays also noted that Peabody Democratic Committee Chairman Ruth Barrell and Peabody Mayor Peter Torigian will be on hand, as well as a number of North Shore notables.

No report on whether representatives from the GOP are invited.

Concerned about apathy

To the editor;

I find citizen apathy appalling in Newton. I would like to expound on two public quotes on or about Sept. 1, 1982.

The first by Alderman Richard McGrath, concerning the demolition of a block of buildings in Newton Corner. Alderman McGrath said, "Become political activists and the words on these walls will live, otherwise they'll be knocked down by the wrecker's ball. There is hope. I see the seedlings of political activism."

The second public quote at the same time by John Rogers, president of Save our Homes Two: "The easy route is always to blame a faceless them for our deficiencies when the truth is that if we do not take a part loudly and often we get what we deserve: a faceless, isolated and unresponsive political system."

It appears to me that unless something is about to be planted right in your own backyard, you the citizen do nothing constructive to help change policy that will be of possible detriment to the City and ultimately you as a citizen.

Many people say that politics is not their thing and I say fine, but then don't complain to your neighbors and friends about the way your tax dollar is spent. How many of you have telephoned or written to your alderman or mayor to express your views on a given issue that you feel strongly about? As a case in point, the mayor decided not to implement the Real Estate Residential Tax Exemption Program. He was flooded with calls and letters against it and received 2 or 3 calls supporting the petitions so aptly worked out by Alderman Michael Malec. When this became known many of the 57% of the City of Newton that would have benefited by it was upset. Who's to blame?

A visit to the Clerk's Office at City Hall with a polite request will get you a list of all the alderman's names, addresses and phone numbers, plus a list of committees they serve on.

There are two full board meetings a month with many Committee meetings in-between. These are open meetings and free!

This is when they decide how to spend your money. You cannot put all the blame on your elected officials when you are too apathetic to care. How can you make an intelligent decision at the polls if you don't even know who your aldermen are? (or how they vote on different issues?)

We all lead busy lives and these are hard times we are facing, but in order to make government work and serve the people we must begin to participate in decision making before it's too late.

On excommunication...

He backs court's authority

To the editor;

I would like to respond to the headline article ("Rabbis critical of 'excommunication'") from the November 24 edition of the Newton Graphic.

I actually attended the Excommunication Ceremony which Rabbi Antelman and his court conducted in Tewksbury on Sunday, November 21. Additionally, I speak as a person who is familiar with the intent and the result of Excommunication, both in Roman Catholicism and Judaism.

What is excommunication? Your article quoted Rabbi Yellin as Congregation Mishkan Tefila as saying, "Only G-d can excommunicate," which implies that R. Antelman's court of itself has no intrinsic ability and authority to determine for G-d and in G-d's Name that a given person henceforth is beyond the Grace and Redemption of G-d Almighty.

This is true, and even R. Antelman said as much at the ceremony So if one were to ask what his court was doing, the answer is this: Public Notification. In other words, according to the standards of the court, the accused individuals already excommunicated themselves through their own actions.

The court's function was not to excommunicate the accused, but was merely to notify and body public officially that the accused individual's behavior is odious to a particular (Jewish) body of tradition.

A similar situation devolves in Catholicism when, for example, a fallen-away priest marries a fallen-away nun in defiance of their vows.

Such individuals are already excommunicates, and any subsequent announcement concerning such a couple is merely a public notification that a state of severence between G-d and the accused already exists.

Rabbi Yellin said, "The (Jewish) community is so diverse that it doesn't mean anything that three rabbis excommunicated them." This is also true, as far as it goes.

In Roman Catholicism, the authority of a duly constituted court of excommunication is recognized throughout the Catholic world. This is not so of the Jewish world, where no one organization speaks for the whole Jewish world, and where congregations are more or less autonomous and self-contained.

The authority of any Jewish court goes only as far as respect for that same court. For any practical, earthly considerations, the quoted (anonymous) official at the Jewish Theological Seminary in New York was accurate when he said that the excommunications would have no effect "except with those who accept the authority of these rabbis."

Rabbi Yellin said further, "It (the Excommunication) is a political gimmick."

This is totally false, or at best has a minor level of coincidental truth. In any excommunication procedure, only theological grounds are considered - in other words, any accused can be culpable only on theological grounds.

Now, it may be that the actions of the accused have some degree of political relevance, but if this is the case, that is hardly the fault of the court.

For example, if the Catholic Church were to excommunicate a priest for publically renouncing his priesthood, declaring himself to be an atheist, and advocating violent Communist revolution, such as excommunication might understandably have political overtones - but the excommunication itself would be on sufficiently solid theological grounds.

As a graduate of the prestigious Yeshiva Chaim Berlin, Rabbi Antelman is a competent authority on Jewish Law.

While the actions of his court may or may not be respected even in the world of Orthodox Judaism (not to mention the rest of the Jewish world), the court's actions stand for what they are - acts of public notification - unless and until the accused either repent of their actions or convene their own court of rabbis whose authority exceeds that of Rabbi Antelman's

Rabbi Antelman defends vote

To the editor;

When you asked for cleric Richard Yellin's candid comments on our recent excommunications, you committed a faux pas.

Just like a Protestant minister's comments on Catholic Cannon law excommunications are irrelevant to Catholic practice, you do not ask a clergyman from the so-called Conservative branch of Judaism to comment about a Rabbinic Court proceeding whose judges (who have advanced Rabbinic degrees); and Rabbis are called "Orthodox" by the public - but by self definition maintain there are no branches to Judaism, and all Jews are obligated to keep the laws of the Torah, and are accountable to God for it!

While Richard Yellin declared "like a family disagreement it becomes unseemly when it is done in public," his initiative forces me to publicly protest his remarks for the fraud they are in order to publicly sanctify God's name and honor of the Jewish people.

The Jewish Advocate rightly stated (11/25/82) that criticism of the court came from "reform and conservative personalities" who do not accept the Torah as divinely revealed and binding. For according to Jewish law (S.A. Yoreh Deah, Title 334) "Anyone excommunicated by a Rabbinic Court is excommunicated to all of Israel."

The Advocate wrote a lengthy editorial condemning the people we excommunicated entitled "The Professors of Destruction."

Any person (evan an Orthodox Rabbi) who would criticize a valid Rabbinic Court violates one of the 613 commandments in the Torah (based on Exodus 22:27) and is in contempt of court and is not God fearing, (S.A. Hoshen Mishpat, Title 27).

Yellin's statement "only God can excommunicate" is exemplary of "he who misrepresents the Torah in contradiciton to Jewish law excommunicates himself from eternity" (Pirke Avot 3). For God made the Judges of Israel partners with him. And God gave power to the Judges of Israel to declare decisions including excommunications (Deut 17,9) and held those accountable to him who would ignore their rulings (v. 11-13).

Deborah excommunicated Meroz (Judges 5:23). Ezra (Ezra 10:8) and the Rabbis excommunicated from Talmudic times to the present. The principle of religious authorities to excommunicate is universally accepted.

Look it up: "Excommunication" in the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Finally, I have a question for Richard Yellin who prides himself as "president of the regional Rabbinic Assembly of 66" clerics - what will you do to your member Harold Kushner of Natick, who wrote in an article about Christmas, heresies of Jewish values and beliefs (Family Circle, Dec. 7, 1982, page 42) and stated "through the birth of a child God's caring becomes real in our lives."

Actually, the people we excommunicated from Judaism excommunicated themselves. They wrote their own ticket; we just signed it.

Moral Committee supports the vote

To the editor;

We applaud the "excommunication" mentioned in your paper of Wednesday, Nov. 24 written by Donna Lombardi.

The excommunication was in full Halachi-Jewish law according to the Principle of Hora-At Sha-Ah as detailed in Choshen Mishpat Volume 2.

Those excommunicated as reform cleric Everet Gendler, and MIT professors Noam Chomsky and Salavador Lurie have a long history of infamous deeds against Jews, Judaism and Israel.

Indeed, in wake of the Holocaust, we dare not permit self hating Jews attempt to endanger Jews wherever they may reside.

When Israel is in mortal danger, those who would find favor with her enemies are the lowest of pariahs. The prophet Isaiah stated of the above ilk, "Thy destroyers and they that made thee waste shall go forth from thee." (Isaiah, XLIX, 17).

Furthermore, the reformed clergymen belonging to the reform-conservative heretical sects are not qualified to pass judgment on Rabbi Antelman, for their sects have negated Halacha-Jewish law. Whereas, Rabbi Antelman and his Rabbinic Court follow authentic Orthodox Judaism, ipso facto, they are the bearers of authentic Sinaitic Judaism.

The Jewish moral commmittee endorses Rabbi Dr. Moshe Antelman's many actions over the years for Jews, Judaism, and Israel. May the Almighty give him the continued strength to aid our people in these very trying times.

Labor council blasts charges

To the editor;

(The following is a response by the Newton Labor Council to Joseph A. Alexander, executive director, Newton Taxpayers Association.)

Dear Mr. Alexander:

First of all, let us thank you for your compliments as to our literacy during the public meeting at City Hall on Oct. 18.

You seemed to be surprised that workers can use language that is "heartfelt and well composed." Does it really surprise you, Mr. Alexander, that workers feel deeply about their city, their jobs, and the recognition that they receive from their employer?

We must assure you, Mr. Alexander, that our feelings are very, very real.

In fact, our coming together in "Solidarity" was brought about not by any attempt to "merchandise" our positions at the bargaining tables. We are together for the same reasons that workers in America have come together since the 19th century; we are at a point of frustration and anger that workers have always felt over insensitive management decisions which deny them their rights to fair and reasonable pay for their work.

As an historical "fact", Mr. Alexander, we exported the word "solidarity" to Poland, where in your eyes, it has become "noble and heroic" because the government has opposed organized labor's efforts.

Does Mr. Alexander want us to accept his statement that our present government is pro-labor? Has he forgotten the ruthless and tyrannical responses that President Reagan made to the PATCO Labor dispute?

It seems that Mr. Alexander's historical "truths" are less than truthful. Ask any unemployed air traffic employee if he feels particularly "favored."

Mr. Alexander, the Newton Labor Council rejects as unworkable, in fact as bankrupt, the notions of President Reagan and his advisors that "trickle-down" economy will work. We have come together in Newton in Solidarity because we see some of the Reagan tactics and economic policies being applied in this city by a Republican mayor, and supported by your Taxpayers Association.

Have your forgotten how the voters of the city responded to Reaganomics earlier this month? Didn't the Heckler-Frank debate focus on the issue of Reaganomics and its effectiveness?

You cannot ignore history, Mr. Alexander. Organized Labor knows its labor history, and labor successes!

Organized Labor also knows what works in a nation and in a city like Newton. Labor has brought the services to this city in a manner that has brought national acclaim.

The mayor has not fought fires, enforced public safety, collected trash, taught children, or provided any of the other services which the poeple of Newton have come to expect, and at a quality level which they have recognized as superior.

The workers of the city have done that. The credit and recompense is theirs! Now, then, the workers ask for a contract which reflects their "quality and performance", an incentive action that Mr. Alexander approves, as he has stated.

We thank Mr. Alexander for his support of our request, and ask him to speak to the mayor in support of our contract efforts! (Would Mr. Alexander DARE?)

In all fairness, Mr. Alexander, when you speak of the CPI (Boston Area) you should be consistant. Double digit inflation has been with us for some time. During the past several contract negotiations neither the union negotiatiors or the city negotiators expected cost of living adjustments, although COLAS (cost of living adjustment settlements) were a part of the settlements in most private sector contracts. Now that the CPI has been conveniently adjusted to the 1975 base from the 1967 base, we find management using the latest figures as a convenience.

Where were you, Mr. Alexander, when the CPI in Boston area was 12-14 percent, and city workers were "granted" a pay raise at less than half that figure? Is that fairness in your eyes? You ask the voices of Labor to be silent when it suits your advantage.

Labor hurts and cries out in protest at the loss of jobs, failing to gain fair and reasonable contracts, the legitimate request for a contract language that grants them the recognition and dignity they have earned, the "hard way", by working for it!

Mr. Alexander, - city workers, police, firefighters, teachers, librarians, nurses, public works employees, secretaries - all are PEOPLE. All hurt and cry out when they are in pain. All of us have earned that for which we have labored in this city.

We will no longer accept wage settlements which are less than CPI. We have borne the brunt of inflation long enough. Now we want our due.

DeNucci moves to block private contract

Seeks to retain city trash pickup

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Legislation proposed by State Rep. A. Joseph DeNucci, aimed at prohibiting the city from consigning curbside rubbish collection to a private contractor, has drawn enthusiastic responses from city workers and words of caution and criticism from city officials.

DeNucci has proposed an amendment to an existing state law which already governs certain aspects of city contracts. His addition states that "no contract shall be approved unless the work or services to be provided under the contract are not of the kind currently being provided by employeess of the city."

The proposed amendment also stipulates that any contract the city signs "shall not result in the replacement or displacement of any city workers."

DeNucci said, "This is an earnest attempt to get the bill enacted and signed before the city has an opportunity to sign a contract for private trash collection."

The Newton representative said he hoped "the measure would protect the rights of blue collar workers, the first to go when municipalities contract services out. They have the least voice in government decisions. I'll stand up to criticism because of the philosophy I have. I'm a working-class legislator."

DeNucci said his experience as chairman of the Human Services Committee has taught him that contracting services out to private firms "is not necessarily better or cheaper."

He called the projected savings figure cited by Mayor Theodore D. Mann, an advocate of contracting the service out, "unrealistic, and certainly not worth the agony it will cause. The important issue is whether or not we're going to punish city employees."

Responding to criticism that the proposed legislation would lead to undue interference with the city's business, DeNucci said, "Rather than usurping the city's powers, it would protect the city's workers. I'm not trying to run the city, but to protect the employees who, I feel, have borne the brunt of Prop 2½."

He pointed out that state legislation often interferes with city governments both positively and negatively. "State laws work both ways with the cities," he said. "They don't complain about interference when we send them state aid or funding for a new parking lot."

Reaction to DeNucci's proposal was quick and positive among city workers. "It's about time these state reps stood up and took a stand on this," Robert Caruso, vice-president of Local 800, said. "He's one of the first politicians I've seen moving in the right direction."

Murdoch Frasier, head of the City Hall Employees, promised he would turn out as many members of the Newton Labor Council as possible to lobby the state Legislature in favor of the amendment. "The majority of us have always supported Joe," he said. "He's put his neck out for us over and over again."

Deputy Mayor James Hickey did not share the city workers' enthusiasm for DeNucci's proposal. "My reaction...? In an era of more and more moves toward home rule and deregulation, this kind of bill is the worst kind of interference possible in matters of local government," he said.

"This would take away from the city any opportunity to control costs," Hickey added. "It's not a well thought out piece of legislation."

Hickey agreed with City Solicitor Daniel Funk who said, "I don't see anything patently illegal on the face of it, but the legislation is worded so broadly that it creates more problems."

Specifically, Funk cited certain circumstances under which the city must contract private services on top of existing city services. Emergency snow removal and the hiring of outside counsel when a conflict of interest might occur within city hall were two instances Funk alluded to.

The city solicitor suggested a better way for DeNucci to approach the problem might be to "seek to change the law on one issue, instead of attempting an across-the-boards change." He said the amendment might be targeted specifically at contracting trash collection services.

Richard McGrath, who has been deeply involved in the trash collection proposal as chairman of the aldermanic Public Facilities Committee, said of DeNucci's amendment, "I agree with the philosophy of it 100 percent, but there would be ocassions when it may not be in the best interests of everyone involved."

McGrath said the amendment "needs a safety valve" that might allow for unusual circumstances in which the city might want to contract out some services which it is ill-equipped to provide. The alderman said such an added measure "would give the legislation a better chance to pass in the House."

Alderman Verne Vance, who has been pondering the trash question as a guest alderman at meetings of the Public Facilities Committee, said the proposed legislation "would be unwise, because it introduces inflexibilities into a situation where we need a lot of flexibility to deal with difficult financial constraints."

Vance, who said he had yet to make a final judgement on the question, insisted that the city had to retain its option to increase cost effectiveness. "In terms of the concept," Vance said, "one of the consequences of not accepting a cost-effective option might be to make cuts in services in other areas. It's really a question of which jobs you are going to cut."

Comparing contracting out trash collection out to making the present Sanitation Division more efficient, Vance commented, "One thing is clear, either way, substantial savings can be effected. If possible, I would like to keep the function in-house. The real question is, 'What is the cost of the in-house option?'"

Vote on trash proposal delayed again

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Action on sending city trash out to private collection was delayed for a third time after a joint session of the Public Facilities Committee and the Finance Committee voted to recess the meeting until December 15.

Workers from the sanitation department have until that day to present an alternative plan to the SCA company's pick-up proposal city garbage for the next 4½ years for a total cost of nearly $7 million.

Prior to voting on the deadline, aldermen heard trash collection officials from SCA Service,Inc. defend their reputation regarding alleged links to organized crime, bribing two public officials in Ohio and allegedly dumping hazardous waste at a landfill in Illinois, at Monday's joint meeting of the two committees.

"An attorney general's assistant said to the best of their (attorney general's office) knowledge SCA has no connections to organized crime," said Joseph Boron, director of corporate communications for SCA.

Boron further stated the business credentials of his company's corporate officers show they would not be involved in a company tied to organized crime. Some of their corporate histories include management positions at: Boston Safe Deposit and Trust, H.P. Hood, Amtrack and MIT.

Boron said a manager of an SCA subsidiary in Ohio did bribe two county officials, but he added once his company knew about it they cooperated with law enforcement officials to bring all involved to justice.

"We were embarassed by the incident, but justice was done and we instituted controls so no district manager can spend over $500 without company approval," said Boron.

According to the Securities and Exchange Commission some $16,000 to $20,000 was given to two officials.

In regards to the hazardous waste situation in Illinois, Boron said his company is currently removing the waste under court order, but he added no one ever said the site was improperly managed.

"There's real value to having had SCA looked into extensively, otherwise most the charges against the company are just allegations," said Deputy Mayor James Hickey.

SCA came under congressional scrutiny over alleged underworld ties a few years ago, which ended in the resignation of its corporate president, but no criminal charges were ever made against the firm.

Asked how his company felt about delayed committee action until December 15, Boron said, "If they (sanitation workers) can match our proposal then I think the city will have two viable options to choose from."

City's bond rating still tops in state

Mann, referring to contracting some city services to private firms.

Treasurer and Collector Theodore Scafidi was credited with contributing to the retention of the rating for his "enviable" record of tax collection, which is said to be nearly 100 percent, according to the mayor.

"Last time our meeting lasted one hour, this time it went for 3½ hours and we brought a boxful of information to New York," said Scafidi.

Scafidi and City Comptroller Lawrence Marino sold Moody's on allowing the city to retain the AAA rating.

Brookline had AAA, but they were dropped to a AA rating, according to Scafidi.

The rating is the equivalent of receiving an 800 on a college entrance exam or graduating at the top of your class. It means investors will line up to buy the bonds, according to those present Monday.

Haley said it is difficult to find a AAA rated city in the entire country.

Another way to interpret the rating is to consider it means the city is a very low risk investment and is likely to pay back its creditors promptly.

"Newton stands out like a beacon on a hill," said Mann.

"This says to a developer, this is a solid place to invest your money," said Mann.

Mann noted the income levels of Garden City residents have been rising as well as the valuation of its properties. This is significant because it means the citizens are able to pay taxes more easily, the mayor said.

Scafidi said he hopes the result of this Wednesday's bidding by investors for the bonds will yield an interest rate of six percent. The average life of the bonds will be eight years, he adds.

Scafidi, Marino and Haley went to Moody's in New York last month to answer questions from the bond rating service.

Waltham cops acquitted of beating Newton man

By Gary Dorion
Middlesex County News Service

CAMBRIDGE — After less than three hours of deliberation last week, a Middlesex Superior Court jury found three Waltham policemen not guilty of assault and battery and violation of the civil rights of a Newton man during a restaurant disturbance last January.

Acquitted were Sgt. Ronald Pomerleau and Officers Leonard Cincotta and Neil McGilvray who, in an emotional moment in Middlesex Superior Court, were congratulated by an exuberant crowd of relatives and friends including fellow police officers.

After the jury foreman recited the last not guilty verdict on the six indictments, the audience began applauding causing Superior Court Judge Thomas Dwyer to exclaim "quiet please...this is a court of law not a cheering section.

All three officers were teary-eyed as the jury of nine women and six men delivered the verdict. Officer Cincotta embraced his co-defendants and friends and then crossed the bar to shake hands with members of the jury who had begun filing out of the courtroom.

Sgt. Pomerleau and Officers McGilvray and Cincotta all indicated they were pleased and relieved that the jury had come in with a unanimous verdict acquitting all three officers.

Invited to comment of the decision, Sgt. Pomerleau said, "We should have never been here." Pomerleau, a 20-year veteran of the force, asserted "grand juries should be abolished."

At the trial's outset approximately three weeks ago Sgt. Pomerleau mentioned he was told the grand jury which indicted them had wanted to indict every police officer who responded to the disturbance at the Lanai Island Restaurant last January 16. Two of the four Newton men arrested and who allegedly caused the disturbance received injuries.

Early in the trial Pomerleau remarked that under the grand jury system it is too easy for the District Attorney's office to get the jury to deliver an indictment, due to the fact that there is no testimony for the defense. But Pomerleau had praise for the ordinary trial jury system. "Politically you can't control a (trial) jury's mind, and that's one of the best things we've got going for us."

Suspended pending the trial's outcome, Cincotta, Pomerleau and McGilvray are expected to be reinstated in their jobs with back pay and benefits. At this point, it is unclear if the city of Waltham will pick up their legal bills.

The three had been accused of violating the civil rights of William Connell, 22, of Newton and with beating him. Connell suffered a broken nose during the post-midnight arrest.

Defense attorneys argued Connell and his Newton friends, David Rines, 21, James Martin, Jr., 21 and James Kivlehan, 21, caused the disturbance while dining at the restaurant and then refused to leave at the request of Officer Cincotta, then on a paid detail duty.

Defense attorneys alleged Rines picked a fight with Cincotta and that consequently he and Connell eneded up with injuries after reinforcements arrived.

Assistant Middlesex District Atty. Marian Ryan told jurors in her final argument Monday the three policemen used unjustified force after Rines and Connell were already arrested and handcuffed. But after the verdict, Ryan indicated she had no quarrel with the jury's decision.

Officer Cincotta was defended by Atty. Neil Rossman, Sgt. Pomerleau by Alfred Nugent and Officer McGilvray by Edward Reardon.

Asbestos removal firm pays wages; state drops charges

Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Department of Labor and Industries officials have dropped 35 criminal complaints against the firm responsible for last summer's asbestos removal at Newton North, saying they were satisfied the company has paid back everything it owed its workers.

The firm, D.P.C. General Contractors of Florida, reportedly paid some $27,000 in back wages to workers hired last summer to remove asbestos.

State labor officials filed the complaints in August, when they discovered the Florida-based firm awarded the $800,000 contract, had failed to adhere to the state-mandated wage scale for asbestos workers.

According to Richard King, general counsel for the state labor department, the charges were dropped "when we were satisfied our demands had been met." King said he was favorably impressed with the company's speedy and conscientious response to the complaints.

King said the dispute with the company was "over the definition of 'foreman.'" He explained that foremen are "generally exempt from the rate structure." D.P.C. classified workers as foremen, which exempted them from the mandatory $14-per-hour wage, then reassigned them to the same laborers' jobs at a lower wage, according to King.

Testimony elicited from ex-employees during an investigation of the situation by the aldermanic Public Facilities Committee last summer corroborated King's contention.

Michael DiPietro, who monitored the D.P.C. job for the Department of Labor and Industries, said the total the company paid on the 35 complaints was approximately $27,000.

Asked if it were not difficult to track down the workers who were owed money, DiPietro said all but two had been contacted, and they were out of the country.

The Florida-based asbestos removal firm imported 55 Haitian refugees to complete the job at Newton North after it laid off most of the laborers it had hired locally.

D.P.C. had originally announced its intention to complete last summer's job while the school was closed for Christmas vacation. According to Roy Cornelius of the School Department, the date for the completion of the job has been moved to next summer.

Cornelius explained that the time needed to set up for the job, which demands that exacting anti-pollution measures be taken, made it impractical to attempt it during the short vacation. He said the removal project would begin June 25 and end July 22.

Divorce documentary to air

Local producer / director

By Richard Lodge
Graphic Editor

NEWTON — An hour-long documentary film on divorce from the children's perspective, produced and directed by a former Newton woman, airs Wednesday on WCVB-TV.

The film, "Say goodbye again," was produced by Nancy Baer, a Newton South High graduate working for the past 10 years as an independent filmaker. Baer, currently running her own film company, "Cine 16 Films" in Washington, D.C., recently returned from Hollywood after completing post-production work on film.

"Say goodbye again" is hosted by Mike Farrell, known as "BJ" on the popular series "M.A.S.H."

In the film Farrell introduces four families touched by divorce, with the children of the families commenting on their reactions to divorce.

Farrell notes: "The children don't start it, the children can't stop it, but the children have to live with it."

Filmed over a three-and-a-half year period, "Say goodbye again" was designed by Baer to capture the feelings of children as they go through the experience of their parents' divorce.

Producer Nancy Baer

One review of Baer's effort, which has already been aired on the West Coast, said Baer and co-director Wayne Threm have "given us a story about both the loss of innocence and the ability of children to endure and even grow as they experience extreme changes in their lives."

After graduating from Newton South and George Washington University, Baer received her training at the London Film School in the early 1970s.

She then went to California and worked as a filmmaker for a year on a grant-funded program for the California State University system. When the grant ran out Baer relocated to Washington, D.C. and taught an introductory film course at the Corcoran School of Art.

She has received numerous awards for her work including the American film Festival Blue Ribbon, Cine Gold Eagle, Chicago International Film Festival "Best of the Festival Film Circuit" and Washington Film Festival "Best Independently Produced Documentary."

Another independent film which Baer produced and directed on the issue of divorce was shown on CBS in June. In August she appeared on the Phil Donahue show and screened footage from her current project.

("Say goodbye again" will be aired on Channel 5 at 5 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 15)

Brandeis lists new teachers from Newton

WALTHAM — A number of area residents have been given three-year teaching appointments at Brandeis University and another has been named to a one-year term at the university.

Donna Aronson of West Newton was named to a three-year appointment in the theatre arts field at Brandeis. Aronson, who received a master of fine arts degree from Florida State University, has conducted workshops on speech and movement in the acting process and has taught at the Lee Strasberg Theatre Institute, University of Texas and University of California at San Diego.

Most recently she was an assistant professor at the Five Colleges.

Newton Highlands resident Jay Brodbar-Nemzer, also named to a three-year term, will be inovlved in near Eastern and Judaic Studies at Brandeis.

Brodbar-Nemzer holds a Ph.D. in language and communication from the University of Wisconsin. A sociologist, with specific interest in Jewish affairs, he was a post-doctoral research fellow from 1977-79 under the auspices of the National Institute of Mental Health and an assistant professor at Western Michigan University from 1980-82.

Brodbar-Nemzer will initiate the program in-Jewish family research forthe University's Center for Modern Jewish Studies.

Hillel J. Kieval of Waban has joined the History Department and has been named fellow of the University's Tauber Institute. He will teach a course on 18-20 century Central European Jewry as well as courses on ethnicity, nationalism and the modern state for the University Studies program.

As a fellow of the Tauber Institute he will also conduct research on Jewish culture in 19th century Europe.

Shulamit Reinharz, a Newton resident, has been named to a three-year teaching position in the Sociology Department at Brandeis.

Reinharz, who received her Ph.D. from Brandeis in 1977, has taught at the University of Michigan where she received the second place Undergraduate Teaching Award and the Keal Fellowship Award for reserarch leave for the most outstanding research proposal and promise among untenured female faculty.

She is also author of "On Becoming a social scientist: From survey research and participant observation to experiential analysis."

Newton Centre Gregory Saltzman, who received his Ph.D. this year from the University of Wisconsin, has been named to teach in the Florence Heller Graduate School for Advanced Studies in Social Welfare.

He has twice been a National Science Foundation Graduate Fellow. He holds degrees in both economics and political science and has most recently been a member of the faculty of Labor and Human Resources at Ohio State University.

Also named to a three-year teaching post is Newtonville resident William M. Wormington, who holds appointments in biochemistry and with the Rosensteil Basic Medical Sciences Research Center.

Wormington, who spent the last three years at the Carnegie Institution of Washington's Department of Embryology on a National Institutes of Health Postdoctoral Fellowship, will bring his grand-supported research work to Brandeis and will help develop the cell and molecular biology program at Rosenstiel Center.

Wormington received his Ph.D. in biochemistry from the University of Kansas in 1979.

Kayla Kazahn Zalk has been named to a one-year teaching appointment in theatre arts at Brandeis.

Zalk, a West Newton resident, has studied with the American Dance Festival and the Jose Limon Studio.

Generous gifts helping local library cope with book budget

NEWTON — Many years ago, Frank Howes, a Newton resident, noted that his daughter wasn't able to borrow the fiction best-sellers from the library as quickly as she would like.

Consequently he made a donation to the library which would create a revolving, self-perpetuating rental fund which would enable the library to purchase additional copies of best-sellers, and rent them to patrons who did not wish to wait for the free library copy.

He stipulated that for every title purchased with the fund money, a free copy paid for by the city must also be available.

At the end of seven months, all books bought with fund money revert automatically to the city as part of the free collection. Further, all money earned from the rental of books must go toward the purchase of more fiction best sellers.

Several years ago, when Mrs. George Brewer retired from the Newton Free Library Board of Trustees, she made a similar generous gift to the library. The trustees organized the gift into the Brewer Rental Fund which is administered under the same guidelines as the Howes Rental Fund with one exception: the Brewer Fund is designated for non-fiction best-sellers.

All rental books, (with fees of 10 cents a day), are clearly marked with labels and identified as rentals.

These generous gifts enable the Newton Free Library to supplement its book budget. The funds are a self-supporting complement to the book appropriation. and the rental collections are, in fact, an asset to the library. Without these funds it would be next to impossible to duplicate books in current demand.

People interested in establishing a library fund should contact Virginia A. Tashjian, the Newton Free Library's Director, 552-7145.

Cappadona earns rank of army major

BOSTON — Recently, Captain Joseph A. Cappadona received his shiny gold leaves - major rank in the U.S. Army Reserve. He accomplished that mission quite successfully at the Boston USAR Center, where he had been serving as Transportation Movements Officer.

The new major is the son of Joseph A. and Katherine Cappadona of Newton Highlands. Major Cappadona is married to the former Carole M. Jones of Newton Centre. She is an office manager, and they have one son, Paul, who currently attends Newton Catholic.

In his civilain capacity, Major Cappadona is area director, Attleboro Area Office of the Dept. of Social Services. He has been with the 1173d Transportation Terminal Unit, Boston USAR Center for over 10 years and has a total of 15 years Reserve and full military service. He took the adjutant general basic officer course at Fort Benjamin Harrison, IN, Branch Officers Advanced Course, Nuclear, Biological and Chemical Warfare Course, Marine Terminal Operations Course, and is enrolled in the Command and General Staff College out of Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas.

He is involved with the Parish Council of the Sacred Heart Parish in Newon Centre and is on the Ward 7 Democratic Committee.

2 featured to speak to Emanuel trustees

NEWTON — Simon Krahow, executive director of Jewish Family and Children's Service, and the Honorable Lewis L. Whitman, president of the organization, will be featured speakers at the December meeting of Temple Emanuel Board of Trustees on Monday, Dec. 13, 7:45 p.m. at Temple Emanuel in Newton.

The two leaders will discuss "Jewish Family and Children's Service and the Synagogue," focusing on the involvement and relevance of synagogue activities in the Jewish community and the scope of Jewish communal services which JF&CS offers.

These include: Individual and Family Counseling; Children's Services; Foster Care; Self Help Groups; Services for the Elderly; Homemaker/Home Health Aide Services; Family Life Education Programs; New American Services and Volunteer Programs.

Krakow has served as executive director of the multi-service agency for the past 10 years and has represented the organization through active participation in the Association of Jewish Family and Children's Agencies, the National Conference of Jewish Communal Service and the Family and Children's Executive Group of Boston, among countless other affiliations on behalf of the agency.

Prior to his appointment of JF&CS, Krakow served as Associate Director and Director of Social Planning of Combined Jewish Philanthropies of Greater Boston for ten years. Before coming to Boston in the early 1960's, he served as executive director of the Jewish Federation of Delaware, regional director of the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds, and chief social worker of the Veterans Administration.

Whitman has been justice of the Trial Court of Massachusetts, Quincy Division, since 1973. A member of the Boston Bar Association, he was instrumental in the creation of Massachusetts Continuing Legal Education-New England Law Institute.

In addition to his personal commitment as president of JF&CS, he is a member of the Board of Directors of the National Association of Jewish Family and Children's Agencies, has worked extensively on the Canton Combined Jewish Philanthropies Campaign and is a Trustee of Combined Jewish Philanthropies of Greater Boston.

Temple Shalom plans 20-voice chorale Dec. 11

WEST NEWTON — An evening of musical entertainment is scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 11 at 8:30 p.m. at Temple Shalom of Newton, 175 Temple Street, West Newton. The Couples Club and members of the Temple family will sponsor this renowned 20-voice Chorale of Temple Shalom of Milton.

They will perform a Chanukah Pops program that will include comedy, light classics, Jewish folk songs and Yiddish theatre. The Chorale, whose programs have been presented throughout the New England area, is under the direction of Sylvia R. Pitnof, music director of the Milton temple.

The Shalom Chorale, a blend of professional and amateur voices, is a non-profit group that donates its proceeds to music scholarships at Milton High School and various charities. Chairing this event are Sylvia and Stanley Merritt.

Reservations at $10 per person may be made by calling Thelma and Bernie Vine at 731-2164.

Lawmaker urges more attention on school finance

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — If Massachusetts is going to "make it" in the future, then a renewed commitment to quality public education must be made.

That was the warning issued by State Rep. James Collins of Amherst, vice-chairman of the Joint Committee on Education, at a meeting sponsored by the League of Women Voters and the Newton Council of PTA's Thursday night.

Massachusetts' economy will become more and more knowledge-based, and, without quality public schools, this state "is not going to prosper," the six-term legislator said.

Collins, an Amherst Democrat, was invited to speak on "School Finance: Educational Excellence and Dollar Limitations," issues which brought about 30 Newton PTA leaders, aldermen, School Committee members and citizens to the PTA Roundtable Series talk in the Bigelow Junior High School auditorium.

As a result of the sharp decline in the constituency of parents with children in the schools, a new "political constituency for education" must be built to insure that public education gets an appropriate share of the fiscal pie, said Collins.

He said citizens without children in the schools must be convinced that "the quality of the schools...is just as important to them as for parents."

"I personally believe that over the past 20 years, and these are generalities, that the rigor and breadth of American education has deteriorated," Collins said, noting that other countries are "out-educating Americans."

"Internationally, American students are testing at the bottom" in the areas of science and mathematics, he said.

Collins pledged to fight for $264 million dollars in new state aid to cities and towns to begin to remedy the effects of Proposition 2½.

Funding formulas would be revised and poorer communities would receive more money, but, Collins said, Newton was likely to receive additional money as well. It was highly unlikely Newton's state aid would be reduced, he stressed.

If $264 million in new funds was distributed to cities and towns in the next fiscal year, Collins said state funding would increase from approximately 31 percent to 50 percent and would alleviate the strain of Proposition 2½ on schools.

"Where will the $264 million come from?" members of the audience asked skeptically.

Collins said approximately $400 million in revenue growth is anticipated for next year, although some of that is inflation driven and does not represent a real increase. Part of the $264 million would come from this source and the remainder would be from reallocation of the local aid distributed this year.

Collins opposes creating a new tax to obtain more money for education. "Tying a tax around the issue of school reform...assures one thing:" Collins warned, "its defeat."

According to Collins, some of the new funding should go into wages for teachers, whose morale is at "rock bottom."

But, he said, it will take more than money to give the public schools a shot in the arm. It will require stricter standards for teachers, more demanding curricula, and better state-wide student testing methods to make sure the job is being done.

Art and music are "not frills," Collins stressed, and should be part of any curriculum to "develop fully-educated people."

Referring to both his ideas for school finance reform and quality education, Collins admitted his vision was "a tall order." "But my own personal view is that we've got a very soft American system," he said.

Newton League of Women Voters President Sandy Butzel said headlines over crises in the Boston schools have affected suburbs such as Newton and caused parents to loose confidence in public education in general.

Boston schools must be upgraded as part of any effort to restore faith in public schools, Butzel said. Collins agreed and said this was one area the Committee on Education planned to address.

Health Dept. offers tips to treat lice

NEWTON — Treating head lice is a fairly simple process, but can be painful and tedious.

Each time a child is discovered to have head lice, he or she is sent home from school with a letter explaining the circumstances and the Newton Health Department's recommended treatment to kill the tiny grey-white insect and its small, silvery egg cases (or nits).

Treatment requires the use of a medicated shampoo (containing a pediculicide) which kills all of the grey-white insects and usually all of their eggs. In some cases, a child may need to be treated a second time 7-10 days after the first application in order to kill newly-hatched lice.

The 7-10 day interval corresponds to the incubation period of a louse's egg, according to the Newton Health Department.

The shampoo should be applied according to the label and several shampoos are available either over-the-counter or by prescription.

The only way to detach the eggs, however, is for parents to pick them out using a fine metal-toothed comb. This may require a careful examination of the entire scalp.

The eggs cannot be washed out or brushed out of the hair.

Due to the highly communicable nature of head lice, all members of the family should be checked and parents of an infested child's close friends should be contacted as well.

Once treated, a child returns to school and is examined by the school nurse. If live eggs are found, the child is sent home again for re-treatment.

Many myths surround the problem of head lice. For instance, lice infestation is no indication of poor hygiene or a dirty home environment. Personal cleanliness is not a safeguard.

However, it is especially important that families pay special attention to cleaning their child's clothing, bedding, and other articles such as caps, scarfs or coats. Parents should also vacuum carpets and upholstered furniture.

If parents have any questions about treatment, they can call the Newton Health Department at 552-7058. Health deparment officials also urge parents to report all cases of lice to their elementary schools.

Lice exist in schools; cases down seizures (but later recovered) after the chemical was applied to his entire body to treat scabies and was left on for 24 hours.

York says there have been no reports in Newton of parents putting a treatment shampoo on a childs body.

York also stresses cites a report from the American Academy of Pediatricians which says there is no evidence that the insecticide in the shampoos produces side-effects or toxic effects when used properly.

Fraser believes Newton would more effectively combat the problem with a mass treatment program and by parents following up with precautionary measures at home. "Then it's a controlled situation," he says.

One goal of the organized group of Oak Hill parents is to get parents from other schools to come forward to push for "some control" on handling the problem.

York says the Health Department in conjunction with elementary schools have had the same policy for about three years. Most of the emphasis is placed upon educating parents so they'll know what to look for and how to treat the problem.

"We have not had that many parents that are unhappy with it," she says of the policy.

Last year, York began working with schools too start parent volunteer teams to conduct several head lice inspections of all children in a school on the same day. Lincoln-Eliot parents, for instance, conducted an inspection on Dec. 1.

Oak Hill parents conducted a check in November and turned up 22 cases.

But, Oak Hill, York adds, "does not have an extreme number of cases."

"We're not trying to make light of it or say that we're not interested, because we are," York emphasizes. "But, it is a common occurence."

Very few cases are reported at either the junior high or senior high grades, according to York.

Each time a child in a Newton school is discovered to have head lice, he or she is sent home from school with a letter explaining the circumstances and the Newton Health Department's recommended treatment of the head lice and the tiny insects' small silvery egg cases (or nits).

Library plans holiday party for its volunteers

NEWTON CORNER — The Trustees of the Newton Free Library will host their annual Holiday Party for the library staff and library volunteers Monday, Dec. 13, from 5-7 p.m. at the Main Library, 414 Centre St., Newton Corner.

Currently more than 70 volunteers are involved in projects essential to the implementation of successful library services and programs.

The volunteers work in many different departments including Cataloguing, Public Relations, Social Services, Technical Services and Circulaion. They also work with the library's computer. The volunteers are extremely able and willing and have been of special help to the branch libraries.

The staff appreciates the volunteers' hard work and willingness to participate wherever they are needed.

Since the Newton Free Library operates in 12 buildings and is open more hours than current staffing can really satisfy, more volunteer hours from generous public-spirited citizens would be especially useful and appreciated.

Inquiries may be made to the office at the Main Library, 552-7145.

Senior Anya Vronsky, who lives with her aunt Mary Holland in Newtonville, achieved second honors for the first term at Montrose.

Lisa Neustadt

Book Club picks songs by Newtonite for album

NEWTON - The Book-of-the-Month Club has chosen three songs recorded by two local artists for a special holiday anthology called "Home for Christmas."

The carols and ballads are taken from the "Shout for Joy" album featuring Lisa Neustadt, a teacher at the Underwood School in Newton, and colleague Jean Redpath.

Redpath, an internatinonally known Scottish traditional singer, and Neustadt, a singer of traditional American songs, both live in Watertown.

They combined the Scottish and American traditions of Christmas to produce the "Shout for Joy" album from which the club selections are drawn.

Neustadt and Redpath were both recently featured on National Public Radio's "A Prairie Home Companion" where they are regular performers.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Allen Sprenger

Karen Noymer marries Douglas Allen Sprenger

NEWTON — Karen Margaret Noymer of Newton and Douglas Allen Sprenger of Needham were married recently at the Marriott Hotel, Newton.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sprenger of Needham, is a graduate of Connecticut College.

The couple will be living in Newton.

Grahams have a son

NEWTON — Dawna and Chet Graham of Jerome Avenue, West Newton, announce the birth of their son, John Taylor Graham, on November 19 at St. S Elizabeth's Hospital in Brighton.

Grandparents are Mrs. Barbara Shurtleff of South Weymouth and John M. Hammers of East Falmouth.

Newton Corner Center hosting new programs

NEWTON CORNER — The Newton Corner Senior Drop-In Center, 191 Pearl St., Lincoln-Eliot School has something for everyone Monday-Friday, 9 a.m. - 3 p.m.

On Thursday, Dec. 16, at 1 p.m., the Center will host its annual holiday party. Refreshments will be served. Come to the party and have some holiday fun.

Would you like to meet some new friends? On Monday morning at 10 a.m. a discussion group informally shares the latest and most interesting topics. We often have guest speakers and new participants are always welcome. Bring your point of view and perspective on what's happening in the world today.

Mondays from 1-3 p.m. Dottie Rossman leads a dance group of the latest line dances. This is a fun group and great exercise. Even if you have never danced before you'll feel right at home and the next time you are at a wedding or large function you will be able to enjoy the dancing.

Tuesdays are a pot pourri. In the mornings we have an exercise class led by Virginia Joyce, RSVP. Virginia taught social studies in the Newton School system until her retirement and now volunteers to teach you how to stay in shape, and have more energy and vitality. If you thought exercising was not fun, you will change your mind when you join this group.

Tuesday afternoons are all different. On the first Tuesday of the month there is a Health clinic from 1 to 3 p.m. On the fourth Tuesday there is a Travel Group. Slide shows of future trips are shown from 1-3 p.m.

The second and fourth Tuesdays of the month from noon to 1 p.m., the Center offers piano lessons. If you always wanted to play and haven't had the time or opportunity until now or if you haven't played for years, this class if for you.

Every Tuesday from 1 - 3 p.m. we encourage knitters to bring in whatever they are working on and socialize along with your hand work.

On Wednesday from 9 - 11 a.m. Faye Johnson of RSVP, a prominent artist, teaches all aspects of painting. Ceramics with Debbie Dunn is offered on Wednesdays from 1 - 3 p.m. and Thursdays from 9:30 a.m. - 11:30 a.m. You can make lovely gifts and items (at a substantial savings) for yourself, friends and family.

On Thursday afternoons we have a lively group for Beano with Helen Forster calling. Calligraphy is taught by Faye Johnson, RSVP and a Craft Program is also taught by Miriam Morrow of RSVP.

Beginning Jan. 14 on Friday mornings from 9 to 11:30 a.m. Mary Bonica, sewing instructor, will be starting a new dress making course. Would you like to create your new spring outfit?

On Fridays from 1 to 3 p.m., Sister Margaret Potts of RSVP, instructs a writing group. The stories each of us has to pass on to our families are important to record. This is a wonderful opportunity to join a structured group and get started with expert help from Sister Margaret.

In addition to the programs at the Center, we also have parking stickers available if you have just passed your 65th birthday and you are eligible. The Center also processes fuel assistance applictions. For more information call Barbara Burns, Coordinator at 969-8030.

A number of the Center's programs are operating in conjunction with the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP), Community Schools, the Health Department and the Recreation Department. The Drop-In Center is operated by the Department of Human Services in Cooperation with the Newton Council on Aging, with funding made available by the Community Development Block Grant Program.

Highlands group offers home repair

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — Senior citizens in need of minor home repairs can have this work done through the Newton Highlands Community Development Corporation's Senior Home Repair Program (SHRP).

Through the SHRP, repair teams are retained at no cost to the recipient. The only cost is for any materials used in the repair.

Types of repairs handled by the SHRP include minor carpentry, energy related repairs and sash cord replacement. The work is performed by a repair team consisting of one or two high school age youths working with a retired tradesperson as their supervisor.

For more information as well as program applications, call Howard Leibowitz at 244-5551.

The World of Travel
by Hank Fleming
PORTUGAL
It used to be that the American traveler stayed in Portugal only long enough to take advantage of shopping at bargain prices. Today, bargains remain and many travelers do as well. Portugal offers lingerers a mild, year-round climate, good hotels with up-to-date ammenities, fine beaches, golf courses, gambling, nightlife, secluded villages and cosmopolitan life. There are also medieval walled towns and castles to visit. Portugal's culture reflects centuries of disparate influences in its customs, costumes and cooking. Do not forget to sample the Port of the northern wine country, or visit the Algarve in the south of Portugal for beaches, resorts and little fishing villages.
Our staff at FLEMING WORLD TRAVEL & TOURS, 15 Crescent St., Waltham, 899-5658 is well known for helping to plan that special trip whether your final destination will be Portugal, Disneyworld or New York City. We handle all types of accounts - individual, group and commercial. We will take your PASSPORT PHOTO for overseas travel. Call us at 899-5658. Open: Mon.-Sat. 9-5:30, Fri. til 8.

Police try advanced 911 phone system

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Advanced telephone technology may soon bring Newton's police work into the computer age.

Newton Police Chief William Quinn will request $18,000 from the city for a design study of the Enhance 911, the latest in high technology for handling police emergency calls.

The E-911, a modern version of the Basic 911 now used in Newton, uses a computer to speed the delivery of fire, medical, police and rescue services.

"This system is a dramatic approach to public safety service. We're not thinking about this in terms of money. We're doing this as an improvement in service," Quinn said Friday.

Quinn made the announcement Friday with the backing of the Greater Boston Police Council. Because of the system's cost the council is proposing that E-911 be a combined effort among 60 municipalities in the area of Route 495. They include Boston, Waltham, Watertown, Weston, Needham, Norwood, Dedham, West Roxbury, Walpole and Westwood.

The "911" police emergency number has helped police respond faster to emergencies by keeping emergency calls separate from routine matters.

But people sometimes become so excited during trauma situations that they do not give police vital and accurate information, such as the type of emergency and their address. Callers sometimes mumble the message or hang up the phone before police know the location of the emergency.

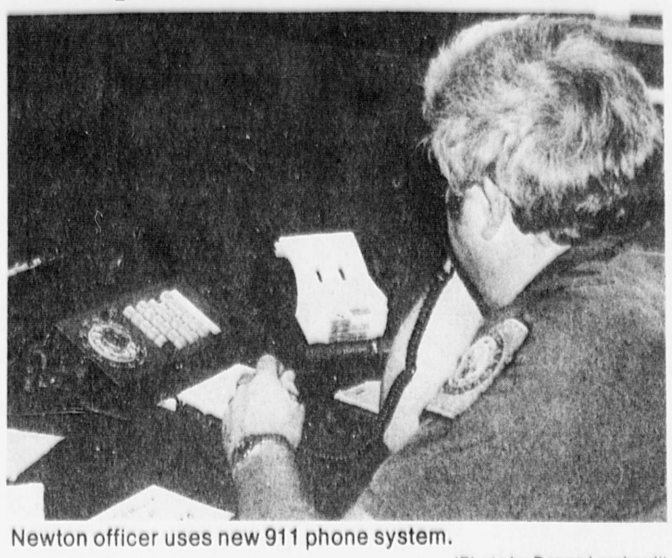
With E-911, a caller's address and telephone number immediately flash on a small screen and are recorded, ending the problem of jumbled messages.

Presently several hundred Waltham and West Roxbury residents on the Newton line get Newton police when they dial 911 because they have Newton telephone exchanges. Police place the callers on hold and alert the proper police department. This delays dispatching efforts and costs Newton more than $100 a month, according to Timothy Coogan, department consultant.

Tearing out the telephone lines is one way to solve this problem, Coogan said. But with a few push-button commands into the E-911 computer, those residents will be connected to their own city or town police department for faster service.

E-911 also features a phone with one button for several emergency-related facilities, such as poison control, suicide prevention and hospitals.

Quinn will request the funds in the department's FY84 budget to design and engineer the E911, which was developed by Bell Systems. The equipment cost will be determined pending the initial six-month design study. Coogan estimated the cost of the E911 to be "anywhere from 25 cents to $1.25 per person."



Newton officer uses new 911 phone system.

The final design phase is 12 months with two years of construction, Coogan said.

"I believe E911 is as large a technical step forward for public safety as using a radio for dispatch and replacing watch towers with telephones in the first place," Quinn said.

The system will be on display for the public through Friday, Nov. 10, 8:30 a.m. - 5 p.m. Personnel will be available to answer questions concerning the equipment.

Newton Centre woman receives Judicature award

NEWTON CENTRE — Florence Rubin of Newton Centre, a member of the Board of Directors of the League of Women Voters of the United States, received the American Judicature Society's Herbert Harley Award recently in recognition of her efforts to promote the effective administration of justice.

The award was presented at The Rotunday at Liberty Square, Boston, by Massachusetts Supreme Court Chief Justice Edward F. Hennessey. Herbert Harley Awards are presented at the state level to recognize individuals who make significant contributions to strengthening the administration of justice.

The award is named after the founder of the Society. Rubin is the first nonlawyer from Massachusetts to receive a Harley Award.

As president of the League of Women Voters of Massachusetts, Rubin directed that organization's efforts to secure passage of the Court Reorganization Act of 1978. Among other things, the act established a single trial court and centralized budgeting and management procedures. The governor, in signing the bill, made particular note of Rubin's role and contributions to its passage.

Prior to and during her presidency of the League, Rubin worked on several issues related to the courts, including establishment of state judicial nominating and conduct commissions, providing counsel for the indigent, instituting mandatory retirement for judges at age 70, abolishing part-time judges and district attorneys, and development of a modern jury selection and management system.

She has served as a member of two nominating commissions for the U.S. Court of Appeals for the First Circuit; as chairman of the Massachusetts Commission on Judicial Conduct; as a member of the Governor's Special Committee on Judicial Needs; and as member of the academic committee of the Franklin N. Flaschner Judicial Institute, which develops and presents continuing educaiton programs for Massachusetts judges.

BB hits pedestrian near BC campus

CHESTNUT HILL — A Boston College student was struck Thursday night by a pellet from a BB gun but was not injured, police said.

The young woman and a female companion were walking along Hammond Street about 7:30 p.m. when the woman was shot in the back, police said. The pellet apparently bounced off of the woman and she did require medical attention, according to police.

The woman's companion said she saw a man in the back seat of a late model Chevrolet pulling a rifle in from the window as the car speeded by them, according to police. The woman were unable to give police a description of the suspects.

Three men charged with drunk driving

NEWTON — Three men were arrested Thursday night in separate incidences for drunk drving, police said.

John Fisher, 31, of 26 Emerson Pl., Needham, Ronald Green, 28, of 66 Parkman St., Brookline and Fred Maribito, 21, of 27 Floral St., Newton are charged with driving under the influence of alcohol.

Green is also charged with speeding and driving left of centre.

Jewelry, silver reportedly stolen

NEWTON — Jewelry and silverware were reported stolen Thursday night from an Alexander Road house, police said.

The burglars gained entrance into the home by breaking a rear widow. The second floor rooms were ransacked and a camera, along with the jewelry and silver, were stolen, police said.

Thieves steal truck keys, then truck

NEWTONVILLE — Burglars broke into a Washington Street home Thursday, stole a set of truck keys and later stole the truck from a Lynn location, police said.

The thieves gained entrance into the home by prying open the basement door, according to police.

Temple Emanuel Sisterhood to highlight Soviet Jewry plea

BOSTON — A creative Chanukah service, prepared by members of the sisterhood of Temple Emanuel, Newton, will highlight the Women's Plea for Soviet Jewry. The Plea will take place in Boston's Faneuil Hall on Tuesday, Dec. 14 from 10 a.m. to noon.

The hundreds of women expected to take part in the Women's Plea will participate in the service which incorporates song and prayer and is dedicated to the Jews of the Soviet Union.

Hadassah Blocker, president of the Sisterhood and Hazanit will lead the service along with readers Goldie Geltman, Carol Greenfield and Eileen Kagno.

Featured speaker at the Plea is Congressman Barney Frank, who has a record of commitment to human rights causes and the cause of Soviet Jews.

The annual Women's Plea which this year falls in the middle of Chanukah will stress the theme "Light Their Way To Freedom."

Women from the many organizations in the area which support the day are expected to come from all parts of the state. Renee Glazier, chairwoman of the event being convened by the New England Region of the Women's League for Conservative Judaism, announced that special bus transportation is being provided this year. Round trip bus fare to Faneuil Hall will cost $3.

Buses will leave from Temple Mishkan Tefila, Newton and from Lexington, Peabody and Randolph. Anyone needing bus transportation is urged to call the Jewish Community Council of Metropolitan Boston, 542-7525 as soon as possible.

An added attraction of the morning will be a current report on conditions in the Soviet Union given by Rabbi Ronald Weiss of Temple Beth Elohim, Wellesley. Rabbi Weiss has recently returned from a trip to the USSR where he visited my refusnick families.

The Women's Plea is being convened by the Women's League for Conservative Judaism with the cooperation of the Jewish Community Council of Metropolitan Boston, and Action for Soviet Jewry, American Jewish Congress, American Jewish Committee, American Mizrachi Woman, Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, B'nai B'rith Women, Combined Jewish Philanthropies of Greater Boston, Women's Div., Hadassah, Pioneer Women, Women's American ORT, Synagogue Council of Massachusetts and Zionist Organization of America.

Newton Corner's 'end' shown in documentary

NEWTON CORNER — A video documentary, "Newton Corner: The End of the Old Neighborhood" produced and directed by Lee Richmond will be shown Tuesday, Dec. 14 at 7:30 p.m. at the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre Street, Newton Corner.

The film includes interviews with Newton Corner residents and merchants, many of whom expressed anger and dismay at the demolition and demise of their old neighborhood. The documentary also records the demolition of the Nonantum Block of buildings, being razed to make way for new office buildings.

The project was funded by the Newton Cable TV Foundation.

The Library's Newton Room resources were also used extensively during research for the film.

Refreshments will be served.

Board backs lounge closing rollback

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The Board of Aldermen Monday night approved a resolution urging the rollback of closing times for some bars in the city from 2 a.m. to 1 a.m.

The resolution was aimed at the city's Licensing Commission, which plans on considering the issue of closing times at a special meeting on December 14.

Carleton Merrill, administrative director of the commission, allowed that the aldermen's resolution, which he viewed as a reflection of the opinions of the city's residents, "will carry a good bit of weight" in the commission's deliberations.

He said that a total of 18 liquor establishments could be affected by a rollback in the closing hours and added that a representative of one of those establishments has already requested a 1 a.m. closing time. Managers of four other establishments now enjoying 2 a.m. closing times have told Merrill they would have "no objections" to the proposed change, he said.

"That hour between one and two is nothing but a problem hour, so they welcome the change," Merrill said. A year ago, he added, three establishments in the city voluntarily cut their hours back to 1 a.m.

He said there was a trend in many communities to effect the same change. Of all the communities on the South Shore, only West Bridgewater and Brockton have held on to 2 a.m. closing times, according to Merrill.

The consensus among aldermen who dissented in Monday night's vote held that it was unfair to punish operators of well-run establishments for the sake of a few delinquent ones.

Alderman Carol Ann Shea said she was against any "blanket" action on the problem. "If someone is running a clean operation, why should they be punished?" she commented.

Alderman Richard Bullwinkle abstained from voting when the issue was before the Public Safety Committee but voted in favor of the rollback proposal when it came before the full board. Bullwinkle explained that he wanted to see more data from the Police Department on the times and types of disturbances that brought the issue up in the first place.

The data he received convinced him of the wisdom of the move, he said. Bullwinkle added that he did not like to penalize those licensees who have caused no problems, but that he had to opt for "the greatest social good for the greatest number."

Merrill added, "One less hour of drinking may make the streets that much safer."

In recognition

Rep. A. Joseph DeNucci (D-Newton/Waltham), third from right, was recently awarded a plaque from the state Office for Children "in recognition of his services to the children of the commonwealth." DeNucci is House chairman of the Human Services and Elderly Affairs Committee. Making presention were (from left) Richard H. Jobin, Region IVB director; Maria Mossaides, general counsel, OFC; Thomas A. Torchia, registrar of Family day care for OFC; Rep. DeNucci; Peter Gesell, state director; and Charles Flynn, deputy director.

Summer workshop

Shari Libenson, 15, of Newton Centre, was one of several local youths who took part in the 21st annual Summer Music Workshop of the Greater Boston Youth Symphony Orchestra. Shari is a cellist and student at Newton North. Also at the workshop were: Erica Hurwitz, 13, of Newton, a violinist and student at Shady Hill School; Lynn Mollenauer, 16, of Newton, a violist and student at Newton South; and Stefan Sherwood, 11, of Waban, a bassoonist and student at Brown Jr. High.

Plans for West Newton Library return to possible reuse stage

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Plans to lease the old West Newton Library building on Chestnut Street went back to "go" Monday night as the Board of Aldermen chose to further research the possibility of making it a library again.

The 55-year-old building was abandoned two years ago, because of high maintainence costs, and the facility was moved two blocks to a corner of the old Davis School on Waltham St.

Aldermen and neighborhood spokesmen have criticized the current arrangement in the Davis School. Alderman Rodney Barker, head of the aldermanic committee which oversees the library budget, called the present location "a cell."

Alderman Robert Tennant, who voted to close the library in the past, now wants to study the possiblity of returning it to its original home. He said his current opinion was the product of changing times and conditions.

West Newton resident and former alderman Eugene Cronin has said he is working on a plan whereby the library could be returned to Chestnut St. by neighborhood volunteers, at no cost to the city.

Cronin has emphasized that the building was built, paid for and donated to the city by West Newton residents as a memorial to local men who died in World War I. He and several aldermen have suggested that the city's plan to rent the building out would be an insult to the people who created it.

Stipulations in the deed prohibit the city from selling the building.

Alderman Paul Coletti, who has deliberated the library issue at length in the Finance Committee, caused a minor furor Monday night when he told the board he has fought to keep the proposed rent on the building high "to keep it available."

Land Use Committee Chairman Terry Morris, who has been actively lobbying his colleagues to rent the building out as office space, commented, "That's a unique concept, to make the price so high no developer would touch it."

Morris pointed out that the old building was originally abandoned because of its lack of accessibility and high maintanence costs, two conditions which have worsened in the interim. "Don't go backwards," he asked the other aldermen.

Morris further advocated that the lease price, which has wavered in the Finance Committee from $4 to $8 a square foot, be kept at a minimum. He said the run-down condition of the building made it "nothing but a blight on West Newton Square" and added that necessary repairs "already made restoration extremely costly."

The question of what to do with the unusual old building was sent back to the Finance Committee by a narrow margin of one vote. Heated discussions followed the meeting with advocates of returning the library to its original home vying with defendants of the reasons for closing it in the first place.

As the aldermen headed for their cars, shouts of "Keep the library open!" and "You pay to heat it!" filled the parking lot.

FRI., DEC. 10

9-11PM ABC (8 Central/Mountain)
DON'T GO TO SLEEP. A family is pulled to the very edge of insanity when their eldest daughter returns from the grave and tries to take them back with her... one at a time! Dennis Weaver, who should know better; Valerie Harper, who might not know better; and Ruth Gordon who does know better but does it for the money.

SAT., DEC. 11

9-11PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain)
CRY FOR THE STRANGERS. Ghostly apparitions lurk on storm-tossed beaches at night as visitors to the Pacific Northwest's scenic hamlet of Clark's Harbor often stay forever... for a killer stalks among the squalls! Patrick Duffy, Cindy Pickett, Claire Malis, Lawrence Pressman. Spooky.

SUN., DEC. 12

9-11PM NBC (8 Central/Mountain)

THE FIRST DEADLY SIN
FRANK SINATRA
FAYE DUNAWAY

THE FIRST DEADLY SIN. Frank Sinatra is a retirement age New York City Police detective following the random trail of a psychotic killer who dispatches his victims with a mountaineer's ice ax.

TUES., DEC. 14

9-11PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain)
I WAS A MAIL ORDER BRIDE. A breezy romantic comedy with Valerie Bertinelli as bachelor girl Kate Tosconi, a Chicago magazine writer.

WED., DEC. 15

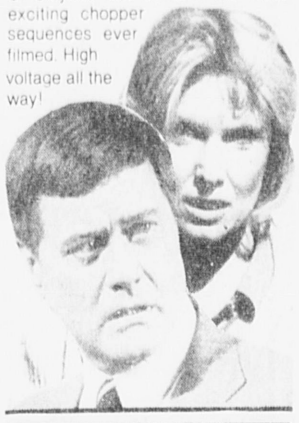
9-11PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain)

THURSDAY'S CHILD
GENA ROWLANDS
DON MURRAY

THURSDAY'S CHILD. Gena Rowlands, Don Murray, Jessica Walter and Rob Lowe in a story of a bright, athletic 17-year old boy who suddenly becomes ill and eventually requires a heart transplant, and the ordeal's affect on this close-knit family's struggle against a life-threatening crisis.

SAT., DEC. 18

9-11PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain)
DEADLY ENCOUNTER. Larry Hagman is a helicopter pilot whose efforts to help out an old flame turn into high adventure. With Susan Anspach, James Gammon, Michael G. Gwynne and some of the most exciting chopper sequences ever filmed. High voltage all the way!



MON., DEC. 20

9-11PM NBC (8 Central/Mountain)

THE MEMBER OF THE WEDDING
PEARL BAILEY

THE MEMBER OF THE WEDDING. Tony Award Winner Pearl Bailey in the role (originally created by Ethel Waters on Broadway) as the compassionate cook in the household of a southern widower with two youngsters. The third production in the Live Theater series, it co-stars Dana Hill and Ragtime's Howard E. Rollins Jr. Carson McCuller's classic drama!

TUES., DEC. 21

9-11PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain)

BILL
MICKEY ROONEY

BILL. A GE Theater presentation of the Peabody Award-winning drama which garnered an Emmy for ole pro Mickey Rooney in the title role of Bill

Sackter, a mentally retarded adult who, through an indomitable spirit and the help of a friend, tackles the world beyond the confines of a mental institution in which he has spent 44 years. Based on a true story.

specials

SAT., DEC. 11

12:30PM-? CBS (11:30 Cent./Mount.)
NFL FOOTBALL. The Philadelphia Eagles revisit the scene of 1978's "most incredible play call (and fumble)" as they are hosted by the New Jersey Giants at The Meadowlands in East Rutherford.

1:30PM-? NBC (12:30 Cent./Mount.)
NCAA BASKETBALL. The Fighting Illini of Illinois invade the sacred domain of the Kentucky Wildcats... Rupp Arena in Lexington, Kentucky. Dick Enberg and Al McGuire report.

"I think the nature of man is to be aggressive and football is a violent game. But I think the very violence is one of the great things about the game, because a man has to learn control. He is going to go in to knock somebody's block off, and yet he must keep a rein on it. I can't think of any other place that demands such discipline." — VINCE LOMBARDI, NFL Coach

4PM-? NBC (3 Central/Mountain)
NFL FOOTBALL. The pass-happy San Diego Chargers move upstate to take on the World Champion San Francisco '49ers in an inter-conference meeting between what might be two teams headed for the Super Bowl, January 30, 1983.

3:30PM-? CBS (2:30 Cent./Mount.)
NCAA BASKETBALL. Check local station for game(s) telecast in your viewing area... Houston versus Syracuse from the Carrier Dome in New York, or USC versus Iowa from the Carver-Hawkeye Arena in Iowa City.

SUN., DEC. 12

12:30PM-? CBS (11:30AM Cent./Mt.)
NFL: Regional telecasts starting at...
1PM NYT: Detroit at Green Bay
Tampa Bay at N.Y. Jets
Washington at St. Louis
4PM NYT: Chicago at Seattle
New Orleans at Atlanta

12:30PM-? NBC (11:30AM Cent./Mt.)
PRO FOOTBALL DOUBLEHEADER
NFL: Regional telecasts starting at...
1PM NYT: Baltimore at Minnesota
Pittsburgh at Buffalo
Miami at New England
Cleveland at Cincinnati
4PM NYT: Denver at L.A. Rams
L.A. Raiders at Kansas City

MON., DEC. 13

9PM-? ABC (8 Central/Mountain)
NFL FOOTBALL. The eyes of the nation are on Texas as the powerful Dallas Cowboys with fleet halfback Tony Dorsett ride that lonesome trail across the Lone Star State to round up the Houston Oilers and their premier running back, Earl Campbell.

SAT., DEC. 18

12:30PM-? NBC (11:30AM Ct./Mt.)
NFL/AFC. The New York Jets stream down to Miami to bomb the Dolphins.

3:30PM-? NBC (2:30 Cent./Mount.)
NCAA BASKETBALL. Iowa at UCLA. Dick Enberg and Al McGuire report.

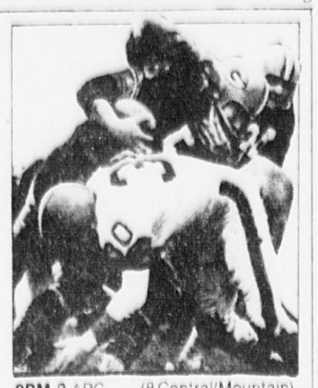
4PM-? CBS (3 Central/Mountain)
NFL/Interconference. It will almost seem like a homecoming as the Rams return to Los Angeles, the city whose name they still (however inappropriately) bear though they fled south to Anaheim. Awaiting them in the huge expanses of the Coliseum will be the new tenants, the Los Angeles (nee Oakland) Raiders.

"I can only speak from my own standpoint, but I think that to some degree I'm a masochist about it. I almost enjoy hitting someone and at the same time maybe hurting myself a little bit. Maybe I have tremendous guilt feelings about something. I'm not sure. But I think a number of football players are the same way."
— PAUL MARTHA, former NFL defensive back who, as an independent attorney, was instrumental in resolving the recent players strike.

SUN., DEC. 19

12:30PM-? NBC (11:30AM Cent./Mt.)
NFL: Regional telecasts starting at...
1PM NYT: Buffalo at Tampa Bay
Houston at Philadelphia
Pittsburgh at Cleveland
4PM NYT: Kansas City at Denver
New England at Seattle

12:30PM-? CBS (11:30AM Cent./Mt.)
NFL: Regional telecasts starting at...
1PM NYT: New Jersey at Washington
Minnesota at Detroit
St. Louis at Chicago
2PM NYT: Green Bay at Baltimore
4PM NYT: New Orleans at Dallas



9PM-? ABC (8 Central/Mountain)
NFL FOOTBALL. The Atlanta Falcons soar headlong into San Francisco in an attempt to strike it rich with the Super Bowl Champion '49ers.

MON., DEC. 20

9PM-? ABC (8 Central/Mountain)
NFL FOOTBALL. The Super Bowl runner-up Cincinnati Bengals stalk the Chargers in San Diego, which means the air should be filled with pigskin and the running backs do a lot of pass blocking for quarterbacks Ken Anderson and Dan Fouts.

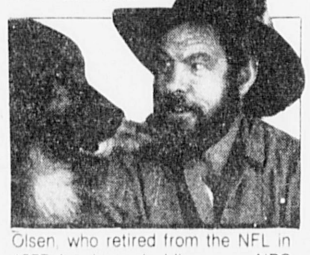
SportLite on Merlin Olsen

"During the game, I get caught up in the feeling of action, in the intensity and movement and being a part of what's happening on that field. As soon as I walk off the field I have this tremendous letdown, this tremendous emotional relapse, just like coming down off the clouds." — MERLIN OLSEN

Former All-Pro Defensive Lineman Merlin Olsen is probably back in the clouds despite his retirement five years ago. On February 12, 1983, he will add yet another honor when the Walter Camp Football Foundation, a non-profit organization dedicated to the perpetuation of the ideals espoused by Camp, ex-Yale coach and "father of American football", designates him Man of the Year at the Foundation's annual dinner at New Haven, Connecticut's Yale Commons.



Olsen, who retired from the NFL in 1977, has been doubling as an NBC gridiron commentator and an actor in the title role of the popular Father Murphy television series when he's not thundering about the countryside collecting accolades.

Noemi Lodge meets Dec. 14

Mrs. Frankee Rosser, president

CHESTNUT HILL — Noemi No. 11 Lodge of United Order of True Sisters, Inc. meets for its monthly meeting on Tuesday, Dec. 14 at Valle's Steak House in Chestnut Hill.

The meeting starts at 10 a.m., at which time new members will be inducted into the lodge.

Following the business meeting, lunch will be served and a program entitled "A new you... for the new year", will be presented. Featured on the panel will be David of Mr. George Hair Stylists, Newton Highlands, who will discuss hair color, cut and personality styling; and Lois Glass of Espree Naturalee of Needham will demonstrate color dynamics, make up and color "draping."

Noemi No. 11 Lodge is dedicated to helping crippled children, and the principal recipient of its fund raising is the Children's Hospital Medical Center where many members serve as volunteers.

Presiding at the meeting will be Mrs. Frankee Rosser of Waban, president.

Holocaust survivor to speak at Temple Ohabei Shalom

BROOKLINE — The Adult Jewish Studies Committee of Temple Ohabei Shalom will present Dr. Jack Nusan Porter, associate fellow, Ukrainian Research Institute, at Harvard University, on Sunday, Dec. 12 and Dec. 19.

The first program, "Jewish Resistance During the Holocaust" is a story of heroism and sacrifice. Such questions as why and how did Jews, united with Russians, Poles and Ukrainians, fight back against the Nazis will be addressed by Dr. Porter who was himself the child of Jewish partisans. He will explain the myth of Jewish passivity. Photos and other visual materials will be a part of this lecture.

The second program, "After the War: The Search for Nazi Collaborators" will deal with the time period after World War II.

After the Allied victory in 1945, many Jews continued the struggle by aiding in the flight and rescue of Jews trying to enter "Eretz Yisrael." Some fought in the Israeli War of Independence in 1948. Still others became Nazi hunters and Nazi "finders".

Large numbers of Nazi collaborators and more than a few ex-Nazi scientists entered the United States, legally and illegally, after the war. Dr. Porter himself has traced and met with several of these people in the greater Boston area. His lecture will include a personal account of these experiences.

Refreshments will be served directly after the lecture which begins at 8 p.m.

Sending in listings

The Newton Graphic welcomes calendar listings for the "Around Newton" page.

Listings are accepted from non-profit organizations or when offerings of interest to the Newton community are open to the public, free of charge or at nominal cost.

"Around Newton" listings should be of local interest and are used at the discretion of The Graphic editor.

Listings should include the date, time and location of the event, and in the case of art and theatre listings, should include the opening and closing dates for the exhibit or production. A telephone number should be included for those seeking more information and to verify details in the listing request.

Send "Around Newton" listings to Richard Lodge, The Newton Graphic, P.O. Box 341, Newton Highlands, 02161 or drop them off at either the News Tribune Building, 18 Pine Street, Waltham; The Walnut Food Store, Newton Highlands; Bob's Waban Market, Waban Square; or MediMart in Newton Centre.

Deadline for "Around Newton" listings is Friday at 5 p.m. before our publication date.

Multi-service Center's tree sale ongoing

NONANTUM — Christmas trees from Nova Scotia are now on sale at the Nonatum Multi-Service Center. There will be a varied assortment of trees offered at reasonable prices and all proceeds will benefit our senior citizens program.

The center is located at 48 Silver Lake Ave., Newton, at the corner of Adams St. Call 965-6390 if you need directions. Hours are 2 to 7 weekdays and 10 to 7 weekends.

A 19" Quasar color television set is the first prize and a hand-made Christmas afghan donated by Elva Nelke is second prize in the Center Holiday raffle. Tickets are on sale at the Center and all proceeds help support our program. A chance is only $1 and six chances may be purchased for $5.

The Nonantum Multi-Service Center and West Suburban Elder Services offer hot lunches to senior adults at the Center Monday through Saturday at noon. Seniors are ivited to call Bernadette at 965-6390 for a luncheon reservation or to call Dorothy at 552-7170 for a transportation reservation. We also offer a variety of recreational activities throughout the day and encourage seniors to call for details.

Need help? Need information? Information and referral services are now being offered at the Nonantum multi-service center. If you are in need of services and need assistance contacting appropriate Newton resources, call 965-6390 between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. Monday through Friday. All Newton residents in need of information or assistance are encouraged to call and all calls will be handled confidentially.

The Center is an intake agency for the low income energy assistance program. If you need assistance with fuel bills this winter and are living on a limited income, you should call 965-6390 to see if you qualify for aid.

The registered nurse, Margaret Weizel, has returned from vacation and resumed her health and blood pressure clinics on Monday, Tuesday and Friday mornings and Monday and Thursday afternoons.

The Nonantum Multi-Service Center Christmas Party will be right after lunch on Friday, Dec. 17. All senior adults and friends of the Center are invited to attend and encouraged to bring refreshments if you can.

Newtonville Senior Center sets festivities

NEWTONVILLE — The Newtonville Senior Drop-In Center located at 345 Walnut St. cordially invites Newton seniors to attend its annual Holiday Celebration. The party will be on Tuesday, Dec. 14, at 1:15 p.m. Refreshments and holiday songs and maybe a visit from Santa Claus are some of the planned festivities.

There is still plenty of time to create your own pine cone wreath. The class meetss on Thursday mornings at 9:30. There are still openings for those interested in creating wreaths to be used year after year. You'll really surprise yourself at what a festive wreath you can make. Call the Center for more details.

Financial Planning and The Stock Market will be the topic of discussion on Thursday, Dec. 9, at 12:45. J. Andrea Allen, a stockbroker with the firm Tucker, Anthony, and R. L. Day, Inc. of Boston will be at the Center to discuss various types of investments and the basics of financial planning.

Allen will also talk about her firm's forcasts for the next year or so in the stock market. All are welcome to attend this informative lecture.

Regular programs at the Center include Legal Advice, Nutrition Counseling, Volunteer Hospital Work, Bingo, Art Lessons, Ceramics, Line Dancing Classes, Pine Cone Wreths, Yoga and a French class. All these classes are open to Newton seniors. Please call the Center for details and more information.

The Drop-In Center is sponsored by the Department of Human Services in cooperation with the Council on Aging. For more information, please call Marilyn Shaughnessy at 527-6770.

Project to help needy is underway

NEWTON — The Christmas Service Committee anounces that its 1982 project to help needy individuals and families is now underway. It invites everyone in Newton to participate by sending in donations of any amount to help neighbors have a better holiday season.

This committee has been functioning since the 1930s under the auspices of the Newton Community Council, the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs and Church Women United of Newton.

It contacts schools, churches and various social agencies throughout the city for names of people who are in need of help. Acting as a clearing house, the committee checks the names, which must be referred by an authorized agency to avoid duplication.

At the same time efforts are made to raise funds for distribution to those who have been so referred.

Mrs. Charles Doherty, treasurer, said that although Newton is generally considered affluent, there were names of over 500 families referred last year which consisted of over 1,300 individuals.

The gifts distributed are small amounts of money, ranging from $10 to $30 depending on the number of people in the family unit.

This is a Newton project — for Newton folks — by Newton folks and any contributions received are deeply appreciated, especially in these hard times when more people than usual are unemployed and the dollars stretch less than they used to.

Make checks payable to: Christmas Service Committee and send them to 26 Sterling St., West Newton, 02165 as early as possible so that assistance may be given most effectively.

DOC ON THE RUN - Dr. H. Emerson Thomas, Jr., of Newton, crossed the finish line with a smile after the recent 4.7-mile Colonnade Doctors' Run for the American Heart Association. Dr. Thomas, who is affiliated with University Hospital and is president of the Greater Boston Divison of the Heart Association, was also on the race committee. Some 28 other doctors from Newton also ran in the race.

Players perform in Brookline

NEWTON — "Beauty, is it really what you see?" This is the question asked by the Freelance Players original musical production of "To Find A Rose".

This adaptation of the popular children's story Beauty and the Beast, is scheduled to be performed December 18 and 19 at the Brookline High School.

The Freelance Players, a professional children's acting company, has actors between the ages of 9 and 16.

The company, whose members are from the greater Boston area, has been actively creating musical production for the past 9 years. For 12 weeks the young actors and actresses collaborate with professional staff members to create a musical to be performed at various sites in and around Boston. The program includes not only music, dance, and staging rehearsals but scriptwriting, stage design, make-up, and improvisational classes as well.

"To Find A Rose", will be performed at Brookline High School on Saturday, Dec. 18 at 2:30 p.m. and 8 p.m. and also Sunday, Dec. 19 at 2:30 p.m.

For further information call 524-6848.

German Christmas planned Sunday in Highlands church

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — The early music consort "Much Ado" will present its annual Christmas concert at The Newton Highlands Congregational Church, 54 Lincoln St., on Dec. 12, at 7:30 p.m. Their program, entitled "A German Christmas," will feature Advent and Christmas music from Renaisance Germany.

The consort consists of six colorfully costumed musicians who perform music of the late middle ages and Renaissance on a variety of early wind and reed instruments, plucked and bowed strings, and voices.

Members of the group include Deborah Fox, lute; Eric Haas, recorders, flute, krummhorn; Janet Haas, viola da gamba; Paul Johnson, recorders, flute, drummhorn, lute; Roy Sansom, recorders, rackett, psaltery; and Elizabeth Smith, voice.

The Music Committee of the Highlands Church is pleased to sponsor this delightful program as part of its special musical offerings for the season. The public is cordially invited.

Country Day hosts tree sale

NEWTON — A Christmas Tree Sale, featuring several varieties of tree, holiday wreaths, and a Holiday Boutique offering handicrafts, ornaments, and home-baked goods, will be held Dec. 10, from 1:30 to 5 p.m.; Saturday, Dec. 11, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.; and Sunday, Dec. 12, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Proceeds from the sale will go to the scholarship fund. Newton Country Day School of the Sacred Heart, 785 Centre St., Newton.

Highlands cable airs series on the elderly

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — In the current concern with the increasing number of older people and how to meet their needs, it is easy to overlook the large numbers of elderly who remain healthy and live independently within their communities.

Last week the weekly cable television show, "Around the Highlands," began a special series highlighting these productive senior citizens. Dr. Lawrence Branch of the Harvard Medical School estimates that this group constitutes about 80 percent of the elderly — which comprise approximately 11 percent of the total population nationally. Between 20 and 25 percent of the total population of Newton Highlands, though, are senior citizens according to Newton Highlands Community Development Corporation Administrator Howard Leibowitz.

In this series "Around the Highlands" will be asking, Who are elderly in this village? What do they contribute? What are their support systems? How do they spend free time? What is their philosophy of life? Are they markedly different from one another or from their younger neighbors?

The show last week featured a visit with Josephine Sullivan, a retired proofreader and avid gardener, followed with a commentary by Maeve Ward, a social worker who works at West Suburban Elder Services.

One future show will spotlight Hazel Gove, a former schoolteacher honored at last year's Village Day, which Mayor Mann proclaimed "Hazel Gove Day." At 92 Mrs. Gove still works as a volunteer tutor at the Hyde School.

The series will also continue to highlight interesting senior citizens, including some who refuse to retire and others who are active in various loval clubs and volunteer activities.

"Around the Highlands," sponsored by the Newton Highlands Community Development Corporation, airs on Thursdays at 7:30 p.m. on Newton Cable Channel 3 and repeats on Fridays at 12:30 p.m.

Chiropractic for Health

by Dr. David G. Rutman, Chiropractor
LONG LIVE ROCK
For older people, a rocking chair can provide useful exercise on a par with walking. In the case where the rocking chair's height requires that the heel be lifted off the floor with each backward rock, the flexing action of the foot provides stimulation to circulation in the lower extremities. The exercise thus provided is neither too mild nor limited when one considers the alternately contracting and relaxing action of lower body muscles. Vigorous rocking provides legs and feet with much needed stimulation without the inherent dangers that a long walk may impose on an elderly person.
The right exercise provides the legs with adequate movement and results in the desired effect upon the spinal column. Thus the body's nerve network is maintained in optimum operating condition and the "messages" of proper function are transmitted and optimum health maintained. For a better understanding or attention to the needs of your spinal column and nerve network, call DR. DAVID G. RUTMAN, CHIROPRACTOR, 4593 Washington St., Roslindale. Tel. 323-5022. Hours by appt. including 3 eves. a week. VISA & MasterCard accepted.
CHIRO TIP:
Growing older does not necessarily have to be an unpleasant experience.

Christmas choir

The Newton Centre Woman's Club will hold its annual Christmas party and luncheon at 12:30 on Friday, Dec. 10, with entertainment by the famous St. Paul's Boys' Choir. Members should bring a wrapped gift for exchange. The choir, from the Boston Archdiocesan Choir School at St. Paul's in Cambridge, performs a concert program which includes music from the classical choral repertory and instrumental music featuring the handbell choir and recorder flutes.

Businesses huddle on ways to treat alcohol problems

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON CENTRE — Alcohol abuse costs U.S. businesses $50 billion dollars annually. About $24 billion of that sum is lost through reduced productivity.

But thousands of companies are successfully dealing with alcoholism among employees.

These companies get treatment for the troubled worker rather than fire him or her after alcoholism has disrupted his personal life and work.

At Boston College last week, local business heads learned from companies and alcohol abuse experts about the advantages of the Employee Assistance Program (EAP).

About 25 local businesses, including representatives of the Marriott Hotel, Honeywell, GTE Sylvania and Purity Supreme, attended the conference sponsored by the chamber and the Region West Family Counseling Service.

"We are trying to educate people that there are many companies which have taken up this kind of program," said Lewis Songer, Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce executive vice president. "There is a need for it throughout the business community."

About 70-80 percent of workers overcome alcoholism when treated through industry-supported programs. Only 25 percent of the unemployed overcome their drinking problem, according to The Region West Family Counseling Service statistics.

While a person's personal life is being disrupted by alcohol abuse, their tardiness, absenteeism and reduced productivity costs money for the company. Employers sometimes simply fire a trained and qualified worker who has a drinking problem job.

However at companies such as Honeywell, which has plants in Newton and Waltham, supervisors normally alert Ernie Kapopoulos to a troubled worker.

Troubled workers are usually referred to Kapopoulos by a supervisor, though a family member sometimes makes the referral. The employee usually does not go to Kapopoulos on his own.

"The overwhelming majority of people who are referred to us are receptive to getting help," he said.

Kapopoulos talks with the worker and if he determines that alcohol is a problem, arranges for treatment which might be either hospitilization, individual counseling, group therapy or a combination of programs.

The city of Newton, which employees about 4,000 people, established an assistance program eight months ago. Gina Kelley, a nurse practitioner and counselor, is available full-time to help workers with alcoholism, and other problems, such as family troubles and legal difficulties. She evaluates problems and refers workers to local agencies or medical facilities for help.

"There's a stigma surrounding alcoholism. I'm not uncomfortable talking about it but other people are sensitive about it," she said.

Gerald Shulman, a nationally-recognized alcohol abuse expert, said patients at his hospital are more successful overcoming alcoholism when they are supported by their employers.

Shulman, executive director of Spofford Hall, a detoxification hospital in Spofford, N.H., said the potential of losing a job also motivates people to work at their drinking problem.

(Employers who want further information on the EAP can call Thomas Viccaro, EAP consultant for the Region West Family Counseling Service at 965-6200.)

Reilly, Keefe on Suburban football all stars

By Frank Murphy, Sports Editor

Waltham High failed to capture any championship or a Super Bowl berth for its football endeavors this past fall, but the once-beaten Hawks did boasts some outstanding individual talent as reflected in the 1982 Suburban League Coaches' All-Star Team.

Six first team berths were awarded to Waltham players and three other teammates merited second team selection. That was collectively more than any other school in the seven-team circuit, including champion Brockton, which spoiled the Hawks' perfect slate on Thanksgiving Day.

Neighboring Newton North placed two players, center Dan Reilly and middleguard Tom Keefe, on the honor brigade with four added to the second unit.

Brockton garnered six first team spots and had two players chosen on the second team.

The all-stars:

STEVE GIUSTI–Injuries and illness kept this 5-8, 165-pound junior from having a sensational season. After scoring seven touchdowns in six games, Steve was ruled out of football with mononucleosis, but came back to play in the season's finale against Brockton.

Giusti still wound up as the team's top ground gainer, rushing for 591 yards on 125 carries. He was superb running the football inside the tackles, aided by his great balance. A very difficult ball carrier to tackle, too.

A very intense competitor, he had good instincts and footwork and ran the inside traps effectively by reading the blocks so well.

Steve also started on defense as the left cornerback position. He was the surest tackler on the team

RICH BARTLEMAN–"He was the heart of our team," is the way Waltham Coach Paul McGovern evaluates the value of the rugged fullback-linebacker. "In our running scheme our fullback always has to pick up somebody and open the hole. Richie obviously did the job. We also used him as a ball carrier when we needed short yardage."

The 5-10, 185-pound senior was the Hawks" intimidator on defense. He often set the tempo of the game with a big hit, which is often so important psyschologically.

Bartleman was playing two positions that demanded hitting on every play. He had to be in excellent physical condition, which he was, and had to be able to withstand punishment.

He wants to go into electronics after graduating from high school, with either Wentworth Institute or Lowell University in his plans.

GERRY CORBETT--Like Bartleman, Corbett could have made the starting lineup either way at tackle. Offensively his pulling on the outside sweep was responsible for a considerable amount of yardage. His straight-ahead blocking was excellent, usually against a bigger man. He had great technique, which was the difference.

On defense he played some outstanding games, highlighted by the Arlington game. The 6-1, 205-pound senior also handled the punting assignments for the second year in a row. They're still talking about his 84-yard hoist against Arlington.

Gerry had a couple of brothers that starred on the Waltham gridiron before him. Matt was a fullback two years ago, while John was a tackle and went on to become an All-league offensive tackle at the University of Connecticut. Gerry may be headed for prep school.

BOB QUALTERS--This 6-2, 185-pounder was probably Waltham's best all-around player. He was certainly the quickest and showed incredible leadership. He took his duties as co-captain seriously.

Bob was the big-play type kid on defense. He made things happen from his defensive end station.

His pass rush was especially noticeable. He had a great first step coming off the ball and would beat the offensive tackle blocking on the outside.

"I never saw a defensive end do a better job reading the screen pass," offered Coach McGovern. "Last year in the Newton North game he spoiled the fake extra point and the fake field goal by being at the right spot at the right time both times."

Bob started at split end in a number of games. He was a very good pass receiver and an excellent blocker. He ran a 46-yard pass grab for a TD in the Brockton game, which his finest single-game performance ever.

His size may cause some of the colleges to overlook him, but he has many things in his favor as a grid prospect.

MARK TARANTO–The son of Hawk line coach "Tucker" Taranto was a two-way operator with outstanding athletic intelligence. As a football player he was usually in the right place.

Mark, at 6-1 and 175, played center on offense and linebacker on defense. Waltham had a lot of different defensive sets and he was responsible for calling them.

He was a great position blocker at the center spot and a silent leader. He didn't say much. He led with his performance. His older brother Tom was an all-league tackle at Bentley College this fall. Mark is expecting to go on to prep school.

DARREN MARCOU--Coach McGovern describes him as "the best athlete in the high school". Darren was a first team All-Suburban League pick last year as a split end. He was switched to halfback this fall and made a remarkable transition.

The versatile 170-pound senior was going great until he injured his ankle at North Quincy. He finished out the season despite the injury.

Marcou is regarded by his coach as one of the best defensive backs at Waltham in a long time at safety. "He is an excellent tackler and plays the pass as well as any kid we've had," said Paul.

Darren came through when the chips were down, either as a ball carrier, as a placekicker, or as a safety.

He is definitely college material, but it is still too soon to tell where he's headed.

DAN REILLY - The rock in the middle of the Newton North offensive line all season. Dan Reilly played on the varsity for three years and was a starter at center for the last two seasons. As a sophomore, he snapped punts and filled in on the offensive line.

The 6-3, 225-pounder solidified and controlled the middle of the offensive line. He was an aggressive, steady blocker, who went after his assignment with great desire. His ability to control the opponent's middle guards allowed the Newton North offense to run counter and trap plays with great success. Reilly also filled in at defensive tackle and played in the short yardage defense.

"Danny was like the "Rock of Girbralter" in the middle of the line," said Newton North coach Norm Walker. "He has excellent size and the desire to play. He's been snapping punts for three years and never had a bad snap. His consistency and aggressiveness was something we could count on every week." A top college prospect, Reilly is undecided.

TOM KEEFE — The fourth Keefe to play football for Norm Walker, Tom overcame size limitations to be one of the top defensive lineman in the league. Keefe is the youngest of six brothers. Dave, Bob and Don all played football for Newton North with Dave and Don earning All-Star honors. At 5-10, 160-pounds Keefe would get lower than his bigger opponents and make his way into the backfield.

Keefe, who teamed up with defensive tackle Ed Cohen, continually menaced opposing quarterbacks. Despite giving a lot of weight, Keefe answered the call in every game.

"Tommy is a tough kid," said Walker. "He is the fourth Keefe to play for me and he displayed the same outstanding will. He was a key guy in our defense all season. He made quite a few big plays by staying low and doing his job. He helped make the defensive line of the stronger aspects of the team." Tom plans on attending college.

Topping the list of Waltham players chosen on the second team was tight end Paul Logue. whose dimensions (6-2, 220) have made him one of the most sought-after Hawk players.

Chris Bowler was a defensive end choice. The 6-2, 215-pound senior also played offensive tackle. Offensive guard Joe Kohler (5-11, 170) was also singled out in the balloting.

Tim Brandon was chosen second-team all-star quarterback behind Quincy's Bob Mudge. Brandon, who had his trouble with interceptions, was one of the top throwing quarterbacks in the league. The senior tossed for more than 600 yards on the season and threw five touchdown passes. He threw three TD tosses against Brookline in the final game of the season. "Tim was a good quarterback for us for two years," said Walker. "He struggled for awhile, but nobody around has a better arm and I'm glad he got the recognition."

Deane Morreale, a Newton North co-captain, earned second-team defensive line honors. Morreale was the emotional leader of the Tigers and he led by example. The senior played four different positions this season. He started out on the offensive line and he played defensive end. Deane also played defensive tackle and tight end on offense against Brookline.

John MacDonnell was a also a versatile member of the Newton North team and was named second-team offensive lineman. MacDonnell played offensive tackle and midway through the season was shifted to linebacker. Paul Wessell was selected second-team defensive back. The senior, who started playing football as a junior, improved greatly through the season. He was a kickoff returner and caught 14 passes on the season from a split end position.

Natick over Melrose in Division One Super Bowl

By Ed Santoro

FOXBORO — One of the largest schoolboy football crowds in a long, long time chose a springlike day in December to watch Natick score last in a see-saw 35-34 thriller over Melrose Saturday afternoon at Schaefer Stadium.

With Natick trailing 34-27 and only 1:20 left in the game sophomore quarterback Paul Ghilani engineered the winning drive that resulted in the Natick victory.

Ghilani was voted his club's most valuable player.

Halfback Darren Flutie (54 yards rushing) covered the final 12 yards for the Redmen. He gained six on a pitch right, then used the same play behind blocks by fullback Dave Morrill and tackle Mike McBreen to squeeze just inside the end zone corner flag for the score.

Flutie, running the same pitch-right play for the third consecutive time, bulled his way behind George Bradley for the two-point conversion.

The defenses took seats in the back of the buses in this one as the two offenses combined for 10 touchdowns and 622 yards from scrimmage.

Melrose had an edge in statistics with 354 yards to Natick's 268 and a 63-53 edge in offensive plays.

"What it all boiled down to was who had the ball last," said an elated Natick coach Tom Lamb.

"There were no losers out there," a disappointed Melrose coach, Bruce MacPherson, said. And he was quick to praise Natick. "They were behind and moved the ball to win the game."

The first quarter was the only one without a score. Melrose picked off two of Ghilani's passes to stop Natick. But early in the second quarter senior Chris Hickey (75 yards in 24 carries) bulled his way into the Natick end zone for the game's first score. Doug Prentice's try for the extra point hit the left upright and bounced back toward the field of play.

A Flutie punt turned the momentum to Natick. He booted one 42 yards downed on the Melrose 4 by guard Dean Hladick. Two plays later Jim DePalo recovered a fumble, and Ghilani on the first play passed 10 yards to Jim Kelly for the score. Flutie kick the point and Natick had its first lead at 7-6.

Minutes later, Bob Flaherty jumped on a second Melrose fumble and the Ghilani-to-Kelly duo clicked again on an 18-yard scoring lob.

Melrose took the kickoff 80 yards with Hickey, Prentice, and Anthony Spinale running for the yardage. The Red Raiders were helped immensely when a loose ball fumble rolled ahead 23 yards to the Natick 13 before offensive guard Jim Del Genio recaptured it for Melrose.

Natick surged ahead 19-12 early in the third quarter on a 54-yard drive highlighted by a 32-yard run by DePalo. Then DePalo seemingly broke the game open for Natick when he took a Prentice punt on his own 20 and raced 80 yards with it. But a blocking below the waist infraction set the ball back on the Natick 17.

After a Flutie punt put Melrose back on its own 10, Spinale, the leading rusher in the game with 146 yards on 16 attempts, took an inside handoff 79 yards. Safety Don Marsh temporarily saved the touchdown by tripping up Spinale at the 11 but the big (185 pounds) senior got the score a few plays later.

Natick got the lead back at 27-20 in a seven-play drive opening the fourth quarter. It didn't last long. Prentice on a quarterback rollout to his right, with tight end Jim Morris providing the key block, ran 44 yards to score. Hickey carried for the two points and a 28-27 Melrose lead. The Raiders jumped the lead to 34-27 with another march, this one of 51 yards, but Prentice's try for the extra point was wide left, setting up the final Natick drive.

Ghilani, 8-of-11 for 87 yards, used the sidelines effectively as the Redmen went into their two-minute offense. First he hit Flutie for nine, then Nick Luisi for seven, and finally Flutie again for another 11. His fourth pass, intended for Jim Kelly, was down the middle. But the 6-foot-4 junior end never had a chance to catch it because the Melrose defender climbed all over him.

Flutie, who told Ghilani he wanted the ball and felt he could score, said, "I saw the open space and just went for it." He gave credit for the hole to tackle George Bradley. "He just moves everyone out," said Flutie.

Cathedral streaks past Lancers

NEWTON — Newton Catholic couldn't stop the title drive of Cathedral High as the Lancers dropped their Thanksgiving Day eve contest 29-9 under the lights at Albemarle Field.

Cathedral unloaded a corps of talented runningbacks and the strong arm of quarterback Bob Barrett to dominate the smaller Lancer squad. The Chiefs combined a 25-yard off-tackle run and recovered Lancer fumble to post an early 14-0 first quarter lead.

When the two teams switched ends of the field in the second quarter, Newton Catholic had the advantage of a strong wind at its back that Cathedral had enjoyed earlier.

Newton Catholic called on its playbook and came up with a big flea-flicker pass to drive to the Cathedral four-yard line. Quarterback Tom DeRosa handed off to senior Marc Hung, who handed off to Billy Martin coming around the end. Martin flipped the ball to DeRosa. The senior quarterback hit end Scott MacAdam for a 27-yard completion and a first and goal situation.

Hung brought the ball to the one yard line on two carriers before DeRosa broke the goalline for the score. Newton Catholic failed on a pass-after conversion attempt and trailed by eight.

With time running down in the half, Newton Catholic's defense got the ball back for the Lancers. MacAdam picked off a misguided Barrett pass at the midfeld mark and returned the ball to the 6-yard line. Newton Catholic coach Tom Raeke praised the performance of MacAdam and said "Scott MacAdam was the player of the game. He is an outstanding individual and an outstanding football player."

With two seconds on the clock Hung, playing in his last game as a Lancer, drilled the uprights for a 20-yard field goal and pulled the Lancers to within five at the half, 14-9.

Though Hung was shut down by the Chiefs, Raeke still has plenty of praise for his retiring senior, who has sparked the Lancers for the past two seasons.

"Hung stuck well defensively," said Raeke. "He gave it his best shot as he always does and pound for pound Marc Hung was the best player on the field."

The Lancers watched Barrett and a host of Cathedral backs carry the offense in the second half as the victors tacked up two more touchdowns and 15 points. "Barrett is an outstanding player," said Raeke. "He was the difference in this game and has a chance to go on and play college ball."

Berig cops bronze in figure skating

Wendy Berig, a 14-year-old ninth grade student at Newton Country Day School, was the 1983 Junior Ladies Bronze Medalist at the New England Figure Skating Championship held recently at Lexington.

Competing against 28 top skaters from the New England Region, Wendy pulled from fifth place to a third place finish with a strong free skating performance.

This marks the third year that Wendy has won a medal at the New England Championships. She won the 1981 Novice Ladies Bronze Medal and the 1980 Intermediate Ladies Bronze Medal.

Wendy will now be one of three Junior Ladies to represent New England at the Eastern United States Figure Skating Competition to be held held South Yarmouth from Dec. 7-11.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Berig of 89 Locust Lane, Needham and is coached by Robert Black at the Skating Club of Boston. During the summer months, Miss Berig lives in Colorado Springs and is coached by Carlo Fassi.

Three North Booters named Suburban stars

The Waltham High boys' soccer team, which garnered a share of the Suburban League title for the second straight year, placed four players on the league all-star team, while rival Newton North had three players named to the squad.

The Hawk booters completed a fine season by defeating North Quincy to gain a share of the title with Cambridge. Waltham, which won the Division I North Sectional title a year ago, was eliminated in the first round of the this year's tourney in the opening game against Lexington.

The surprising Hawks did it with four starting seniors and a host of underclassmen. Waltham had two seniors and two juniors named to the all-star team.

Newton North just missed a spot in the tourney, but finished with a flurry. The Tigers suffered a key injury in midseason, but were able to regroup and capture third spot in the league by defeating Brookline on the last day of the season.

Gino DiStefano - The field general of the Waltham offense and he's only a junior. An unselfish player, DiStefano led the Hawks in assists this season with 12 and he was also tied for the team's scoring lead with seven goals. Waltham had a total of 32 assists as a team and Gino's 12 proves he's usually around the net when Waltham scores. "Gino was involved in a lot of plays for us all season," said Waltham coach John Graceffa. "He's a very instinctive player. He has great vision and it enables him to see the play developing and react to it. Gino is also a great one-on-one talent and he usually beats a defender before making a play. Gino is just a dangerous player." This is the second time Gino has earned all-league honors.

Dan DeLeo - Termed by Coach Graceffa as the most skilled player on the Waltham team, Dan DeLeo scored seven goals this season and was always a big part of the defense. DeLeo has started since midway through his sophomore year and has never sat down again. He scored the tying goal against Medford early in the season and he also got the lone goal in a crucial 1-0 victory over rival Newton North. Dan also drew the assignment of marking the league's tougher players. "Dan was very skilled in terms of ball handling, touch and passing," said Graceffa. "He could do it all for us. He was a solid defensive player and could go up on the offense to get some big goals for us. He was also a stabilizing force on our young team. He along with senior Joe Romanowski really solidified our defense." An excellent student, Dan is considering West Point as a possible college.

John Giardina - Only one of three seniors that started for the 1982 Waltham soccer team, John Giardina provided goals in the first half of the season and leadership the rest of the way. Not the fastest player on the field, John would be opposing players to the ball by outthinking them. He had great instincts and anticipation, which helped him to get the jump on opposing fullbacks. He was tied with DeLeo and DiStefano with the team scoring lead at seven goals. "John's best asset is his coachability," said Graceffa. "He is always listening, using his head and doing what was expected of him. There are a lot of good strikers in the league, but the opposition respected John because of his heady style of play. He scored quite a bit early in the season and got the game-winning goal against Brookline in an important win early."

Andy Kramer - The most feared aspect of this junior's game had nothing at all to do with his feet. Andy Kramer has a terrific throw-in from the sideline. He can easily reach the goal and in soccer that means quite a few more scoring opportunities. Kramer's throw-ins aren't his only asset. He stabilized the Waltham defense at fullback. He is an aggressive player with size and the ability to intimidate the opposition. He played almost every minute of every game this season for the Hawks. "Andy bailed us out a lot this season," said Graceffa. "He stopped a lot of potential bad situations. We had some inexperience early in the season and Andy along with Danny really shored up the defense. Andy can be one of the best players in Division I next year. He's go the size, the talent and he is a rugged player. Sometimes his aggressiveness gets him trouble, but he's only a junior and he'll learn."

Tim Feeney - A leader both on and off the field, Tim Feeney blossomed into a top player midway through the season. A Newton North co-captain, Feeney was the player the rest of the team looked to for guidance. He was the team's role model. His hard play and intensity was reflected in the performance of his teammates during the season. Feeney was a knowledgeable soccer player with good skills. "Tim was the only returner of the team," said Newton North coach Roger Brown. "He set an example for the inexperienced players. He had tremendous desire and is a tough, aggressive soccer player who led by example. We didn't have any experience at the start, but him, and he was the person we looked to." Feeney is undecided about soccer, but he is considering Bentley College.

Magnus Ristorp - An unselfish player with tremendous skill, Magnus Ristorp is an exchange student from Sweden, who made a great impact on the league in his lone season. A player with a great shot and passing ability, Ristorp was used primarily on defense. "We had to put Magnus on the defense because we didn't have much experience back there," said Brown. "Magnus is an unselfish player and he played on defense. It took him a while to adjust because he played offense all his life. He made the adjustment and started to learn when he could come up offensively."

Magnus learned well for he scored four goals on the season and each goal had a direct effect on the game. One goal was in the third period to win a game, while the other three came in the fourth period. Two of the goals were game winners and the other one tied the game. "Magnus was a player who always hit the open man," said Brown. "At times, I wished he might have kept the ball, but that was the way he was taught to play. He hurt his ankle midway through the season and for three or four games we struggled without him."

Mike Dunbar - You may be able to call Mike Dunbar a future Tim Feeney. He is a co-captain elect and also has the ability to lead on the field. Only a junior, Dunbar was a consistent force in the midfield all season for Newton North. He covered a lot of ground and was able to make the transition from defense to offense with great ease. Primarily concerned with defense, Dunbar possessed a good shot from 30 yards out. "Mike is the leader of the future," said Brown. "He can get to a lot of balls and cover some ground. He was one reason I put Magnus on defense. I knew I could count on Mike in the middle to control the play and distribute the ball. He was a good strong two-way player and an intense competitor. It'll be nice to have him back next season."

Chapman's quick start boosts Mishkan Tefila

NEEDHAM — Steven Chapman scored nine of his 11 points in the opening period to help lead Mishkan Tefila to a 57-48 victory over Needham Thursday night in a United Synagogue Youth Basketball league game played at the Broadmeadow School in Needham.

Chapman's points helped the winners to a 17-15 lead after the first quarter, and they never trailed, outscoring Needham in every quarter of the fast-paced game.

Richie Freeman led Mishkan Tefila scorers with 12 points. He picked up six in the second quarter and four more in the third, as they steadily increased their lead.

The winners' depth was the story in the final frame, as they held Needham to a scant eight points.

Mishkan Tefila returns to the hardwood next Wednesday, when they take on Temple Emeth at the Runkle School in Brookline.

Injuries bug new Tiger sextet

By Steve Tiberi
Staff Writer

The Newton North hockey team hasn't even dropped the puck for the first scrimmage of the season and already the Tigers have an injury problem. The worst of it is that two of the players are regulars and the third is a big part of this season's plan.

Newton North coach Don Crowley greeted his candidates for practice Monday knowing his primary need was to find a goalie. Unfortunately, goalie Steve MacKay, who played on the junior varsity last season, was injured. He hurt his knee cap in a midget game and it simply needs rest.

MacKay never played goal for the varsity, but he does have good ability and could develop into a solid net minder in time. Crowley hopes MacKay can get into playing shape in the next few days. The Tigers have been using sophomores Mark Buckley, Ken Castriotti and Mark Devore. All three are talented, but are very green.

"No question, we've got to find a goalie," said Crowley. "We'll be looking for someone who can do the job. MacKay is the oldest, but he's hurt and we've going without him. We'll know a lot more after the first few scrimmages, but it is still up in the air."

The Newton North injury woes don't stop in the net. The top scorer of a year ago for the Tigers was Tom Ryan and he's out with a bad wrist. He also needs rest and will miss the first few practices. Ryan has been skating with the team. As a sophomore (he made the Suburban League All-Star team), Ryan was the top point getter with 27. He scored 12 goals and had 15 assists.

"Tom just has a lot of natural ability," said Crowley. "He's got good speed and a knack for scoring. We're going to have to get him some help up front when he does comeback. We need to get some scoring from other players. We lost a lot of goals and we must make them up."

The Newton North forward situation is laced with experienced players. The Tigers boast five returnees with good goal production. A few of the players will have to have big years in the league.

Senior center Bill Chisholm has been playing for the Tigers for two years and he scored two goals last season. Chisholm will be a leader on the ice. Senior forward John Hickey, who scored five goals last season, is also a talented player upfront. Hickey, who is deaf, is the team's strongest skater and handles the puck well in front of the net.

The third injured Tiger is winger Tom Grady, who hurt his ankle. Grady was the fourth leading scorer on the team a year ago with 15 points and six goals. "We're looking forward to getting all the injured players back," said Crowley. "We've been practicing without them, but things would be speeded up with their return."

Chris Pachus, who played regularly as a sophomore, will be back to try to improve on last season's 15-point performance. Chris scored five goals and dealt out 10 assists. Paul Healey and Tim Marchand are a pair of sophomores who may crack the varsity roster.

"I'd like to keep four lines this season," said Crowley. "We probably will go with four, but I will keep three playing regularly."

Defensively, Newton North is strong with captain Tom Whiting providing experience and leadership. Whiting has played for two years and is a leader on the ice. He handles the puck well in his own zone and has the ability to get the offense moving. Whiting will be the top defenseman among an experienced group.

Juniors Dave Buckley and Dave Boudreau saw extensive action as sophomores. Each player has good skills with the ability to rush the net. Senior Jeff Cutter played a limited role a season ago, but he'll be counted upon in a bigger role this season. Senior Larry Tafe is a versatile performer with the ability to play either defense or forward.

"Defensively, we have experience," said Crowley. "The four or five defensemen we will carry all have experience. It should be the strong piont of the team. We'll be solid on defense."

Newton North opens the season on Wednesday night, December 15, against Dedham in a non-league contest. The Tigers will also be playing non-league games against Melrose, BC High and Xaverian during the course of the season. Newton North opens the Suburban League season in the last week of December.

Two South booters on Dual County All Stars

The league champion Weston High soccer team had five players named to the Dual County League All-Star team, while Newton South had two players selected to the squad.

The Wildcats ended their best season ever with a 13-2-2 record overall. They suffered just one league loss to Acton-Boxboro and were eliminated in the semi-final round of the EMass Division II North Sectionals. It was Weston's first trip to the tourney.

Under first year-coach Frank Taylor, Weston was able to combine great individual talent with a team concept and the results were five players on the All-Star team.

Newton South's season, however, was more of a roller coaster affair. The Lions boasted talented players, but they were susceptible to let downs during the long season. The Lions top two players were recognized by the league's coaches as first-team All-Stars.

Marc Nicoletti –Injured most of his junior season, Marc Nicoletti proved what a quality player he is with a tremendous season for Newton South. He was chosed All-Star at the sweeper position, but he could do it all on the soccer field. Marc was consistently pitted against the opposition's best players. He used his great skill and ball handling to stifle opposing players. "Marc was our best all-around player," said Newton South coach Al Wilson. "We used him where we needed him most. He could play defense, but when we needed offensive pressure he could step up to the front line and get results." Marc is still undecided on which college he will attend, but Cornell is high on the list.

Steve Reny – The man with the ability to take a defensive situation and immediately make it an offensive one. Reny was chosen the All-League stopperback and the most outstanding overall player in the league. The senior defender could take a ball in his own end and get started in the opponent's direction with great quickness. "Steve had the ability to change the flow of the game," said Weston coach Taylor. "He is just a natural athlete with great talent. He was also a great player to have on the team. He felt very deeply for the team and was consistently working hard. Steve is in the top 10 percent of his class at Weston and he has yet to choose a college. Princeton, Columbia and Boston College are all very high on his list.

John Farina – The leading scorer in the league, John Farina was the top offensive force in the DCL this past season. The opposition had him double covered, but he still managed to score 19 goals and deal out three assists to win the scoring honors. John was chosen the second most outstanding player in the league, but he and Reny were two different kinds of players. John was the big gun for Weston. He would take the pass up the middle and go with it. "If John ever got a step on a fullback and he had control of the ball, I knew nine out of 10 times it would be headed into the net," said Taylor. "His shot isn't the hardest you'll see, but he could place it. He had the ability to pull the goalie out of the net and put the ball by him." Farina has a number of colleges in mind. Boston College is at the head of the list.

Mike McCabe – Rick Hall wasn't the only All-Star quarterback at Weston thisd season. Mike McCabe was the field general of the soccer team and was the league's second leading scorer with three goals and a whopping 18 assists. McCabe was mostly finding Farina in the middle and Farina was popping them into the net. From his midfield position, MacCabe used his great ball handling ability to seek out the open man and get him the ball en route to the goal. "Mike controlled the ball at midfield for us," said Taylor. "He really improved over the season. He had tremendous individual ability, but he learned how to blend that ability into a team concept and the longer he does that the better he'll get." Boston College or Middlebury head the colleges on McCabe's list.

Mike Prescott – At times the forgotten man on the Weston team, Mike Prescott always was there to make the big save in the goal. He was hampered by a series of injuries all season. He had dislocated knee caps and also suffered a car accident, which left him with 25 stitches in his head. During the season, he cut his hands on two different occasions. "Mike has worked hard all year," said Taylor. "He always had to stay sharp because he had the top two scorers in the league shooting on him in practice and if one got by he had to answer to me. He suffered a lot of adversity, but he missed just one game." Seeking to major in business, Mike is considering Williams, Boston College, Bentley or Boston University.

Johan Rostad – Named to the second team, Johan Rostad scored seven goals for Weston this season, including four goals in one game against Bedford. Chosen an All-Star forward, Rostad is a big strong player who could intimidate opposing fullbacks. His strength enabled him to stay in front of the goal and get scoring chances. He was also a talented passer. "Johan has a tremendous shot," said Taylor. "I saw him knocked the braces of one of our nets in practice. He also could pass the ball with great consistency. Very few of his passes went out of bounds all season." Hobart and Boston College are the two schools Johan is looking into.

Steve Abroms – Suffering through consistent double teams, Steve Abroms was a feared forward throughout the DCL. He drew double coverage every game this season, but he managed to stay in the flow by passing off and getting his teammates scoring opportunities. "Steve was a marked man throughout the league," said Wilson. "He always had players watching him and he did well. He had some bad breaks during the year."

Sreve is still undecided on which college he will attend.

Frosh Yurkon spurs Bentley

WALTHAM — Freshmen center Cathy Yurkon came off the bench with the hot hand to spur the Bentley College women's basketball team to a 71-58 triumph over St. Anselm Saturday night at the Dana Athletic Center.

Bentley captured its first win of the season, after losing to Holy Cross in the opener. St. Anselm suffered its first defeat, after rattling off three wins.

Yurkon poured in a team-high 21 points to fuel the Bentley outburst. She was 10 of 15 from the floor and she snared 11 rebounds for an all-around effort. The Falcons led 26-29 at the half, but St. Anselm drew closer in the second half.

St. Anselm closed to within two points at 54-52 with 6:26 to play in the contest. Bentley, which was powered by Yurkon, put together a 12-point run to move up 66-52 with just 3:20 to play in the contest. Yurkon led the late Bentley surge with five of the 12-straight points.

Bentley's Junior All-America forward Alison Faye had her usual steady contest. She tossed in 20 points and pulled down 11 rebounds. 5-8 guard Claire Holston dealt out seven assists and grabbed a team-high 13 rebounds.

BENTLEY(71)-Yurkon 10-1-21; Foley 4-0-8; Fay 8-4-20; Burdick 2-1-5; Mackey 2-1-5; Tichy 1-0-2; Moskey 3-0-6; Holston 2-0-4. Tot. 32-7-71.

ST. ANSELM(58)-Jackson 3-2-8; Walsh 1-0-2; Heenan 1-3-5; Harrison 2-0-4; McIlroy 1-0-2; Dunn 10-3-23; Dauley 2-4-8; Gallagher 2-0-4; Grabowski 0-2-2. Tot. 22-14-58.

CREATIVE HOME FINANCING

If you're in the market for a home of your own, you're probably in the market for a home loan, too. A conventional mortgage is usually the first kind that comes to mind, but other alternatives do exist.

These include • privately insured loans • GI-insured loans • FHA-HUD-insured loans • Farmers Home Administration loans • urban "homestead" loans • "house-to-house" loans • variable interest rate loans • graduated payment mortgages and • HUD's subsidized homeownership program.

To learn about these possibilities, talk to a member of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® before you start looking. REALTORS® are real estate professionals, and forms of financing are part of their expertise. They can tell you what's available in your community, and how you can qualify.

Newton doctor was with team in a pioneering medical effort

BRIGHTON — Tremendous publicity has been generaged by the extraordinary maneuver of conception in vitro, outside the woman's body - the so-called "test tube baby" method. However, a more traditional approach based on the latest advancements in microsurgical technology now offers many patients the best possible hope of achieving pregnancy.

In particular, microsurgery renders one prevalent form of infertility caused by blockage of a woman's fallopian tubes highly susceptible to cure.

Among those in the forefront of this pioneering medical effort are Newton resident, Dr. John Derry, and Dr. Enrique Testa, St. Elizabeth's Hospital of Boston staff physicians, who recently performed the first fertility microsurgery to take place at that hospital.

The Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology staffers specialize in treating women with fertility problems. On a stormy day weather-wise, that handed travelers a long commute, Drs. Derry and Testa were oblivious to the elements as they focused on hours-long intricate surgery to repair fallopian tubes damaged by pelvic infection.

Their patient was a 28-year old woman, the mother of a seven-year old child, who wanted another. Husband and wife had been carefully evaluated to be certain whether there was no other cause for the infertility excepting the woman's problem.

In somewhat over four hours, the surgeons proceeded to section the slender ducts which connect ovaries to uterus, cauterize and dissect adhesions and realign the tubes. Given the fact that a fallopian tube is about four inches in length and approximates a pencil lead in diameter, delicate and precise maneuvers were the order of the day.

Commenting on the procedure, Dr. Derry noted, "It's the operating microscope which makes the surgery possible. It's crucial to success."

Prior to microsurgery, the success rate for such corrective procedures was not high. Along with the use of the surgical microscope, introduction of very fine suture material, and improved techniques make the difference, Derry said.

Today, microsurgery is performed in a limited number of hospitals across the United States. The first applications were in the field on ophthalmology and neurosurgery.

Dr. Derry said he is optimistic that there will be further expansion of this technology in his own field, as well as multiple adaptions in the realm of urology, plastic, hand and similar types of surgery which require minute, detailed work.

Maimonides honors 2 residents

NEWTON — Mrs. Ruth Einstein and attorney Peter Finn have been named 1982 Pillar of Maimonides Award recipients. The two will receive the annual Award at the School's Scholarship Banquet, to be held Sunday evening, Dec. 19 at the Boston Park Plaza.

The banquet is the culmination of the Maimonides annual Adbook campaign which raises money for the School's Scholarship Fund. Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kurr of Newton are this year's honorees.

Campaign chairmen Dr. and Mrs. Edward Hurwitz have also announced the Pillar Awardees. Mrs. Einstein, of Newton, who, with her husband Abraham, are owners of Bay State Beauty Supply, has been long active in Maimonides. She serves on the Board of Directors and has held every position in P.T.A. and Women's Auxiliary from the days when her son Walter and daughter Margie (Mrs. Edward Hurwitz) attended the school.

She was president of both organizations, and also held the position of president of the Hebrew Day Schools P.T.A. New England Region, and has received the "Advocate Rose."

Finn, a partner in the law firm of Guterman, Horvitz, Rubin and Rudman, is a member of the Maimonides Board of Directors and of many area organizations, including Jewish Big Brother Association; Zamir Chorale; Temple Aliyah; Boston Classical Orchestra; Buckingham, Browne and Nichols School.

At Maimonides, Finn served as chairman of the annual Spring Celebrity Auction last year, and has assumed that role for the 1983 event as well. He lives in Needham with his wife Nancy and sons, Jeffrey and David.

Junior high plans bonus of memories in final book

WEST NEWTON — Warren Junior High School is closing at the end of the school year and, with the last school year, the memories may be priceless.

The yearbook staff at Warren has found archive material dating from 1927 through the 1950s in the school safe and some 8 pages of the 56-page book will display some of those old memories.

Yearbook sales must be completed by December 15 so anyone wishing to pruchase the book should send a check as soon as possible. Make check or money order payable to Warren Junior High School, for $9, and include your name, address and telephone number on the check.

Send the money to the school office, 1600 Washington Street, West Newton, 02165.

Lesley College meeting set

NEWTON — Lesley College's Programs in Management for Business and Industry invites Newton residents to attend an informational meeting, Wednesday, Dec. 15, regarding Lesley's accelerated bachelor's and master's degree programs.

Those interested in attending the 6 p.m. meeting at the Grace Episcopal Church Parish Hall, 76 Elredge St., should register by calling 868-9624.

PMBI's degree offerings — a bachelor of science in organizational behavior and a master of science in management — are designed for working adults who have previous college experience.

Sticker slogan winners are named

"Foster Love Through Foster Care" is the slogan on the bumper sticker sponsored by the Foster Care Sub-Committee of Jewish Family and Children's Service Women's Committee. Not the product of a high powered ad agency, the message in red and white is the creation of Matthew Straus, a 9 year old from Randolph.

Matthew is no professional either. He and numerous other children enrolled in Hebrew Schools throughout Greater Boston participated in a bumper sticker contest sponsored by the JF&CS subcommittee and won first prize.

The kids may have had fun being inventive, but the competition stimulated an awareness of the urgent need for foster parents to Jewish children. The Hebrew School students were encouraged to discuss their slogan ideas with their parents, family and friends. The responses — contest entries, community interest, and foster parenting inquiries — were encouraging. Thousands of families in the metropolitan Boston area learned about the foster family need for Jewish children. JF&CS received telephone inquiries about foster parenting, and many children entered the contest.

Other winners besides Matthew Straus were: Lisa Pollack, age 6, of Newton Centre — 2nd prize. Honorable mention went to: Emily Rose, 10, of Wellesley; Melissa Ross, 11, of West Newton; David Topkins, 9, of West Newton; Hilary Price, 12, of Weston.

Jewish Family and Children's Service is deeply committed to locating foster homes for Jewish children. In addition to child placement, the multi-service agency takes in referrals and provides counseling for foster child and family before, during, and after placement. Financial reimbursement includes enrichment programs such as religious school.

Indicted in Newton bank heist

CAMBRIDGE — Indictments were returned by the Middlesex grand jury last week, charging a 59-year old Jamaica Plain man with armed robbery and confining in connection with a $67,000 holdup at the Pioneer Financial Bank in Newton Lower Falls.

Indicted on three counts of confining and four counts of armed robbery, Palmer A. Gregson, also known as Jack Richmond, is expected to be arraigned in Superior Court within two weeks. Gregson, of 110 Childs St., Jamaica Plain, is a former cleaning person who worked at the bank. No one was injured in the robbery, which according to Newton Police Chief William Quinn was the largest Newton bank robbery in the last decade.

Gregson was arrested by Newton police within hours of the robbery. He is being held at the Billerica Jail on $100,000 cash bail.

Conviction on the armed robbery charge carries a maximum sentence of life in a state prison.

During a probable cause hearing last October, bank employees testified Gregson threateed to shoot several employeers, whom he held at gunpoint in the bank at 2276 Washington St. Gregson fled from the bank with the cash from the vault and cashier drawers, according to accounts of the incident.

Police arrested Gregson at his home where they recovered the alleged stolen money.

Police said Gregson worked for the cleaning company employed by the bank but was laid off about a month prior to the alleged robbery.

During the probable cause hearing the bank manager and a teller identified Gregson as the man who robbed tha bank shortly after 8 a.m. Gregson was allegedly inside the building prior to the time the tellers arrived.

Pair make daring winter climb

Record reportedly set atop 20,000-foot peak

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — A Newton man and his Colorado companion have successfully scaled a 20,000 foot Himalayan peak - reportedly the first time the mountain has been conquered in the winter.

Braving winds known to top 100 miles an hour and temperatures of 30 to 40 degrees below zero, David Breashear of Newton and colleague Jeff Lowe made the first winter climb of Kwangdi, a Nepalese mountain south of Mount Everest.

According to wire service reports, the pair began the daring climb December 4 and reached the top of the 19,997 foot Kwangdi on December 7.

Kwangdi is "a mighty tough one and the wind is very severe at this time of the year," said Adams Carter of Milton, editor of the American Alpine Journal, in an interview late last week.

"The wind literally sandblasts the snow off, leaving solid ice," he said, speculating on the severe conditions.

Breashear and Lowe, both experienced ice climbers, used a technique called "Alpine Style" to scramble up the steep face of Kwangdi, according to Associated Press. This method allows climbers to travel quickly, because they do not set up base camps along the route prior to making the climb.

It also means they probably didn't have any porters or "Sherpa" guides, according to Carter.

Keeping hands and feet warm on Kwangdi would be a major problem, Carter said.

Student shift possible

Hyde future is uncertain

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The fate of the Hyde School is again uncertain with the School Committee raising the spectre of redistricting Hyde children rather than spend $500,000 of fire insurance money to rebuild six classrooms.

Although the committee voted following the April, 1981, fire that the chaos caused by closing or redistricting Hyde was unacceptable, the committee voted 5-4 Monday night in favor of asking Superintendent John Strand for a closer look at redistricting some Hyde students.

A redistricting plan would most likely involve students who live south of Route 9 and west of Eliot Street and at least one bus would be required. Students would be distributed among three or four other elementary schools.

Committee member Susan Silbey, who voted in the majority, raised the issue of closing other schools around Hyde if the space were rebuilt.

"Certainly in private members of the School Committee have told me that we ought to build those six classrooms" and then consolidate Hyde with a nearby school, she said.

"I frankly find this reprehensible and immoral," Silbey stressed. "I do not think that anyone has notified the other communities that are

Board backing St. Jean's buy

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The aldermanic Finance Committee approved a request Monday by Mayor Theodore D. Mann to purchase the former St. Jean's School building on Watertown St. for a 46-unit housing project.

The property is to be transferred to the Newton Community Development Authority (NCDA), which plans to build a complex of elderly, handicapped and low-income family housing on the property in Nonantum.

The $250,000 price of the property will be covered completely by state and federal funds, according NCDA head Barry Canner.

Neighborhood opposition to the sale, which dominated two public hearings on the proposal, also marked the FinCom deliberations Monday night.

Margaret Cormier, whose family has lived directly across Watertown St. from the school "since before there was a St. Jean's," spoke for the dozen neighbors who represented the opposition to the proposal. She once again voiced her concern for the possible impact of low-income housing on the neighborhood, for the poor maintenance of such housing projects and for the lack of neighborhood input in the early stages of the project.

Cormier also complained that the price was too low for the property and said she had spoken with a private developer who would offer $300,000 for it and pay for a community center to be built on the property.

Committee member Lane Sofman saide the private development would be of the same density as the city's proposal. Alderman Paul Coletti added that it was common for a developer to offer something to the neighbors in such a situation,

Interest on abated taxes will be paid

NEWTON — The interest owed by the city to taxpayers whose tax abatement applications were approved is on the way, according to the city Treasurer's Department.

The 8 percent interest due all taxpayers on the amount abated has been put on hold until the bulk of the department's tax receipts have been accounted for, according to George Stiglish of the city treasurer's office.

Stiglish said this week his department's primary concern, at this

Board votes for assessing audit

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The Board of Alderman Monday night unanimously approved a request from Mayor Theodore D. Mann for $17,000 to pay for "an independent review of the operations, procedures and organizational structure" of the city's Assessing Department.

The proposal to audit the department came from the aldermen weeks ago in reaction to a request for an additional $67,000 for temporary staffing to handle abatement requests and update computer files.

That request, on top of a previous appropriation of $92,000 for temporary staffing, prompted aldermen to question the internal workings of the department.

Alderman Richard McGrath initially requested an independent audit of the department three weeks ago, saying he thought its inner machinery was "chaotic, antiquated and mismanaged."

Auditors met with the aldermanic Revaluation Subcommittee last week to detail their plan to study the Assessing Department, make recommendations and suggest how those recommendations might best be implemented.

A spokesman for the mayor, at that time, passed on his recommendation that an ad hoc committee made up of representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and Boston College's School of Business might be better suited to the task.

Speaking of the mayor's reaction to the audit proposed by the aldermen, Paul Coletti, chairman of the Revaluation Subcommittee, said, "Today, I have seen his willingness to support the audit. There is some good cooperation going on."

After the $17,000 appropriation was approved by the Finance Committee Monday night, it went before the full board in a special session.

Accompanying the appropriation for the audit was another for $20,057, which would maintain the temporary staff in the department until the audit was completed. According to Chief Assessor Robert Palmer, the funds would keep his department functioning at its present strength through February 11.

Coletti told the board he hoped the eight weeks of funding would allow the Assessing Department to eliminate the backlog of abatement applications and be in a position to implement the recommendations of the auditor.

Also approved by the alderman at the special Monday meeting was a request that the mayor petition to the General Court to permit another 90-day extension of the time period allowed for the processing of abatement applications. One 90-day extension has already been granted.

Palmer estimated that there might be as many as 900 site inspections required of his department in the next eight weeks. He added that, if his temporary staff is kept intact, it is "very unlikely" that the latest 90-day extension will be needed.

Verne Vance suggested a condition be attached to the appropriation which would request that the auditors examine the relationship between the assessor's office and the treasurer's office, with an eye toward increasing efficiency and coordination.

He also asked that the auditors examine the possible advantages of a system which would employ a single assessor, rather than a board of three.

Buildings topple; rodents bail out

NEWTON CORNER — Albert McGowan could use a hand from the Pied Piper.

With a wrecking ball bringing down the block of buildings along Washington Street near his house in Newton Corner, and the cold weather settling into New England, the rodent population in McGowan's home has skyrocketed.

"We caught 41 mice in just two days," a frustrated McGowan said last week.

Although an exterminator was slated to go to his Manning Street home late in the week, McGowan

Area Jews joined for celebration

By Art Illman
Staff Writer

NEWTON — "It is a special time, the one time when everyone in my family sits down together," said 12-year old Teddy Aransky of the festive Jewish holiday of Hanukkah, which began last week.

"We talk about life, exchange gifts, and have a good time."

Last week, Teddy and his family joined the congregation of Temple Shalom in West Newton for a family Hanukkah service.

"I like playing with dreidels, and lighting the candles," said 10-year-old Benjie Korman, who takes turns lighting the menorah with his brother William.

Laura Stemerman, a 9-year-old who sings in the temple junior choir, looked forward to the annual festivities. "I like lighting the menorah, saying the blessings, and singing in the family service."

Rabbi David Whiman called the traditional service one of family participation and festivity.

"Our goal is to provide a sense of community and celebration of Sabbath and festival through story and song," he said.

Last year, the congregation saw the world's largest potato latke, and the world's smallest rabbi, a Muppet-like puppet which helped tell the story of Hanukkah.

Throughout the eight days of Hanukkah, children play with special tops, called dreidels, sing holiday songs, while children of all ages eat potatoe pancakes called "latkes." In Israel, people celebrate the holiday eating jelly donuts.

"Both are cooked in oil," said Rabbi Murray Rothman, symbolic of the miracle when one day's supply of oil lasted eight days, allowing the holy Eternal Light burning in King Solomon's Temple.

Tougher requirements for graduation due soon

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Beginning in September, it will be a little tougher for graduates of Newton North and Newton South to get their sheepskins.

Both high schools will start phasing in more rigorous graduation requirements next year.

The new requirements will be fully effective for the entering class of '87.

The changes come as North prepares to make the transition to a four-year high School in September following South's two-year lead. South became a four-year school in September, 1981.

According to School Committee Chairperson Nancy Mann, the stiffer requirements are largely a response to many parents' concern that "things were a bit too loose" at the high schools.

The differences between the two high schools, in terms of course requirements, "are being erased," Mann added.

When the class of '87 enters the ninth grade about in about four years, class members will be required to take an additional math course and to pass 67 course distribution requirements.

Currently, students are required to pass most of their distribution requirements, but not all of them. For example, students are only required to "take" U.S. history.

At Newton South, students were required to take 15 credits in English courses, but only had to pass 10 credits.

In addition to passing all course requirements, students will be required for the first time to take a math course before graduating.

A modified form of the stiffer requirements will be implemented next year for the class of '84 and the requirements will be upgraded further for the classes of '85 and '86.

Both Newton North Principal Marya Levenson and South Principal Ernest Van Seasholes stress that the distribution requirements represent the minimum exposure a student should have in English, math, science, the arts, physical education or social studies.

For students who do not plan to continue their education after high school, the requirements will provide "a grounding in those subjects we feel necessary for a good high school education," Levenson said.

Seasholes stressed that the "overwhelming majority" of students take math and pass their distribution requirements. The new requirements will be "a little more rigorous" for "a few kids who've been sliding by," he added.

For the class of '84, students will be required to pass 10 credits of English, one year of science, two years of social studies and 4 credits in physical education. Of the social studies courses, state law requires that all students take U.S. history during high school.

For the classes of '85 and '86, students will be required to pass 15 credits of English, two years of a laboratory science (one biological and one physical), three years of social studies and one year in the arts.

Students must also pass one yearof math and 6 credits of physical education.

While there appears to be an increase in the required courses for the Class of '87, it is not a real increase since it includes all current requirements for ninth graders in the junior highs.

For the class of '87, students will be required to pass 100 credits to graduate. Distribution requirements will make up 67 of those credits. This is already in effect at South for current 9th and 10th graders.

These students will be required to take 20 credits of English, 10 credits or two years of laboratory science, 15 credits of social studies, 10 credits of math, 5 credits in the arts and 7 credits in physical education.

Every five credits translates roughly into a one-year course.

Students will also end up taking physical education courses every semester except the last one of their senior year.

There will still be no foreign language requirement at either high school under the new guidelines. According to Levenson, the decision was made not to bring in a foreign language requirement because too many students would seek waivers.

Climb may have set record

"You can't use clumsy, slippy, sloppy boots, but you'd need solid double boots with an overboot and cleats for ice," he said.

Carter is no stranger to grueling mountain conditions, having climbed the 25,465 foot mountain Nanda Devi in the Himalayas in its first ascent in 1936.

Speculating on Breashear's accomplishment he noted, "They would probably be sleeping on a tiny shelf hacked out of the ice."

According to a Newton friend, Breashear recently climbed part of the east face of Mount Everest in the first American expedition through China since 1941 with Sir Edmund Hillary, the first man to reach the 29,028 foot summit of Mount Everest in 1953.

They did not complete the east face climb and were forced to retreat after they had climbed 21,000 feet because of an oncoming monsoon and supplies had dwindled, according to Theodore "Sam" Striebert of Newton.

Striebert, who is the chairman of the New England section of the American Alpine Club, said the east face of Everest is the most dangerous slope of the mountain and is yet to be conquered.

The Himalayas, which translate to "abode of snow," are located in the northeast corner of India and overlap into China.

Originally from Colorado, Breashear started out as a rock climber when he was 17 and is said to be a legend in the west for quickly climbing a Colorado rock in the Eldorado Canyon known as "Psycho Roof" or "Wisdom Roof."

"It's a gymnastic problem and it had been climbed only once before after many attempts, but he came along and climbed it straight away without much trouble at all," said Striebert.

Breashear is a documentary photographer for the television program "American Sportsman," according to his Striebert.

"He's an expert photographer and has done TV documentaries," said Carter.

Breashear, who will be 27 next week, is "a shy and unassuming guy with a tremendous amount of vitality," said Striebert.

Jeff Lowe, his climbing companion, has authored a book on ice climbing published by Alpine House publishing, said to be the bible on the technical aspects scaling icy mountains.

Breashear hasn't been heard from since a letter arrived in Newton in the middle of November.

"I think they want to get home for Christmas," said Striebert.

Auburndale man dies after being hit by auto

AUBURNDALE — Police said Thursday no charges will be made against a 20-year-old Newton man who was driving the car which struck and killed a 64-year-old Auburndale man Wednesday.

"We've completed our investigation. As the result of testimony from three witnesses, no charges will be made," said Traffic Captain John Bartinelli.

Donald G. Ross, 64, of 29 Grove St., Auburndale, was pronounced dead at Newton-Wellesley Hospital after being struck about 5:21 p.m. by a car as he crossed Commonwealth Avenue, police said.

Police identified Robert Johnston, of 17 Maple St., as the driver of the car.

Bartinelli said Johnston was traveling at a reasonable rate of speed and there was no evidence indicating that he violated any traffic rules.

"It was an unfortunate accident which occurred," Bartinelli said.

The accident occurred in front of 2036 Commonwealth Ave., near the Yem Mee Restaurant, police said.

It was the fifth traffic fatality in Newton this year.

Final hearing on sewer plan tonight

Freeze advocate visits Reagan

NEWTON — President Ronald Reagan's nuclear arms philosophy reportedly remains on course despite a lengthy and secret meeting last Wednesday with nuclear freeze advocate Dr. Helen Caldicott of Newton.

The meeting at the White House also included Reagan's daughter, Patti Davis, a supporter of the nuclear freeze movement.

Caldicott is president of Physicians for Social Responsibility, which has emerged as a force behind a national effort to limit the arms race and reduce the possibility of a nuclear war.

According to published reports, both Reagan and the anti-nuclear advocates remained far apart in their views after yesterday's 75-minute meeting. The White House session was reportedly arranged by the president's daughter.

Dr. Caldicott, contacted in Boston, refused to comment on the reported talk with the president.

Recently, President Reagan has charged that the freeze movement is being manipulated by agents of Moscow and "is inspired by not the sincere, honest people who want peace, but by some who want the weakening of America and so are manipulating honest people and sincere people."

He made that comment during a campaign appearance in Ohio last October.

Nuclear freeze advocates hope to pass their resolution in the U.S. House of Representatives early next year. The same resolution lost by only two votes last summer but several states approved advisory referendums in the recent November elections.

'Mothers' March' fund-raiser set for January

NEWTON — The Massachusetts Bay Chapter of the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation announces that the annual Mothers' March will be held this January in Newton.

Some 10,000 volunteers are expected to march in their neighborhoods for the March of Dimes during January 23-30, 1983.

Persons wishing information on birth defects or who would like to volunteer for this year's Mothers' March, locally, should call the March of Dimes, 329-1360 in Dedham.

A way to ease impact of 2 1/2

Some further improvements in Proposition 2 1/2 should come during the next legislative session to make possible needed improvements in local services cut to the bone. In addition, also faced are reasonable living cost raises in places where pay scales have been frozen because the money just isn't there.

We have positive suggestions to make to incoming Governor Dukakis and the 1983 General Court, who must anguish over how much to bolster local aid without new taxes. Pension and bonded debt amortization should be freed from Proposition 2 1/2 as a means of making more dollars available without breaking down the 2 1/2 formula.

The principal argument in favor is that these are fixed costs acquired over a number of years, thereby not subject to current adjustment. A simple way to avoid future spending abuse would be to restrict the exclusion only to pensions and bond commitments already on the books.

True, the property tax levy would reflect additional costs and this is precisely what Proposition 2 1/2 was intended to check. Effect on home town taxes would be relatively small, however, if the state does its job properly in assuring an adequate flow of local aid while practicing austerity on its own.

There is a sense that the cities and towns have really cut to the bone, although there is some feeling school budgets suffered less than others. State spending hasn't reflected anything close to what has been inflicted on the cities and towns. Witness the rash of pay raises being handed out not only to senators and representatives, but a whole clutch of others at various levels in the lame duck sugar plum session now under way on Beacon Hill.

Massachusetts isn't in the same boat as California, where Proposition 13 was enacted to set off the nationwide austerity wave. Less than a decade later, California is said by its comptroller to be going broke. The huge Sunshine State is under an impending deficit cloud amounting to some $2.5 billion by next June.

In our own ballpark, the name of the game has to be how to preserve benefits from disciplines imposed by Proposition 2 1/2 while making sure municipal services are restored to adequate levels and at the same time put strong pressure on state government to mend its spending ways.

That bellwether advocacy group, Citizens for Limited Taxation, which sired 2 1/2 and has obtained needed modifications, could lend its support to the pension and debt exclusion approach in the big local aid fight that is certain to be part of the State House wrangling next session.

But most of all, any effective steps in this direction must come from lawmakers out in the boondocks who are willing to look over the proposal and carry the torch where it counts in legislative committee action. It is one approach given no attention as yet.

Newton Graphic Opinions

A second opinion

Change in county?

(Editor's note: This editorial is reprinted from the Malden Evening News.)

What may well be the dying gasp of an unbelievable aspect of government is presently observable in the abuse built into the operations of the Middlesex County commissioners.

Can we expect a more responsible approach to their duties when a new member, Bill Schmidt of Newton, is sworn in next January, and joins in what we hope is a majority of two out of three genuinely concerned with doing their jobs without the political shenanigans so long characteristic of a ruling majority?

The issue comes down to the question of who's in charge. The three commissioners have a long time lived with a statute that is at least extraordinary if not incredible.

That statute, for all practical purposes, says that if the commissioners elected by the people of Middlesex County choose not to attent to their duties, to vote on issues, carry on their jobs, each may have his principal aide, whom he appoints, (but who is not elected), serve as a surrogate commissioner with all the powers of the elected official.

This "escape" statute has made it possible for all kinds of abuses to arise in the office of the commissioners. These aides, given the power to vote as substitute commissioners, but never elected by the people, have served to shield the ineptitude and the indifference of elected commissioners who have chosen to ignore the oaths they have taken.

Instead, they have carelessly left to their aides, who receive more than twice the pay the elected commissioners receive annually, decision on voting on issues mean and major, small and large, important and trivial.

In fact, these aides themselves may run a duly called commission meeting and act as commissioners.

The latest and most brazen example of aides substituting for the commission came several days ago when two of them, acting from Commissioners Michael McLaughlin and John Danehy (whose term expires this year) but in the presence only of Comm. Thomas Larkin, virtually fouled up the new county budget by approving it in executive session illegally, and then attempting to remedy their improper haste by voting to put the budget out for public input.

That wasn't bad enough: Larkin, the only one of the three commissioners to attend personally any of the budget meetings through last week, found a few surprises and plenty of questions to ask about the aides' work.

As William Tuttle, of the East Cambridge Bureau of the Lowell Sun reported:

"A minor budget item such as $2,500 for new beds at the Billerica House of Correction masked a much larger issue of public concern - overcrowding at the already packed institution.

"When the aides chose to cut the beds to prevent increased overcrowding, they were making a decision which should have been made by the commissioners.

"That budget hearing, abbreviated as it was, also revealed some intradepartmental squabbles and the jostling that goes on over which employees get pay increases.

"Maintenance Superintendent Charles Rinaldo and his subordinate, County Police Chief Paul Cusick, openly fought over pay raises for Cusick's staff which Rinaldo had cut.

"Again, the aides' decision to support Rinaldo's recommendation was clearly a policy decision made on behalf of the commissioners, despite tha fact that it was partially reversed at the hearing.

"At the public hearing, Larkin referred to the aides' meeting as a "budget committee" which had not only recommended and not approved the budget.

"Ironically, if they were officially constituted as a "committee," the aides would be required to hold public meetings under the provisions of the open meeting law.

"Whether they meet as budget committee, acting commissioners, or simply aides, however, is unimportant. The aides make policy decisions on behalf of the commissioners, and with their authority.

"It also makes little difference whether the aides or the commissioners make the actual decisions, only that the decision be made in public session.

"The public has a right to know how public officials - appointed as well as elected - arrive at a decision, not simply what the final decision is."

But what is equally important, is that the unique authority to have surrogates vote for absent commissioners is a law given right, enacted some years ago in a different time, but nevertheless an evasion of what one would expect elected officials would consider their primary responsibility. The statue serves to subvert the proper requirement that an elected official should not accept the escape of having a secretary vote go for him on matters general and specific.

While we are sure that there will be a reluctance to abolish the long-standing surrogate law - about which both Tom Larkin and Bill Schmidt have made informal commitments they will try to get repealed - there is no excuse for not making it a "dead letter" in the meantime.

That can be done by at least these two commissioners making certain they attend the duly called meetings of the county commissioners and act in person as voting members, instead of failing to show up and allowing their aides to cast votes for them.

We believe the surrogate system demeans the office to which the commissioners have been elected for four-year terms.

It serves to create many of the problems of confusion and distrust which has often characterized public attitudes towards the commissioners of Middlesex County and the whole county system of government.

Marking time

On books and bans

By Mark White

Watch out folks. The vigilantes are coming.

You no longer have to worry about the decay of society, decline in morality, perversion of our youth or increase in sexual freedom.

Furthermore, if we all follow the example of the good people of Stoughton, we can successfully return to the days of the Puritans. If you don't want to go back that far then we can simply return to the days of book burnings.

Excuse me if I take up the soapbox but rarely does one have the chance to observe true Cro-Magnon thinking and I want to savor every moment of it.

You see, the good people of Stoughton are outraged that an adult bookstore has opened in their community. It makes no difference that it is restricted to adults, that the windows are boarded up, and that it is only available to those who want to read the books.

No, the good people of Stoughton just don't want it - so out it goes.

Don't get me wrong. These people have every right to protest, picket and boycott. But they have no right to ban any book. And the decision by the district court judge should be - and, I think, will be - reversed.

The issue of the books is secondary to the issue of censorship. Who is to decide what should be or shouldn't be read? Who is going to make the rules?

Will it be the politicians who are subject to political pressures and ambition? Will they make truly objective decisions when 1000 voters are threatening them?

Do they have any special qualifications to determine or have the right to determine individual morality?

Honestly, do you want the Board of Aldermen to determine what you read, and where you read it? And how about the courts? Are we going to run to a judge whenever a controversial book comes out?

Are we going to ban "Soul on Ice" and take "Lady Chatterly's Lover" off the shelves?

Who is going to make the rules? If people can ban obscene matter, perhaps they can ban political matter. Maybe they can remove the Communist Manifesto so we can't read about those Commies. And why not? It's open season.

As long as no one is infringing on the rights of others, why don't the politicians let people live the way they choose to live and not try to impose their own backward morality on others.

The events in Stoughton mark a sad return to the Puritanical days of Massachusetts, and it gets me angry.

The political prostitutes of Stoughton are a pure example of all that is wrong in politicians. Their ignorance of freedom of speech, their return to the actions of vigilantes, their self-righteous morality, all bring Massachusetts back to the days of the Salem witch trials.

I want to make my own determination of what I want to read, what movies I want to see, what songs I want to hear, or how I want to act. And I will fight like hell against anybody who tries to deny me those rights.

Dirty books are not a danger to society. Banning books is a disgrace to society.

(Mark White, a former member of the Newton Board of Aldermen, is a practicing attorney.)

Quilting group seeks help

To the editor;

As part of the Spring Festival, 1983, a celebration of the arts in Newton under the auspices of the Arts in the Parks, Recreation Department of Newton a group of volunteers in the community are involved in the creation of a commemorative quilt. Robbie O'Rourke a nationally recognized quilter presently receiving acclaim for her "Boston Skyline" quilt, has designed and is guiding the actual making of the quilt.

Many people in the community are already involved giving of their talents as artists, photographers, quilters, stitchers, embroiderers, historians, calligraphers and writers.

Resources such as the Historical Society at the Jackson Homestead and the Newton Free Library have been freely used. Those of us already participating are truly excited at the talent and contributions we already see. It is a real community effort.

However, we are making this public appeal for a resource we lack. Does anyone have or know of someone who owns a photo, sketch, painting or some likeness of a farm in Thompsonville?

We are having some outstanding landmark of each village in Newton represented and this is one we have had difficulty in locating.

If you can help please call the Recreation Department 552-7120.

Chaulking one up

Chaulk Ambulance and its spokesman, Curt Lovett were presented achievment awards recently during the annual Newton Policemen's Ball.

The ambulance service, which has been under contract in Newton for 17 months, was cited by the Newton Police Memorial Association for excellence in delivering emergency medical and rescue services to the city.

During the presentation at the American Legion Post 440 on California Street, Police Chief William Quinn called Chaulk's staff of paramedics and emergency technicians among the finest in New England.

High praise from the source...

Very much in the running

Gail Stein, a housemaster at Newton North High School since 1976, is one of six semi-finalists for the job of principal at Weston High School.

Stein, who has taught social studies at the local school since 1969, is in the running for the next cut when the Weston school board plans to slice the field to three. That move is expected in early January, with the final choice planned for later that month.

There were a total of 165 applicants for the job, according to Weston school officials.

Out of clams on the Cape

At a recent Traffic Commission meeting concerning the possible widening of Route 30 resident Peter Castle waste no words in assessing his view of the potential problem.

Said Castle: "We will be encircled by highways and have all the intimacy of being stuck in a traffic jam on the way to Cape Cod."

Without the water view, at that.

On being up the creek

When it came out at a recent meeting of the aldermanic Revaluation Subcommittee that clerks in the Assessing Department earned $240 a week, committee member Ethel Sheehan elicited a few chuckles when she suggested she might apply for a position.

A slightly different response followed a similar suggestion by Louise Riley, a member of Save Our Homes II, political activist and constant gadfly monitoring the activities of city government.

"They'll give you a job all right," Chairman Paul Coletti told Riley, "painting the cupolas on top of City Hall."

"Without a ladder or a brush," another alderman chimed in.

Say goodnight, Dick

Assistant City Clerk Grace Lennon has three grandchildren named Moss, Lief and Birch.

She was discussing the original naming of her loved ones when she was quizzed rather bluntly by Alderman Richard McGrath: "What will the children of Birch be called? Son of a Birches?"

We won't touch that one.

Look over your shoulder

At a Public Facilities meeting Aldermen Elaine Gentile was praising new Public Works Commissioner John Sulik's background.

Said Gentile, "He's the first commissioner I've seen in eight years who has the education and experience to go with the job and I think he could put a heck of a trash proposal together."

Noting Sulik was sitting in a corner of the room behind Gentile, Alderwoman Marcy Richmond said, "Shhhh. He's right behind you."

Getting scoop at South

The prize for innovative newspapering has to go to the Newton South High school newspaper Denebola for coverage of the recent squabble over the teachers' contract.

The most recent issue of the paper apparently went to press before the controversial "work-to-rule" was suspended by the teachers' union but a story by staff writer Joshua King was printed on a photo-copying machine and stapled inside the tabloid Denebola before it hit the streets.

Talk about an "extra"... It was good thinking on the part of the staff.

And while we're handing out our humble laurels Graphically speaking notes that the Newton North paper, Newtonite, recently came home with New England Scholastic Press Association top contest honors for the fourth time in five years.

The Newtonite picked up the Class I First Place All New England Award in Scholastic Editing and Publishing and a Special Achievement Award in broadcasting for the staff's coordination with WGBH television in an experimental teletext magazine called "Scoop."

Newtonite Editor-in-Chief Kenneth Sabbag noted, "The staff deserves tremendous credit for these achievements" and he said particular pride should be taken in the innovative teletext experiment and the resulting award.

Finding the right direction

A report from the Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce announces the soon-to-be-released map of both Newton and Needham together - a first for the chamber and a move marking continued cooperation betwixt the two communities.

The map, which will have a two-year "life" is expected to be out in January. Some ad space on the chamber map is still available and for those interest, call Lew Songer, the N-N Chamber executive VP.

Praise for the school system

To the editor;

(The following is an open letter to Superintendent of Schools John Strand.)

Dear Dr. Strand;

In view of your desire to assess needs of parents and children enrolled in Newton Public Schools, I wish to share some of my thoughts and experiences as a Newton parent.

As a parent of one Newton North High School graduate, a second NNHS student and a Peirce School student, I have been involved with the school system since 1969. Considering the fact that Newton Public Schools service a school population of 12,000, the response to my own parent concerns and to student problems has been unbelievably fast and supportive on elementary, junior high and high school levels.

The three children have required a wide spectrum of personal assistance from school support services, ranging from the need for Chapter 766 services on the elementary level to mild but irritating social relations problems on all levels of the age ladder.

The problems have included inappropriate placement in courses and the sporadic need for school counseling. All issues and problems have been quickly and effectively faced to the proper resolution.

I feel that much of this effectiveness is due to parental assertiveness and determination to resolve whatever problems arise, rather than denying their existence or waiting for "the system" to initiate the contact.

With such a large system, it takes time to learn "what buttons to push and when to push them", at each educational level and with each varying type of problem.

The response to this button-pushing has been action rather than blame-oriented. This whole Newton Public School attitude has been most commendable, in view of the quantity of children requiring extra assistance.

Because my family has had a history of effective action taken on its behalf, we will not be part of the exodus to private schools. We know that quality educational services are obtainable on all levels of the Newton Public School system.

You have inherited a well-oiled, fine-working piece of machinery that refuses to give in under the stress and strains of current times.

Thank you for your interest in maintaining this fine system.

A sobering thought on booze

To the editor;

It sometimes appears that the American Constitution allows the average American almost too much freedom.

"Drinking" is a good example.

So long as you never leave home, the law could care less if you sit and drink alternate glasses of gin and vodka 24 four hours a day, every day of the year!

However, the individual who, "enjoys a couple of drinks at a party" faces a far more difficult problem. For how much is "TOO much"? And what is that strange ".12 alcohol-blood-content-or a.b.c. - against which all suspect drivers are examined?

After countless phone-calls and letters all over the state, the Revere Chamber of Commerce sent me the following information based on someone weighing 150 pounds, and recognizing that alcohol tolerance can differ in a myriad different ways.

For those of us who will be drinking-away-from-home over the coming holidays (Thanksgiving, Hanukkah, Christmas and New Year), I feel it is worth cutting the next paragraph out and pasting it across the front of the refridgerator door or lowly ice-bucket:

12 oz. regular beer (4% alcohol) .02 alcohol blood content
3 oz. wine (12% alcohol) .02 a.b.c.
1 oz. hard liquor (whisky, gin, etc.) .02 a.b.c.
4 oz. short mixed drink (manhattan, martini) .04 a.b.c.
4 oz. medium long drink (old-fashioned, daiquiri) - .03 a.b.c.
8 oz. long drink (highballs, etc.) .03 blood content

From this list it is easy to understand that after six beers or five highballs, one had better be driven home.

The Revere research added an interesting sideliner: "How long to sober up?"

It has been scientifically reckoned that a person's a.b.c. drops at no more than .02% per hour. This means that after those five beers, it takes a minimum of two hours before it is safe to drive.

The bulletin ends by stressing the fact that such famous remedies as cold showers, black coffee and exercise have little effect on a.b.c. Time is the only cure.

A sobering thought before the extended holidays of 1982.

Cub Scouts say thanks to local police

To the editor;

Cub Scout Troop 217 wants to publicly thank the Newton Police Department for a most informative meeting and tour. It was held on Tuesday, Nov. 30 at the Newton Police Station.

Police Officer Paul Golden of the Community Service Department took the troop on a complete tour of the station and carefully explained the various functions performed by the police. He did this with a great deal of sensitivity and warmth.

All the offiecers helped make it an exciting and educational experience for the troop. They developed a greater understanding of how the police serve and protect the community.

The parents of the troop members feel that this is a particularly worthwhile experience for their children since this type of an activity helps create a greater respect by the children towards the police.

He sheds no tears for teachers

To the editor;

I am a certified teacher, former 30-year resident of Newton, currently employed at a small residential school in southern New Hampshire which is 766 approved for children with special needs. Several Newton children have been students here during my four years, and we currently have at least one student from Newton.

Thus is it that I have followed the recent Newton teacher dispute with keen interest.

In the past I have been tempted to seek employment in Newton or a neighboring community. I would receive about three times my current salary for one-fourth the number of hours worked. (I am on duty 22 hours a day, six days a week).

I fear that I find it hard to sympathize with the overworked, underpaid, oppressed Newton teachers.

There was a time when teachers and other educators were dedicated professionals. In some places they still are.

Here we are 14 professionals dealing with some of the most diffuicult children in the public schools. And we do it (with no contract) for less pay, with cruder facilities and fewer complaints than do our more privileged colleagues in Newton.

I think I'll stay here after all with my fellow professionals teaching, caring for, loving and serving our (your) children and their families.

The satisfaction is a lot greater.

Lesson in school rules offered

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

OAK HILL — High school students should form committees to establish school rules that assure student rights, but such groups should include administrators, parents and teachers so that the regulations are effective.

This was the message a state Department of Education official emphasized to Newton South High School students Thursday during a discussion of student rights.

"If no rules exist then I urge you to get a group together to write them," said George Perry of the department's student services division.

Perry and Debbie Weil were invited by the Enrichment Program to discuss the legal rights of students and ways of creating school rules.

Perry explained to the group of 40 students that no state-wide school rules exist because Massachusetts school districts function autonomously.

"It's up to individual schools to decide what is important to them," he said.

South students are not allowed to walk through hallways during class hours or use rest rooms when they have a class, two regulations which students said are unfair.

"There's two ways of looking at rules. Are they fair and are they legal. Any rule is legal so long as it does not discriminate against anyone. For instance, there can't be separate hall policies for boys," Perry explained.

Perry suggested that students discuss the rules with administrators. Meanwhile students should ask permission for exemptions from policies rather than violate them without alerting a teacher or administrator, he advised.

A student asked if school rules are actually effective. Weil explained that they are valid if approved by the district school committee and filed with the State Education Department.

Participation by school staff and parents is helpful to students when they are creating school rules.

"Student involvement is very successful when it is done carefully and is well-researched," Weil said.

The benefits of administrative and parental support are two-fold, according to Perry. By working together to create a handbook on students rights, the handbook becomes "the school's handbook," rather than "the students' handbook," he said. Also, by including administrators, parents and teachers in the rule-making committee, students are offered divergent views on solving various problems.

The Newton School Committee has approved guidelines for South students provided in "The Orange Line," a handbook published annually for parents. The 30-page book includes a disciplinary guide for students in addition to general school information. Students also have the Representative Council for discussing school problems.

Police officers need a warrant to search school lockers, Perry said. But if officers have reasonable suspicion that, for example, illegal drugs are inside a locker they can conduct a search without a warrant.

"Schools have no obligation to cooperate with police officers without a warrant. But if you plan on bringing stuff to school, plan on somebody coming in and looking at it someday," Perry said.

Gatto named new principal at Horace Mann

NEWTON — The School Committee Monday approved the appointment of Newton teacher Kenneth Gatto as the new principal of Horace Mann Elementary.

Gatto was recommended for the position by Superintendent John Strand over finalist Elaine Whiteside following recent interviews of the two candidates by the committee and a series of interviews with the parent-teacher screening committee.

He was selected from over 100 candidates. The screening committee held interviews with 11 candidates.

Both Whiteside and Gatto are currently employees of the Newton schools and residents of the city.

Gatto, a Newton Upper Falls resident, has taught grade 7 math at Day Junior High since 1980. Whiteside, a resident of Newtonville, is a school psychologist the Newton kindergarten through ninth grade.

Gatto will replace principal Andrea Dembrowsky, who will leave as of January for personal and family reasons. Gatto's appointment will become effective Jan. 3, 1983.

Prior to his job at Day Jr. High, Gatto worked from 1972 to 1980 as a teacher at Davis Elementary. He is currently a member of the Mayor's Advisory Commitee on Recycling and last year was a member of the Board of Directors of the Newton Upper Falls Community Development Corporation.

A 1964 graduate of Boston College where he majored in math, Gatto also holds a masters degree in teaching from Harvard University and a Certificate of Advanced Graduate Studies in Human Relations from U. Mass.

Lesley College meeting set

NEWTON — Lesley College's Programs in Management for Business and Industry invites Newton residents to attend an informational meeting, Wednesday, Dec. 15, regarding Lesley's accelerated bachelor's and master's degree programs.

Those interested in attending the 6 p.m. meeting at the Grace Episcopal Church Parish Hall, 76 Elredge St., should register by calling 868-9624.

PMBI's degree offerings — a bachelor of science in organizational behavior and a master of science in management — are designed for working adults who have previous college experience.

said he had at least a dozen mousetraps placed throughout his house.

"We have 12 traps set up right now," he said. "I talked to the man at the hardware store and he says he's running out of mousetraps."

The Nonantum Block, a turn-of-the-century block of apartments and street-level stores has fallen to the wrecking ball over the past month and McGowan speculated the incursion of rodents has resulted from the demolition and colder weather.

"We're having a terrible time here," he said. "We've been here 30 years and I've never seen a mouse or a cockroach. Now all of a sudden they're all over the place."

McGowan added that over the past week the nighttime activity of snapping traps and nocturnal rodent appearances has discouraged one of his brothers from sleeping in the house. But McGowan said he hoped the pending fumigation would resolve the problem.

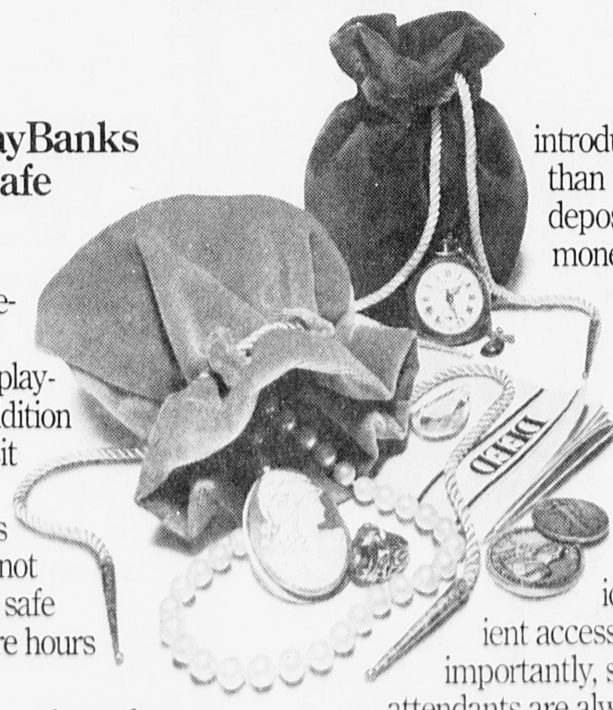
It's midnight. Do you know where your valuables are?



Introducing the BayBanks Extended Hours Safe Deposit Service.

The Newton Centre office of BayBank Middlesex is giving you more space and more time for playing it safe. Because in addition to our regular safe deposit service, we're offering our new Extended Hours Safe Deposit Service. It not only features new, larger safe deposit facilities, but more hours of availability as well.

Now you have more time for safe keeping.

Now you can have access to your valuables from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 9 a.m. to 12 midnight Friday and Saturday, and from 10 a.m. 'til 2 p.m. on Sunday. Which means you can return jewels and documents to the bank right after you've finished with them.

More safe and sound reasons for keeping your valuables at the BayBanks.

To launch this new facility, BayBank Middlesex is offering safe deposit space at an introductory price which is less than that of competitive safe deposit facilities. Plus, the money you spend on safe deposit services is usually tax deductible. Furthermore, for your total protection, low-cost insurance is available.

In addition, the new BayBanks Extended Hours Safe Deposit Service is designed for convenient access, comfort, and more importantly, security. Guards and attendants are always on duty. And the new, refurbished coupon booths offer complete privacy.

We help you protect your best interests.

For more information concerning the new BayBanks Extended Hours Safe Deposit Service, one of our staff will be happy to speak with you either over the phone or at our Newton Centre office. So stop by or give us a call at 647-5075. BayBank Middlesex. The bank that offers you something better, now offers you more valuable time.

We're offering you more valuable time.

Getting the business way down south

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

WEST NEWTON — James Nelson Goodsell walked into a store in Argentina to buy toothpaste. A clerk told him to see the "toothpaste clerk" and pointed toward a counter.

Goodsell approached the toothpaste clerk. "What kind do you want?" she asked Goodsell. "What kind do you have?" he responded.

She opened a cabinet to show him the selection. He asked for the Colgate. "We don't have Colgate," she said. "What's that?" Goodsell asked, pointing to the Colgate tube. "It's empty," she replied.

Goodsell decided to try an unfamiliar toothpaste and handed the toothpaste clerk local currency.

"We don't have change," she said. Goodsell left the store without toothpaste after a 15 minute ordeal.

Such ineffective business methods contribute to economic decline in Argentina, said Goodsell, Latin American correspondent for The Christian Science Monitor.

Goodsell, 52, spoke Thursday night at the Unitarian Church and he focused on Argentina, Brazil and Mexico as examples of economic conditions throughout the 30 Latin nations.

Huge foreign debts and inflation rates "that would make (President Ronald) Reagan climb the walls" are among the greatest problems, Goodsell said.

Though plagued by an $81 million foreign debt and an inflation rate of 280 percent, Argentina has the resources for a healthy economy but lacks effective business techniques, Goodsell said.

"Argentina ought to be making it but it isn't. It's slipping steadily into a Third World status. Nobody will listen to anyone else," Goodsell said.

Argentinians need to work harder in order to overcome the economic decline that has occurred since 1945, Goodsell said.

While Argentina declines, it's huge northern neighbor, Brazil, is quietly becoming "a major power" experiencing tremendous economic growth, said Goodsell.

Brazil, the world's eighth largest economy, is among the largest producers of airplanes, soy bean, blue jeans and is a formidable rival to Florida orange growers. Brazil has begun cutting imports and increasing exports. It uses more gasahol than gasoline and has built several large hydroelectric systems, Goodsell said.

However Brazil has accumulated the world's highest ($85 million) foreign debt. Millions still live in poverty. And like other Latin American nations, Brazil has a human rights problem.

Brazilians were "impressed" with President Ronald Reagan during his recent Latin American tour, Goodsell said.

"Reagan preformed well and the Brazilians loved it," he said.

Goodsell compared Reagan to President John F. Kennedy when he also toured Latin America on a goodwill visit. Goodsell said Reagan advocated a partnership between the two nations.

"I think he (Reagan) meant it," Goodsell said.

Brazil will "continue to take off through the 20th century" Goodsell said.

Mexico's outlook is gloomier. In addition to an $81 million foreign debt, Goodsell said, widespread corruption saps an estimated $20-30 billion annually from the Mexican economy.

Newly-elected Mexican President Miguel De la Madrid called it Mexico's greatest problem.

Goodsell said a few Mexican politicians live in enormous marble mansions worth millions of dollars. Meanwhile many Mexicans live in poverty or migrate by the millions into the U.S. in search of work.

"Mexico will not fold up because it is in the United State's interest not to let it do so," he said.

Asked about the situation in Nicaragua, Goodsell said Nicaragua needs the U.S. because it will not get support from other nations.

"The Sandanistas are not running a very good government. (Sandanistas) are guerrillas turned governors who were unprepared to help the country."

On Cuba: 'We have to recognize that it exists' said Christian Science Monitor Latin American correspondent James Nelson Goodsell.

Hearing on aged, poor in wintertime is tonight

NEWTON — A public hearing on the emergency winter needs of the poor and elderly was announced this week by Mayor Theordore D. Mann of Newton, chairman of the Middlesex County Advisory Board.

Mayors and selectmen are invited to participate and listen to public testimony supplied by representatives from the Salvation Army, Red Cross, ABCD, human service programs through the country, and church groups.

The hearing will follow the 7:30 meeting of the Advisory Board on Wednesday, Dec. 15, in the Newton War Memorial Auditorium of Newton City Hall.

An opportunity to devise a cross-country inventory of resources available from the individual municipalities in Middlesex County will be the ultimate goal of the public hearing.

All interested citizens are welcome to attend.

Just a touch of spring in Free Library display

NEWTON CORNER — More than 50 flower arrangements, dried, pressed and framed grace the glass cases at the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre St., Newton Corner, now through the end of the month.

Stella Yurkus of Waltham grows most of the flowers she uses in her arrangements in her own garden. She uses flowers in all stages of growth, from small buds to full open face to create the attractive bouquets. She manages to preserve the strong beautiful colors of the flowers when they are at their best.

Yurkus says the flowers should not have any moisture on them when they are picked. She removes the leaves and then stores the flowers in wax paper envelopes for four to six weeks depending on their thickness.

Leaves of different shapes are dried separately and used to complement the flowers which are arranged on watercolor paper and then framed.

Main Library hours are Monday-Thursday 9-9; Friday 9-6; Saturday 9-5 and Sunday 1-4. For more information call 552-7145.

time, was to "get the principal back to the people." He said the calculations involved in returning the interest due on the principal would delay the department's operations unnecessarily.

"We're doing the best we can to get them out as soon as possible," Stiglish said of the abatement payments.

Alderman Paul Coletti, chairman of the Revaluation Subcommittee, said he understood the treasurer's dilemma after spending some time in the department watching property tax receipts pour in. He said it appeared those in the treasurer's office had their hands full counting the money coming in, let alone computing the 8 percent interest due on abatements.

Stiglish said the interest payments would be calculated and sent to taxpayers as soon as the bulk of the abatements had been processed.

Future uncertain for Hyde students threatened here by this decision tonight."

Director of Support Services for the schools, Roy Cornelius, has said previously that rebuilding only 5,000 sq. ft. would make Hyde too small to allow a nearby school to consolidate with Hyde.

The Hyde community isn't taking the latest committee action lightly after going without needed space and working on several plans, including shared use of the burned building for classrooms and state-funded handicapped housing for the Boston Center for Independent Living.

Over 120 Hyde residents attended the meeting at South High and many voiced opposition to either further delay or redistricting. Residents also see contradictions with positions taken in past consolidations, such as avoiding a closing which results in a more than two-way split.

And the talk of saving the insurance money for the city coffers outrages many Newton Highlands residents.

"The insurance that covered the Hyde School was bought to protect that building, and we think that trying to profit from the calamity that befell the school and the community in April 1981 is a misuse of those funds," Jeffrey Swope, co-president of Hyde's PTA, said.

"Apparently the aldermen, including their Finance Committee, which is no shirker in watching the city treasury, agree," Swope said, "because they all voted unanimously" for the multiple use plan.

Also at issue, residents stress, is the structure of the burned building and a temporary roof must be put on immediately to protect it.

However, the committee voted only to gather more information on redistricting by their Jan. 24 meeting. They voted down 5-3 a motion to send a letter to Mayor Mann requesting the temporary roof.

Even vocal supporters of the multiple use plan – Robert Ricles, Leonard Gentile and James Mnookin – voted against this motion.

Members of the Board of Aldermen, Gentile said, "are going to look at us and think we're crazy" when they see the vote to consider redistricting which results in an expenditure of an estimated $12,000 for a temporary roof.

Committee member Ann Berwick also supported the multiple use plan, but voted in favor of the letter.

Committee members Katherine Jones, Susan Silbey, Marcia Mitchell and Nancy Mann said they were concerned about spending the insurance money to rebuild in light of declining enrollment and financial problems.

Strand indicated that the mayor's presentation of a preliminary "target" figures for the school budget was another factor.

Mayor Mann voted in favor of further study of redistricting.

According to Strand, a second redistricting study was requested in recent weeks first by Mayor Mann and then by other committee members.

Discovery of rabid bat means funds for shots

NEWTON — The discovery of a rabid bat has lead to request for $480 to pay for the costs of rabies immunization for three police officers and a health department official assigned to Animal Control.

Health Commissioner Bernice Joyal told the aldermanic Finance Committee Monday night that she has been seeking the immunizations for a long time and that the discovery of the rabid bat two weeks ago only speeded up the process.

President Emeritus Wendell Bauckman balked at the cost of the injections required by the immunization treatments. "Where does the stuff come from, Shreve, Crump and Low ?" he asked Joyal.

The Health Commissioner explained that the treatment involved a series of three shots over a period of time and that the shots cost $40 a piece.

Joyal's request was unanimously approved by the committee.

Community Schools aiming for self-sufficiency

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — For Kathy Fallon, Thursday playgroup is more than a chance for her three-year old to socialize, it has become a tradition for the last eight and a half years.

Fallon has not only enrolled four of her children in the Newton Community Schools (NCS) morning toddler playgroup, but has actively involved herself in the program since its inception.

"My first child I enrolled is now 12 years old and I believe this is a great opportunity for kids to get together and learn organized activities," said Fallon.

Beginning its 10th year in January, NCS involves over 14,000 residents in activities for children and adults ranging in scope from Chinese cooking to calligraphy, disco-exercise and old-fashioned tree trimming. The list adds up to more than 1,300 activities, according to NCS Executive Director Joseph Baron.

Baron was the featured speaker at a Rotary Club luncheon last Wednesday where he suggested businesses could advertise in NCS's schedule of events.

The income from the ads goes to offset the $150,000 NCS annual budget. The city pays $25,000 and the school department adds another $25,000, Baron said, but the rest of the budget must be met by course charges and other sources of revenue.

Baron said his goal is to make NCS a totally self-sufficient operation.

Jane Kuronen, who recently moved to Newton, says her son Stephen enjoys his morning "play" very much.

"It's been great to be able to bring him here and it's nice to have such a program," said Kuronen.

Lucia Scott says she enjoys the social aspect of the program for her toddler and the Thursday playgroup director Cheryl Wyman thinks it is too bad the program ends on December 16, but believes the weather and the holidays have a lot to do with it. Another playgroup will begin in February she says.

Baron is always on the lookout for residents to join in the community fun as an instructor, administrative volunteer or an "idea man."

"We need help to make up for our federal funding cutbacks," said Baron.

For each of the past four years, NCS has received $39,000 in federal money as one of 25 model community-school programs in the nation. Some of the money went toward a multi-media slide presentation which the Rotary Club viewed. Course registration and membership revenues account for $60,000, according to an NCS booklet.

According to Baron, 31,000 households receive the NCS schedule of events twice a year and this is the reason he thought it would be a good idea to use the central section for business ads.

"We sold over 20 ads this fall and we believe it's a good marketing tool," said Baron. He plans to sell ads for NCS's Spring edition as well.

The program makes use of 19 schools and has a volunteer force of 450 people. To incresae local input, 19 committees help formulate plans and policy, according to Baron.

Baron says NCS really gives Newton something extra considering the city's share of financial support represents one cent of every tax dollar.

Latin American Jews are talk topic

NEWTON CENTRE — Former Latin American Ambassador Benjamin Varon will speak at Temple Beth Avodah, Newton, after Friday evening services, Dec. 17. His topic will be: "Jews in Latin America." Services begin at 8:15 p.m. and are open to the public.

Ambassador Varon has been seen on "60 Minutes," and his byline has appeared in 100 newspapers and magazines across the country. He made national headlines in 1970 when he was the target of an attempted assassination by the PLO.

In 1947, Varon and a colleague helped line up the decisive Latin American vote for the Palestine Partition Resolution of the UN.

A novelist, poet and playwright, Varon was just three months short of receiving a medical degree when Hitler invaded Austria, where he lived.

He sought refuge in Ecuador, where 18 months after his arrival he became their first syndicated columnist, writing in Spanish.

Later he was Israel's ambassador to the Dominican Republic, Jamaica and Paraguay.

Varon's talk is sponsored by the Adult Education Committee at Temple Beth Avodah. Mrs. Natalie Kurtz of Newton is chair for that evening.

Chiropractic for Health

by Dr. David G. Rutman, Chiropractor

PREVENTIVE MAINTENANCE

Where does one turn for health information when well? More people than ever are realizing that health is a process of preventive maintenance, not just an absence of disease. The family physician has been schooled to follow a disease-oriented view of health. He treats disease as it occurs with a biochemical approach. In the absence of a bodily crisis there is a lesser concern for disease prevention measures. One hardly ever sees a physician when well. The chiropractor, on the other hand, shares the concern of a growing number of people who want to "stay in shape". Chiropractic's concern is for continuing "wellness".

The science of chiropractic provides a natural, drugless and knifeless approach to dealing with existing problems as well as serving as a preventative measure to developing situations. Such an exam will serve to analyze one's needs, provide the options of correction available and help ascertain the day-to-day activities that will help you enjoy a more natural state of well-being. For your concerns call DR. DAVID G. RUTMAN, CHIROPRACTOR, 4593 Washington St., Roslindale. Tel. 323-5022. Hours by appt. including 3 eves. a week. VISA & MasterCard accepted.

CHIRO TIP:
Maintain health through regular chiropractic care.

Fit and fast

The first St. Eliazabeth's Hospital physician across the finish line for the recent hospital-sponsored 10-kilometer Over Heartbreak Hill Road Race was Dr. John Derry of Newton, a staff gynecologist at the hospital. Dr. Derry finished the 6.2 mile course in 42:58.

BC names new history prof

CHESTNUT HILL — Rev. Francis Paul Prucha, S.J., a professor of history at Marquette University, has been named Thomas I. Gasson Professor of History at Boston College for the 1983-84 academic years, announced Rev. Joseph R. Fahey, S.J., academic vice president and dean of faculties at Boston College.

In announcing the appointment, Fr. Fahey noted, "Fr. Prucha will bring a unique dimension to Boston College. He is an expert in the history of the American Indian and the effects of United States policy and westward expansion on native Americans."

"He also has special expansion on native Christianity on the Indianns, an interest which is especially appropriate to the religious character of Boston College," Fr. Fahey said, "I am confident that Fr. Prucha will fill the Gasson Chair with distinction."

During his two year tenure as Gasson Professor, Fr. Prucha will also deliver a series of lectures to the Boston College community and host a scholarly conference.

Among the most recent of Fr. Prucha's nine books are "United States Indian Policy: A Critical Bibliography," published by the University of Chicago Press in 1977, and "The Churches and the Indian Schools, 1888-1912," published by the University of Nebraska Press in 1979. Fr. Prucha has also edited five books and published numerous articles in a wide variety of scholarly journals.

Fr. Prucha has received a number of research fellowships, including a Social Science Research Council Faculty Research Fellowship in 1959; a Guggenheim Fellowship in 1967; a senior fellowship from the National Endowment for the Humanities in 1970; a Huntington Library Fellowship in both 1969 and 1979 and a research fellowship from the National Endowment for the Humanities in 1981.

He is a life member of the American Historical Association and the Organization of American Historians; a charter member of the Western History Association and a corresponding member of the Massachusetts Historical Society. Fr. Prucha has served on the Advisory Council of the National Archives and currently serves on the editorial board of the "Western Historical Quarterly" and the executive board of the Organization of American Historians.

The Gasson Chair was established in 1978 by the Boston College Jesuit community to support a distinguished Jesuit scholar's visiting professorship in the university's College of Arts and Sciences. The chair is named after Rev. Thomas I. Gasson, S.J., 13th president of Boston College, who held the presidency of the university from 1907-1914.

Library outreach is geared toward aid for housebound

NEWTON CORNER — Over the years the Newton Free Library's Outreach Program for temporarily or permanently housebound Newton residents has become an important part of the Newton Free Library's service to the community.

Housebound Newton residents may choose from fiction and non-fiction in the regular, large print, or paperback collections. Nonbook materials such as records, cassettes, talking books, magazines and 8mm silent films can also be borrowed.

To register for this service which brings books and materials to Newton residents who, because of age, illness or physical handicap are unable to visit the library, call 552-7145 and ask for Anna Hartogh, the NFL's Social Services Librarian.

She can discuss reading interests, offer suggestions and arrange dates and times for book delivery.

Mr. and Mrs. Natale M. Caruso

Wendy Vandenburg is bride of Natale Caruso

WEST NEWTON — Wendy Jean Vandenburg of Waltham became the bride of Natale M. Caruso of West Newton recently in a ceremony at the First Parish Church of Waltham officiated by Rev. Thomas Goldsmith. A reception followed at the American Legion Post 440 in Newton.

The bride is the daughter of Beverly O'Brien of Bristol, N.H. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Natale Caruso of West Newton.

Maria Caruso, sister of the groom, was maid of honor. The best man was Anthony Caruso, brother of the groom.

Bridesmaids were Carol Caruso, sister-in-law of the groom, Clara Caruso, sister-in-law of the groom, Helen DeRubeis of Billerica and Linda Picciolli of Framingham.

Serving as ushers were John Caruso, brother of the groom, Mike DeRibeis of Billerica, Carmen Tocci of West Newton and Randy O'Brien, brother of the bride.

Following a honeymoon to Cape Cod and Nantucket Island, the couple will reside in Waltham.

The bride is a graduate of Mansfield High School and is employed at Larchwood Lodge.

The groom is a graduate of Newton North and Newton Tech. and is employed by Elbery Ford.

Aquinas plans new directions with courses

NEWTON — Aquinas Junior College, through its Continuing Education announces the winter offering of "New Directions." The day and evening programs will begin in January and March respectively.

New Directions I begins Jan. 3, as a back-to-work workshop for women who need to update or acquire skills. This day program is a six-week offering combining the skill of typewriting and the procedures and communication skills needed in an office.

Upon the completion of New Directions I the participants receive certificates. Some women take part-time or full-time employment. Others continue their education.

EVENING PROGRAM

New Directions II commences March 29. This eight-week workshop is held two nights a week. This programn assists business women who are underemployed or wish to make a career change. The typing skill is improved and instruction is given in office procedures and interviewing skills.

Both programs have limited enrollment. This allows for individual instruction.

Women wishing to enter the programs should do so as soon as possible. Registrations are received on a first come, first serve basis. Further information may be obtained by telephoning 244-0089; 244-8134.

The Aquinas Junior College evening programs begins Jan. 17. All registrations will be received through Jan. 10.

Courses which will be given include: Secretarial Subjects - typewriting, shorthand; Accounting - Accounting I, II, Intermediate Accounting II and Cost Accounting; Data and Word Processing - Introduction to Computer Science, Word-Processing Concepts. The above mentioned courses are three credit college courses which will update a person's background and/or be used toward a certificate program or a degree.

CERTIFICATE PROGRAMS

Presently the college offers three certificate programs: accounting, word-processing and administrative assistant. Separate flyers will describe in detail the course content of these offerings. The Administrative Assistant Seminar - Human Relations - will begin Jan. 6. It will be held six evenings. All other courses given will end in May.

EMT (EMERGENCY MEDICAL TECHNICIAN)

The Emergency Medical Technician begins Feb. 28. Registrations are now being received. This course includes CPR and emergency medical procedures including nuclear agency. For the past five years Aquinas Junior College has trained over 200 men and women as EMT personnel.

Around campus

NEWTON — Roslyn Pechet of Chestnut Hill, a sophomore at Governor Dummer Academy in Byfield, recently performed in the GDA Fine Arts Department's fall concert.

A vocalist with the Academy Singers, Ms. Pechet also sang two solos, Schubert's "Lechen Und Weiner" and C. Fox's "Killing me softly."

Two local students were recently named to the Springfield College dean's list.

They are: Paula J. Buckley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Buckley of Owatonna Road, Auburndale, and Carol Tennant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Blake Tennant of Brewster Road, Newton Highlands.

Ms. Buckley, a Newton North graduate, is majoring in physical education and currently works as both an athletic trainer and a volunteer in the Physical Therapy Lab in the campus health center.

Ms. Tennant, a graduate of Newton South, is majoring in health fitness. She is a member of the Crew Club, the YMCA Club, Health Fitness Majors Club and is president of the Dormitory Senate for International Dormitory on campus.

Marlene Simha of Newton, a senior at Southeastern Massachusetts University majoring in textile sciences, has been awarded a $400 scholarship from the Ira Tepper Fund.

Patricia Thomas, a freshman from West Newton, has been awarded a varsity letter as member of the Haverford (Pa.) College women's field hockey team.

Ms. Thomas was among the team's leading scorers with four goals and five assists.

James M. Carroll, son of John and Claire Carroll of Newton, is director of the Kennedy Political Union at the American University in Washington, D.C. for the current year.

The KPU is a student-run campus lecture bureau responsible for bringing in notable speakers to the AU campus.

He is a political science honors student at the University.

David Soyka, an Elbert Covell College (Stockton, CA.) student from Newton Highlands, recently participated in the 12th annual Organization of American States (OAS) Model Conference.

Soyka, a sophomore majoring in international studies and business, was a representative from Haiti at the daylong event at University of the Pacific.

Howard A. Cyker, of Dudley Road, Newton Center, a senior at Worcester Polytechnic Institute, recently won honorable mention in the James F. Lincoln Foundation's Engineering Design Competition. The prize was $100 for the Newtonite majoring in mechanical engineering.

His project was entitled "An analysis and design of Czechoslavakian lay beam". Cyker is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Cyker, and is a graduate of Newton South.

Martha Naomi Alt of Beacon Street is among University of Wisconsin-Madison seniors invited to this winter's honors convocation based on class standing or honors program enrollment.

Two local students have been honored for academic performance at Montrose, an independent day school for girls based in Brookline.

Included are: Anya Vronsky, who lives with her aunt, Mary Holland, in Newtonville, who earned second honors; and Kelly Shea, who earned high honors for the first term. Ms. Shea is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shea of Commonwealth Avenue, West Newton.

Home for elderly slates talks

NEWTON — The Porter Home for the Elderly of Newton is organizing two discussion groups that will heighten awareness and present realistic solutions to the problems of aging in our society. The group "Sons and Daughters of Elderly Parents" will discuss the problems and joys of communicating with and living with elderly parents.

The group "Aging Parents" will provide a forum for participants to share their perspectives on the problems of growing old and relating to their children.

All interested persons are invited to attend these free discussion groups, which will meet twice a month at the Porter Home.

NEWTON — Roslyn Pechet of Chestnut Hill, a sophomore at Governor Dummer Academy in Byfield, recently performed in the GDA Fine Arts Department's fall concert.

A vocalist with the Academy Singers, Ms. Pechet also sang two solos, Schubert's "Lechen Und Weiner" and C. Fox's "Killing me softly."

Two local students were recently named to the Springfield College dean's list.

They are: Paula J. Buckley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Buckley of Owatonna Road, Auburndale, and Carol Tennant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Blake Tennant of Brewster Road, Newton Highlands.

Ms. Buckley, a Newton North graduate, is majoring in physical education and currently works as both an athletic trainer and a volunteer in the Physical Therapy Lab in the campus health center.

Ms. Tennant, a graduate of Newton South, is majoring in health fitness. She is a member of the Crew Club, the YMCA Club, Health Fitness Majors Club and is president of the Dormitory Senate for International Dormitory on campus.

Marlene Simha of Newton, a senior at Southeastern Massachusetts University majoring in textile sciences, has been awarded a $400 scholarship from the Ira Tepper Fund.

Patricia Thomas, a freshman from West Newton, has been awarded a varsity letter as member of the Haverford (Pa.) College women's field hockey team.

Ms. Thomas was among the team's leading scorers with four goals and five assists.

James M. Carroll, son of John and Claire Carroll of Newton, is director of the Kennedy Political Union at the American University in Washington, D.C. for the current year.

The KPU is a student-run campus lecture bureau responsible for bringing in notable speakers to the AU campus.

He is a political science honors student at the University.

David Soyka, an Elbert Covell College (Stockton, CA.) student from Newton Highlands, recently participated in the 12th annual Organization of American States (OAS) Model Conference.

Soyka, a sophomore majoring in international studies and business, was a representative from Haiti at the daylong event at University of the Pacific.

Howard A. Cyker, of Dudley Road, Newton Center, a senior at Worcester Polytechnic Institute, recently won honorable mention in the James F. Lincoln Foundation's Engineering Design Competition. The prize was $100 for the Newtonite majoring in mechanical engineering.

His project was entitled "An analysis and design of Czechoslavakian lay beam". Cyker is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Cyker, and is a graduate of Newton South.

Martha Naomi Alt of Beacon Street is among University of Wisconsin-Madison seniors invited to this winter's honors convocation based on class standing or honors program enrollment.

Two local students have been honored for academic performance at Montrose, an independent day school for girls based in Brookline.

Included are: Anya Vronsky, who lives with her aunt, Mary Holland, in Newtonville, who earned second honors; and Kelly Shea, who earned high honors for the first term. Ms. Shea is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shea of Commonwealth Avenue, West Newton.

Home for elderly slates talks

NEWTON — The Porter Home for the Elderly of Newton is organizing two discussion groups that will heighten awareness and present realistic solutions to the problems of aging in our society. The group "Sons and Daughters of Elderly Parents" will discuss the problems and joys of communicating with and living with elderly parents.

The group "Aging Parents" will provide a forum for participants to share their perspectives on the problems of growing old and relating to their children.

All interested persons are invited to attend these free discussion groups, which will meet twice a month at the Porter Home.

Newton Police log

Woman shoots own hand

NEWTON — A woman was slightly injured after she accidentally shot herself in the hand last Wednesday night with a revolver, police said.

Police said the woman was loading the gun in her Anthony Road home and was taken to Newton-Wellesley Hospital about 12:15 a.m. Police would not release the woman's name but said she owns the weapon because she works with silver and gold.

Youths assault man, take $3

NEWTONVILLE — A man handing out publicity for the Waltham Swim Team was assaulted last week by two youths who grabbed $3 from him and ran, police said.

The man was at the corner of Washington and Walker Streets around 3 p.m. when he was approached by a teenaged girl who asked for a quarter, police said. Suddenly a boy punched the man and the girl pushed him to the ground, police said.

The female is described as white, 16 years old, 5-feet-11-inches tall, 150 pounds with short blonde hair and makeup. She was wearing a short brown leather jacket.

The male is white, 16 or 17 years old, six-feet-tall, medium build, with short dark hair and a thin mustache. He wore a short black leather jacket and dark pants.

Sound system stolen

WEST NEWTON — A cassette and radio system worth $300 were stolen from a a car parked last Wednesday night in the driveway of an Adella Avenue home, police said.

Local apartments entered

NEWTON CORNER — Jewels and silverware were stolen last week from a two-family Washington Street home, police said.

A woman returned home about 3 p.m. and saw a white female leaving the apartment and asked the woman who she was, police said.

The suspect mumbled that she was a friend but quickly left in an Oldsmobile, police siad.

The suspect is about 27-years-old, 5-feet-7-inches tall and slim, said police. Both apartments were entered, according to reports.

Pair charged in shop break

NEWTON — A Newton juvenile and a 20-year-old Newton man were arrested in connection with a break last week into a Newtonville coin store, police said.

John Cedrone, of 315 Craft St, Newton, and the juvenile were charged with breaking and entering in the night. Officers apprehended them at 11:20 p.m. Tuesday inside Colony Coin Company on Bowens Street after a neighbor's tip, police said.

Highlands group checking interest in computer course

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — The Newton Highlands Community Development Corporation is calling for community participation in two computer access programs which will inaugurate a Computer Access Center in late January.

The Computer Literacy Program is planned for anyone who wants a hands-on introduction to micro-computers and has no prior computer experience. The program will consist of free seminars followed by a variety of courses.

The Computer Applications Program will make available high quality microcomputer services at a minimal price, particularly to professionals, small businesses, and non-profit organizations. Initial services will include mailing list and word processing, and financial spread sheets.

According to Paul Shiman, chairman of the NHCDC Computer Access Committee, more than 50 computer professionals and enthusiasts are already members of the group. But broader participation is sought, including tax exempt donations to help purchase personal computers for use in the free literacy seminars; potential registrants for the seminars and courses; potential users of applications services; and volunteers to help plan and run these and additional programs.

Program details will be announced in early January.

For more information call the NHCDC office at 244-5551, Shiman at 969-3387 or Carol Carroll at 244-1890.

Rec Commission meeting set

NEWTON — The Newton Recreation Commission will hold it's regular monthly meeting at the Newton City Hall, on the second floor, on Monday, Dec. 20 at 7:30 p.m.

In addition to the regular reports of programs and activities given each month, the monthly report on the update of the development of the Cold Springs park will be given, skating plans for the winter, and a brief presentation by Linda Plaut of the Recreation's Arts in the Parks programs on the planned 1983 Arts Festival.

The public is always welcome.

Committee pushes to clarify process for tax abatements

NEWTON — Members of the aldermanic Revaluation Subcommittee have expressed their concern that some taxpayers might be confused as to the deadlines for filing for property tax abatements and exemptions.

Certain members were surprised to learn from Assessor Henry "Hank" Brady that applications for abatements had to be filed every year, whether or not they were approved.

Taxpayers had 30 days from the date they received their tax bills to refile for an abatement. The deadline was November 30.

The subcommittee has requested that Mayor Theodore D. Mann petition the Department of Revenue for a dispensation from the letter of the law to allow taxpayers who might have been confused about the deadline to refile late.

According to Brady, as of December 1, 2,661 of the 3,468 applications for FY83 abatements were actually refiled FY82 applications.

Those persons who either had their abatement applications denied or are dissatisfied with the assessors' final judgement have 90 days from the date they received their notice to appeal to the state Appellate Tax Board.

The application deadline for filing for exemptions and deferrals is February 1, 1983, Brady said.

There is no deadline for filing for a hardship exemption, he added, emphasizing that persons seeking such an exemption would rule it out if they somehow managed to pay their taxes before their application was ruled on.

Explorers to hear probation officer

WEST NEWTON — John L. Sullivan, juvenile probation officer of the Newton District Court, will address the Newton Law Explorer Post 557 on Monday, Dec. 20, at 7:30 p.m. in the Newton Police Guard Room.

Newton Law Explorer Post 557 is a career-oriented program of The Norumbego Council, Inc., of the Boy Scouts of American which is sponsored by the Presiding Justice of the Newton District Court, Monte G. Basbas.

High school and junior high school students who are interested in pursuing a career in the field of law are welcome to attend.

Senior Strrrrrrretch gets them moving

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

LOWER FALLS — Millions of runners hit the streets daily as other health enthusiasts crowd gyms and health spas for exercise.

Blinda Weden, a resident of Regency Hall Nursing Home, demonstrates limbering exercises for seniors.

Yet senior citizens are not getting enough exercise because most physical fitness programs are too strenuous for the elderly, according to a Chestnut Hill exercise instructor.

"It is vital that all seniors get exercise," said Asta O'Donnell, owner of the Brookline Physical Fitness Center on Boylston Street.

O'Donnell, 42, is on a campaign to get seniors moving. Her program, called "Senior Stretch" is designed especially for people who are confined to beds and wheelchairs.

"It shows that people can actively exercise even while confined to a wheelchair. There are a great many exercises which can be done," said O'Donnell.

O'Donnell who recently instructed the class for residents of the Regency Hall Nursing Home on Washington Street. Several residents said O'Donnell's exercise program has helped them move hands or feet for the first time in years.

Doctors told Nathan Hurowitz, 82, a Regency Hall resident, that he would never walk again following a stroke more than a year ago. Hurowitz is now taking steps with the help of a walker. He attributes his feat to the help of the nursing home staff and O'Donnell's instructions.

The participants use rubber balls, rope and other props to help stretch their muscles. O'Donnell, a certified physical and occupational therapist from Germany, also advises seniors to slowly rotate their hands and feet, which can be done while in a sitting or reclining position. Stretching arms toward the ceiling, wiggling fingers and toes and flexing feet are other forms of exercise which can reduce stiffness and improve circulation.

"Seniors know that if they don't exercise they will get stiff. They still need to maintain a good heart rate and circulation. Cold hands are a sign of poor circulation and are more prone to injury," O'Donnell said.

Senior Stretch was recently taped and is televised twice a week on the Newton Community Access Channel on Continental Cablevision. Residents at Regency Hall are more enthusiastic about exercising when they watch the class on tlevision.

"We were all watching the program here one day and automatically everyone started exercising," said Joanne Klick, activities director.

"There's nothing on television for seniors. We can watch the Richard Simmons Show but we can't do a lot of the stenuous exercises that he does. This program is really designed for seniors," she said.

Klick also emphasized that the daily workout is important now because many residents do not go outdoors in the winter.

Several residents testified to the benefits of O'Donnell's program.

"I can move a lot more than I did before," said Blinda Wheden.

Nellie Ohnemo, 87, who has a severe form of arthritis, said she clasped her hands together for the first time in years while they were taping Senior Stretch.

Hurowitz said that 14 months ago his feet could not touch the ground. Now he can take steps and rotate his feet.

"I'm still improving. I hope one day to leave the nursing home be back with my wife. This program is something different. It shows people in a wheelchair that they can do something about it."

Exercise instructor Asta O'Donnell helps a Regency Hall resident stretch out her arms as part of exercise program.

Block grant distribution unchallenged

NEWTON — The Newton Planning and Development Board's (NPDB) plans for spending more than $2 million in federal funds in the next fiscal year came out of a public hearing last week at Newton North uncriticized and unchanged.

The largest slice of $2,099,000 in federal Community Development Block Grant funds, $750,200, will go toward the rehabilitation of housing in the city.

A total of $236,350 will be used to provide low interest and deferred payment loans to low and middle income homeowners in Nonantum and Newton Corner. Those two areas were designated as "neighborhoods with the highest level of identified housing need."

Another $236,350 has been earmarked for low-interest and deferred-payment loans to low- and moderate-income homeowners throughout the rest of the city. Owners of rental properties are eligible for this assistance if the rehabilitation will benefit a majority of low- to moderate-income persons.

Under a Historic District Funding Program, $40,000 will be allocated to loans for external repairs to "historically significant property" owned by low- and moderate-income persons. The Upper Falls Historical District will get preference in the granting of these low interest or deferred payment loans.

The largest expenditure in the NPDB's housing rehabilitation program will be $237,500 for its administration.

Other projected expenditures for the coming fiscal year include $272,200 for the acquisition and development of housing projects for low- and middle-income families, the elderly and the handicapped. The handicapped housing at the Hyde School will get preference over other projects for these funds.

A concerted effort to create more curb cuts and eliminate other architectural barriers to the handicapped will receive $25,000 of the federal funds. The money will be spent on public facilities and non-profit institutions.

Some $161,400 will be allocated to fund a Human Services Assistance Program, which includes day care scholarships, youth centers and a mental-health-intervention service to be offered by the city's Health Department.

Three community centers — Emerson, Hamilton and Nonantum — will receive a total of $41,400 next year.

Community Development Corporations in Newton Corner and Upper Falls will split $48,000, while another $26,500 will be used to administer economic development projects in other parts of the city.

The Allen House on Webster St. in West Newton will receive $33,000 to pay for roof repairs in the final phase of its rehabilitation.

Newton Corner will receive an additional $160,000 for improvements to the street and sidewalks on Pearl St., from Jackson Rd. to Centre St.

Nonantum will receive $82,500 for improvements to Pearl St. from Jackson Rd. to Watertown St. while $15,200 has been set aside for the rental cost of the Nonantum Multi-Service Center.

The Langely Road Pumping Station project, aimed at alleviating a low water pressure problem in the neighborhood, will receive $95,600.

Mayor stumps for trash plan

OAK HILL — Mayor Theodore Mann used an address last week to Newton South High School students as an opportunity to advocate private trash collection for Newton.

Mann, who was invited by the school's Enrichment Program to discuss his role in government, said the city would save $3 million over the next 4 ½ years by switching from the city-operated Sanitation Department to a private firm.

About 50 students were told by Mann that no city workers would lose their jobs as a result of the switch. Mann said positions would be lost through attrition and workers would have first choice of jobs as well as increased wages with a private company.

Mann also discussed with students his role government and how the mayor functions with other areas of government.

Among the important tasks facing public sevants today is deciding how to distributed diminishing public funds and finding ways to utilize school buildings in the wake of decreasing school enrollment, Mann said.

"These are hard times for people to live in," said the mayor, noting that 4,000 Newton families are below the poverty level and scores of other families are on the borderline of poverty.

Mann conceded that the role of government is not the most exciting topic to high school students, but he urged them to become involved in its processes.

"It's one of the most important subjects you will have to deal with throughout your years," he said.

Welcome back to the bank.

For the last couple of years, investors who wanted to earn money market rates put their money in a money market fund.

Now Mutual Bank for Savings is introducing the most attractive account we've ever offered—our Insured Investment Account.

An account that gives you every reason to come back to the bank.

Money market rates. With a minimum investment of $2,500 in an Insured Investment Account, you'll receive a rate of 10%, guaranteed through January 10, 1983. And Massachusetts will only tax your earnings at 50% of the rate you're now paying on you money market fund interest.

Security. Unlike money market funds, our Insured Investment Account is just that—insured. For up to $100,000 by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

And unlike commercial bank accounts, it's also insured by the Deposit Insurance Fund of Massachusetts.

Liquidity. You can gain instant access to the money in your Insured Investment Account by writing checks in any amount you choose—another advantage over money market funds.

The convenience of REDi-CASH/24. When you invest in an Insured Investment Account, we'll also open a NOW Account for you—with no minimum balance required. And effective January 5, 1983, we'll offer a Super NOW Account that also pays money market rates.

You'll get a REDi-CASH Card, providing you 24-hour access, seven days a week, to up to $100 a day at 42 convenient REDi-CASH/24 locations and 55 banking offices in Massachusetts.

You can even use your REDi-CASH Card to cash checks at more than 100 supermarkets statewide.

The convenience of Pay-by-Phone. You'll even be able to bank from home, simply by picking up the phone and transferring money from your Insured Investment Account to your NOW Account. Then you can use our popular Pay-by-Phone service to pay your bills.

Monthly Statements. With our Insured Investment Account, you get a monthly record of your status and transactions.

Discount Brokerage Service. Many smart investors will want to take advantage of our Discount Brokerage Service, New England Investment Enterprises, and save up to 60% on commisions.

And maybe the best reason of all, Mutual Bankers. Once again, you'll be dealing with people you can bank on. People you know. And who know you.

For more information about our new Insured Investment Account, simply return the coupon below. Or call our Consumer Information Center at 482-7530 or 969-7500. Or stop by any of the branch offices of Mutual Bank for Savings.

McGrath claims trash company is being 'used'

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Is the private trash firm caught in a battle between the sanitation department, the aldermen and the administration only a tool being used by the administration in negotiating with the workers ?

"I believe they (SCA) have been used as a collective bargaining tool, a steel gauntlet, with the sanitation department," said Alderman Richard McGrath at last week's Public Facilities Committee meeting.

SCA is a Boston based firm which is the lowest bidder for collecting city trash at a savings to the city said to be nearly $3 million over 4½ years, by Mayor Theodore Mann, but the firm is caught in a battle for funding the plan.

"We believe it was an honest effort by the city to ask for bids and it is difficult being caught up in a political turmoil," said SCA Corporate Communications Director Joseph Boron.

Boron said his firm has invested more than $10,000 in practice scenarios of actually picking up resident's trash and other expenses to present a bid according to the city bidding specifications for the trash plan. He says his firm wants to do business with the city.

"A city puts out a request for a proposal and we determine if it's for real, said Boron. Many times they use us as a negotiating tool, he said.

Boron said his firm can save the city money and said the real issue is a labor issue.

Labor officials, city administration and a number of aldermen met Wednesday for four hours in an attempt to hammer out an alternative trash proposal by Local 800 union representatives.

Last week aldermen voted not to take any action on the trash plan until after today and labor has been given a chance to present a viable trash plan.

McGrath said the administration and labor have been asked not to comment on the negotiations, but aldermen were not prevented from commenting.

"Without analysis they (the union) made a very attractive proposal that is very competitive with private industry," said McGrath.

The proposal being put forth by the union consists partially of a four day work week, according to McGrath. More meetings are expected early next week, he added.

"I was impressed with what I saw proposed by the workers," said Alderwoman Elaine Gentile.

Hospice arts program offered by local group

CAMBRIDGE — Virginia Fry, artist/coordinator of the Hospice of the Good Shepherd, Inc., in Newton, will present a three-day seminar to prepare participants to develop their own Arts-in-Hospice programs. The seminar will be from Jan. 26-28 at the Cronkhite Center, Radcliffe Graduate School in Cambridge.

The program will be held on Wednesday, Jan. 26, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Thursday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and 7-10 p.m.; and Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The cost is $120 (if registered by Dec. 15) and $150 for late registration. Participation will be limited to 20.

Fry will demonstrate how different creative modes can be incorporated into hospice work. These art forms include the visual arts, symbology, music, healing literature, imagery, movement, celebration, the home-arts, gardening and crafts.

The seminar will also cover the philosophy of the Arts-in-Hospice, training and education, working with a hospice team, using community resources, budget planning, funding sources and documentation of a program.

The goal of the Hospice, a private, nonprofit organization operating in coalition with Newton-Wellesley Hospital and other agencies, is to care for terminally-ill patients in the community and to support their families during their bereavement.

To register for the seminar, call the Hospice of the Good Shepherd at 969-6130.

Irving Rabb plans to retire from board of local company

BOSTON — Irving W. Rabb, vice chairman of the board, recently announced his intention to retire from active employment with The Stop & Shop Companies, Inc., according to Chairman of the Board Sidney R. Rabb and President and Chief Executive Officer Avram J. Goldberg.

Rabb plans to retire on July 1, 1983, after 48 years of service with the company. He will remain a director of the corporation. "Although we will greatly miss the wisdom and foresight Irving Rabb has brought daily to The Stop & Shop Companies for almost five decades, we look forward to the continued availability of his guidance, stated Sidney Rabb and Avram Goldberg.

Rabb first joined Stop & Shop in 1935, following his graduation from Harvard College and attending Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration.

He became president of the corporation in 1964 and two years later was named to the post of vice chairman of the board and chairman of the executive committee.

because he would need their support in an application for the necessary special permit.

Canner, in an attempt to explain the situation to committee members who had missed the public hearings, stated that there had been considerable opposition to the proposal. He added that there had never been a proposal for subsidized housing in the city "that ever had neighborhood support."

He reminded the committee, "There is a severe and extreme need for housing in the city."

When it looked, for a moment, like the committee might put the matter on hold, Canner said he would rather see a negative vote than one which would hold the item past December 31, the deadline for securing state and federal funds. "We'll have to start looking for other sites," he said.

Finally, committee member Sondra Shick moved for approval of the item and it passed by a vote of 6 to 2. Shick told neighbors who opposed the development to become an active part of the citizens advisory committee which is being set up to review its progress. Aldermen Coletti and Bauckman voted against the proposal.

The matter will move on to the full Board of Aldermen for approval. One of the conditions attached by the Administration and Planning Committee stipulates that site plans of the project must come back to the Land Use Committee for final approval.

Parking ban could change

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Residents' cars may not have to disappear from the streets nightly to comply with the city's parking ban if a new law takes effect New Year's day as planned.

Newton bans overnight parking between the hours of 2 a.m. and 6 a.m. and police ticket violators with a parking fine of $4, according to the police.

The Public Safety and Transportation Committee and its subcommittee approved preliminary parking regulations on Monday to allow residents without off-street parking to leave their cars overnight.

Hoping to make the additional parking available by January 1, the committee will ask the full board of aldermen to approve the regulations next Monday.

The regulations grant a maximum of four parking stickers for a two family house or two per household to residents who qualify, according to Public Safety and Transportation Chairman Joseph DePasquale.

"I would be surprised if there are 400 people in the city who will be qualified to have overnight parking," said Alderman Michael Malec, the sponsor of the regulations.

To qualify a resident must show they do not have any off-street parking and this will be verified by a city official, according to DePasquale.

Although two parking spaces will be allowed per household that number will be reduced by the available spaces at the home, according to the proposed regulations.

No fees are expected to be instituted during the first year of the program, according to Malec. Waltham residents must pay $24 a year for the night parking privilege.

Municipal parking lots will be opened up for night parking as well, according to Malec.

The areas of the city expected to gain the most from the night parking plan are: Nonantum, Newton Center, West Newton and Auburndale, according to DePasquale.

"If the board doesn't want to approve this on a city-wide basis then we should at least try it in Nonantum and Newton Center," said DePasquale.

Parking stickers designating where a car is supposed to be parked should be issued by the police department recommends Malec.

The Traffic Commission opposes the parking plan because they believe it will create problems for emergency access and interfere with city operations.

DePasquale says the regulations will overcome the objections raised by the Traffic Commission by implementing an odd and even day parking so cars will only be on one side of the street and will not interfere with street sweeping and snow plows.

He's not hot on nuke freeze push

By Rick Whiting
Staff Writer

WESTWOOD — The United States must present a strong front to the Soviet Union if democracy is to survive and the burgeoning nuclear freeze movement in this country is based on "ignorance," according to a Soviet emigrant.

Yuri Tuvim, a Newton resident who left the U.S.S.R. seven years ago, spoke before some 100 students at Westwood High School recently and warned his listeners that the disarmament movement only brings the world closer to nuclear war.

Tuvim was speaking to the students as part of the school's "Distinguished Speaker" series.

Tuvim, an engineer with a Milford firm, said Americans are basically ignorant about the U.S.S.R. while the Soviet Union has a major institute solely for the purpose of studying the U.S. and Canada.

"Democracy responds to the demands of the people and the American people are not interested in learning about the U.S.S.R.," he said.

Calling the events within the Soviet Union "the most important issue of our time," Tuvim said: "The nuclear freeze movement is based on educated ignorance."

By educated ignorance, Tuvim said he meant that Americans think they know what is happening in the Soviet Union but really do not.

"The major goal of the Soviet system is the elimination of democracy," he said. "The major goal (of the system) is to control its own people. Democracy, by its very existence, threatens the Soviet system."

Tuvim said the Soviets, rather than using all-out war, work toward their goals by taking advantage of tension among American allies, confusion and wars in the Third World.

"They always make small steps which are small enough not to provoke the U.S.," he said.

Tuvim said that British appeasement of Hitler was the cause of World War II and said that the nuclear freeze movement could have the same effect.

"What kind of message does this give the Soviet Union?" he asked. "The policy of appeasement only makes the agressor more agressive."

Tuvim also called the freeze movement "counter-productive" and "irresponsible games."

Before last month's election, a proponent of the freeze had spoken to the students and was greeted with skepticism. Although not all students seemed to agree with Tuvim yesterday, many did appear more attentive to his statements.

One student asked why more nuclear weapons are needed when there are already enough to destroy the world. Tuvim said American nuclear delivery systems are becoming old and outdated and must be modernized, such as the Soviets are doing.

Another student asked whether the U.S. should take advantage of the U.S.S.R.'s weaknesses.

"The only way to secure your future is to support internal unrest in the Soviet Union," he agreed. "To support dissidence in the Soviet Union."

On the march

Interior Designer Bill Grimes of Design Assoc. in Newton Upper Falls received an award recently from March of Dimes Community Service representative Ann Quinton for his help during recent gourmet gala.

Gifted

Mrs. Herbert Gann of Newton, president of the Women's Council of the Solomon Schechter Day School, recently presented the Schechter Building Endowment Fund with $4,500 as part of the council's fund-raising and public relations arm of the school. Accepting the gift was Schechter president Jay Orlin.

Speaking of business

NEWTON CENTRE — A new "Extended Hours Safe Deposit Service" will soon be available to BayBank Middlesex customers at the Newton Centre office.

Starting this week, customers can get into their safe deposit boxes seven days a week, and beyond regular banking hours. The facility will be open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday; 9 a.m. to 12 midnight Friday and Saturday; and 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Sundays.

"The service was developed to meet an increasing need for a convenient safe deposit system," said Giles E. Mosher Jr., chairman of the board and president. "More and more people are putting their valuables in safe deposit boxes. Because of the demand imposed by today's ever changing lifestyles, consumers may not find traditional banking hours convenient for accessing their valuables. Our new service was created in response to our customers' needs."

To celebrate the beginning of the innovative service, BayBank Middlesex will hold a public reception at 10 a.m. on December 15 in the Newton Centre office at which time the bank will provide a safe deposit box for use by the Newton Historical Society.

A very special item will also be stored temporarily – a hat that once belonged to the world famous actress Greta Garbo. It will be auctioned off at the Society's fund raising "Norumbega Nostalgia Night" ball on January 28, 1983, at the Marriott Hotel.

NEWTON — Fox-Morris Personnel Consultants, a recruitment and executive search firm, has established New England offices at 189 Wells Avenue in Newton.

The Fox-Morris/New England facility is owned by Fred Calatayud, a former regional vice-president and senior loan officer with Connecticut Bank and Trust, that state's largest financial institution.

The office will be under the direction of Archie S. Gelb, vice-president and general manager. Gelb brings over 10 years experience in search and placement service to local and national firms.

Mt. Ida offers 4-year program in vet science

NEWTON CENTRE — To answer a need among New England veterinarians for more qualified paraprofessional help, Mount Ida College will offer a four-year bachelor of science degree in Veterinary Technology.

The program is made possible by a cooperative arrangement with Tufts University School of Veterinary Medicine, which will augment the teaching staff and provide settings for hands-on clinical training

According to Dr. James Martin, dean of the Senior College at Mount Ida, the school has just received approval from the Massachusetts Board of Regents to add a fourth-year, bachelor degree capstone to its existing three-year Veterinary Technician program which culminates in an associate degree.

The new bachelor degree program will have an estimated enrollment of 20-25 students annually, and the college will graduate its first class of veterinary technologists in the spring of 1984.

Says Dean Martin, "Mount Ida is now the only school in Massachusetts to offer a bachelor degree in the field of Veterinary Technology, and the only school in New England to offer a four-year degree and an affiliation with a veterinary school."

The veterinary technician, three-year program, offers a theoretical background with basic science courses. The fourth year of training includes rotating externships at three Tufts-affiliated clinical facilities: the school's Large Animal Hospital in Grafton, where students will learn handling of horses and farm animals; the U.S.D.A. Human Nutrition Research Center for the Aging at Tufts, where students gain experience in the humane care and handling of laboratory animals; and a small animal clinical site to be designated.

Sherman room dedication set at school Thurs.

NEWTON CENTRE — Friends and family of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Sherman of Newton, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Sherman, Mrs. Sarah Sherman, and Abigail and Daniel Sherman will gather on Thursday, Dec. 16 at the Solomon Schechter Day School in Newton to dedicate a classroom in memory of Abe Sherman, father, husband, and grandfather.

Joel Sherman, and his wife Sue, have long been active at the Schechter School, where he has served as an officer and she has chaired major functions and committees. Daughter Abigail is a first grade student at the school.

The dedication is part of an ongoing Building Endowment Fund program for the school which has completed its initial target phase and has now begun its second stage in an attempt to raise an additional million dollars as the cost of living and of quality education has skyrocketed.

To date, more than 170 families have participated in the campaign in the major gifts categories, with more than 600 others giving on an annual basis to support scholarship aid, special programming, library activities, and restricted funds.

The school has been a success story since it opened its doors in 1961 with just five students. Today Schechter is bursting at the seams with over 300 students in grades k-8, and research has begun on the feasibility of a high school. Schechter is housed in a former Newton public school, the Memorial School in Oak Hill Park.

While recruitment of students to enter kindergarten or first grade for the 1983-84 school year has barely begun, applications have been numerous, and already few spaces are left.

Friends of the school and of the Sherman family are invited to attend the dedication which will be followed by a reception. If you wish to attend, call the school at 964-7765.

Library collection set up in name of late Newton pastor

WATERVILLE, Me — The Todrank Memorial Library Collection has been established at Colby College to honor the memory of Gustave H. Todrank, a former pastor in Newton and a professor of philosophy and religion from 1956 until his death in 1982.

Contributions will fund the acquisition of books in the areas of Mr. Todrank's special interests and concern - religion, ecology and medical ethics. His research, teaching, and writing focused on the environmental crisis and people's moral responsibility to their fellows and to the natural world.

Mr. Todrank served in the Air Corps during WW II and graduated Phi Beta Kappa from DePauw University in 1948. He received a bachelor of Sacred Theology degree from Boston University School of Theology, and Ph.D. from Boston University.

Before joining the Colby faculty, he was pastor of the North Congregational Church in Newton.

He also served as national chairman of the religion and ecology groups of the American Academy of Religion. Mr. Todrank was author of many articles and of two books, "The Secular Search for a New Christ," and "The Eden Connection: A Study in Cultural Euthenics." A course he taught in cultural euthenics was one of the most popular among Colby students.

The Todrank collection was initiated with the donation of part of Mr. Todrank's personal library by his widow, Elizabeth, coordinator of foreign study at Colby.

Contributions may be sent to Colby's office of annual giving. All gifts will be acknowledged, and the Todrank family will be informed of the names of donors.

NEWTON — BayBank Boston announces the recent promotions of Martha E. Cronin and Elizabeth W. Churchill, both of Newton.

Cronin has been nnamed loan officer in the Corporate Banking Division. She has been assigned to the National Accounts Department where her responsibilities include relationship management and new business development.

Prior to joining BayBank Boston, Cronin was a systems research analyst at the Wharton Applied Research Center in Philadelphia, where she was a member of a team that provided management consulting services to several major corporations.

Cronin earned both an undergraduate and a master's degree at Boston Colege. In addition, she recently received a master's degree in business administration from the Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania.

Elizabeth W. Churchill was elected investment officer and is responsible for municipal investments and municipal services, including bond certification.

Churchill, a graduate of Mount Holyoke College, also earned a master's degree in city and regional planning at Harvard University. She was formerly affiliated with the Kennedy School of Government and the Joint Center for Urban Studies of M.I.T. and Harvard University.

Prior to pursuing her master's degree, Churchill was president of the League of Women Voters of Scituate.

Charles P. VonBruns, employed by Peat Marwick Mitchell of Newtonville, was recently elected to membership in the Boston Chapter of the National Association of Accountants, the world's largest management accounting organization.

Steven J. Aronson, of Newton, vice president of Aronson Insurance Agency, Inc., in Newton, was elected a director of the Professional Insurance Agents of New England.

Aronson previously served PIA-New England as a member of the Education and Steering Committee. In addition, Aronson has served as instructor for many PIA-New England educational programs. He is a member of the Society of Certified Insurance Counselors.

William A. Black, president of Progressive Insurance Planners of Wellesley, was elected a vice-president of the Professional Insurance Agents of New England (PIA-New England) at the group's convention in Boston.

A Newton Centre resident, Black previously served PIA-New England as a Massachusetts director.

He is a member of the Society of Certified Insurance Counselors (CIC), the Fire Mark Society, the Boston Life Underwriters and the National Association of Life Underwriters. In addition, Black is a licensed insurance advisor.

Newton Centre resident M. Stuart Strong, M.D., professor and chairman of the Otolaryngological Department at Boston University School of Medicine, was recently elected president of the American Laryngological Association.

Strong is also Chief of Otolaryngology at University Hospital in Boston, a teaching hospital of BUSM.

Born and educated in Dublin, Ireland, Strong has been a professor of otolaryngology at the school since 1956.

Emilie Heitmiller of Newton has been named area chairman of Go-Getters for the 1983 Channel 2 Auction.

This marks the second year Heitmiller has held this key role in the annual fund-raiser, slated for June 3-11.

In addition to her duties with Channel 2, Heitmiller is chairman of the English Department at the Fessenden School in Newton.

Helen Shulman, LICSW, has been appointed executive director of Charles River Counseling Center, Inc. in Newton and Stoney Brook Counseling Center, Inc. in Burlington and Chelmsford.

The clinics are affiliated with Boston University School of Medicine and provide private comprehensive psychological and psychiatric outpatient services to adults and children.

Shulman received a B.A. from Dennison University in 1963, an M.A. from the University of California at Riverside in 1964, and a Masters in Social Work from Simmons College in 1978.

Prior to accepting the position of Executive Director, Shulman was Clinical Director of Stoney Brook Counseling Center.

Bruce J. Holstein, M.D., of Newton, has been reappointed as medical director of the Stoney Brook Counseling Centers in Burlington, and Chelmsford.

Dr. Holstein graduated from the Boston University School of Medicine and completed his General Psychiatric Residency at the Boston University School of Medicine, and Child Psychiatry Residency at Hall-Mercer Childrens Center at the McLean Hospital. He has worked in a variety of settings including inpatient work with adults and children.

Dr. Holstein is on the faculty at Harvard University School of Medicine and Boston University School of Medicine.

Barbara Madden of Waban was elected to the Massachusetts Nurses Association's Committee on Nominations, District V, at the 75th Convention held recently in Boston.

Madden is a graduate of Boston College School of Nursing, earning both an M.S. and B.S. there and her Ed.D. at Northeastern University. She serves as chairperson of the Department of Nursing at Fitchburg State College.

NEWTON — Manfred E. Goodwin has been named vice president-investments of Bache Halsey Stuart Shields Incorporated, the investment banking and brokerage firm, it was announced by Arthur J. Stavaridis, first vice president and manager of the Bache Boston branch.

Goodwin and his wife, Marcia, reside in Newton.

Richard L. Dill of Auburndale has been appointed deputy director for Administrative Services for the Massachusetts Division of Employment Security (DES) by DES Director Eugene J. Doody.

As deputy director, Dill will have responsibilty for the agency's Data Processing, Staff Training, General Office Services, and Procurement and Premises Departments.

Most recently he was regional director for the DES Greater Boston region. Dill joined DES in 1964 as an employment counselor in the Norwood office. He was named state supervisor of Counseling and served in that capacity for a year before being appointed an employment office manager.

He managed DES offices in Brockton, Cambridge and the Route 128 Professional Services Center.

In 1972 he was promoted to head the agency's Staff Training Department and later was named chief of the new Job Matching Automated Systems Department. From 1978 to 1980 he headed the Massachusetts Work Incentive Program.

He has been an adjunct professor of Community Counseling at Northeastern University and Instructor in management at Bunker Hill Community College.

A graduate of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Dill received a Master's degree in Counseling from Northeastern University in 1967 and a Certificate of Advanced Graduate Study in Community Counseling. In 1980 he received a Master's degree in Public Administration from Northeastern.

Victor A. Capoccia, of Waban, has been elected president of the Board of Directors of the Health Planning Council for Greater Boston.

Capoccia said the challenge facing health planners in the 1980s is to contain health costs while assuring access and quality of care. Capoccia is an associate professor at Boston College's Graduate School of Social Work. He has been a member of the Health Planning Council for five years and previously served as Consumer Vice-President.

He was elected president at the December meeting of the council, whose membership includes both consumers and providers of health care.

Daniel S. Jaquette, Ed.D. of Newton, has recently been appointed clinical director at the Charles River Counseling Center, Newton.

Dr. Jaquette received his B.A. from Harvard College, and received both his Ed.M. and Ed.D. from Harvard University, Graduate School of Education. Dr. Jaquette was trained at the Cambridge Guidance Center and the Judge Baker Guidance Center.

Dr. Jaquette works with children, adolescents, and adults in individual, group, and family therapy.

Prior to joining the Charles River Counseling Center, he worked as a research associate at Harvard University, specializing in children's cognitive learning. In addition, he worked at the Manville School with emotionally and interpersonally impaired children and adolescents.

Newton North honors 190 athletes

By Steve Tiberi
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Robert Malone, who has been coaching at Newton North High School since 1955, received a special plaque for his 27 years of coaching to highlight the 1982 Newton North Fall Athletic Banquet Thursday night at the Newton Legion Post 440 Hall.

Malone, who started coaching when it was just Newton High, has coached football, baseball, basketball and track in his stint. He is presently an assistant coach for the football team. He was presented the trophy by Athletic Director Tom Williams.

"I've been here for 27 years," said Malone. "I met a father here tonight who I coached 20 years ago. It's a strange feeling. I'd like thank the parents in particular. They've given me some fine people to work with."

The other highlight came in the form of the golf team awarding Newton North Principal Myra Levinson with the Suburban League golf championship. The Tiger golfers were 10-2 on the season for the title.

"We had a fine group of individuals this season," said Newton North golf coach Jack Neville. "They competed with great skill. I've enjoyed working with them." Neville's team have gone 24-4 over the past three seasons.

Also spotlighted were the efforts of nine individuals, who were awarded plaques for receiving five varsity letters. Stephanie Meyer (swimming, gymnastics), Leo Butera (football, wrestling), John Callahan (football, wrestling, lacrosse), John Drew (golf, track), Lisa Lyons (cross-country, winter and spring track), Gerard McHugh (cross-country, winter and spring track), Tim Mulvey (football, lacrosse), Eileen Quinlan (cross-country, winter and spring track) and Stephanie Stoyanoff (soccer, basketball) were the individual winners of the plaques.

Honored for their achievements during the fall were 191 boy and girl athletes in football, soccer, cross-country, field hockey, volleyball, golf, swimming and cheerleading.

The girls soccer team, coached by Barry Howland, went 8-0-4 during the regular Suburban League season only to lose out on the title to Brockton in the last game of the season. It was the first time the Tiger girls haven't won the title in eight years.

They made the state tournament and were defeated in the first round by Medfield in double overtime. "It was one of the finest soccer games I've ever witnessed," said Howland. "Both teams played high quality soccer and these players hung tough."

Stephanie Stoyanoff was chosen a Suburban League All-Star in girls soccer and she also was chosen one of the top 11 players in the state by a board of coaches. Victorie Kelley, Joan Martin, Kathy Maguire, Denise Richards and Joanne Rosetti were also chosen to the league all-star squad.

Coach Norm Walker introduced six Suburban League All-Stars from his football team. The Tigers season wasn't the best in recent memory, but Walker was quick to point out that this group was one of the finest he's ever been associated with. "These kids never quit," said Walker. "They fought a hard battle and with a few breaks things may have been different. This senior class is a fine class and they deserve praise for their togetherness. It would have been easy to quit this season, but they didn't."

Boys' soccer coach Roger Brown gave his three Suburban League All-Stars their certificates along with awarding the rest of the team varsity letters. "We got off to a slow start because everything was new," said Brown. "But in the second half of the season, we only lost one game in the final seven games and missed the tourney by just one game."

Head Table guests included: Mr. George Jessup, Faculty Manager; Dr. Brad Thompson, team physician; Mrs. Joan Fritschi; Ms. Myra Levison, Newton North Principal; Tom Williams, Newton North Athletic Director; Ms. Helen Thomas, Superintendent of Personnell in Newton Public Schools; Mrs. Kathy Jones, Schoolcommittee member; Dr. John Strand, Superindtendent of Newton Schools."

Catholic coach hopes size will help hoopsters

NEWTON — As he prepares to start his second season at the helm of the Newton Catholic basketball team, Coach Don Dabenigno is finding out that you can't have everything--especially when it comes to getting the right combination of size and experience onto the hardwood.

During last year's "disappointing" 4-12 campaign, Dabenigno had the luxury of starting four seniors, but overall the squad lacked size, as only one of the frontline players topped the 6-foot mark.

This season, the situation is almost exactly the opposite. Gone are the four senior starters. For 1982-83 there are only four seniors on the entire squad, and three of them will be starting. But among the inexperienced troops are several players in the 6-foot range that could dramatically alter the Lancer's future, which begins on Dec. 15 when they host Beaver Country Day. Catholic Suburban League play begins on Dec. 19 at St. Clement's

Running the ballclub from his point guard post will be senior co-captain Jim Ross, who is the only returning Lancer starter. The 5-9 Ross, according to Dabenigno, is an excellent ballhandler.

Opposite Ross will be 5-10 Joe Fernandez. The Lancers will be looking for some accurate perimeter shooting from the senior guard.

Up front, co-captain Scott McAdam, the only returning letterman besides Ross, will occupy one forward slot. Dabenigno likes the 6-0 senior's overall physical ability. "He's aggresssive, he's our team leader on the floor," he said.

At the other forward spot is 6-1 junior Rick McClelland, who sat out last season after transferring to Newton Catholic. Despite the fact that this will be his first season, McClelland will be looked to for scoring punch from the outside, Dabenigno said.

Possibly the key to the Lancer attack will be center Jerry Franchi. The 6-3 junior will provide the Lancers with height and power they lacked last season. "He's a power player," Dabenigno said, "but he's got a soft touch." With Newton Catholic's slowdown style of play, Franchi will be seeing a lot of the ball in the Lancer offensive scheme.

Another key factor for the Lancers this season will be bench strength. Here, too, they possess the height necessary to improve on last season's performance.

Backing up the center spot will be 6-4 junior Tom DeRosa, a strong player off the glass, who saw some action last season, and can expect to see more in 82-83.

The other strong player that Dabenigno is looking for from the bench is freshman Jeff Sherman. the 6-footer's progress will be hindered some, as he is coming off pre-season knee surgery, and is not expected back before January 1.

Also prividing depth for the Lancers will be quick senior guard Luis DeJesus and sophomore Frank Censullo. Dabenigno likes Censullo's defensive ability, and plans to utilize him in "defensive situations."

One problem facing Dabenigno is that several players on whom is counting also played football this fall. DeRosa, Franchi, McClelland, McAdam and Dan Walsh, who is recovering from a football injury, all need time to "get their basketball legs and eyes and their touch," Dabenigno said.

"We have the height, but we're inexperienced. Two of the juniors have never played varsity, and one never played at all," Dabenigno said.

"They'll make mistakes, but I'm optimistic," he concluded.

Mites win streak halted

NEWTON — The Newton Mite travel team had an up and down week, winning two and losing two, and seeing its five-game unbeaten streak halted in the process.

Newton lost to Tri-Valley 5-4 in a game at Franklin, even though the losers had the edge in shots 22-21. For Newton, Andy Stocklan scored twice, with pat panaggio and Dennis Burke adding one apiece.

Newton and Framingham split a pair last week with Newton winning the first 3-2, despite being outshot 20-13, and suffering through six shorthanded situations. Stocklan again scored twice for the Mites, and Panaggio added the third goal for the winners. In the rematch, played at Newton, Framingham again outshot Newton, 26-10, but this time won the game as well, 5-2. Billy Kerrisey, with an assist to Mike Sylvia, and Dennis Burke, assisted by Stocklan, tallied for Newton.

Newton closed out the week by routing Ashland 9-0, as Stocklan and Mike Mahoney each picked up the hat trick. Jay Rourke, Dennis Burke and Billy Kerrissey, rounded out the Mites' scoring.

NEWTON — Glen Procter tallied 23 points to lead ShortSets to a 15-9, 15-2, 15-11 victory over Barry Brothers in Newton men's volleyball league action at Hawthorne Gym Monday night.

Andreos Zahopoulos added eight points for the winners and Chris Carleo led Barry Brothers with eight.

Also last night, Aronson Insurance topped LAG 8-15, 15-7, 16-14. Peter Meyer led the winners with 18 and Bill Porter added eight. Jim Gilbreath tallied nine for the losers.

In the final match, the Nets topped KGB 17-15, 11-9, 9-3. Peter Magni led the Nets with seven points and Randy Doherty chipped in with six. Len Valichansky scored eight points for KGB in the losing effort.

Newton South athletes feted

By Steve Tiberi
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The presentation of the Booster Awards to athletes in eight sports highlighted Newton South's 1982 Fall Athletic Banquet Wednesday night in the High School Auditorium.

Trophies for outstanding effort were given in football, volleyball, girls' and boys' soccer, field hockey, swimming, cross-country and cheerleading.

Offensive tackle and defensive linebacker Gene Lindsey took home the Booster Club trophy for his efforts on the football field. Lindsey won the award for his versatility and willingness to sacrifice for the good of the team.

"Gene is a perfect example of what the Booster Club Award is all about," said Newton South coach Art Kojoyian. "He started the season as an offensive end, but after the third game, he came to me and said he would play tackle if he had to.

"We moved Gene back to tackle and the team really took off," said Kojoyian. "Gene embodies the true spirit of the award. He was also a big part of the success of our running attack."

In his three games at end, Lindsey caught four passes for 86 yards. Lindsey led the defense with 61 tackles on the season.

The Lions had six players named to the Dual County League All-Star team and they received their special certificates at the Banquet. Lindsey, Bob Baker, Ron Davis, Neil Johnson, Steve Anglin and Joe Spagnuolo were named to the team.

Kojoyian made special mention of the performances turned in by quarterback Spagnuolo and runningback Anglin. Each player had set school records at Newton South. Spagnuolo, who adjusted from a passing attack to a running attack, holds school records in all passing categories. He was also the second leading rusher on the team with 401 yards and he scored seven touchdowns. It is his second time on the Dual County team.

Anglin started the season slowly, but after the third game he took off with the rest of the Lions. He led the way. Anglin rushed for more than 100 yards in eight games and for the last seven games straight. He set the school record for rushing in a season with 1463 yards. Anglin also had 200-yard games against Wayland and Lincoln-Sudbury. He scored 12 touchdowns. Anglin also played saftey on defense and made 24 tackles.

The Booster Award for boys' soccer went to senior center fullback Marc Nicoletti. A stabilizing force on defense, Nicoletti also moved up on offense when needed to provide a potent scoring thrust. Injured his junior season, Nicoletti's presence helped the Lion booters to a strong season.

"Two years ago, we had a strong team and Marc Nicoletti was on defense," said Newton South soccer coach Al Wilson. "Last season Marc was hurt and we suffered, but this year with Marc's return we had a very good season. We played in a tough league and did well.

Wilson felt his team may have ended as third best in the league. The Lions record (5-7-3) placed them fifth, but the third and fourth teams were beaten by the Lions in the second half of the season. "The league overall is better and I thought this team was our best becase they were playing in a quality league."

Julie Bernson won the award for the girls' fiels hockey team, which had a good season. The Lions won their first game in five years and also scored their first goal in three years. Bernson was a key team leader. "We had a fine season," said Coach Susan Bradbury. "The girls played well and improved as the season went along. The year was highlighted by our win over Newton North. We were in a tough league and the girls never quit."

The recipient in girls' soccer was co-capt. Cecila Wilcox, who was also named to the girls' soccer Dual County League All-Star team. Cecila played for three years at Newton South and her leadership and experience were a big boost for the growing Lion program.

"Cecila was voted the award by the players and that says a lot," said coach Charlie Hurwitz. "We had a fine season and the program is improving."

In cross-country, the Booster Award was presented to Thomas Vancor. Tom was in the top five for Newton South in ever race this season and he also placed well in the Dual County League meet.

"Tom was a tremendous leader by example," said coach Paul McCarthy. "He was in every race and never let up. He continued to improve. He is a good athlete and a fine person."

Phil Levinson, the top runner for Newton South all season, finished first in three races this season and was fifth overall in the Dual County League meet. Phil was selected to the Dual County League All-Star team.

Award winner Gene Lindsey

Roberta Curcio took the Booster Award for her efforts in pacing the Newton South volleyball team to a solid season. Roberta improved greatly during the season and she'll be one of many returning underclassmen. "Roberta would never expect this award," said coach Judy Blanchard. "She showed great improvement. She was an aggressive player and a top performer."

Laura Rosenthal won the award in swimming. The captain helped a young team along. "Laura was the lone captain and she did a fine job," said coach Paul Robertson.

Coach Cythnia Golding gave the Booster Award in cheerleading to co-captain Lisa Butters.

Tiger girls sport new hoop look

NEWTON — The old saying that "you can't tell the players without a scorecard" may never be more true than this Friday afternoon, when the Newton North girls' basketball team opens their 1982-83 season by hosting Needham.

Although third-year Coach Allyson Toney does have seniors Beth Kelley and Stephanie Stoyanoff, as well as junior Kathy Maguire, returning from last season's squad, she also has several players with little or no experience at the varsity level.

Gone from last year's 14-6 team that made it as far as the South Sectional semi-finals are Debbie Quinn and Jenna Lammers, who are now playing for the Boston University and the University of Connecticut, respectively.

Keying the Tiger attack this season will be the two most experienced Tigers, the 5-10 Kelley, who will be operating from a forward spot, and the 5-7 Maguire, who will spend time at both guard and forward.

Maguire will be counted on for scoring, rebounding and some tough defense. "A little bit of everything," underscored Toney.

Kelley, too, will be expected to be an all around player, and, as the tallest player on a not-to-tall team. will have to shoulder at least her share of the rebounding load.

The other returnee, Stoyanoff, may be the shortest Tiger at 5-4, but she may well hold the key to the North attack from her spot at point guard. She has missed much of the last two seasons with injuries, and the Tigers will need her quarterbacking abilities to operate their hoped-for fast-break offense.

Sophomore Jackie Kinsella will also see time in the Tiger backcourt, Toney said.

Also expected to play a major role in this season's cast is 5-7 senior forward Joanne Rosetti, who is one of the new faces on the squad. Not only has she not seen action with the varsity, but this will be her first season of basketball. But Toney has confidence in her. "She's athletic and she's smart," the coach said.

"All the sophomores are learning quickly," she said. "They're having a lot thrown at them, but they're coming along.

Another obstacle facing the Tigers this season is a lack of height. With that in mind, Toney has designed her squad to quick and tough on defense. "We'll make the other team earn every point they get."

She added, "We'll be changing defenses often, to keep the other team from getting their offense going."

On the offense, the Tigers will be run, run, run. "We're going to try and run the fast break all the time, even off of opposing baskets," Toney said.

Due to the size of the squad–currently only eight players–Toney said they will "have to be in great shape so we can wear the other teams down."

"We don't have any scoring machines like we did in the past," Toney said.

Whatever lies ahead for the Tigers, Toney, who will be assisted for the third year by Michael Foye ("he has great knowledge of the game and skills"), is glad to be a part of the Suburban League. "I'd rather have the competition than play in a league where we'd win every game."

Veteran guard Stephanie Stoyanoff

Mishkan Tefila routs Emanuel

NEWTON — Mark Devore scored 23 points to lead a Mishkan Tefila scoring parade that placed 15 players in the scoring column en route to a 97-40 thrashing of Temple Emanuel in United Synagogue Youth League basketball action.

The winners, now 3-0 in league play (5-0 overall), jumped out quickly, leading 25-14 after the first period. David Katz, with eight points, Oilver Ruby with six and Steve D'Angelo with five led the early way for Mishkan Tefila.

As they padded their halftime lead to 47-20, Mishkan Tefila got balanced scoring from Adam Rossman (six points), Jamie Klingsberg, D'Angelo and Devore (four apiece).

Devore picked up eight more to lead the way in the third period, as the game was never really in doubt. In fact, if Mishkan Tefila had shot better than 13 of 38 from the foul line, the rout would have been more severe.

Beethoven Drop-in party Dec. 17

NEWTON — The Beethoven Senior Drop-In Center holds its special Christmas/Hanukkah party on Dec. 17, at 1 p.m.

The Ceramics class is still open for those who would like to create some holiday gifts or ornaments. The class is held on Wednesday at 1 p.m. Rose Liberace is the ceramics teacher.

Other activities which are offered at the Center are:

Exercise, Intermediate Spanish, a Plant Care Workshop, Line Dancing, Conversational French, Knitting and Crocheting, Volunteer Hospital Work, a Writer's Workshop and Bridge Playing.

The Beethoven Center offers several services to Newton Seniors. A Health Clinic is held on Mondays and Tuesdays from 9 a.m. to noon, Thursdays from 9 a.m. to noon and 1-3 p.m. and Fridays from 9 a.m. - 1 p.m. The Health Clinic is sponsored by the Newton Health Department.

A hot lunch is served at the center Monday - Friday at noon. The meals are provided by West Suburban Elder Services and a donation of 75¢ is asked. To make a reservation, call the Drop-In Center a day or two ahead of time. If you need a ride, you can arrange one by calling the Department of Human Services at 552-7170.

For those needing assistance with thier Medicare or Medex forms, help is available by appointment only on the fourth Wednesday of every month. Call the Center to arrange an appointment.

June Goodman, the Health Department Nutritionist is at the center for consultation the third Thursday of every month. No appointment is necessary. Ms. Goodman is there from 9:30 - 10:30 a.m.

The Beethoven Senior Drop-In Center is sponsored by the Department of Human Services in cooperation with the Council on Aging.

The Center is located in the Zervas School, Beacon Street at Beethoven Avenue.

For more information please call the Center's Coordinator, Mary Stuart Hillman, at 527-6749.

Pilgrim-age

Drop-in centers planning festive Christmas dinners

NEWTON — A festive Christmas Dinner will be served at the Newtonville Senior Drop-In Center, Nonantum Multi-Service Center and Beethoven Senior Drop-In Center nutrition sites in Newton on Tuesday, Dec. 21.

This special dinner of beef burgandy, wild rice, and beans almondine is the perfect way to celebrate the holiday with friends, both old and new.

Seniors are invited for a memorable holiday meal and celebration by calling Newtonville Senior Drop-In Center at 527-6770, Nonantum Multi-Service Center at 965-6390, Beethoven Drop-In Center at 527-6749, before Friday, Dec. 17, for reservations. A donation of 75¢ is requested for the meal.

These Nutrition Sites are administered by West Suburban Elder Services, Inc., a non-profit agency serving the needs of elders in Belmont, Brookline, Needham, Newton, Waltham, Watertown, Wellesley and Weston.

Tree sale aids senior citizens

NONANTUM — Christmas trees and wreaths are on sale at the Nonantum Multi-Service Center and all proceeds benefit the senior citizens program.

The center is located at 48 Silver Lake Ave., Newton, at the corner of Adams St.

Hours are 2 to 7 weekdays and 10 to 7 weekends.

A 19-inch Quasar television set is first prize and a hand-made Christmas afghan is second prize of the Multi-Service Center holiday raffle. Tickets may be purchased at the center for $1 or six for $5. All proceeds benefit our senior programs.

Bella Norton is holding a Christmas bazaar each day at the center. Christmas ornaments and stocking stuffers are offered at reasonable prices and proceeds benefit the center.

The Nonantum Multi-Service Christmas Party will be held Friday, Dec. 17, after lunch.

All Newton senior citizens and friends of the center are invited and seniors are encouraged to bring some refreshment and a small grab gift.

Turtle Lane plans 'Godspell'

AUBURNDALE — Joy, simplicity, hope and exuberance highlight the Turtle Lane Playhouse's holiday production of "Godspell" on Dec. 17-19, 25, 26, 28 and Jan. 2, 6-8 at 8 p.m. with Sunday matinees Dec. 19, 26, and Jan. 2 at 2 p.m., at 283 Melrose St. Telephone 244-0169.

Conveyed through song, dance and comedic overtones, this musical adaptation of the Gospel of St. Matthew features a score and new lyrics by Stephan Schwartz exemplified by the popular favorite, "Day By Day."

Heading up a cast of Turtle Lane regulars is Boston College's Joseph Larkin. A 27-year veteran of the B.C. Speech Communication and Theatre Department, Father Larkin has directed over 45 productions for school audiences with "Godspell" marking his "non-academic" directorial debut. An associate professor specializing in theatre history, Fr. Larkin is credited as one of the guiding forces behind the college's recently completed Theater Arts Center.

Joining Father Larkin as musical director for "Godspell" is Thomas Martin, faculty member in voice at Berklee College of Music and Boston College's musical director for theatre since 1971.

Martin acted as music director/conductor for "Camelot", the premiere performance of the new B.C. theater which starred Gordon MacRae. Other of his credits include "Hair," "No, no Nanette," "Fiddler on the Roof," "Applause" and Turtle Lane's January production of "Company."

Located off Rtes. 128, 30 and the Mass. Pike, Turtle Lane Playhouse offers group rates for parties of 20 persons or more with senior citizen and children's discounts available. Tickets $7-9, free parking, wheelchair accessible.

Scout project to honor late Henry D. White

NEWTON — The Norumbega Council of the Boy Scouts of America is helping in a fund-raising project to pay for a memorial lodge in the name of long-time area scoutmaster Henry D. White, who died in 1979.

Mr. White, known to Newton, Wellesley and Weston area scouts for his devotion to Scouting, never missed a meeting during his 54 years as Scoutmaster of Troop 182, Wellesley.

For years he accompanied Scouts on weekend camping and hiking expeditions to Norumbega Council's Nobscot Scout Reservation in Sudbury and in his years of scouting Mr. White was honored with every service award that Scouting offers.

Construction has begun on a memorial lodge at the Nobscot Scout Reservation, located on the Framingham/ Sudbury Line. The lodge, which is estimated to carry a $40,000 price tag, is geared to providing a location for leadership training, banquets and "rainy day" activities for Norumbega Scouts, church and civic groups.

Tax deductible contributions may be sent to the Norumbega Council, 2044 Beacon Street, Waban. Call 332-2220 for more information.

The late Henry D. White, with group of Scouts.

CREATIVE HOME FINANCING

If you're in the market for a home of your own, you're probably in the market for a home loan, too. A conventional mortgage is usually the first kind that comes to mind, but other alternatives do exist.

These include • privately insured loans • GI-insured loans • FHA-HUD-insured loans • Farmers Home Administration loans • urban "homestead" loans • "house-to-house" loans • variable interest rate loans • graduated payment mortgages and • HUD's subsidized homeownership program.

To learn about these possibilities, talk to a member of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® before you start looking. REALTORS® are real estate professionals, and forms of financing are part of their expertise. They can tell you what's available in your community, and how you can qualify.

He wants job for Christmas

By Ruth Youngblood

When 5-year-old Kimberly Cochran sees a picture of President Reagan, she exclaims, 'That's the man who made daddy lose his job!'

FRAMINGHAM, Mass. (UPI) — When 5-year-old Kimberly Cochran sees a picture of President Reagan, she exclaims, "That's the man who made daddy lose his job!"

Maria, used to her husband's look of discouragement as he begins another futile day of job hunting, says gently, "Danny, don't expect too much."

Danny Cochran, who once regarded his job on the General Motors assembly line as a "rock of security," fears the tidy future he had planned has been shattered by the shutdown of New England's only automobile assembly plant.

With the recession and foreign competition battering the country's automotive industry, Massachusetts has not been spared — 3,400 workers have been laid off.

Cochran, 24, represents the most battered group — the young. Almost one-third of the employees at the plant have less than 10 years of experience, ineligible for the generous company benefits due those with more seniority.

With his unemployment compensation running out, Cochran's desperation for a job — "any job" — grows daily. The bountiful Christmas he wanted for Maria, Kimberly and 4-year-old Pamela will have to wait for another year.

"These are the times when Christmas should be so special, when the children are young," Cochran says, sitting in the United Auto Workers office.

Cochran says his only hope for the holiday is that he will be among the 830 workers at the Framingham plant who have exhausted benefits and are entitled to a special $300 payment announced by the company.

"I've filled out 63 applications in six weeks and haven't been contacted by anyone," he says. Although he is a licensed electrician, Cochran is willing to "do anything."

"When you're afraid your family will go hungry, there's not much choice," Cochran says. "It's a matter of survival."

The plant shut down on Oct. 1 because sales of Chevrolet Celebrity and Pontiac 6000 models assembled at the plant were slow. Plant officials indicated the plant could reopen in April, but they are no longer making any forecasts.

Tom Berthiaume, vice president of the United Auto Workers Local 422, predicts August at the earliest.

Although Framingham is the second largest retail center in New England following Boston, the layoffs are already having a negative effect on the town.

"Many people on the Golden Mile (an extensive shopping area) are complaining their business is off," says John Del Prete, a member of the Board of Selectmen. Restaurant owners near the plant have been hit hard and gasoline stations report a 20 percent drop in customers.

If the plant isn't back in operation within the next few months, Del Prete predicts "the impact on sales will be dramatic."

Chamber of Commerce officials say the fiscal problems will jolt several other communities as well.

While 39 percent of the workers live in Middlesex County, 29 percent come from Worcester, 18 percent from Norfolk County and 14 percent commute from Rhode Island. The payroll last year at the plant was $89.4 million, and 15.7 million was spent to purchase goods and services from 542 local suppliers.

What is most devastating to Cochran and his colleagues is the prospect that the plant sprawling over three miles may not open at all.

The assembly line that Cochran thought "would never stop" has been reduced to a skeleton.

There are no cars suspended in various stages of completion, no parts awaiting transplant into a new vehicle, no workers concentrating on their $12-an-hour jobs and no sound without the clamor of machinery and chatter.

Only the occasional chirping of birds who have found their way into the plant breaks the ominous silence. Trucks and other equipment used to transport the completed cars stand idle outside.

Only 125 personnel and financial employees show up each day, mostly to process forms for the laid-off workers. Many describe the atmosphere as "gloomy and depressing," made worse by the possibility they too may join the unemployed.

Cochran, doing chores for the landlord in case he cannot pay the rent on his apartment, staunchly places the blame for his plight on Reaganomics.

Reagan "gives so much away in foreign aid and then suggests cutting back on unemployment compensation. He is totally out of touch with reality, actually believing we don't really want to work," Cochran says, wringing his hands.

"I don't have the time to wait for 1984" and Reagan's possible defeat for a solution, Cochran says. "I need a job now."

Cochran fears the stability and security once synonymous with an auto industry job is gone.

"I thought I had everything," he recalls, "a terrific wife, two beautiful little girls, a salary that once reached $28,000 and plans for our first home."

"Some days I have to force myself to get up out of bed, go through the newspaper ads and head out again, to keep going and try not to let the tension" wrack the family.

Under the company plan, benefits drop sharply for those with the least seniority. Workers with 20 or more years get benefits equal to about 95 percent of their regular yearly salary. Those with at least 15 years get 75 percent.

Pete Peterson, spokesman for General Motors in New England but based in Buffalo, N.Y., says he "can't make projections" on a reopening date.

"It all depends upon the recovery of the domestic automobile market," Peterson says. "We had to curtail production at Framingham when we were building more than we were selling."

"But we are hoping to get some good news," Peterson says. "Then the whole place will come to life."

Although Berthiaume, A Worcester resident, has worked for General Motors for 19 years and is not feeling the economic crisis facing the young employees, he says that if the plant does not open again it will be those in his age bracket who suffer most.

"I still have a mortgage to pay off, a daughter in college and a son in high school," Berthiaume says. "I'm in a better position now, but who is going to employ a 49-year-old man" if the plant stays closed.

Berthiaume also notes that many of his colleagues were hired at a time when a high school diploma wasn't even necessary, making future employment prospects even more dismal.

Berthiaume contends the only way "to turn things around for the auto industry" is through passage of the Fair Practices in Automotive Products Act, legislation that would require foreign auto companies that sell cars in the United States to build some of them in the country as well.

"After all, every major auto producing nation already has taken some form of government action to prevent erosion of its auto industry — except the United States," Berthiaume says.

While the UAW cannot tap its strike fund in this situation, Berthiaume says the union is hoping to raise enough money to help workers like Cochran by requesting donations from workers still on the job in Connecticut, New Hampshire and New York.

"All we're asking for is one hour's pay," Berthiaume says, "and that should amount to quite a bit."

Contending the UAW "must be prepared for the worst," Berthiaume says the union in Framingham is negotiating for canned foods and fuel to be resold to members at the lowest possible cost or given away when necessary and is arranging for job retraining programs "just in case."

LEGAL NOTICES

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
PROBATE COURT
Middlesex, ss. No. 464015
NOTICE OF FIDUCIARY'S ACCOUNT

To all persons interested in the estate of Virginia P. Farley late of Newton, in said County, deceased.

You are hereby notified pursuant to Mass. R. Civ. P. Rule 72 that the fourth thru ninth accounts of State Street Bank and Trust Company as Trustee (the fiduciary) under article 5 paragraph B of the will of said deceased for the benefit of Elizabeth F. Gleason have been presented to said Court for allowance.

If you desire to preserve your right to file an objection to said accounts, you or your attorney must file a written appearance in said Court at Cambridge on or before the sixth day of January, 1983, the return day of this citation. You may upon written request by registered or certified mail to the fiduciary, or to the attorney for the fiduciary, obtain without cost a copy of said accounts. If you desire to object to any item of said accounts, you must, in addition to filing a written appearance as aforesaid, file within thirty days after said return day or within such other time as the Court upon motion may order a written statement of each such item together with the grounds for each objection thereto, a copy to be served upon the fiduciary pursuant to Mass. R. Civ. P. Rule 5.

Witness, Sheila E. McGovern, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this twenty-fourth day of November, 1982.

Second graders from the Angier School in Waban took a step back into history recently with a tour of the Pioneer Financial Bank building in Lower Falls. The bank is housed in an historic building which once served as the part of a paper mill.

Grossman will chair Super Sunday event during January

NEWTON — Morton S. Grossman of Chestnut Hill has been appointed Chairman of "Super Sunday" for the Combined Jewish Philanthropies of Greater Boston.

Grossman has been active in Newton Red Feather and the United Fund, and has served on the Executive Board of the Boston Branch of the NAACP. In addition he is a trustee of Rivers Country Day School, Beaver Country Day School, the New England Home for Little Wanderers, Robert Breck Brigham Hospital, the National United Jewish Appeal, the Hebrew College (of which has also been vice president), Camp Yavneh (of which he has been president) Jewish Memorial Hospital, Temple Emanuel in Newton, and the CJP.

Grossman, a prominent businessman and banker is president of The Grossman Companies, Inc., Braintree. He will head the Super Sunday telethon event, scheduled for Jan. 16 at the Park Plaza Hotel in Boston on behalf of the 1983 appeal and Special Israel Fund and coordinate a large volunteer staff which will assist in the effort.

After completing a B.A. degree at Brown University, having interrupted his education to serve in Europe during World War II, he entered the family building materials business, which he learned "from the bottom up," working first in the yards, then as a road salesman to contractors.

Later he directed the credit operations of L. Grossman & Sons, Inc., overseeing construction loans to builders and mortgage financing, appraisal and secondary mortgaging of builder's properties for the purpose of securing builder debts and accounts receivable.

He was vice president of L. Grossman & Sons, Inc., and president of Grossman Industrial Properties, Inc., a company involved in real estate, development and financing.

Active also in banking, Grossman served as director and chairman of the Investment Committee of the North Quincy Cooperative Bank, as chairman of the Investment Committee, and the Executive Committee, vice president and president of the Mt. Vernon Co-operative Bank, as director and chairman of the Investment Committee of Workingmen's Cooperative bank, and as director of U.S. Trust Financial Services.

Frank backs Reagan on loan crackdown

WASHINGTON — Congressman Barney Frank, D-Mass., is applauding President Reagan's plan to begin soon to attach the wages of nearly 47,000 federal workers unless they repay almost $68 million in delinquent student loans.

The plan, announced recently by Education Secretary Terrel H. Bell and Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., calls for warning letters to be sent to current and retired federal employees and military personnel who hold almost 51,000 unpaid loans, advising them to pay off their loans or face having 15 percent of the salary withheld until the balances are paid in full.

"I'm pleased that the Administration is taking steps to recapture the defaulted student loans held by federal employees," Frank said last week in a press release. "It is scandalous to think that deserving young men and women are being denied student loans which would enable them to attend the college of their choice because of the abuses of others before them."

Frank said it was important to note that the great majority of federal employees have been diligent and reponsible in repaying their loans.

The Education Department tracked down the delinquent employees and retirees through a computer match of government employees records against a list of all student loan defaulters.

"I am opposed to those who would default on their student loans while reaping the benefits of those loans. Their actions are harmful to taxpayers and legitimate loan recipients alike," added Frank, who has filed legislation requiring states to adopt a computer cross-match system to combat fraud in the welfare system.

Students find bit of history in Lower Falls

LOWER FALLS — Pioneer Financial, a cooperative bank, taught a group of second graders from Waban's Angier School that a bank can have historic value.

Pioneer Financial's Newton Lower Falls office is housed in an historic building that served as part of a paper mill. Built by John Ware in 1790, the site has received a bronze plaque of approval by the National Register of Historic Places and is listed as one of Newton's older houses in a book published by the Newton Historical Society.

The bank's stonemill building and its neighborhood building, now known as Gregorian's were originally owned by the Pillar House. In 1790, paper was made in the Gregorian's building, manufactured in the Pillar House, and the bank building was used for finishing work, storage, and office space.

The schoolchildren were also shown the bank's inner stone wall, which had been covered with plaster. The wall was intentionally exposed when the bank enlarged. The children enjoyed cider and doughnuts after the visit.

Pioneer Financial was recently formed through the consolidation of Malden Cooperative, Pioneer Cooperative, Home Town Bank, and South Middlesex Cooperative Bank. Pioneer Financial is the largest cooperative bank in Massachusetts, with offices in five counties.

Bloodmobiles set; give 'the gift of life'

NEWTON — There is a gift idea this holiday season that can be easily given, doesn't take much effort, can be shared by more than one person, and will always be cherished. It's the gift of life, a blood donation.

Each year, as the holidays approach, the American Red Cross redoubles its blood recruitment efforts in order to keep the supply of donated blood from running critically low.

Annually, there are blood shortages at this time, when people become caught up in the holiday whirl. Unfortunately, illness and accidents do not take a holiday.

The following bloodmobiles are being held:

Television Productions, 55 Chapel St., Newton, Tuesday, Dec. 28 from 9 a.m. - 2 p.m.; Masonic Hall, 460 Newtonville Ave., Newtonville, Sunday, Jan. 2, from 9 a.m. - 2:30 p.m.; and at Newton-Wellesley Hospital, Newton Lower Falls, Monday, Jan. 3, from 11-5 p.m.

For further information call the American Red Cross at 527-6000.

Donald G. Ross, 64

Insurance underwriter for 36 years

AUBURNDALE — Donald Graham Ross of Auburndale died at Newton-Wellesley Hospital last Wednesday evening after being struck by an automobile hours earlier on Commonwealth Ave. in Auburndale.

Mr. Ross was born in Newton in 1918, was graduated from Newton High School and had been a Newton resident virtually all his life.

At the time of his death, he was the head insurance underwriter for Underwriters Alliance in Boston, a chartered property and casualty underwriter (CPCU). He had been a specialist in this field for several Boston area firms for the past 36 years.

Mr. Ross earned a B.S. and Masters degrees in English from Boston University, graduating from the College of Liberal Arts in 1940, and the Graduate School in 1941.

He served in the U.S. Army as an infantry officer during World War II, was commissioned at the infantry school at Fort Benning, Ga. and was decorated for action during the Battle of the Bulge as a member of the 99th Division, 3rd Army.

As an army reservist following World War II, he had held many posts, including that of an instructor at the army's Command and General College, Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

He retired recently from the army reserves with the rank of Lt. Col.

Donald Ross had been a life-long and an active member of the Church of the Messiah (Episcopal) in Auburndale. He served the church as vestryman for many years and had been clerk of the parish.

He was also keenly interested in hiking and camping activities in the White Mountains and Green Mountains and was a life-member of the Appalachian Mountain Club.

He was the husband of the late Isabel (Handy), brother of Mrs. Nicholas Peterson of Wellesley and father of Sara Ross Hanna of Brighton.

Norman S. Berkowitz

BROOKLINE — Funeral services were held on Dec. 7 in Brookline for Mr. Norman S. Berkowitz of Delray Beach, Fla., a former Newton resident who passed away Dec. 5 at the Bethesda Memorial Hospital in Boynton Beach, Fla. He was 60.

Mr. Berkowitz was a stockbroker, and a U.S. Navy veteran of World War II. He was also a member of Temple Israel in Boston.

He is survived by his wife, Charlotte (Goldberg) and four sons, Lee, Robert, Alan and Daniel Berkowitz, as well as two grandchildren.

He is also survived by two brothers, Sidney and Edward Berkowitz and one sister, Eleanor Levine.

Memorial observance through Friday noon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Berkowitz, 9 Sumner Drive, Sharon.

Rabbi Bernard Malman of Temple Israel, Boston, officiated interment in the Anshe Polan Cemetery in Woburn.

Gertrude Rubin

NEWTON — Funeral services were held yesterday in Brookline for Mrs. Gertrude (Kastan) Rubin of Newton, who passed away Monday.

Mrs. Rubin is survived by her husband, Morris, two daughters, Marilyn Myrick of Hawaii and Harriet F. Rubin of Wellfleet, one son, Norman Rubin of Toronto and four grandchildren.

Thomas Brackett

TEWKSBURY — Thomas E. Brackett, 58, a former resident of Newton, died suddenly Dec. 5 at St. John's Hospital, Lowell.

He was born in Cambridge, the son of the late William and Hannah (Buckley) Brackett, but has lived in Tewksbury the last 28 years.

Mr. Brackett was a communicant of St. Williams Church, Tewksbury, where he held membership in the Holy Name Society.

During World War II he served with the 102nd Rainbow Division and was later assigned to a special ski team to secure German war prisoners in the Alps. He was also employed as a supervisor for the City of Newton.

Mr. Brackett is survived by his wife, Helen (Foley) Brackett, six daughters, Mrs. William (Joan) Crawford of Swansea, Mrs. Timothy (Rosanna) Bolduc of Florida, Mrs. Edward (Maureen) Campbell and Mrs. Jon (Maryann) Lobaczewski, both of Hudson, N.H., Mrs. Michael (Margaret) Mahoney and Gabrielle Brackett, both of Tewksbury, three sons, James E. of Nashua, N.H., Albert M. of Hudson, N.H., and Thomas E., Jr., of Chelmsford, one sister, Mrs. Eileen Hayes of Arlington, one brother, Richard Stanton of Cambridge and 12 grandchildren.

Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery, N. Tewksbury.

Frank Days, 87

NEWTON — Frank Days, 87, of Newton last week in Newton-Wellesley Hopspital after a brief illness.

Mr. Days was born in Provincetown, and moved to Newton in 1939.

He was fisherman out of New Bedford for many years and was a World War I veteran.

Mr. Days was the husband of the late Barbara T. (Foley), and is survived by one brother, William of New Bedford, two sisters, Anna Almond of Fairhaven and Helen Turner of Mt. Dora, Fla. as well as many nieces and nephews.

The funeral mass was in Our Lady's Church, Newton.

Interment was in Calvary Cemetery, Waltham.

Jack K. Bentall

WEST NEWTON — Funeral services were held last week in Weston for Jack Kendrew Bentall of West Newton.

Mr. Bentall is survived by his wife, Elizabeth (Wilkins), one daughter, Louise Bentall of Salt Lake City, Utah, two sons, Colin Bentall of West Newton and Stuart Bentall of San Diego, Cal.

Graveside services were held in Newton Cemetery.

Christmas: Tough time for many Jewish kids

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

WEST NEWTON — Christmas is not a welcomed holiday for everyone.

For some Jews, the Christmas season can be an emotionally difficult time because so much emphasis is placed on the Christian holiday.

"We are a minority and we are feeling the pressure at this time," said Rachel Reck of the Jewish Family and Children's Service (JF&CS).

Reck led a recent discussion at Temple Shalom on how Jewish parents can deal with their children during the Christmas season.

Area residents shared feelings about being Jewish at Christmas, experiences and ideas for coping during the holiday.

"It's hard enough to be Jewish," Reck said. "And it's hard to be a Jewish parent. Then it's harder to be a Jewish parent at Christmas because as adults we remember how we felt as children at Christmas."

Some participants said they had negative feelings about being Jewish children at Christmas.

"I remember feeling embarassed and ashamed," said Hope Rosch of Newton.

Another Newton woman remembers, as a child, longing for a Christmas tree and thinking to herself, "Why can't I be Christian and have all these gifts?"

Shelby Allen of Boston said her parents tried to

Many celebrate in holiday style

NEWTON — Families from around the world merge their cultural backgrounds when they reach the United States, but at Christmas time the "old world" traditions reemerge.

Russian immigrant Michael Krepes of Newton has lived in America for eight years, but he vividly remembers how Christmas was celebrated, or more accurately not celebrated.

"December 25 has no meaning in Russia" says Krepes. "Instead Russia celebrates a kind of Christmas on New Years," states the Boston College professor.

Krepes said the government made the Christian holiday secular and most Russians do not go to church, but simply gather together and dance around and generally make merry with food and ample amounts of vodka.

"After the revolution they couldn't deprive people of the holiday, but little by little the date was moved to New Years," said Krepes.

Father Frost and Snow Maiden take the place of Santa Claus and they help to distribute gifts, said Krepes. Father Frost looks like an old man, he's not really fat, like Santa Claus, he adds.

Huge fir trees and public concerts sponsored by the government, dot the town and cities. Trees

One talented tot drew Santa and his reindeer on a letter to the North Pole.

Santa: The chimney is screened; use front door

NORTH POLE — From the tone of hundreds of letters dropped by local youngsters into Santa's mailbox in Nonantum, the jolly old fellow will come swooping out of the sky Christmas Eve with a video game under each arm and a bag brimming with Dukes of Hazzard and E.T. toys.

Santa's mailbox, sponsored jointly each year by the Newton Boys' Club and Nonantum Children's Christmas Party Association, is yielding letters to Santa Claus with requests ranging from a pair of Pacman shoelaces to the more traditional box of Crayons and a Barbie Doll.

With Old St. Nick's permission, The Newton Graphic staff read through some choice letters to the North Pole for a look at the way some Newton children are thinking about this holiday season.

Some children, in writing their requests for gifts to Santa take the straightforward approach - no beating around the bush, no nervous shuffling of feet.

"Dear Santa," writes one youngster who forgot to sign her letter. "I have been a good girl this whole year and I want a pink and pretty Barbie Doll and curling set.

"My sister wants pretty cut and grow and a Skipper doll. Mom wants everything and dad wants a new coat."

As a postscript, this little one noted, "The whole family wants a new TV."

Lisa Marie Palumbo, who appeared to have gotten a little help with her penmanship, tells Santa that "I am a good girl and I love my mommy and daddy."

Her requests are a bit simpler than many, and include, "a doll house, new clothes, a race car track and happiness."

Other kids, too, don't mix words when it comes to Christmas lists.

Take Sean Michael Powers, for example.

"Dear Santa: I have been a good boy. This is what I want for Christmas. GI Joe figures, Star War figures."*

Then there's the one signed 'Charlie.'

"Dear Santa: My name is Charlie and I would like to tell you what I want for Christmas. Smurf Bike and a Duke's bike, if you can. Thank you."

Some children stuffed envelopes full of toy store advertisement clippings to make sure Santa Claus doesn't get confused. Others took out their Crayons and drew pictures for the crew in the North Pole workshop.

And some, like the letter signed 'Amy,' address things other than toy requests.

"Dear Santa: I love you because you are the guy what gives presents. You are also the guy that makes fake Santas.

"I have only been a little naughty. You are the guy what gives lots and lots of Xmas trees and decorations."

Schools start 'recruiting'

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — With survey results from parents of pre-kindergarteners now in hand, the Newton schools are about to go into the recruiting business.

In his previous job as superintendent of the Pelham, N.Y. schools, Newton Superintendent John Strand used "aggressive recruiting" techniques to try to prevent parents from entering their children in private schools. Monday night the School Committee gave Strand the green light to use some of the same approaches with Newton parents.

The School Department survey of 707 parents of four-year-olds revealed that 67 percent of the 625 parents who responded are firm in their commitment to send their child to public school kindergarten next year.

Names of all parents with four-year-olds were obtained from the most recent census report.

Sixteen percent said they were undecided and 17 percent said they planned to start their children in private schools next year.

Projections for the size of next year's kindergarten class are for 639 students. Only 417 parents surveyed planned to send their child to the Newton schools next year, but

Park overnight? Plan unresolved

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Overnight parking proved to be a sore point Monday for a few aldermen who suggested fees of $15 a month be charged for the privilege.

Two items related to night parking in the city were removed from further discussion after they were chartered - or put off for further discussion until next week - at Monday's meeting of the Board of Aldermen.

"I'm opposed to the idea of municipal parking, I think there should be a charge for it because it's a very valuable commodity," said Alderman Edward Richmond.

"Blistering rage" and "furious" were terms used by Aldermen Joseph DePasquale and Ethel Sheehan after Richmond and Alderman Cynthia Creem chartered two docket items related to municipal parking and on-street parking.

"I'm furious," said DePasquale, who added a lot of time went into developing regulations to relieve parking problems for a few hundred residents.

Sheehan said the cost of the bureaucracy to collect and enforce the $15 a month fee structure proposed by Alderman Lisle Baker would be more than trouble than it's worth.

"It's totally irresponsible to move this now," said DePasquale, who had hoped to get some sense from the members present how they felt about the idea of overnight parking.

The city bans parking between the hours of 2 a.m. and 6 a.m. and violators are often greeted with a $4 ticket on their windshields.

Cigarette cited after fatal fire

By John Lempesis
Staff Writer

NEWTON — A 55-year-old Nonantum woman died Saturday night in a two-alarm fire that apparently started when she fell asleep smoking, according to a fire official.

Assistant Fire Chief Karl Meinhart said Nina Mazzola of 18 Morgan Pl. probably died of smoke inhalation after a cigarette fell from her mouth and ignited the stuffed chair where she sat in the living room of her duplex home.

Meinhart said there were no smoke detectors in the dead woman's home.

June Mullin, a niece of the victim who lives at 20 Morgan Pl. in the other half of the duplex, escaped in-

Memories of 'everybody's pride' on nostalgia night

There's a beautiful place to go-
Where the Charles River breezes blow,
It's not very far
Take a Boulevard Car
Norumbega is the place you know...

Exterior of Norumbega restaurant... the old days.

You can spend a delightful day
And it drives all cares away
Just follow the flag and be gay
Out to Norumbega by the winding river's side
It's in the Garden City and everybody's pride.

AUBURNDALE — Norumbega Park was more than the Garden City's pride. It was a famous entertainment spot which in the first half of the century was unmatched in the state.

Situated along the tree-lined Charles River where the Marriott Hotel now stands, Norumbega Park, opened in 1897, was a favorite place for family outings.

The Totem Pole dance hall on the park grounds was a popular, dream-like place and called the loveliest ballroom in the United States.

Norumbega Park and its ballroom are gone. But the memories of Norumbega will be revived on Jan. 28 when the Newton Historical Society, in a fundraising effort, holds "Norumbega Nostalgia Night," at the Marriott Hotel.

Following a dinner in the hotel ballroom, Bo Winiker and his band will perform swing music for dancers and the society will have on display a variety of Norumbega memorabilia.

The society is looking for more photographs and other Norumbega memorabilia, such as ticket stubs and posters, which might be tucked away in family scapbooks. The artifacts will be borrowed and displayed on Nostalgia Night.

Anyone with Norumbega artifacts or those who would like to reserve tickets for the Jan. 28 dinner-dance may contact the society at the Jackson Homestead at 552-7238. Tickets for Nostalgia Night are $25.

A hat which once belonged to actress Greta Garbo and donated by a Newton resident will be among other items up for bid during an auction on Nostalgia Night.

Norumbega Park was built on 10 acres of land by Middlesex and Boston Street Railways Co. to increase rail use. Children delighted in riding the a bright-colored merry-go-round and train ride, feeding animals and licking icecream. There was a deer park, canoes for paddling down the Charles, a duck pond, rustic paths and a 250-seat restaurant.

In 1930, the restaurant was converted into the popular Totem Pole dance hall. In its heyday the gracious dance hall, decorated with heavy mirrors, plush sofas and tiers, was an exciting night spot for young people.

Benny Goodman, Tommy Dorsey, Glenn Miller and Guy Lombardo were among the legendary Big Band performers who played at the Totem Pole during the Swing Era.

'Mismatched to needs'

City to eye housing stock

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — With an eye toward "accessory apartments" as a possible remedy for a crying need for housing, the Board of Aldermen has joined with representatives of the Newton Human Rights Commission to study "alternative uses of the existing housing stock" in the city.

Speaking for the commission, Boston planner Allen L. White told the aldermanic Administration and Planning Committee, "the city's housing stock is becoming increasingly mismatched to the needs" of its residents. White said the mismatch was the result of "recent social, economic and population changes."

Data from the 1980 U.S. Census shows that, in Newton, there has been a decrease in two-parent families of 24 percent. Numbers of school-age children have decreased by 27 percent, while average household size has gone down by 17 percent.

Moreover, according to the latest census, the number of elderly residents has increased by 13 percent, while single-person households have gone up by 24 percent.

The reduction in the size of the city's households means that there is less and less need for the large, old, single-family homes which are so characteristic of certain parts of the city, according to White.

The best way to bring the housing needs in line with the facilities available, he added, might be to increase the numbers of "accessory apartments" in large homes.

According to the results of the commission's recent survey, only five percent of respondents indicated "they would not support accessory apartments under any conditions."

Conditions under which other residents would approve the adaptation of existing housing evidenced concern for "the maintenance of health, building and fire codes, owner occupancy and the regulation of parking. Exterior changes such as stairways, additions and other changes are of moderate concern."

Responses indicating residents would attach no conditions to the adaptation of existing housing, ranked 11th of 16 possible concerns, including the adherence to codes, the size of the property and the availability of parking.

"There is widespread support in the city for the concept" of adapting existing housing for smaller households, White told the committee.

Results of the commission's survey suggest there might already be a larger number of "accessory apartments" than suspected. "Projected upon the pre-1975 city-wide housing stock, it may be likely that 3,000 living units, or 11 percent of the total, are in converted buildings," according to the survey. "These may include houses in two-family zones as well as houses which have been converted illegally."

The survey added that "Newton Centre, West Newton and Newton Corner are those areas in which conversions seem to be most common."

Several aldermen told White they would shy away from any effort which might uncover illegal "accessory apartments" and shut them down. White said, "We're not our to shut any housing down. We're out to open it up."

Richard McGrath, speaking to the committee as a guest alderman, said he did not want to start a "witch hunt" for illegal apartments in the city. He called such living arrangements "de facto zoning," and added, "You can walk down any street and see it working. I has provided more housing in the city than any of our legislative actions."

Committee member Sandra Shick said she thought it was "the right time, politically, to focus on the issue of the expanded use of existing housing stock."

She told the committee the problem of housing in the city was one she had been working on "since before law school."

It was Shick who suggested that a permanent aldermanic committee, the Aldermanic Housing Resources Committee," be appointed to keep up with the changing situation and attempt to implement the recommendations of the Human Rights Commission. The committee approved her motion unanimously.

One youngster took to Crayons to make a likeness of Santa, enclosed in a letter.

Letters to Santa; real grab bag

And Amy's requests? "Please send me a pretend stove, a pretend sink, pretend forks, knives and spoons, and bring me a pretend watermelon sink."

Jason Melvin Hehr's letter to the jolly old soul starts by hoping that Santa and his "raindeer" are "in shape for Christmas Eve.

"Hope you and your elves and retrievers are feeling well," Jason writes. "Our chimney is screened so you'll have to come in the front door."

Jason promised Santa that there would be a supply of "good cookies out on the kitchen table."

And at the end of his letter, Jason adds, "I promise I will be asleep when you come Christmas Eve."

Daniele Antonellis lists her Christmas requests and offers a bit of praise for a work-weary Mr. Claus: "I think you are a nice person to give out all those toys to children."

Perhaps from the bags brimming with letters to Santa taken from the mailbox on Watertown Street, next to the 18-foot-high Santa statue, Paul Carroll Burke of Waltham writes what every parent would like to hear.

Paul (who includes his telephone number in case Santa needs directions Christmas Eve) writes: "Dear Santa: Merry Christmas! Thank you for the toys you brought last year. I still have some of them."

And after listing a few of his requests, Paul notes, "Please bring a doll for Bridget. She has been sort of good. I have very good (of course)."

Merry Christmas.

(Santa Claus will answer letters dropped into the special Nonantum mailbox if the return address is included on the envelope.)

Taxpayers' group voices doubts over trash worker claims

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The Newton Taxpayers Association has added its opinion of the city's seeking a private contractor for trash collection to the published opinions of other citizens' groups in the city.

Joseph Alexander, head of the taxpayers association, said he has serious doubts that any changes can be made within the Sanitation Department which would effect savings comparable to those promised by private contractors.

Alexander said his group is "willing to wait and see" what kind of a plan the city workers could come up with, but he despaired of their actually being able to compete with private proposals.

City workers are presently involved in an effort to come up with a cost cutting proposal to rival private bids. A deadline which they were given by the Board of Alderman, Wednesday, Dec. 15, has been extended by one week.

"To come up with an in-house plan, they'd practically have to start up all over again," he said, adding that a certain "inflexibility to change" in the division had developed over many years.

Aldexander added, "Almost any proposal to increase efficiency, including introducing new equipment has met with resistance. I'm not saying management does not bear some of the responsibility, but when it was tried, it was resisted by labor."

He said any agreement which might be reached with city workers would have to insure they would not resist any "future efficiencies. In the past, they resisted. We would have to be assured it would not happen again."

Alexander pointed out that the division would need a quite a bit of new equipment to acheive the savings proposed by private contractors. He said that the "tremendous expense" of the equipment that would be needed should be considered in negotiations.

He insisted, "We don't want anyone hurt," meaning his group was against any layoffs of city workers. But he did not agree with the city's contention that the work force could be effectively reduced by attrition alone.

City Hall closings posted

NEWTON — City Hall will be closed Dec. 24, 25 and 31 and Jan. 14 (Martin Luther King Day), according to Mayor Theodore Mann.

The mayor also said there will be church services on Martin Luther King Day at Myrtle Baptist Church.

Holiday celebrations, colorful, varied are decorated with lights, bulbs, communist flags and slogans, said Krepes.

Business in the USSR is not as brisk as in the U.S. items are not advertised much, but ads are not the way of life there, said Krepes.

People drink alot of vodka, eat food and often go home around 3 or 4 a.m. or perhaps spend the whole night celebrating and start all over again the next day, reminisced Krepes.

"They dedicate much more time to celebrating than here, but they don't have more days off, most people have two or three days," said Krepes.

Families don't really get together in the traditional sense, they usually go out with adult friends and young people go out in groups, recalls Krepes.

"The celebration starts at midnight with drinking to say goodbye to the old year, they raise their goblets, drink and dance," says Krepes.

In Sweden people celebrate Christmas Eve by having a big smorgasborg, which naturally includes "everything you can eat," says 93 year-old Eva Warner.

Some of the items served are: meatballs, lutfisk (dried fish) korv (coldcuts) smoked reindeer leg, rice pudding and hams, said Warner.

"In the rice pudding is placed one blanche almond and who ever gets it, will be married next year," said Warner.

To lure Santa Claus (Jultomtem) to the house, rice pudding in a wooden bowl is placed on the front steps and Warner says the father "mysteriously disappears to "get the paper" at this time and reappears, unknown to the children, as Santa Claus.

Tree decorations are usually homemade and some have candy inside them. On Jan.20 the taking down of the tree generates an excuse for another celebration, says Warner. The candy in the decorations is eaten and songs are performed before the tree is tossed out into the snow.

"I love Christmas. We're all just very glad to be together. We thank God for that," said Katherine Clamente of Nonantum.

Mrs. Clamente holds dearly to her family's Christmas traditions, including a Christmas meal of rich Italian foods and a family sing-a-long.

But this year Mrs. Clamente abandoned one Christmas tradition. Instead of the usual full-size Christmas tree, Mrs. Clamente bought a tiny tree to decorate for their Nonantum home. The miniature tree represents the simple joys of Christmas, Mrs. Clamente said.

"No one would have bought that little tree. But it's very warm and special. It feel like it belongs in my home," she said.

The coming Christmas means Mrs. Clamente's family will be together, which is more important to her than the value of gifts or the size of a Christmas tree.

"Never put a price tag on Christmas. I don't buy things that are big and expensive. I buy special and personal things that are a rememberance of Christmas."

The Clamente's Christmas Day meal is a traditional Italian feast. Mrs. Clamente first serves a homemade soup with Italian bread. Soup and bread are followed by antipasto, lasagna, capon and various vegetables.

Later, when the scrumptious meal has been digested, it's back to the dinner table for coffee and a variety of Italian pastries and treats such as calzoni and ricotta cheese pie.

Mrs. Clamente and her husband, Saverio, a native of Benevento, near Naples, spend the Christmas day with their children and scores of other relatives. After the meal they all gather in the family room for sing-a-long of Italian Christmas songs.

The traditional Italian Christmas Eve meal may vary depending on which region in Italy the family originates. Typically however the meal is a a seafood lover's delight, consisting of seven types of fish.

Patrick and Esther DePasquale of West Newton begin their Christmas Eve dinner with pasta topped with anchovie sauce. Mrs. DePasquale also serves baccala, which is fried boneless codfish, battered and fried smelts and squid, all of which are traditional Italian selections. The feast is followed by coffee, homemade Italian desserts, fruits and nuts.

"Then we just sit back and listen to the kids make lots of noise," Mr. DePasquale joked.

While the DePasquales prepare an elaborate meal, Gladys Kokturk of West Newton has to keep things simpler for her children. Mrs. Kokturk admits that she would like to prepare the Christmas meal she enjoyed as girl in Cuba. But black beans, pork and crabs do not appeal to her two daughters, June and Jennifer.

So Mrs. Kokturk has resigned to cooking mostly an American meal featuring turkey and vegetables, with apple pie for dessert.

Mrs. Kokturk has kept the Cuban tradition of eating the main Christmas meal at night rather than the afternoon, as many Americans do. In Cuba, her family ate their big Christmas meal at 10 p.m. Christmas Eve, went to a midnight Mass and returned home for dessert. Christmas day was spent relaxing with family and friends.

Mrs. Kokturk, whose husband Alev is a native of Ankara, Turkey, also prepares Turkish style rice and baklava, a crusty and sweet Turkish pastry, for Christmas dinner.

Though born and raised in a Moslem country, Mr. Kokturk enjoys Christmas traditions.

"Alev enjoys Christmas. He likes Christmas trees and all the Christmas traditions," Mrs. Kokturk said.

Kids grapple with Christmas

compensate for the lack of Christams festivities her friends were enjoying by trying to make Hanukkah a very special time.

"But I was not fooled by their attempt to build up Hanukkah," Allen said.

Rosch and others said they were trying to instill in their children a strong sense of their Judaism, positive feelings that will not be shaken during the Christmas holiday.

What angers these parents is presumptuous comments by store clerks and others who wrongly assume that they celebrate Christmas. "What is Santa Claus bringing you for Christmas?" strangers sometimes ask children.

"People are always saying things like that to my children," said a Newton woman, who asked that her name not be used.

"I'm having trouble dealing with that. That's why I am here. I don't want my daughter to reject herself. I'm wondering what she is feeling," the woman told the group.

Parents should immediately correct people who make similar comments and explain the incident to their children, participants said. Parents help their children feel positive about their Judaism by actively dealing with these situations, Reck said.

Most of the participants said they enjoy looking at Christmas lights and ornaments, but they think stores and schools place too much emphasis on Christmas.

Irv Plotkin of Lexington said he objects to displaying religious symbols, such as the Nativity scene, in local city and town halls or other public buildings because it emphasizes the minority position of Jews in the United States.

"At minimum it's insensitive," he said.

His wife, Janet, said she enjoys looking at homes decorated for Christmas and she wants their children to enjoy the aesthetic beauty of holiday decorations. But she said she is disheartened by the way schools celebrate Christmas and objected to how her children's school planned a recent holiday event. The presentation contained only one Hanukkah song.

"It was geared more toward Christmas. If there has to be a celebration in school, then there should be balance because the holidays occur at the same time," she said.

Yet Hanukkah is not the Jewish equivalent of Christmas, participants noted. Jews do not consider Hanukkah the most important holiday. There are more solemn religious days in the Jewish calendar.

Though stores often display both Hanukkah and Christmas greetings, the accent is still on Christmas, some in the group said. Adorning stores with Christmas ornaments and simultaneously hanging up a sign that reads "Happy Hanukkah" is condescending and lacks good taste, many participants said.

That both holidays have become too commercialized was the group's unanimous opinion.

"Some people have gone as far to say that Christmas has taken on the proportions of a national holiday," Reck said.

Some Jews feel pressured at Christmas and alter their beliefs somewhat by participating in Christmas traditions, such as having a Christmas tree or "Hanukkah bush" in their homes, Reck said. But participants said it is inappropriate because there is a difference between observing and celebrating someone else's holiday.

Reck said to her knowledge there is no rabbinic decision on whether Jews should send Christmas greetings or have a Christmas tree. They are choices which Jews must make individually.

Though Christmas season can be a trying time for Jews, it is also a period which reaffirms a Jew's strong sense of Judaism.

"The strength of our values, the extent to which we experience Christmas and the fact that we do not want to dilute Judaism at Christmas, tells us how strongly we feel about our Judaism," Reck said.

Chief warns shoppers to use caution

NEWTON — Chief William F. Quinn issued a warning to shoppers during the Christmas season.

The chief stated, "Christmas shopping usually is hectic, sometimes tiring and rushed. However, do not become careless. Put all purchases in a trunk, or if you have a station wagon, cover up any gifts with a blanket or other covering. Make sure your car is locked and parked in the safest area possible, one where there are many pedestrians or at night, near a light.

"When in a store, women should make certain their pocketbooks are secure. Do not exhibit large amounts of cash. If you do use cash, have it separated in order that you take out only enough for the purchase at hand," the chief said. "Do not place your purse on a counter. When in a crowded situation, keep your purse close to your body, and if possible, with one hand on the clasp."

Quinn went on, "In past years, 'pickpockets' have moved from the downtown area of Boston to the Malls and even community shopping centers close by the MBTA. They are clever, deft and skillful, however, they are only successful when our people become careless or lack vigilance."

Chief Quinn concluded with, "Christmas should be a joyful season for everyone except thieves, and we can arrange for unhappy thieves by being alert."

Peace concert

Paulette Bowes of the All Newton Music School has planned both folk and classical music for the Holiday Peace Concert Wednesday, Dec. 29 at 8 p.m. in the Second Church in West Newton.

Musicians volunteer efforts for a disarmament concert

WEST NEWTON - A concert featuring folk music, as well as works by Mozart and Bach is slated for Wednesday, Dec. 29 in the Second Church of West Newton, with proceeds going to benefit the International Physicians for the Prevention of Nuclear War (IPPNW).

The concert will begin at 8 p.m.

Dr. Bernard Lown of Newton, president of IPPNW, which was organized in 1980, will be bring greetings from the worldwide movement at the start of the show.

Featured artists will include folk singer Ken Meltz of the Boston Paulist Center, and Ronald Knudsen, violinist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra and conductor of the Newton Symphony. The program, with all musicians volunteering their talents and time, is organized by Paulette Bowes, clarinetist, of the All Newton Music School in West Newton.

The beautiful Mozart quintet K. 581 will be performed by Meltz, accompanying himself on guitar. Meltz will also perform a number of folk and traditional peace songs.

In recognition of what Dr. Lown has called "The spritiual dimension of man," Professor William Holladay of Andover Newton Theological School will speak briefly for the religious community.

The concert will close with the chorus "Dona Nobis Pacem" from Bach's B minor Mass, performed by members of area choirs and led by David Carrier' Second Church Music director. A festive reception will follow the concert.

The IPPNW was initiated by cardiologist Bernard Lown and his counterpart in Moscow, Dr. Eugene Chazov. In October the two doctors, along with four other physicians, were heard here in a re-broadcast of their roundtable dicussion which Moscow radio boradcast to over 100 million Soviet citizens.

In the broadcast roundtable discussion the group urged immediate cessatin and reversal of the arms race.

The concert is being sponsored by the Yarrow Peace Corps at the Second Church, with assistance from many friends.

Tickets are $5 for adults and $3 for students and senior citizens. Donors and benefactors are also appreciated.

The church is located at 60 Highland Sstreet, just off Route 16 in West Newton. Call 969-5927 or 244-2690 for information.

FOUR BIOGRAPHIES OF ONE PERSON
Jesus is all-inclusive. With Him there are many aspects. No one can exhaust in language who and what He is. Who else in history has four unique biographies written of Him? Although the New Testament is a short book, it begins with four biographies of one Person, four books telling us of the life of Christ.
Why do we have four Gospels? Because Christ has at least four main aspects. Christ is great! Because He is all-inclusive and unsearchably rich (Eph. 3:8), He needs several biographies. Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John present different aspects of Christ because each writer was a different kind of person. Matthew, for instance, was a tax collector. Among the Jewish people in ancient times, a tax collector was a despised person. Nevertheless, Matthew wrote the first biography of Christ. Mark was an ordinary man, and Luke was a physician and a Gentile. At first, John was a common fisherman, but eventually he became the very aged, experienced apostle. Each wrote a different biography about the same Christ. This living Person needs many biographies.
Many of us would begin reading the New Testament with John because John is so wonderful. It is a book of life. After John, we would read Luke because Luke is a book of the Savior, telling us of many cases of salvation. Then, of course, we would come to Mark because Mark is short and simple. People read Matthew last because Matthew is too difficult, too mysterious. Not only is chapter one difficult to understand, the parables in chapter thirteen and the prophecies in chapter twenty-four and twenty-five are also difficult. Chapter five, six, and seven, the Sermon on the Mount, are especially difficult. No one can practice it! You strike me on the right cheek, and I turn to you the left. You force me to walk one mile, and I walk two miles. You take my outer garment, and I give you my inner garment. This is too much! Only Jesus can do it! Thus, many place Matthew last. Nevertheless, the divine order is best. God put Matthew first.

Nose in the trough

If ever there was a time for the voter to lose total confidence in his or her elected officials it is now.

State Sen. Allan McKinnon became so disgusted with the pre-holiday free-for-all in the State House he took to the floor Monday and urged his colleagues to do the voters a favor and go home early for Christmas.

McKinnon stood up, verbally blasted his colleagues for their abuse of power and received headlines for it. Why should it be so unusual that an elected official takes the floor out of concern for the poor, neglected taxpayer?

Ah, but the spoils of the "lame duck" session on Beacon Hill have drawn few critics from the legislative ranks since it is a time to pay back favors and put the snout into the trough.

Judges are urged to retire early, before the governor leaves office, with an inflated pension promised.

Pols who lose an election, or retire from the life of legislative leisure win approval to pocket remains from their often-hefty campaign chests.

Legislators vote to take over control of the State House from the administrative branch, prompting a chance for even greater patronage, creation of new jobs and further squandering of the taxpayers' money.

On the national front the new head of the federal Legal Services Corp. wins a secretly negotiated contract, paid from your pockets, which includes his membership in the private club of his choice, air fare home to Indianapolis to see the family twice a month, and a grossly inflated salary. All this for a man with no experience representing poor people who is chosen to head an agency which represents poor people. And all this for a man named to head an agency earmarked by President Reagan as one he wants to eliminate.

What is the poor taxpayer to think?

At the state level the pork-barrel politics are in full-swing. At the federal level the pols are promoting the age-old "take the money and run" approach to governing.

All the taxpayers can hope for in this holiday season is that legislators at least sweep the floor after they leave the trough.

A pause for Claus

When it comes to Santa Claus and kids, things may not be quite like they used to be.

Sure, there are Santas around this year, ringing bells and spreading cheer. And, as in the past, any Santas willing to listen to requests for holiday gifts usually have a long waiting line of eager youngsters.

Kids still make their lists for Christmas and parents still try to listen in when the youngster recites his or her requests to the bearded fellow.

But things are changing, if one can judge from the letters dropped into Santa's North Pole Mailbox on Watertown Street in Nonantum.

The fellows who help Santa write back to the kids note that this year they'll be lucky to help Santa with even 200 letters from youngsters. Not too many years ago the box would be brimming with 300, 400, even 500 letters from kids, anxiously awaiting the jolly old man's arrival Christmas Eve.

One thing hasn't changed, though.

There will be cookies and milk on the kitchen table for you Friday night, Santa.

A State House Christmas

By Sen. John F. Parker

T'was the night before Christmas under the Golden Dome;
The Legislature was in session when they should be home.
The members were grousing as magic midnight drew near;
Stating, bills or no bills, they've had it for the year.

'How much can we take' several House members did groan
Our ears are cauliflowered and our nerves are quite worn
The drumbeat or oratory and the constant call of the roll,
Are driving us crazy and the chaos is taking its toll.

It seems every day is Christmas for some special group,
An amendment here, another there, and the taxpayers in the soup.
The whispers at the rostrum, the Speaker's nod of the head,
And we know something's up - the bill's alive or dead.

The General Court had started the year all in tune,
10,000 bills with "let's prorogue this place in June."
It didn't happen like that, for no matter the play,
Procrastinate and postpone were the orders of the day.

Favorite bills were buried for narry a soul to find.
In the catacombs of Ways and Means, so never you mind;
The trickle that survived were rammed righ ton through,
To Governor Ed's desk whose black pens gave them their due.

In the House the members were all squirm, growl and grunt.
If it was football, to a man, they'd opt for the punt.
They anger at the incessant oratory, maneuvering and such,
Which tie up the sessions and fail to contribute much.

They long for short sessions as in the happy days of yore,
When it was debate and vote and scurry for the door.
Now it's check with the Speaker, his big gavel on high.
For with a whack and a crack, he can make your bill fly.

The insiders sit around sure as sin of their rights,
Getting along and going along and avoiding the fights.
The outsiders wonder just what they have to do,
'Cause nobody pays any attention to the outcast few.

In the Senate they all gather at the rostrum with care,
President Bulger and Atkins are handling things there.
But Chet has his bag of goodies closed and tied tight,
Reminding the Senators the state debt is out of sight.

In the Governor's office Big Ed is there in his vest,
Waiting for some favorite bills to land on his desk.
Before his last walk, he has a few obligations to fill,
A pal here, a friend there - lifetime jobs on the Hill.

It's a game governors play and as old as the Golden Dome
Get on the right side and you'll surely be home,
Be it the King or the Duke or whomever was there before,
They take care of the faithful before going out the door.

As the moon's yellow glow shone down on Speaker McGee
He demanded more action for Governor Ed's Yule tree.
In the Senate President Bulger moved to step up the pace,
Bringing bills from nowhere, hoping to finish the race.

So the Legislature ground it out at a speed quite inspired,
They quorumed, amended and voted until they were tired.
They completed the calendar and then sang out with good cheer,
"Merry Christmas to all and we'll do better next year!"

(Senator John F. Parker, of Taunton, is Republican floor leader of the Massachusetts State Senate)

Marking time

A tycoon? No, just a legislator

By Mark White

Having trouble making a living? Has the economy got you down? Do you want a new car? A trip to the sunny South?

Well all these things and more can be yours if you will join the Massachusetts Legislature.

In case you haven't heard, the Legislature has gotten the spirit of Christmas this year in a big way. They just keep giving and giving and giving...

You know the old expression: "give til it hurts." Well, the state legislators are giving until it hurts every decent citizen with any degree of conscience.

Haven't you noticed the "Goodie Grab Bag" is out on Beacon Hill? Lifetime jobs? No problem.

New patronage positions? There for the asking.

Raises for state employees? Piece of cake.

The boys are really having a good time and they have to get it all in now because the party's over when Mike Dukakis comes in.

So they keep ramrodding these patronage-laden, self-interest bills through the gang of thieves on Beacon Hill.

The latest stroke of genius is a pure insult to the few people remaining who believe that politics is still an honest profession.

Billy Bulgur and his cronies have sneaked through a bill which allows a defeated or retiring politician to keep any surplus campaign funds for personal use.

Your next contribution to a state representative or senator could help pay for his or her Mercedes. Or at least the brake job for their Mercedes.

To their credit the Newton representatives voted against this monstrosity and Susan Schur even had the guts to take the floor and speak out against it.

Tommy McGee wasn't too happy about it but Schur blasted the bill anyway.

Perhaps the bill does have potential because if you ever needed an incentive to run for political office, this is it.

You say you need money to send the kids to college? Have a fund-raiser. If you're on the Ways and Means Committee you might be able to pay for all four years with a single party.

Something has to be done about this kind of stuff. It's bad enough the legislature passes major bills without a proper reading. (I understand the legislators never saw the final capital punishment bill before voting on it.)

It's bad enough they don't even have a copy of the bills on their desks before the vote.

It's bad enough that if you speak out against these "goodies" bills the Speaker takes revenge.

But the kind of nonsense that's been going on these past few weeks is pure thievery. There's simply no other way to describe it.

But, as long as the law has passed, we'll just have to make the best of it.

So instead of raising your child to seek his or her fortune as a tennis star or baseball pro, an industrial tycoon or a movie star, you can now raise that child to be a state legislator.

Raise him with no sense of morality, no sense of public purpose. Make sure he knows how to throw a good party and is adept at "tapping" every special interest group.

But wait. I must take it all back. I just discovered I have $25 left in my campaign chest...

(Mark White, a former alderman, is a practicing attorney)

Letters

Reader asks 'where is the leadership?'

To the editor;

In voicing the problems of the poor and the prediction of a hard, cold winter, the poor, ill-housed, ill-clothed and ill-fed is a very high percent (20).

But this situation should not exist in America.

Be sure and focus a look at the pay raise voted for and by state representatives, and all involved in state government.

"Soup kitchens!" Is this what our local community will face? The sanitation department - the outgoing of contracts - to have others harvest on our waste.

No security today or tommorow to our own local forces. Yet we go to Connecticut to hire a commissioner. What happened to the study we had, taken for the sum of $45,000?

Is this sanity? Are we going to allow this administration to dictate this type of action by the administrator?

In these times, a shrewd intellectual program should justify our confidence in our leadership, and future history will read that the conclusion of our efforts were for our community and people. The present system is not for all, but for the chosen few.

If five cents on the gasoline tax can do what they predict, where is the leadership here in this administration that we can't solve our problems?

To the editor;

Parents Against Lice would like to express its sincere appreciation for the opportunity you have given us to open up lines of communication between parents, schools and health officials on the issue of head lice.

We hope that our program of public education is just beginning, and look forward to continuing work with you to eradicate this problem in our community.

Trustees to name best North teacher

AUBURNDALE — The Meserve Trustees of Newton North High School will name the outstanding teacher of 1982 at their annual dinner and reunion on Sunday, Dec. 26, at the Newton Marriott Hotel.

Selection of the outstanding Newton North High School teacher started 12 years ago in conjunction with the Meserve Student Award, which started over 40 years ago, Newton North's most presigious honor.

The 1982 teacher-of-the-year will be honored by past teacher and student Meserve recipients. Newton North High School principal Marya Levenson will present the teacher with a silver plaque and a cash award.

Meserve trustees vote from a pool of nominated teachers. In addition to the principal, two Newton North faculty members, Stuart Rist, chairman of the Science Department and Peter Capodilupo, English teacher, four business/community representatives, who are each Newton North High School graduates, make up the Board of Trustees.

Meserve Trustees include Dr. Michael Fox, Paul Guzzi, Dr. James Deealey and Atty. Champ Fisher.

Library head to be storyteller Dec. 28

NEWTON CORNER — Virginia A. Tashjian, the Newton Free Library's Director, will be the guest storyteller during a special Christmas Story Hour at Newton's Jackson Homestead, Dec. 28 from 3-4 p.m.

Tashjian is known for her skills as a dramatic and enthralling storyteller; a storyteller who captures the imagination of her listeners, adults as well as children.

She will include legends, folktales and contemporary stories which revolve around the holiday season.

Duscha Scott, the director of the Jackson Homestead, invites families to attend the holiday story hour and to visit the Jackson Homestead during this holiday season.

Board backs county funds

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The Middlesex County Advisory Board last week passed a $1.8 million supplemental budget, the bulk for 6-percent wage increases for nonunion workers and approximately $700,000 for energy improvements in district courts and Cambridge Superior Court.

The amount was in addition to the regular $23.6 million county budget.

With 28 municipalities present in the meeting held at City Hall, the supplement passed by a slim margin after the board summoned Lincoln Selectman Beth Sutherland to the meeting and called Paul Giunta, Waltham City Council president from another meeting.

Newton Mayor Theodore Mann and Giunta voted for the budget, except for wage increases for nonunion county workers. They said they could not vote in favor of county wages higher than those offered to city workers.

Pay hikes affect the Registry of Motor Vehicles, Middlesex County Extension Service, county correction institutions and the county commissioners' office. Budget adjustments were also made for union workers because their contracts were settled after the regular budget was approved.

The board also appropriatee $550,000 to replace heat-regulating 'absorbers' for the new Middlesex County Superior Court in Cambridge, $180,000 for energy improvements to the district courts and $15,000 for a handicapped ramp at Woburn District Court.

Members postponed until March 1 a vote on the proposed $1.2 million Middlesex County Hospital budget.

John Agnew, Budget Committee chairman, recommended filing legislation with the state to establish a capital improvement fund that would not be transferred back into the state's general fund at the end of the year.

Sherri Martin, Capital Expenditure Committee chairman, charged faulty records have caused "scandalous mismanagement of county assets."

As an example Martin noted that the Catholic Archdiocese of Boston pays $1 a year to rent the Our Lady Comforter of the Afflicted Church rectory on Trapelo Road in Waltham. Martin said the county owns twice as much land there as records say.

The board backed Mayor Mann's proposal to ask Governor Edward J.King and Governor-elect Michael Dukakis for action on the $23 million the state owes the county for use of the county's district courts. Since 1978 the county has leased the buildings to the state. Only $4.7 million of that debt has been repaid.

Democrats must register by Dec. 30

NEWTON — Any person who wishes to participate in the election of delegates to the 1983 Mass. Democratic Convention must be a registered Democrat by Dec. 30, Peg Hannigan, Newton Democratic City Committee Chairperson, announced this week.

"According to rules issued by the Democratic State Committee, only Democrats registered as of that date may vote in the upcoming Ward caucuses at which delegates will be elected," said Hannigan.

The Ward caucuses will be held on Feb. 5, at 2 p.m. at city locations to be announced. The convention, which will be held in April, 1983, at an as-yet-undetermined time and place, will adopt a party platform.

Voters' current registration status may be verified by calling the Newton Election Commission at 552-7041 or by stopping at the Commission's City Hall office.

For further information, call Hannigan at 332-0010 or the Democratic State Committee at 367-4760.

Associate psychiatry prof to speak on treatment plan

LOWER FALLS — John G. Gunderson, M.D., associate professor of psychiatry at Harvard Medical School, and director of psychotherapy at McLean Hospital, will lecture on the value of individual psychotherapy in the treatment of schizophrenia at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

Dr. Gunderson will speak on Wednesday, Jan. 5 from 12:10 to 1:30 p.m. in the hospital's School of Nursing Allen Riddle Hall.

This lecture is part of a series sponsored by the Newton-Wellesley Hospital's Education Committee of the Department of Psychiatry.

The fee for the lecture is $10, however, the fee will be waived for the staff of the Newton-Wellesley-Weston-Needham Mental Health and Retardation Center affiliated agencies. Continuing education credits will be available to registered nurses, and physicians may apply for CME Category credits.

Rescue honors

Chaulk Ambulance service coordinator Curt L. Lovett (left) was presented a plaque for outstanding achievement in the delivery of medical services by Newton Police Memorial Association President Aubrey Hill (center) and Chief William F. Quinn. Quinn said the award, presented during the association's recent Grand Annual Ball, was requested by patrol officers and first responders who worked with Chaulk medics and had been "impressed by their skills, training and ability."

Villages committee

Board backs county funds

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The Middlesex County Advisory Board last week passed a $1.8 million supplemental budget, the bulk for 6-percent wage increases for nonunion workers and approximately $700,000 for energy improvements in district courts and Cambridge Superior Court.

The amount was in addition to the regular $23.6 million county budget.

With 28 municipalities present in the meeting held at City Hall, the supplement passed by a slim margin after the board summoned Lincoln Selectman Beth Sutherland to the meeting and called Paul Giunta, Waltham City Council president from another meeting.

Newton Mayor Theodore Mann and Giunta voted for the budget, except for wage increases for nonunion county workers. They said they could not vote in favor of county wages higher than those offered to city workers.

Pay hikes affect the Registry of Motor Vehicles, Middlesex County Extension Service, county correction institutions and the county commissioners' office. Budget adjustments were also made for union workers because their contracts were settled after the regular budget was approved.

The board also appropriatee $550,000 to replace heat-regulating 'absorbers' for the new Middlesex County Superior Court in Cambridge, $180,000 for energy improvements to the district courts and $15,000 for a handicapped ramp at Woburn District Court.

Members postponed until March 1 a vote on the proposed $1.2 million Middlesex County Hospital budget.

John Agnew, Budget Committee chairman, recommended filing legislation with the state to establish a capital improvement fund that would not be transferred back into the state's general fund at the end of the year.

Sherri Martin, Capital Expenditure Committee chairman, charged faulty records have caused "scandalous mismanagement of county assets."

As an example Martin noted that the Catholic Archdiocese of Boston pays $1 a year to rent the Our Lady Comforter of the Afflicted Church rectory on Trapelo Road in Waltham. Martin said the county owns twice as much land there as records say.

The board backed Mayor Mann's proposal to ask Governor Edward J.King and Governor-elect Michael Dukakis for action on the $23 million the state owes the county for use of the county's district courts. Since 1978 the county has leased the buildings to the state. Only $4.7 million of that debt has been repaid.

Democrats must register by Dec. 30

NEWTON — Any person who wishes to participate in the election of delegates to the 1983 Mass. Democratic Convention must be a registered Democrat by Dec. 30, Peg Hannigan, Newton Democratic City Committee Chairperson, announced this week.

"According to rules issued by the Democratic State Committee, only Democrats registered as of that date may vote in the upcoming Ward caucuses at which delegates will be elected," said Hannigan.

The Ward caucuses will be held on Feb. 5, at 2 p.m. at city locations to be announced. The convention, which will be held in April, 1983, at an as-yet-undetermined time and place, will adopt a party platform.

Voters' current registration status may be verified by calling the Newton Election Commission at 552-7041 or by stopping at the Commission's City Hall office.

For further information, call Hannigan at 332-0010 or the Democratic State Committee at 367-4760.

Associate psychiatry prof to speak on treatment plan

LOWER FALLS — John G. Gunderson, M.D., associate professor of psychiatry at Harvard Medical School, and director of psychotherapy at McLean Hospital, will lecture on the value of individual psychotherapy in the treatment of schizophrenia at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

Dr. Gunderson will speak on Wednesday, Jan. 5 from 12:10 to 1:30 p.m. in the hospital's School of Nursing Allen Riddle Hall.

This lecture is part of a series sponsored by the Newton-Wellesley Hospital's Education Committee of the Department of Psychiatry.

The fee for the lecture is $10, however, the fee will be waived for the staff of the Newton-Wellesley-Weston-Needham Mental Health and Retardation Center affiliated agencies. Continuing education credits will be available to registered nurses, and physicians may apply for CME Category credits.

For information, call 964-2800, ext. 2434.

Glass show opens Jan. 3

NEWTON CORNER — "Glass is a material beautiful in itself," says John Bassett, whose one-man show of "Assembled Glass" will be on view in the Newton Free Library Gallery Jan. 3-30.

The public is invited to a reception for Bassett. Call to confirm date.

"When I put glass in my window, I'm excited by its beauty. I love the transparent glass, the clear but distorted images that come through the bottle bottoms and the eyeglasses," Bassett explains.

Using antique glass, most of it hand-blown, bottles bottoms, commercial glass and old eyeglasses, Bassett makes wry figurative pieces as well as scenes from nature and large abstract stained glass works.

"Almaden 1" is composed of circular bottle pieces. In this, as in other circular works, Bassett imagines scenes as viewed through a microscope.

"Maple Leaves," an oval piece using the shapes and colors of maple leaves in the autumn, picks up the shadows from the branches of nearby trees.

Bassett joins the glass by using the copper foil technique which allows for the easy use of thick glass as well as for works where the thickness of the glass varies.

Basset, who lives in Brookline, graduated from Harvard, attended the Harvard Graduate School of Design, and currently works as a builder.

Main Library hours are Monday-Thursday 9-9; Friday 9-6; Saturday 9-5 and Sunday 1-4. The Library will be closed Dec. 24, 25, 26 and 31 and Jan. 1 and 2. For more information, call 552-7145.

Christmas Service Committee seeks aid

By Donna Lombard
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Hundreds of needy Newton families will have a happier Christmas because the Christmas Service Committee has raised money to help them buy food or toys for their children.

This year, more Newton families and individuals need help. A committee worker said she is concerned that they will not raise enough donations to meet the need.

"I'm not keeping up with the increase and I'm quite concerned," said Mrs. Charles Doherty of West Newton.

Mrs. Doherty, a committee coordinator, said she has nearly 600 names of needy families, 100 more cases than last Christmas. The list last year represented 1,300 individuals.

However the committee has not received more money to meet the increase.

"I am running about $800 short," Mrs. Doherty said.

The committee, part of Church Women United of Newton and the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs, has raised about $8,100 compared to $9,000 it raised last year.

The names of needy households are provided to the 50-year-old committee by charitable and church groups and social service agencies. The Newton Human Service Department provides the most of names.

Janet Patten, a department outreach worker, said many of the needy are elderly and on a fixed income. Sudden illness and unemployment have stricken other Newton families.

The Christmas committee mails checks of $10 to $35 directly to these homes to help buy Christmas gifts, food or pay bills, Mrs. Doherty said.

"They can use the money for toys, clothes, food, or to help pay a bill, anything that helps make Christmas happier," Mrs. Doherty said.

The committee plans to mail the checks by next Monday so that it can be used in time for Christmas. The committee welcomes donations of any amount.

Checks should be made payable to the Christmas Service Committee, 26 Sterling St., West Newton, 02165.

The World of Travel
by Hank Fleming
GREECE
Not only are more Americans visiting Greece and staying longer, but they are going in the spring and especially the fall rather than the high summer season. The weather is still great and the crowds are smaller. Many travelers enjoy the quiet of the more remote of Greece's 1400 islands. The archeological wonders of Athens are certainly not to be missed and the nearby sites of Epidaurus, Delphi, Mycenae and Corinth offer day trips to more ruins. Week-long cruises in Greek waters are also popular. Itineraries include the Greek islands and ports in Turkey, Israel and Egypt. Greece offers a good value in cultural heritage and dazzling beauty.
At FLEMING WORLD TRAVEL & TOURS, 15 Crescent St., Waltham we can offer you superior, professional service in all aspects of travel. Our experienced staff is trained in domestic and international travel so whether your next trip will take you to Greece or somewhere closer to home call on us. We will take your PASSPORT PHOTO for overseas travel. There is never any additional charge to you for our service... call us today at 899-5658. Open: Mon.-Sat. 9-5:30, Fri. til 8

St. Jean's housing proposal delayed

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Aldermanic debate on a proposal that the city build a 46-unit housing complex on the site of St. Jean's School, on Watertown St. in Nonantum, was cut short Monday night, as five alderman opted to "charter" the item.

The rarely used parliamentary maneuver, by which a single member eliminates further discussion of an item until the next meeting of the full board, was employed three times Monday night.

Alderman Richard Bullwinkle, who called for the matter to be "chartered," said the city's lack of straightforwardness in the beginning stages of the proposal was the main reason for his action.

Bullwinkle pointed out that the proposal to have the city buy the abandoned school and construct a mixed-housing development on the site came before the Adminstration and Planning Committee last September without the ward alderman's even knowing about it.

Barry Canner, head of the Newton Community Development Authority (NCDA), told aldermen on Sep. 15 the St. Jean's site was only decided on when negotiations for another site for a housing project in the city fell through. Canner added at that time that haste was necessary in approving the purchase of the school because some $2 million in state and federal funds were hanging in the balance.

Bullwinkle, Monday night, objected that the city's negotiations for the property were considerably more drawn out than originally suggested. He said he had read city, parish and archdiocesen letters on the subject that were dated in June.

Bullwinkle said that a preliminary purchase and sale agreement between the city and the parish leaders was signed before the parishioners were even aware of the proposed development.

Neighborhood opposition to the proposal has dominated public hearings and committee meetings at which the plans were discussed. A petition with the signatures of 369 neighbors opposed to the mixed-housing development was presented at one public hearing, along with some impassioned testimony.

Petitioners objected, for the most part, to the inclusion of low-income housing in the proposed development and to the city's failure to properly inform neighboring residents of its plans.

In calling for a halt to discussion of the proposal, Bullwinkle called the housing proposal "an institutional squeeze on the people. I'm angry that city government didn't level with the people they represent. We're here to represent the people of the city, not institutions like the archdiocese."

Bullwinkle "invited" his fellow aldermen who shared his opinion to stand for his move to "charter" the item. Aldermen Coletti, Gentile, Taglienti and Bauckman rose from their seats immediately.

Coletti said he shared Bullwinkle's concern with the city's methods in bringing the proposal before the aldermen. "I'm concerned with this business of the funds running out after December," he said.

"I don't like always having to vote on something because the funds are running out. We have two weeks to see if the money runs into January and to send a message to the Planning Department that future plans had better be sympathetic to the neighborhood and acceptable to the taxpayer, who pays the freight," Coletti said.

Gentile said she joined in the parliamentary maneuver to halt discussion of the item because of the lack of planning in the housing proposal. She complained that there were no apparent guidelines used by the Planning Department in selecting sites of such projects.

She echoed Coletti's complaint that the city, once again, submitted a proposal to the aldermen saying it had to be passed on quickly before the funds for it disappeared. "We're always under the gun," she said. "And I'm getting sick of it."

Margaret Cormier, a representative of concerned neighbors of St. Jean's who once compared a low-income housing project to the electric chair ("The people who can't afford to fight it are the ones who get it."), said she was pleased that the proposal had suffered a setback by the aldermen. She admitted she did not really know what more could be done to fight the proposal before it comes before the board again.

Survey results are in; school recruiting starts the school's Director of Research and Planning, Dr. Vincent Silluzio, said the size of the class can be expected to increase for a number of reasons.

Foremost among those reasons is the indecision of 100 parents. Other factors are parents who were not surveyed because they recently moved to the city or were not identified because of a census birth date error.

The School Committee agreed at their meeting Monday at Bigelow Junior High to Strand's suggestion of having principals at elementary schools contact parents within their district who were undecided or opposed to sending their child to public school.

Principals will be given the results of the survey and the names of parents who fall into one of the two categories. Individual parent's comments, however, will remain anonymous when principals are forwarded responses.

"I don't see any problem at all with a parent getting a phone call," School Committee member Ann Berwick said. "I think it is totally appropriate."

Committeeman Robert Ricles called contacting parents "the right idea."

Strand said principals would invite parents to visit the school or offer to assist them with questions about the Newton public schools.

According to Silluzio, the author of the survey report, if 50 percent of the parents currently "undecided" choose private school education next year, the Newton schools would be in about the same shape they are in now in terms of the proportion of kindergarten-aged students in private school – currently 19 percent.

The number of parents who place their children in private school for kindergarten has been of particular concern to the committee since studies revealed it as one of several grade levels with high private school enrollment.

In terms of specific elementary schools, the proportion of parents who said they planned to send their child to public school kindergarten next year ranged from a high of 81 percent at Franklin to a low of 42 percent at Ward.

Good advice offered about winter driving

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Winter is finally rearing its blustery head making commuter travel hazardous.

Snow fell Sunday afternoon and Superintendent of Streets Frederick Arata said, "We are salting and sanding for now."

Saying the city has been preparing for winter since October, Arata has 60 vehicles ready to combat the snow. More than 20 sanders are available, he added.

According to Newton Police Officer Walter Otowchits, of the traffic bureau, the best way to prepare for winter travel, is to have your car in "tiptop condition."

This means the engine needs to be tuned up, radiator hoses shouldn't have any cracks, the radiator needs antifreeze and snow tires are a must, says Otowchits.

"A majority of people have snow tires, but some die-hards don't use them - ever," said Otowchits.

In heavy snow, start at least a half hour early so you can drive slowly, which is the best way to avoid accidents and "fender benders," says Otowchits.

"If you do skid turn your wheels in the direction you are skidding to straighten out," says Otowchits. Use brakes judiciously and coast to stop signs, the officer adds.

The State police say use common sense, caution and don't panic if you slip when driving on icy roads.

"Salt is not being used as extensively on the roads as it was in the past," says Dick Hoover of the American Automobile Association (AAA).

Burlington for instance has outlawed salt and Hoover says the state department of public works is using less salt per lane mile than previous years.

Snowy or icy road surfaces make steering difficult, requiring constant attention to your driving to keep control of your car, says the AAA. By braking carefully, driving slow and avoiding sudden turns and stops you shouldn't skid.

If you do find yourself skidding the AAA recommends the following steps to regain control of the vehicle.

- Shift your car into neutral or declutch in manual cars.
- Steer in the same direction of the skid.

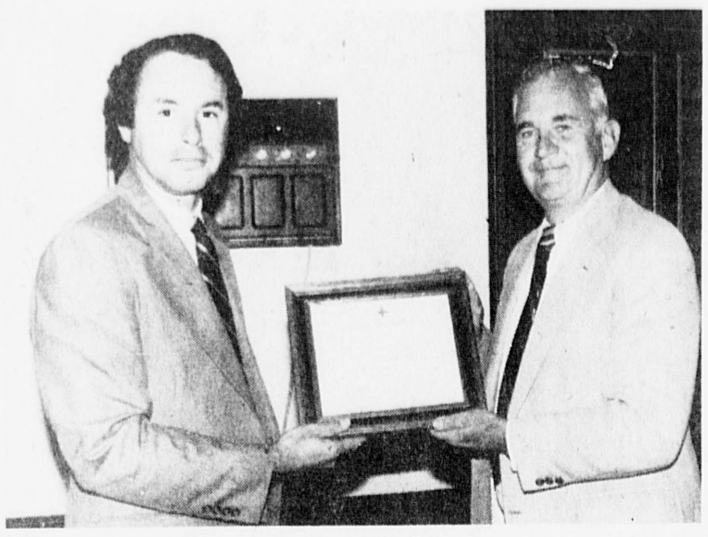
Wrap it up

Wrapping Christmas presents at the Newton-Wellesley-Weston Visiting Nurse Association recently were board members (from left) Mrs. David S. McLellan, Weston; Mrs. John W. Blakeney, III, Newton; Mrs. Stanley W. Mack, West Newton; and Mrs. E. Lake Jones, Newton Centre. The non-profit group, based in Waban, wrapped the gifts for a number of its patients.



Good work

Newly-elected chairman Fred Grein (left) of the Newton Branch, West Suburban Chapter of the American Red Cross, presents outgoing Chairman Tom Keery with a certificate of appreciate for his services to the Red Cross. Keery has served as Newton Branch chairman from 1980-82, vice-chairman in 1979-80, and as a member of the Executive Committee from 1976-78. He has been active as a Red Cross volunteer since 1974 and will remain on as a member of the Board of Directors.

Seminar for women seeking 'upward mobility' at Aquinas

NEWTON — Aquinas Junior College, through its Center for Continuing Education, is offering a seminar to assist women to gain "upward mobility."

The seminar, Human Relations Management, is one of five in the Administrative Assistant Program which the college conducts.

Human Relations begins on Thursday, Jan. 6, and runs one night a week for six weeks.

Mary Strand-Alland, of Sun-Life Canada, who has given the seminar previously, is the instructor.

As manager of staff training at Sun-Life, she has an extensive background in the handling of human resources.

Upon completion of each seminar, a certificate is awarded. After the student has completed all five seminars, a professional certificate is awarded. Women interested should contact the Center for Continuing Education at 244-0089.

The Center for Continuing Education at Aquinas will offer a course needed for work in chid care centers, called "Pre-School Curriculum Program", starting Jan. 17

The course will be offered two evenings a week - Monday and Thursday from Jan. 17 to March 3.

Three other courses are: Infants and Toddlers, Children with Special Needs, and Administration and Supervision of Early Childhood Programs. These courses are required for licensing by the Office of Children.

Frances Cooper-Berry, the instructor, comes to the program with a rich background academically and professionally. Presently, she is the community administrator for University of Massachusetts, Boston.

Library board balks at Warren re-use

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — A study of the feasibility of turning Warren Junior High School into the city's main library has been stalled because of the unwillingness of library trustees to consider any alternative to a completely new facility.

Members of the aldermanic Administration and Planning Committee vented their frustration with the nature of the trustees' committment to a new $9 million building near City Hall, before they decided to leave the Warren study hanging.

The committee's action was taken because of a letter from Director of Planning and Development Barry Canner, in which he stated the unalterable position of the library trustees made the $3,000 study irrelevant.

Dorothy Reichart, speaking to the Board of Aldermen for the trustees last month, said she would not be interested in the results of any such study.

Committee chairman Robert Tennant said the trustees' stance "has been bugging me a bit," but he admitted that it would be "silly to pursue" any study of Warren as a site for the main library.

Committee member Sondra Shick said she thought the trustees "may be right about Warren, and I don't understand why they don't want to find that out." She added the Reichart's complete rejection of the site belied her "knowlege of political strategy."

Shick added that many aldermen were irritated by the trustees' inability to consider any alternative to a new facility.

Committee member Elaine Gentile said, "I really can't fathom where these people think they're going to get $8-$10 million for a new library. They think if they reject every other proposal they'll get what they want. I wouldn't mind if they were basing their stand on hard facts, but we haven't seen any."

Committee member Rodney Barker said he "went through all this with the Weeks Junior High," which he called "a beautiful site" for a main library.

Tennant responded, "I hate to say it, but I heard all this 20 years ago."

Alderman Richard McGrath informed the committee he had been told the trustees "don't like the outside of the building. Maybe it's the neighborhood." McGrath, who lives directly across Washington St. from the school, added, "I'll move if that will help."

When it was proposed that the committee tell Canner to drop the study, McGrath advised, "You shouldn't be the author of a motion not to seek Warren Junior High as a site for a library."

Deciding to leave the study dangling, the committee resolved to hear from proponents of alternative reuse proposals, including elderly housing.

New council will represent city's veterans

NEWTON — For the first time since after World War II, the city has an organization representing veterans from all the city's veterans' groups.

Officers of the newly formed Newton Vererans' Council were sworn in recently at a ceremony at American Legion Post #440 in Nonantum.

Judge Monte G. Basbas, chief presiding justice of Newton District Court and a past commander of Newton Post #48, American Legion, gave the oath of office and charged the officers with their duties.

According to Carleton P. Merrill, recording secretary of the council and director of Veterans Services for the city, the essential funciton of the council will be to protect the welfare of veterans of all wars and promote legislation which will benefit veterans and their dependents.

The council will also be charged with "the perpetuation of Memorial Day and the solemn observance thereof" and to assist in ceremonies of other patriotic observances. It is also designed to serve as a forum for the discussion of veterans' affairs and as a general board for action by the seven veterans' organizations which are members, according to Merrill.

Merrill was appointed to be the council's Recording Secretary by its first president, city firefighter Francis Howley. Howley said Merrill would remain a nondelegate because one of the aims of the new council was to "get away from politics."

Howley explained that there has not been any one veterans' group in the city for decades, since the national charter of the American Legion declared that its chapters could not belong to other organizations.

Merrill said the national charter of the American Legion had not changed, but that the organization's belief that "Veterans working together best serve veterans' needs" led it to stop discouraging chapters' being involved with local councils.

Other officers installed by Judge Basbas include Betty A. Cunningham of Newton Women's Post #410, American Legion, as vice-president; Saul Klashman, commander of Chaplain William J. Farrell Chapter #23 of the Disabled American Veterans as secretary-treasurer, and Philip Geller of Newton Post #211 of the Jewish War Veterans as sergeant-at-arms.

Nick Gentile, past commander of Post #440, was appointed Adjutant General of the city's coming Memorial Day Parade.

Welcome back to the bank.

Auto dealers stall out in license renewal bids

NEWTON — Annual license renewals for almost a third of the city's automobile dealers have been held up by the aldermanic Land Use Committee pending an investigation of allegations that they are storing cars on city streets and sidewalks during business hours.

Cynthia Creem, vice-chairman of the Land Use Committee, told the full Board of Aldermen Monday night that her committee wanted to talk with the dealers in question and with police before deciding on the applications that were held.

Ward 4 alderman Richard McGrath applauded the committee's action on the floor of the aldermanic chamber. He pointed out that the dealers in question will be allowed to conduct business as usual after the December 31 deadline as long as their applications are pending.

Those dealers whose applications were held include Clark and White, Inc.; Clay Chevrolet, Inc.; Frost Motors, Inc.; Honda-Volvo Village; Newton Buick Co.; Newton Chrysler-Plymouth, Inc., and Newton-Waltham Datsun, Inc.

Pine Manor awarded grant for expansion

CHESTNUT HILL — Pine Manor College, an independent, four-year college for women, has been awarded $300,000 by the Kettering Fund and the Kettering Family Foundation of Dayton, Ohio, in support of the college's proposed expansion of its current library and the creation of a multi-media communications center.

The library and communications center project - a $2.8 million undertaking designed to support the entire college curriculum - was launched Oct. 1 with the announcement of a $1 million anonymous Challenge Grant received by Pine Manor College. The grant requires that Pine Manor College raise $1.8 million by Dec. 30, 1983.

Rosemary Ashby, college president, said, "The Pine Manor College community is absolutely delighted by the wonderful news of the Kettering Fund's and the Kettering Family Foundation's very generous grants in support of the proposed new Library and Communications Center.

"Libraries today must hold more than printed materials. They must also house the technical resources which have become essential educational tools of the 1980s."

Plans for the library and communications center involve the renovation and expansion of the converted, 19th century coach house, which serves as Pine Manor's Library, and the construction of an adjoining communications center.

The library will feature an expanded stack area to accommodate 100,000 volumes; cataloguing and bindery facilities; a climate-controlled Special Collections Room and Microfilm Room along with a Faculty Development Center and a secured, 24-hour study room.

The communications center will include a fully equipped computer laboratory with 30 stations, a learning resource center for tutoring, acceleration and skills development; a mathematics laboratory with self-paced programs, audio-visual and slide/tape equipment, and video production studio, editing rooms and lecture hall with projection booth and overhead screens.

Concerning Cousens Fund operation

Rules changes proposed

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The Cousens Fund aldermanic subcommittee in its draft report will propose to the full board ordinance changes concerning the fund and its trustees, according to subcommittee Chairwoman Sondra Shick.

Recommendations include: annual reports, a definition of adminstrative expenses, limited terms for trustees and a provision to prevent income generated by the $1 million fund from accumulatimg over two years, said Shick on Wednesday.

The Cousens Fund is a $1 million trust given to the city by a local businessman around the turn of the century to aid the deserving poor, according to the committee.

Under review by both the Attorney General's office and the aldermen, some payments from the fund were questioned by city Treasurer and Collector Theodore Scafidi, according to the committee.

Assistant Attorney General Dana Mason is pleased with the committee's work in resolving many of the questions raised by both the city treasurer and the trustees and he plans to review the report, according to Shick.

Mason is asking for a certified audit for the last three years of the fund, said Shick. She added Mason would accept an internal audit.

In a letter to Deputy Mayor James Hickey, Mason also said the Cousens fund accumulated $300,000 in earned income from the fund, according to Shick.

"This was Mason's main concern, what will happen with it (the interest income) and not to allow it to happen again," said Shick.

Shick stated, Mason said if the trustees are left alone they will spend it wisely.

According to the terms of the Cousens will, which the fund is based on, the income from the fund if not given to the deserving poor should be distributed to the needy sick at a hospital in Newton or Boston.

Mayor Theodore Mann indicated Newton-Wellesley hospital might be a good candidate for the accumulated income, at a previous committee meeting.

Shick said at last week's meeting Newton-Wellesley Hospital submitted an application to the trustees on Dec. 6.

Mason is inclined to feel there isn't any initial problem with not funding the $300,000 to a hospital, said Assistant City Solicitor Quida Young at last week's meeting.

Mason's Nov. 23 letter said, "The Cousens fund has accumulated income for the last 10 years. The terms of the will are quite clear and mandate that income be used to assist the 'deserving poor' of Newton and that any remainder be transferred to a local hospital for the care of the poor and needy sick."

Shick stated at Wednesday's meeting, "It is not Mason's opinion the money has to go to a hospital at this time."

Mason also stated in the letter to Hickey the city treasurer does not have any authority to interfere with the trustees.

"The treasurer has no authority to interfere with the decision of the trustees according to his own interpretation of the terms of the Cousens will," said Mason is his letter to Hickey.

Easter Seal helpers picked

NEWTON — The Massachusetts Easter Seal Society recently announced area representatives to serve on the Project Advisory Panel of the Society's Recreation Grant.

The project is aimed at meeting the recreational needs of special population adults by providing leisure activities for persons with disabilities, ages 18-55 from the Leominster, Natick, Newton and Worcester areas.

Lou MacDonald, special needs director in the city of Newton will be working with Natalie Zaremba, project director of the Recreation Grant, as a member of the Project Advisory Committee.

Also serving on the panel are Beata Anderson, Gloria Cohen, Richard Cugini, Harvey Evans, Al Powers, Larry Raymond, Stephen Woodcock and Dwight Woodworth.

The goal of the grant is to develop programs which the recreation departments can continue in future years as part of their overall program.

Anyone interested should contact the Easter Seal Society's State Headquarters in Worcester at 922-8290.

Council for Children names 2 new staffers

NEWTON -- The West Suburban Council for Children announces the new staff for the local Office for Children, Karen Elizabeth King as the community representative and Joan Kunitz as the child advocate.

Kunitz comes to the position as no stranger, having held the position for seven years from Sept., 1974, through 1981.

In taking a break from the Office for Children, she developed and recruited foster families for Options, a new program for adolescents under the auspices of the Department of Social Services in Newton.

In her position as child advocate, she is responsible for information and referral as well as advocacy for children and families in the Newton-Wellesley-Weston-Needham area.

King comes to the position of community representative from the other end of the age spectrum, having worked with the elderly for three years at Back Bay Aging Concerns Committee, a non-profit organization addressing the issues of aging in our society.

In speaking about the transistion, King said, "The age range in this job may be different, but the issues faced by young and old alike have a frightening similarity. Both the elderly and children have the right to live in dignity, protected from violence and free from want."

As community representative, King will work with the West Suburban Council for Children to address the local, regional and state-wide issues affecting childrens' lives.

Joining Kunitz and King is Jennifer Miller, the new area secretary. Miller brings many skills to her new job, among them, fluency in Spanish.

For information call 965-9810, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

DeNucci backs law so seniors ride 'T' for 10☆

NEWTON — Senior citizens will be riding the T for a dime as the result of legislation sponsored by Rep. A. Joseph DeNucci (D. Newton-Waltham) on behalf of the Silver Haired Legislature.

DeNucci, House chairman of the Human Services and Elderly Affairs Committee, said he had received many complaints from senior citizens that the free fare between the hours of 9:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. was "demeaning," and in some cases, inconvenient.

"The 10 cent fare means that seniors will be able to ride the T anytime they wish for only a dime," DeNucci said in a press release this week. "Previously it was half fare, except during the designated hours, when the ride was free. The rule meant that for many seniors they had to plan their activities in accordance with the reduced fare hours.

"In the summer, when everyone tends to stay out longer it was inconvenient," DeNucci noted. "Now seniors will have the freedom to travel wherever they want, whenever they want for only a dime. It is a far more equitable system."

The new law does not affect zoned buses, express bus service and commuter rail service, for which seniors will still pay half fare. In addition, seniors will still be required to display the MBTA identification badge, which is available from the MBTA for 50 cents.

Winter classes beat doldrums

NEWTON — Courses in crocheting, patchwork and quilting, knitting for beginners and advanced, stained glass and energy conscious window shades are being offered this winter by the Arts in the Parks program of the Newton Recreation Department.

Prepare now to avoid those January doldrums and sign up for an eight-week course which meets from 9:30-11:30 a.m. at the Burr Park Field House in Newton Corner, where parking is convenient.

The fee is $20, $15 for seniors. Courses begin the week of Jan. 3. Class size is limited to ensure adequate faculty attention to each student.

Checks, payable to Arts in the Parks, should be sent to the Newton Recreation Department, 70 Crescent St., Auburndale, 02166.

A brochure describing the full program is available from the same address, or call 552-7120.

Newton newsmakers

NEWTON — Ethan S. Rofman, M.D., of Newton, has been reappointed medical director of the Charles River Hospital in Wellesley.

Dr. Rofman received his M.D. from the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia University, and completed his medical internship at the University of Michigan Hospital. He completed his residency at the Massachusetts Mental Health Center (Boston Psychopathic Hospital) and Faulkner Hospital.

Dr. Rofman completed additional training at the Psychotherapy Study Center, Harvard University, and the executive program in Health Policy and Management, Harvard University.

He is a Fellow of the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology, a Fellow of the National Board of Medical Examiners, and is a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society and the American Psychiatric Association.

Dr. Rofman has held university appointments as Teaching Fellow, Research Fellow, and Instructor in Psychiatry at Harvard University. He is currently an associate professor of psychiatry at Boston University.

Talented pianist and Berklee College of Music faculty member Charles Cassara, a resident of West Newton, led his quintet in an exciting program of jazz standards which aired recently on Continental Cable TV Channel 3.

A graduate of Berklee who received a master's degree from Connecticut College, Cassara has performed with such jazz greats at Berklee alumnus Charlie Mariano and faculty member Herb Pomeroy. He appears on Berklee's prestigious "Jazz in the Classroom" series of recordings and leads the dynamic Berklee Mixed Chorus in performances in the college's extensive concert series.

Cassara is instructor of Piano and Ensemble Performance at Berklee.

Immanuel Sherman of Chestnut Hill attended Mutual Trust Life Insurance

Company's annual General Agents Seminar, held Dec. 2-5 at the Colony Beach and Tennis Resort, Longboat Key, Sarasota, Florida.

Offices of the Sherman Agency are located on Washington St., Wellesley.

Included in this year's seminar were discussions on new products, advanced underwriting, and recruiting methods.

More than 900 Boston-area women attended the 1982 annual Fall Dinner and Fashion Show sponsored by the Wilson/Iannessa Foundation to benefit continuing research at New England Medical Center (NEMC), held in Saugus.

Featured speakers at the dinner included Scott R. Sharretts, M.D., of Newton, the first Wilson/Iannessa Foundation Fellow in Neurology at NEMC.

The Wilson/Ianessa Fouincation was established in 1971 by Mildred Iannessa of Medford, whose 21-year old son, Ralph Jr., died of Wilson's Disease. The disease attacks the brain and liver of adolescents and young adults, cause an excess of copper accumulation in those organs.

Sue Skoler of Newton Centre recently attended the Career Success School (CSS)

at Metropolitan Life Insurance Company's New England Head Office in Warwick, RI.

Skoler received concentrated, in-depth instruction on all types of insurance coverages, including life, accident, health and property and casualty insurance.

Skoler is a sales representative in the Wellesley District Office.

Robert S. Stoller of Newton has been elected chairman of the board of trustees of Lasell Junior College, Newton.

Stoller, who is president of the Coolidge Corner Co-Operative

Bank, also serves as a member of the board of the Harvard Community Health Plan, as vice-president of the Jewish Memorial Hospital in Boston, and as vice-president of the Hebrew Rehabilitation Center for the Aged in Roslindale.

He is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and Suffolk University Law School, and is a member of the Massachusetts Bar Association.

Dr. Alvin I. Lieberman of Newton recently accepted the position of chaplain for the Jewish Memorial Hospital, a chronic-care, gerontological center in Boston. He succeeds Rabbi David B. Alpert, who died last fall.

A graduate of Yeshiva University in 1952, Rabbi Lieberman was ordained from the Jewish Theological Seminary of America in 1956. He holds master's degrees in guidance and counseling from Columbia University, in Hebrew Literature from the Jewish Theological Seminary and in Near Eastern Studies from Brandeis University, where he also earned his Ph.D.

Holding the rank of colonel in the United States Army Reserve, Dr. Lieberman currently serves as chaplain at the Boston, Bedford and West Roxbury Veterans Administration Hospitals. He has served congregations in the Boston area for the past 15 years, including Congregation Mishkan Tefila in Newton. Presently the state chaplain for the Jewish War Veterans, Department of Massachusetts, he was named "Man of the Year" by that organization in 1979.

Norumbega Nostalgia night is slated in Jan.

The Totem Pole was called by Variety, the Hollywood newspaper, "the most beautiful ball room in America."

By all reports, Totem Pole was the one place where parents did not have to worry about their children.

According to old newspaper articles about Totem Pole, a young woman could be sure she was special if a young man invited her to the Totem Pole.

Its impeccable reputation for respectability is credited to the late Thomas Gill, its former operator.

"Mr. Gill had very high ideals," said Harry Paul, the park's long-time public relations representative.

One evening when Benny Goodman was playing, a group of single men gathered by the stage and became rowdy, according to Paul. Following that incident Mr. Gill only admitted couples, properly dressed, into the Totem Pole.

"The stags were too much trouble. This way a fellow would take his best girl there. When a band played romantic tunes, all the couples ran to the dance floor. When they played a jitterbug, everyone sat down again," Paul remembered.

That observation encouraged Mr. Gill to feature only ballroom music at the Totem Pole, Paul said.

Liquor was never sold at the Totem Pole. Only sodas and soft drinks and snacks were available, which was also comforting to parents.

Paul remembers that Wellesley College students were once required to to have a chaperone on dates to places such as the Copley Plaza Hotel in Boston.

"But if she signed out that she was going to the Totem Pole, no chaperone was necessary. Mr. Gill ran that place with a firm hand," Paul said.

When the as popular music switched from Big Band to rock and roll, the Totem Pole lost its appeal and by 1964 closed its doors. A year later a suspicious three-alarm blaze destroyed the gracious hall worth an estimated million dollars.

The amusement park also became unprofitable in the early 1960s and closed.

The Norumbega land was owned by a trust including Perini Co. and Peter Kanavos when the fire destroyed the Totem Pole. Ten acres were then under option to the Marriott Motor Hotel Co. which sought to build a $4 million facility there.

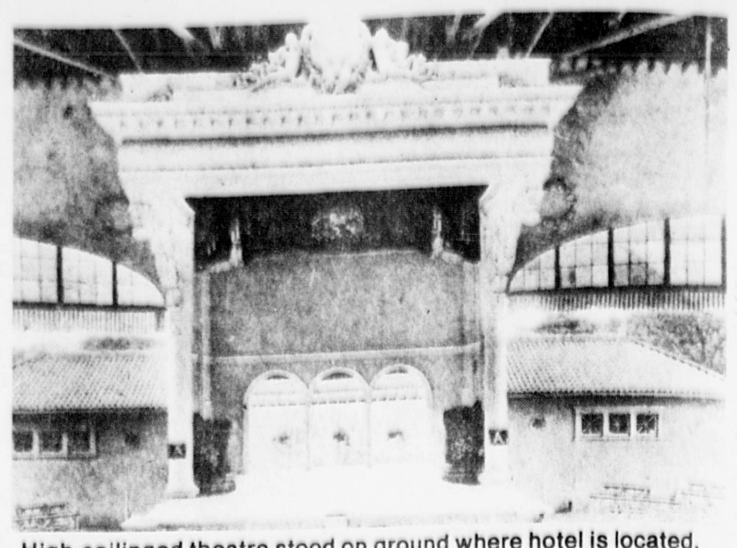
Local residents opposed to the hotel construction then had filed suit to stop the zone changes. Eventually the zoning change was approved and the Marriott opened its doors in 1969.

The Nov. 10 fire began shortly before midnight while Newton firefighters were enjoying their annual ball at another facility. Many firefighters fought the blaze still dressed in their evening clothes as hundreds of spectators watched the building burn until the early morning.

Numerous newspaper reports noted that spectators watched more than a elegant building burn that chilly night. Memories of special dates, high school graduations, fancy balls on Saturday nights - all went up in smoke before their eyes that November night.

But for some, at least a few of the good memories may be relived at the "Norumbega Nostalgia Night" come January.

Inside of Norumbega restaurant, showing huge dining area.



High-ceilinged theatre stood on ground where hotel is located.

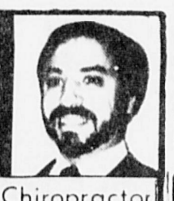
Chiropractic for Health


by Dr. David G. Rutman, Chiropractor
LEGS AND HIPS
Legs "work" from the hips and provide us with our primary means of locomotion. The lower back, however, which is part of the hips, is particularly susceptible to certain painful ailments. When the nerves which carry nerve energy to the hips and legs become irritated, neuritis may ensue. The pain of sciatica can affect the sciatic nerve which is the body's largest nerve. It is the sciatic nerve which controls movement and sensory functions of the hips and legs. It is the chiropractor's concern in many cases of leg and hip pain, to relieve nerve pressure in the lower back. Indeed, the pressure may exist anywhere in the spine. A chiropractor will trace the source of your leg/hip pain.
The holiday season is a time for reflection on the activities of the past year while casting a glance forward to the days ahead. At the office of DR. DAVID G. RUTMAN, CHIROPRACTOR, 4593 Washington St., Roslindale, we would like to extend Season's Greetings and best wishes for the New Year to all our patients and friends. We thank you for thinking of us in the days that have gone by, and we pledge the same fine commitment to your needs in the upcoming year. Tel. 323-5022. Hours by appt. including 3 eves. a week. VISA & MasterCard accepted.
CHIRO TIP:
Do you have lumbago, rheumatism, neuritis or sciatica? Ask a chiropractor to examine your spine and nervous system.

Western costume history course slated

CHESTNUT HILL — The American Institute of Textile Arts (AITA), at Pine Manor College, will offer "The History of Western Costume," a survey of the evolution of clothing in Western civilization.

The four-credit course, offered as part of the B.A. program in art history, will be taught by Larry Salmon, former Curator of Costumes and Textiles at the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston.

"The History of Western Costume" begins Jan. 24, and runs for 14 weeks. The class meets Monday from 2 to 4:30 p.m.

Registration for the course is open through Jan. 17.

For more information call AITA at 731-7133.

Service groups say resources indicate more hardship cases

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Social service groups throughout Middlesex County say their resources are being rapidly depleted because hardship cases have increased by about 25 percent.

Representatives of several agencies told the county advisory board last week in Newton that much of the problem stems from a high jobless rate.

"The applications for fuel assistance (in Newton) have been greater this year than ever before," Mayor Mann said.

The special session was called to raise awareness of the needs of the poor, according to Newton Mayor Theodore Mann, who called for the presentation after returning from a U.S. Conference of Mayors meeting .

As hundreds of thousands of Massachusetts residents lose jobs they are turning to city hall for help to pay oil bills and in many cases seeking food and shelter.

Action For Boston Community Developement (ABCD) reported that $10 million of its $12 million fuel assistance budget is already committed. The ABCD has received 19,000 requests for help in the last two months, compared with 27,000 requests in seven months last year, according to Robert Davison. Most people seeking assistance are eligible for the maximum benefit of $700.

Cambridge Human Services Department Assistant Director Isabella Hind said her city needs an emergency coordinator to help people who need emergency shelter. People can stay overnight at some Cambridge shelters but have no where to go during the day, she said.

Hind predicted that the increase of emergency hardship cases will continue during the next two years.

The Salvation Army's caseload has increased this year by 25 percent, one of its volunteers said. The organization this year sees about 3000 more hardship cases per month in Middlesex and Suffolk Counties. In the last 10 months the Salvation Army has provided $115,859 in food for the needy. It also provides 31 shelters but needs additional housing.

Police Chief William Quinn and a representative of the Newton-based West Suburban Red Cross also presented plans for emergency shelter, food and medical care in the event of a major storm or other emergency.

At Mayor Mann's request the board approved a resolution to increase federal and state supplies of surplus food, provide health insurance for recently unemloyed people and funds to rehabilitate buildings as shelters for the homeless.

Quadraplex plan is altered

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Developer Jack Antaramian changed his original plan calling for eight "quadraplex" condominiums on Winchester Street last week in favor of 26 attached town houses because of neigborhood opposition.

Quadraplexes are four separate units of housing which have a common adjoining wall. Antaramian's initial sketch provided for a total of 32 units.

"In response to criticism we reworked the site plan into attached townhouses," said Charles Thomas of Antaramiam Construction at an aldermanic Land Use Committee hearing on the issue last week.

Antaramium said to some residents after the meeting his architect will work closely with them to develop housing that will both appeal to neighbors and be marketable. He also stressed he did not wish to build single family homes because they would require a 45 foot road which would detract from the neighborhood.

The new plan shows 26 housing attached units. Toward the back of the 700,000 square foot lot, four to eight townhouses are strung together and six units are attached near Winchester Street.

Listed on the agenda for the Land Use meeting were three petitions, two by Antaramiam and one by lawyer Peter Harrington, all concerning quadraplex condominiums and the necessary zoning changes.

"The new proposal was not properly noticed because it is a major change from a quadraplex development to attached town houses," said Planning and Developmemt Board member Edward Dailey.

Alderwoman Ethel Sheehan asked the hearing be held, until the new plan could be studied.

Land Use Committee Chairman Terry Morris believed since 30 or more residents from Winchester Street had come to te meeting they at least should be heard.

Countryside Neighborhood Association, recently formed by the Winchester Street residents, hired lawyer David Mofenson to represent their concern the neighborhood would be down graded by multi-family housing units.

"It (the new plan) puts us in an uncomfortable position and we certainly think there should be another public hearing," said Mofenson in response to the apparent deviation from the agenda.

Ward eight Alderwoman Marcy Richmond saidit would have been premature, on Morris' part, to curtail public comment on the proposal.

All of the residents who addressed the committee said they objected to any zoning changes.

"This proposal is down zoning our single family neighborhood," said Countryside resident Lesley Feschelman to the committee.

John Lacy, whose family owns what is known as the 'Lacy Farm' at the southerly end of Winchester Street said homeowners expect the alderman to abide by the zoning ordinances in a particular neighborhood and they don't expect the areas to suddenly change.

After Peter Elftherakis passed in a petition with 45 signers against quadraplexes, he suggested that the committee hold another public hearing because of the drastic changes made to the old pian.

Thomas believes the new plan gives the site more of a single family 'look' to the development.

The 26 attached townhouse units will abut what Harrington referred to as the "Winchester Street swamp."

Bar closing rollback is voted

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — As part of an ongoing campaign against alcohol abuse, the Licensing Commission has voted unanimously to roll back 2 a.m. liquor licenses to 1 a.m.

Testimony from the crowd that attended the Tuesday night meeting of the commission was heavily slanted toward the licensees, but the ease with which the final vote came belied the arguments that preceded it.

The Board of Aldermen voted overwhelmingly last week to recomend the rollback. Alderman Bruce Carmichael and several residents of Ward One were the only ones to speak in favor of limiting the hours.

According to Administrative Director of the commission Carleton P. Merrill, the city stands to lose as much a $20,000 because liquor license prices were reduced in light of the added restriction.

For the fifteen seven-day liquor licensees who previously could remain open until 2, the price of their licenses will go down to $2,500 from $3,500. For the Holiday Inn and the Marriot, the only two innkeepers in the city, the commission's compensation for the added restriction brings the license price down to $3,500 from $5,000.

Citizens' complaints centered around problems they said were created by late night carousers from other towns who come to Newton especially for the 2 a.m. closings. Litter, traffic and noise problems were cited repeatedly. One woman from Nonantum commented that, from her observations of the behavior of patrons leaving bars in her neighborhood after 2 a.m. closings, she had to "wonder if the barooms have any urinals."

Police Chief William F. Quinn told the commission statistics on the number of traffic accidents and drunk drivers on the city streets between 1 a.m. and 4 a.m. convinced him of the advisability of the rollback.

Liquor licensees countered that the commission's action would penalize responsible managers for the delinquencies of a few. They argued that the 2 a.m. closing time was a privlege awarded responsible management and could only be taken away as a result of its abuse or other irresponsible behavior.

Owen Larkin, owner of The Backyard in Newton Centre, argued against a citywide rollback, telling the commission complaints fielded by the Police Department related to "particular problems with particular restaurants" in the city. "Why not reward responsible licensees with 2 o'clock closing times?" he asked.

He sketched in the "devastating economic picture" which the immediate future holds for the city's restaurant owners, and said he could only hope to "try and survive" given the commission's decision.

Nagy T. Webby, general manager of the Holiday Inn on Grove St., tried to get the commission to treat the two innkeepers in the city differently. He emphasized that his establishment was geographically removed from the rest of the city and that his clientel was from out of town.

Relief fund set up for fire victims

NONANTUM — A relief fund to help the victims displaced by a fire in Nonantum over the weekend has been set up in a local bank.

Anyone wishing to help out the Mullen family, displaced in the two-alarm blaze which killed Nina Mazzola of 18 Morgan Place, can make checks payable to the Mullen Fire Relief Fund, c/o the Shawmut Community Bank, Watertown Street, Nonantum, 02158.

Donations can also be dropped off at the bank.

Group urges lice inspection

OAK HILL — A group of parents of elementary school students have banded with the Newton Health Department in urging an unusual use of time over the holidays.

Debbie Altschuler, an Oak Hill parent who organized Newton Parents Against Lice, said last week the group is urging parents to "check your children's heads for nits and lice," following periodic reports of lice outbreaks in local schools.

"Being that it's the holiday," Altschuler noted, "in the spirit of a community effort, vacation time will be the perfect opportunity to start the new year right on this problem."

Altschuler said she had spoken with Health Commissioner Bernice Joyal and agreed that the Health Department and Newton Parents Against Lice could "really work together" in an effort to make parents aware of the persistent problem of head lice in the local schools.

Many Newtonites attended bowl game

Paul Burke, who has been active on the Newton sports scene for the past 35 years and has been an avid Boston College rooter, accompanied the B.C. Alumni group on the southern sojurn to the Tangerine Bowl this past weekend.

During that exciting trip, dampened only by the Eagles' 33-26 loss to Auburn, Paul ran into many friends and acquaintances from the Newton-Waltham area and rubbed shoulders with the football players and coaches while attending the press and awards luncheon on Friday afternoon.

Scott Gieselman

Boston College sold out its allotment of more than 8,500 tickets within 10 days. Among the Newton people seen at the game were John Monahan, traffic superintendent; Mr. and Mrs. James Ryan, insurance business in West Newton; firefighter Peter Guzzi, Richard Guzzi, Probation Officer at Newton Court; Jack O'Brien, insurance executive; Gene Mullen, contractor; Billy White, B.C. student; John Golden, brokerage executive; Mickey Demeo, Newton Fire lieutenent: Mr. and Mrs. Russ Cavallo, retired Newton firefighter and wife; Jack Matthews, real estate; Mr. and Mrs. John Hughes, real estate; Mr. and Mrs. Archie McHale, salesman; Buzzy Gorgone, equipment manager at B.C.

Waltham people seen at the game included Mr. and Mrs. Jim Stanton, real estate; Terry Frechette, sales manager; Dick Monahan, attorney. And from Wellesley were Dr. Tom and Joan Giblin and Mr. and Mrs. John Gieselman of Weston.

Their son, Scott Gieselman, was a member of the B.C. squad, but failed to make an appearance in the bowl contest. During the regular season, the 6-5, 235-pound junior played as a backup tight end. He was an outstanding wingman at Belmont Hill School. Gieseleman figures in the Eagle gridiron picture in 1983 since starter Scott Nizolek and Rich Shrigley will be graduating.

B.C. is looking forward to another fine season next year despite a tough schedule that includes Alabama, Clemson, Penn State and West Virginia. The Eagles will have their entire starting backfield returning, headed by quarterback Doug Flutie, Plus other outstanding players the likes of Brian Brennan and Steve DeOssi.

Paul Burke, a West Newton resident, is a former Ward 3 alderman and currently serving his 15th year as a member of the Recreation Commission. Last summer, the floodlight baseball diamond at Albemarle Field was named in his honor ino recognition of his outstanding contributions to recreation and Newton youth over three decades.

The 57-year-old vice-president of Davis Sales Assoc., Wellesley, was concerned mostly with coaching and promoting youth sports activities and later was involved with B.C. basketball during the Bob Cousy era.

Paul's oldest son Tom graduated from B.C. in 1978 and his son Steve is presently a senior.

Offense buoys Tiger skaters

WATERTOWN — Don't get Newton North hockey coach Don Crowley wrong, he is very pleased with his team's quick start. It's just that Crowley believes his team can improve measurably in certain portions of the game.

The Tigers unleashed a three-goal barage in a 30-second span of the middle frame to power past Melrose, 7-4, Monday night in a non-league contest at the Watertown Skating Arena.

Newton North blew out to a 5-0 lead near the end of the second period, but Melrose drew to with two goals at 6-4 in the third stanza. North's Bill Chisholm scored the clincher to improve the Tiger record to 2-0 on the season.

"I'm happy with the two victories, but I know we can play better as a team," said Crowley. "We got a great effort from Steve MacKay in the goal in the first period. They could have got a couple on us, but he was there to stop every shot.

"We're just not playing together in our own end right now," said Crowley. "We seem to be getting the goals, but we're a little sloppy in our own end. We got the lead, but we let them back in the game in the third period. I was glad to see us get some scoring from a variety of sources. Our big guns haven't started rolling yet and we've had other people step in and pick up the slack. The big thing we have to work on for our next game is playing better in our own end."

The Tigers took advantage of some sloppy play by Melrose in its own end to jump out to the early lead. Paul Healey gave Newton the advantage with a first-period goal just 1:39 into the contest. Tom Grady picked up an assist on the play.

Melrose stormed the Newton end in the first period, but MacKay was equal to the task. The junior was a little nervous in his first varsity start against Dedham last week, but he played with more confidence and posie against Melrose.

After a slow start in the second period, the Tigers erupted for four goals. John Hickey scored the first two goals. Grady swung behind the Melrose net and put a pass right on Hickey's stick in front of the goal. Hickey wristed the shot into the corner for the second goal.

The two teams each killed a penalty before the Tigers went on the goal scoring rampage. Hickey netted his second by picking up a loose puck in front and drilling it past Melrose goalie John Connors to his stick side. The goal came at 13:25 of the second period.

Only 20 seconds later, Jon Brownstein jabbed the puck home off a scramble in front of the net. Mike Burns drove the shot on goal and Brownstein pounced on the rebound and poked it into the net for a 4-0 Newton lead.

Chisholm tallied his first goal of the contest a mere 12 seconds later. The senior center won the faceoff and split the two Melrose defensemen. He went in alone on Connors and beat him cleanly to the top corner stick side for the fifth Newton goal.

Melrose got one back with just one second left in the second period. Melrose's Paul Bushee, who picked up a hat trick, grabbed a loose and swooped down the right side. He cut in front of the Newton net and backhanded a puck by MacKay.

After MacKay stopped Bushee on a point blank shot in front, Melrose's Bill McGungle rushed up the middle and beat MacKay with a backhander high just 3:37 into the final period. Newton answered 11 seconds later on a goal by Grady, who rushed down the left side put a move on new Melrose goalie Chris Reilly and backhanded the puck over the fallen netminder.

The quick goal by Newton North stopped the Melrose momentum momentarily. The Red Raiders came back to score two goals in a 15-second span to close to within two goals. Bushee got both goals for Melrose off loose pucks that should have been cleared away.

MacKay stopped Bushee's first drive, but the Melrose forward picked up his own rebound and flipped it past MacKay for the third Melrose goal. The Red Raiders came right back down the ice and Bushee scored when he grabbed a loose puck from out in front and flipped it high into the top corner.

Momentum had shifted back to Melrose and Newton's lead seemed destined to crumble to one goal. Chisholm ended Melrose's hope with a score. He rushed down the right side and put a high backhander on Melrose's Reilly, who had the puck. It slid under his arm, however, and across the goalline for a score.

MacKay squelched the rest of Melrose's hopes by making two saves on Melrose's Quintin Brickley, who had a pair of shots head on from no more than 10 feet out. MacKay took the first one with his chest protector and he parried the second with his stick glove. He sent the rebound into the corner.

Newton North will play at BC High Thursday night in another non-league battle.

Suburban League girls' soccer all-stars

Newton North places six on soccer all-star team

The Newton North girls' soccer team placed six players on the Suburban League All-Star team, while a much improved Waltham High squad had four players named to the unit.

The Tigers battled for the league title the entire season, but lost their chance for an unprecedented ninth-straight time at Brockton. Newton North finished the season unbeaten in the league with an 8-0-4 record on the season. It is the second time on the team for three of the six Newton girls.

Waltham started out quickly winning four of its first five league games under first-year coach Ray Comeau. Injuries caught up to the Hawks at midseason and Waltham ended at 5-6 on the season overall. The Hawks do return a variety of talented players, but their three seniors were named to the squad along with a junior.

The All-Stars:

Stephanie Stoyanoff - A three-time all-league player, Stoyanoff did it all for Newton North this past season. She played a variety of positions on offense and defense. She was an excellent striker with 15 goals and 10 assists to lead the team. She also could play defense and she made the all-star team as a sweeper her sophomore year. "Stephanie had the unique ability to do it all," said Newton North coach Barry Howland. "She was a tremendous scorer, but she was also an unselfish player. Stephanie was chosen one of the best 11 soccer players in the state by a poll of coaches." A guard on the girls' basketball team, Stephanie plans on attending college. Virginia and Boston College head the list.

Joanne Rossetti - Rossetti, who was injured for four weeks in the middle of the season, made the all-star team last season. She was the centerhalfback and was assigned to cover the team's top player. It was her job to be the first defensive outpost and guard against a possible break down. "Joanne was always covering the opposition's toughest player," said Howland. "She was a great defensive player, but she could also score goals from her halfback position." Joanne is also planning on attending college and Boston College is a possibility.

Denise Richards - A tremendous defensive player a year ago, Denise Richards became a league star when she cultivated and perfected her offensive game. She became a dual threat at halfback with her great defensive ability and sudden offensive prowess. "Denise was a perfect example of what a captain should be," said Howland. "She always led by example. She was a versatile player and a natural leader." Denise has yet to decide on which college she will attend.

Carrie Simmonetti - A defensive specialist, Carrie Simmonetti had the speed and the desire to mark the top scorers in the league. She was willing to use her speed in a defensive fashion and prevent the opposition from scoring. Simmonetti had the potential to be a good goal scorer and made the sacrifice for the team. "Carrie's got a lot of speed and for that reason she should do well in college," said Howland. "Her play was tremendous in the state tourney." Carris may attend Tufts University next year.

Beth Kelley - It is the second consecutive season for Beth Kelley on the all-league team. She is the sweeper back for Newton North and she controls the area in front of the net with strong play. It was her responsiblity to control the defense and also control the opposition's offense. "Beth was a take charge player," said Howland. "She is a good athlete and a take charge player." Kelley may attend Plymouth State or the University of Massachusetts.

Kathy Maguire - Displaying great agility and versatility, junior Kathy Maguire played three different positions for the Tigers during the course of the season. She was a strong center halfback and moved into a wing halfback during the course of the season. She also showed a good scoring touch at the striker position. "Kathy is our leader for next season," said Howland. "She has the attitude and the leadership qualities. She is just a gifted all-around player."

Jeannie Gately - The quarterback of the surging Waltham team. Gately played the midfield with great intelligence and savy. She was the most experienced player on a young Waltham team and her natural leadership ability came out. Gately scored seven goals this season. "Jeannie was a distributor," said Waltham coach Ray Comeau. "She dished out the ball from midfield and got it to the right people." Jeannie is considering Boston College.

Maria Orlando - A firey player, Maria played whether healthy or not. She covered her area with great intensity and was always going all out. "I call Maria a firey type player," said Comeau. "She amazed me with her ability to overcome injury and play top quality soccer. I'm going to miss her becuase of her willingness to play. She always gave it all she had. She was aggressive and fored the opposition to make mistakes."

Barbara O'Brien - A team leader, Barbara O'Brien was one of the older players on the team and she used her experience to help the younger players. An excellent goal scorer, O'Brien played the striker position with skill. O'Brien tallied eight goals for Waltham on the season. "Barbara kept us going when things weren't always going our way," said Comeau. "She scored a lot of big goals for us and generally kept the team playing well at all times. She was a talented scorer for us."

Noreen Callahan - The catalyst of the defense, Noreen Callahan was the lone Waltham junior to make the all-league squad. She stabilized the defensive backfield for Waltham. She suffered an injury late in the season and things never went the same for Waltham. "I can't put my finger on it," said Comeau. "When Noreen was out of the lineup we just seemed like a different team. She was a great defensive player who simply controlled the activity in front of the net."

Coppola in command of Newton Tiger win

WALPOLE — Senior backcourter Mark Coppola took charge of the Newton North offense Friday night at Walpole and directed the Tigers to an impressive 68-62 non-league victory over Walpole High Friday night at the Walpole Gym. It was the season's opener for both schools.

Coppola, point guard for the visitors, wound up with 22 points as he hit on 10 of 20 floor shots and was two for three from the foul line. The 5-10 veteran also handed out six assists and Newton North had only one turnover while he was running the ball club.

Coach Jerry Phillips admired Coppola's performance saying, "Mark recognized their defenses and did a super job. It was a fine team effort with Erik Fortune, Enio Manto and Greg Lee contributing in the front court. Duffy Plunkett helped out at guard, while several players came off the bench when we were in foul trouble and we didn't lose any momentum.

Newton North played a pressure defense that seemed to bother Walpole at times and enabled the Suburban League entry to lead all the way. Center Alan Fish was high for the losers with 22 points and cleared 15 rebounds.

For the Bedford High basketball team, the hopes of an upset victory over Newton South lasted approximately 12 minutes--or halfway into the second quarter, when the Lions got their game into high gear, cruising to a 71-52 triumph Friday night on the losers' court in the season's initial Dual County League contest.

The Lions, who were coming off an emotional, season-opening victory over Natick, came out flat, as they trailed for the entire first quarter, and 12-8 when it was over. Leon Lousarian and Doug Traynor, who led Bedford with 10 and 12 points respectively, led the early way, with Traynor sweeping the boards and Lousarian hitting from outside.

The tide turned in the second stanza, however, as Tim Gaines came off the bench to give the Lions a much-needed lift, scoring seven points in the quarter. Newton grabbed the lead at 16-14 and never looked back, taking a 27-20 lead into the locker room.

In the second half, Scott Anglin and Meatchie Russell, the pair that propelled the Lions to the Natick victory, got back to their old tricks.

Although each finished the game with 20 points, Anglin had 12 of his in the second half and Russell 14 of his. Anglin, the senior center, also collected 10 rebounds and an astounding nine blocked shots. Russell added eight assists to his 20 points.

The Lions won this contest by shooting well, as they connected for 27 of 51 from the floor and 17 of 21 from the charity stripe. The Lions helped their cause immeasurably by hitting on seven in a row from the line in the final period against the foul-plagued Buccaneers, who lost one player on fouls, and had four others with four.

Next up for the Lions is the first "big game" of the young DCL season, as they play host to perennial power Wayland, winners of the DCL for the past four seasons, on Tuesday afternoon.

Despite a height advantage of over three inches across the front line, the Newton Catholic basketball team dropped a 47-39 verdict to St. Clement's in Sommerville last night, as they were unable to cope with full-court man-to-man pressure.

The Lancers committed 37 turnovers against the full-court pressure, as guards Jim Ross, Scott McAdam and Ricky McClellan succombed to the press time and time again.

Newton regained their composure somewhat early in the second half, but point guard Jim Ross was felled by a sprained ankle, dampening the Lancer charge.

Although they shot a respectable 45 percent, the Lancers' problem was that turnovers limited them to only 32 shots. Gerard Franchi pumped in 20 in the losing cause.

The Lancers try again for their first victory of 1982-83 on Wednesday, when they play host to Sacred Heart of Weymouth.

Girls' basketball roundup

Seasoned Bedford gives South lesson

NEWTON — An inexperienced Newton South girls' basketball team met up with a senior-laden Bedford squad with the expected result in the season opener. Bedford forced the young Lions into several early turnovers en route a 54-31 walkaway at Newton Friday.

South's giveaways allowed the Buccaneers to cruise out to a 14-5 lead after one period.

The turnovers continued to plague Newton, as Bedford maintained a full-court press, as they would for the entire game. By the time teams broke for halftime, the Lions trailed 30-11. Only Cecilia Wilcox's six first-half points kept the deficit from growing larger.

Newton settled down in the second half, as they were only outscored by Bedford 24-20. Katrina Antonellis, one of the Lions' starting freshmen, had a big half getting most of her team-leading 14 points.

On Tuesday, the Lions will try to rebound at Wayland.

The Newton North girls' basketball team did an excellent job of breaking a tenacious Needham full-court press Friday. Trouble was, though, the Tigers were missing the layups that resulted from beating the press.

In the first half, the story was different, as the Rockets' press boosted them to a 26-21 intermission lead. In the second half, the Tigers adjusted their game to the press, but missed easy layups thaty would have brought them back.

Head Coach Allyson Toney said the press problems resulted from "lack of experience," but added "I don't think we'll see another press like that again all season.

Junior co-captain Kathy Maguire led the Tigers with 16 points, and point guard Stephanie Stoyanoff racked up 12.

Newton North continues with their non-league schedule on Thursday, when they travel to Haverhill.

Tiger grapplers hope to start fast

By Steve Tiberi
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Toward the end of last season, the Newton North wrestling team suffered through five straight losses after it was hit by a rash of sickness and injuries. The Tiger grapplers are hoping to end that losing streak Tuesday night at Wellesley in a non-league meet.

Newton North started out the season with an 8-2 record and were rolling along. The Tigers finished 8-7, but were a much better team. Coach Pat Coleman believes this year's team is improved.

"We were decimated last season," said Coleman. "I think we have a better team this season, as long as we stay healthy. A few injuries could hurt us once again. We have some quality people throughout the lineup to give us a nice balance. There has been some fierce competition in some weight classes."

The Tigers are bolstered by the leadership of tri-captains John Bresnahan, Chris McGrath and Leo Butera. These three senior wrestlers are the backbone of the squad and the heart of the team.

"We've got good leadership this season," said Coleman, who is entering his ninth season as head coach. "It is a strength of the team. The three captains are wonderful. They are a great help to me."

Newton Mite streak stopped

NEWTON — The Newton Mite travel team had an up and down week, winning two and losing two, and seeing its five-game unbeaten streak halted in the process.

Newton lost to Tri-Valley 5-4 in a game at Franklin, even though the losers had the edge in shots 22-21. For Newton, Andy Stocklan scored twice, with pat panaggio and Dennis Burke adding one apiece.

Newton and Framingham split a pair last week with Newton winning the first 3-2, despite being outshot 20-13, and suffering through six shorthanded situations. Stocklan again scored twice for the Mites, and Panaggio added the third goal for the winners. In the rematch, played at Newton, Framingham again outshot Newton, 26-10, but this time won the game as well, 5-2. Billy Kerrisey, with an assist to Mike Sylvia, and Dennis Burke, assisted by Stocklan, tallied for Newton.

Newton closed out the week by routing Ashland 9-0, as Stocklan and Mike Mahoney each picked up the hat trick. Jay Rourke, Dennis Burke and Billy Kerrissey, rounded out the Mites' scoring.

Not to be overlooked was goalie Jonathan Weiner's second shutout of the season.

Recreation notes

NEWTON — ICE SKATING WARNING: Despite the fact that the cold winter weather has finally arrived, the natural ice surfaces throughout the city can be extremely dangerous for skating enthusiasts. Consequently, Recreation Department officials urge would-be skaters to keep away from these areas. If and when the weather conditions make safe skating possible at the areas under the jurisdiction of the Recreation Department, the public will be notified.

Newton residents may get the latest on skating conditions by calling 552-7120; 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

Recreation Commissioner, Russell J. Halloran asks, in the name of safety, that children and parents keep off natural ice surfaces. Caution and common sense can prevent a tragedy.

Newton North High School: The facility at Newton North High is open to Newton residents Monday - Friday, Saturday & Sunday and will continue through mid May 1983.

This indoor recreation program offers a full schedule of jogging, co-ed basketball and volleyball, tennis, free swim and swim lessons for adults and children, weight lifting, exercise classes and special events. The user fee for the 1982-83 season will be $35 family; $15 adults; $10 student (6-18). Residents who do not wish to purchase a season pass will be required to pay on a daily basis $2, adults; $1 child; $4 non-resident.

Photo ID cards are still required. The cards may be obtained at the cost of $3.50 on Wednesday, Jan. 5 from 5 to 7 p.m. Other dates will be posted at the Hull Street entrance to the facility.

Exercise Program: The Newton Recreation Department will be offering a Jazzercise class at Newton North High on Tuesday & Thursday evenings from 7 to 8:30 p.m. The class will begin Tuesday, Jan. 11 and run for eight weeks, ending Thursday, March 3.

The fee for the class is $30 for the eight weeks. There must be a minimum of 10 people registered. Registration will take place on Thursday, Dec. 30 from 7:30 to 9 p.m. at Newton North High.

Women's Basketball League: The Newton Recreation Department's Womens Basketball League has begun. All interested individuals may come any Wednesday night to Day Jr. High from 7 to 9 p.m. Come dressed ready to play. For further information, call Sue King at 552-7120.

Girls' Junior High Basketball League: The Newton Recreation Department's Girls Junior High Basketball League will hold an organizational meeting and practice on Tuesday, Jan. 4 from 7 to 9 p.m. at Day Jr. High. All interested girls in grades 7, 8 & 9 are welcome to attend. For further information, contact Sue King at 552-7120.

Evening Recreation Program: The Newton Recreation Department is sponsoring an evening recreation program for Newton residents at the Solomon Schechter School, Stein Circle, Newton Centre beginning December 13. The program will be as follows: Monday evenings 7 to 9 p.m. Men's Basketball; Tuesday evenings 7 to 9 p.m. Elementary School Gym; Wednesday evenings 7 to 9 p.m. Jr. and Sr. High Basketball. This program is scheduled to run through the end of March.

It will not be held the week of December 27 due to the school vacation. For further information contact the Recreation Department at 552-7120.

Senior Adult Association: The Newton Senior Adult Association was organized to meet the recreational needs for all seniors in the city. Benefits to members are:

Swim Program: Swimming is an excellent form of exercising in adult life. The Newton Recreation Department, in cooperation with the School Department offers an on-going program on Fridays from 1 to 2 p.m. at Newton North High. Please use the Hull Street entrance to the facility. Instructors are Tim Cotter and Kathy Mullen with Recreation leaders Nancy Sullivan and Richard Dore. This program is free.

A 20-minute exercise program is followed by swim lessons for Beginners and Intermediates. Also, lap lanes are set up for anyone wishing to lap swim. According to one expert, swimming has by far the greatest long-term values of any exercise activity for both sexes of all ages.

Aerobics - A dance exercise program especially for senior adults. You learn a set of dances, one at a time, adding new ones when the old ones become familiar. First you learn and practice new steps, then put them together into combinations, which the instructor, Mary Harrington or Lynette Leka calls to the music, so that you can follow and enjoy exercising.

The first two dances are for warming up and stretching, followed by more strenuous "aerobic" dances, and finish with slow "cool down dances".

A new session will begin Monday and Wednesday, Jan. 10 from 11 a.m. to noon at the Hamilton Neighborhood Center, 541 Grove Street, Newton Lower Falls and Thursday and Thursday, Jan. 11 at the Newton Centre Hut, Tyler Terrace, Newton Centre from 11 a.m. to noon. Cost is $20 for a 10-week session. Unlimited attendance. Make checks payable to the Newton Senior Adult Association, 70 Crescent Street, Auburndale, MA 02166, Att: Judy Dore.

R.A.P. Retirees Athletic Program - The Retirees Athletic Program's purpose is to bring people together to participate in athletic activities. Warm up exercises, led by Sue King, followed by badminton or volleyball play. Classes are held at the Hamilton Neighborhood Center, 541 Grove Street, Newton Lower Falls.

Cookbook Project - The Senior Secrets Cookbook is now in its second printing. Senior Secrets II is just off the press. The project was started the Spring of 1981 when Judith Slamin visited the 5 senior housing developments and demonstrated her famous Coconut Pie. This sparked the idea that each senior wanted to share a recipe as well. Every recipe submitted is bonafide tried and true - except the Elephant Stew which was stolen from the recipe file of Harold Springham. Order your cookbook now. Limited quantity available.

Travel Club - Although the Newton Recreation Department does not sponsor the Senior Travel Club, it does announce that the club meets the 4th Tuesday of each month at the Newton Corner Drop-in Center, Lincoln-Eliot School, Pearl Street, Newton Corner. Don and Nickie will host a House Party for the Travel Club Wednesday, February 9, Rowley, Ma. Cost is $10.00, see your Travel Club officers to reserve a place, Pauline Richards, Ann Rabbitt, Helen or John Curtis. Date will be announced. The Travel Club is also planning a 7 day Florida trip, March 5 - 12th. Cost is $599.00. More details at the Travel Club meeting. Also, Barbara Burns, Newton Corner Drop-in Center, and Judy Dore, Senior Director, Newton Recreation Department will take your reservation.

Ceramics: Make beautiful pieces from a wide range of greenware. Instructor, Debbie Dunn now offers seven classes throughout the city. Cost of lesson is $1.50. Just sign up at the sites listed below.

St. Sebastian bows in Rivers hoop final

WESTON — Cold shooting in the second half meant defeat for the St. Sebastian's School of Newton basketball team Saturday night at the Haffenreffer Gym in the finals of the Rivers Holiday Tournament.

The Arrows were defeated by Buckingham, Browne and Nichols in the finals, 69-50. The Arrows were the defending tourney champions, but couldn't hold on to a four-point halftime lead.

"You can't win when you shoot 28 percent in the second half," said St. Sebastian's coach John Borden, whose team suffered its first defeat of the season. "We started out well, but we just went ice cold in the second half and never really mounted any charge."

St. Sebastian's was outscored, 42-19, in the second half. The Arrows could manage just eight points in the third quarter, while Nichols pumped in 19 points to grab the lead. The Arrows led 31-27 at the half.

Guard Tony Walker, who was the tourny MVP, led the attack for Nichols with 15 points. Nichols capitalized on the poor St. Sebastian's shooting by hitting 55 percent of its shots. John McLaughlin chipped with 13 points for the winners, while teammate Bill Binkins added 12 points.

Forward John Bean led the St. Sebastian's attack in the finals with 16 points. Matt Ritt chipped in with 11 points for the winners.

The Arrows defeated Milton Academy, 65-58, in a Friday semi-final game. Mitlon was a taller team with 6-8 center John Miller. The Arrows allowed Miller to get his points, but prevented the rest of the team from helping him. Milton's guards failed to connect from the outside allowing the Arrows run a crisp fastbreak.

The result was an 18-point third quarter for St. Sebastian's, while Milton could score just eight markers. Guard Dan Gilbert controlled the game for the winners. He was 14 of 17 from the free throw line and led the team in scoring with 14 points. Bean, who was going against bigger players, scored 18 points and blocked five shots. Steve Mullin threw in nine points for the Arrows.

The 6-8 Miller tallied 25 points to lead all scorers for Milton. St. Sebastian's defeated Thayer Academy in the opening game of the tourney, 60-56. The Arrows placed four players in double figures. Gilbert led the way with 17 points. Mullin had 13 points, Ritt scored 12 and Bean chipped in with 11. The Arrows are 3-1 on the season.

Rivers won its final game of the tourney against Middlesex, 57-52. The Redmen, who lost the first game of the tourney to eventual champion Nichols, poured in 23 points in the third quarter to take control of the contest.

Senior Chris Canty popped in a team-leading 16 points for the winners. Kevin Sims added 12 points for the Redmen.

CREATIVE HOME FINANCING

If you're in the market for a home of your own, you're probably in the market for a home loan, too. A conventional mortgage is usually the first kind that comes to mind, but other alternatives do exist.

These include • privately insured loans • GI-insured loans • FHA-HUD-insured loans • Farmers Home Administration loans • urban homestead loans • house-to-house loans • variable interest rate loans • graduated payment mortgages and • HUD's subsidized homeownership program.

To learn about these possibilities, talk to a member of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® before you start looking. REALTORS® are real estate professionals, and forms of financing are part of their expertise. They can tell you what's available in your community, and how you can qualify.

Owners will exhibit meteorite which hit house

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (UPI) — Robert and Wanda Donahue, owner of a 6-pound meteorite that dropped from space and crashed into their living room Nov. 8, want to exhibit the cosmic specimen for Wethersfield residents.

The meteorite was returned to the Donahues last week by Dr. Roy S. Clarke Jr., curator of meteorites at the Smithsonian Institution's Museum of Natural History in Washington.

"Wethersfield 1982" now rests in the vault of a Hartford bank while the Donahues decide what to do with their rare find.

"We're trying to arrange with the public library to put it on display," Mrs. Donahue said. "The people in town should have the first opportunity to see it. After that, we're not sure."

Preliminary study by Clarke and other scientists shows the meteorite may be a cosmic cousin to a meteorite which fell on Wethersfield 11 years ago.

"Wethersfield 1971" crashed through the roof of Paul J. Cassarino's house, about a mile from the Donahues. Cassarino gave the meteorite to the Smithsonian.

"They are of the same, identical class and thus are probably related back in space and time. But how close that relationship is is hard to know," Clarke said of the two space rocks.

He said both meteorites were L-6 chondrites, the most common type found on earth. A leading theory is L-6 chondrites come from the same region of a "parent body" now orbiting the earth in an asteroid belt.

David H. Menke, director of the Copernicus Observatory at Central Connecticut State College, believes Wethersfield 1982 was part of a 50-pound meteorite that broke up over the northwest corner of the state.

He said other pieces may have fallen in a 10-mile radius of Hartford.

"We've had lots of calls to look at rocks. Most have been about what I call 'meteowrongs' instead of meteorites," Menke said.

Scientists at the Battelle Pacific Northwest Laboratory in Richland, Wash., analyzed cosmic rays that bombarded the meteorite in space and detected a sodium isotope with a radioactive half-life of only a few hours.

Chips of the meteorite are undergoing further analysis at Battelle, and laboratories in Washington, Houston and other cities.

Meteorites are rare. Five to 10 are recovered worldwide each year and those that crash through roofs are even more unusual. Only 11 incidents have been reported since 1847. Clarke said to his knowledge only once before have two fallen in the same community — Honolulu, Hawaii.

Judge rules nativity scene may continue in Providence

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Figurines of Jesus, Mary and Joseph can remain on the steps of City Hall through Christmas, a federal judge ruled in a suit challenging a nativity scene erected by the Knights of Columbus.

U.S. Senior Judge Raymond J. Pettine denied the injunction because the plaintiffs — four city residents — could not prove that city funds are being spent on the nativity scene.

The American Civil Liberties Union sought an injunction against the city for allowing the fraternal Roman Catholic organization to erect the creche under the municipal Christmas tree on city property.

The ACLU maintains the placement of the nativity scene on government property constitutes an endorsement of religion — regardless of the ownership of the display — and violates the federal requirement of separation of church and state. It also said that the city was, in part, endorsing the religious holiday since it provided lighting for the display.

The Knights of Columbus erected a small sign next to the display, noting its sponsorship and that no city funds were used to construct it.

Last month, the 1st Circuit Court of Appeals in Boston upheld a ruling by Pettine that prevented Pawtucket from erecting its traditional nativity scene. He ruled that the Pawtucket creche was clearly erected with taxpayer money.

"In this case, however, it is debateable whether municipal tax monies are being spent on the nativity scene," Pettine wrote in his two-page decision on the Providence case.

"Accordingly, it seems to me that I have no choice but to deny the plaintiffs' request for a temporary restraining order," Pettine said.

The judge agreed to take up the constitutional questions involved later. A hearing on a preliminary injunction would be scheduled after opposing lawyers filed briefs.

4,430 lights help observe Yule season

By James V. Healion

KILLINGLY, Conn. (UPI) — Mervin R. Whipple turned on the Christmas lights at his place the other night, all 4,430 of them.

The lights include 750 strung through a 65-foot spruce. It is so impressive the chamber of commerce awarded him the lighting prize two years in a row. This year, they made him a judge. He laughs and says he thinks he knows why.

Whipple delights in Christmas, probably because he's able to talk to people when they are happy. Most of the time, he's consoling them. Whipple is a monument dealer.

He keeps chipper as a justice of the peace, too. He's booked into April with marriages scheduled for the smallest granite chapel in the world, one he built himself with stone from all over the world. It's 11 feet by 14 feet. People have come from as far away as Tibet to tie the knot.

Whipple himself is not what you would call a traveler, though. The last long journey a Whipple took was when his Pilgrim ancestors came over on the Mayflower in 1621. "We Whipples like to stay to home," he says.

Folks in these parts of northeastern Connecticut look forward to his lighting display early on each year. He was in New York at Thanksgiving and 27 people called up and wanted to know when he was going to throw the switch.

He was out of state trying to persuade people to sell him some figures for his Christmas display, the one in the monument showroom where three of his men moved out 30 tons of stone so he could move in characters like Frosty the Snowman. Frosty's just the tip of the Whipple iceberg.

He got interested in animated scenes years ago when he visited the Big Apple and saw the merchandising displays in department stores like Macy's and Sak's Fifth Avenue.

"I just thought, 'Too bad I couldn't do something like this back home,'" he said.

His son-in-law was the manager of a big New York discount department store and put Whipple in touch with people who sold used merchandising displays, usually figures from shopping malls in the Northeast. "Each year, I would contact these companies. They'd sell me used animation," he said.

He wanted to add some more used figures this year but the economy is so bad that the malls that would ordinarily buy new displays are not doing so. Thus nothing used is available. And Whipple was told at David Hamberger Inc., in Brooklyn, N.Y., a prime manufacturer, it didn't sell to individuals.

Now Mervin R. Whipple believes in gentle persuasion. He is a former Sunday school superintendent, lecturer for the fraternal organization known as The Grange, and in the 1950s, he was an assistant sergeant-at-arms in the Connecticut House of Representatives, Republican variety.

"I told them I would have liked to have done business and everything, but it was 'company policy.' Anyway, there was this man there and I started talking to him. He was 87 and I told him my dad was 87 when he passed away.

"He said, 'Why don't you come into my office and we'll talk?' We talked for maybe a half hour. He must have taken a liking to me. He buzzed the buzzer. He says, 'Steve, come in a minute. You know,' he says, 'there's exceptions to every rule. Why don't we sell to this fella?'"

The man Whipple had spoken with was David Hamberger, the founder of the company.

"He put the sale through. Then I went a little too far, technically. I didn't intend to buy as much as I did. I bought over $6,000 worth," Whipple said.

It's all in place in his Pineville Road showroom near Route 12 in the Ballouville section of Killingly. Whipple likes to have people over at Christmas and they return the compliment. The Sunday before Christmas last year, 1,123 showed up. They were kids of all ages. Including Whipple. Asked why he does it, he said, "I just never grew up, I guess."

Woman dies in fire; cigarette is blamed jury in the fire that caused an estimated $70,000 damage.

Mullin's cat also escaped the fire.

Fire Lt. Robert Negrotti injured his back and shoulder in a fall but hospital x-rays revealed no broken bones, Meinhart said. Negrotti was relieved of duty after being discharged from Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

Neighbors saw the fire and called the police and fire departments at 11:04 p.m. Saturday.

Newton Patrolman David K. Devaney forced open a door in an attempt to rescue the woman trapped inside but was driven back by heat and flames.

When Engines 1, 2, 4, 5, 6, Ladders 1 and 3 arrived, Meinhart said, "fire was blowing out of the side door and windows."

The assistant chief said firefighters battled the blaze for 30 minutes before they were able to get to the victim. Meinhart was quoted by UPI as saying the victim probably was dead before fire crews arrived.

"Someone had said she (Miss Mazzola) was in there. It was one of those situations where with all the smoke, you really can't see and you can only feel around. It's not a nice feeling" knowing there is someone inside and you haven't gotten them out, Meinhart said.

Meinhart said the woman was able to get out of the burning chair and move about 10 feet before she collapsed, probably from inhaling smoke and fumes. The body was found in a doorway.

Meinhart said that smoke and fumes "seal the lungs," causing a victim to suffocate quickly.

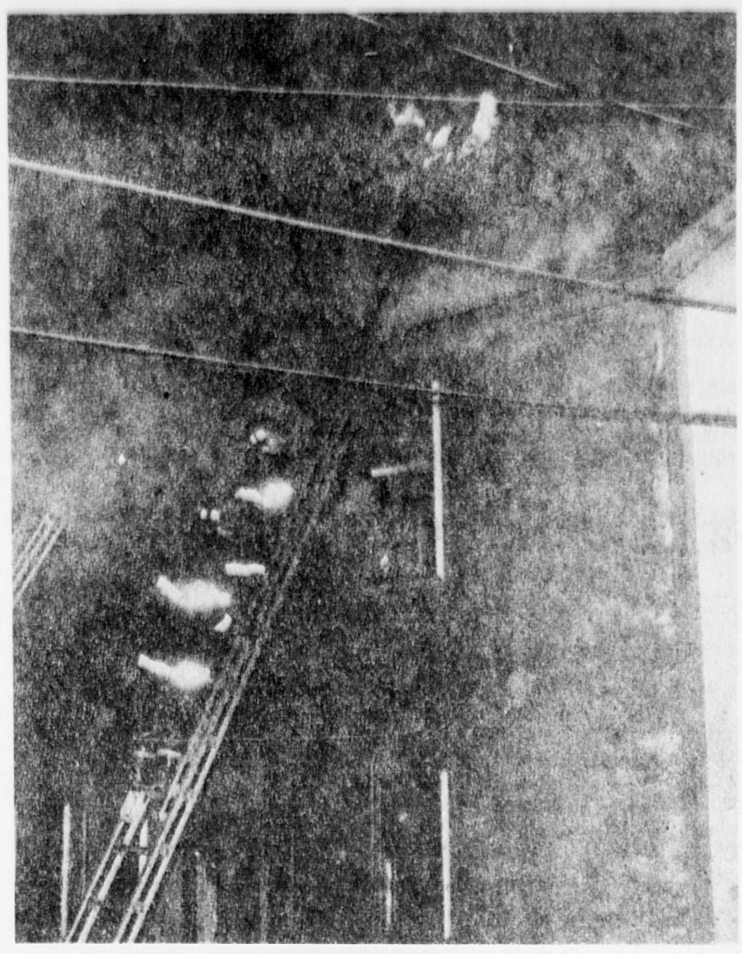
Meinhart said firefighters no sooner began dousing flames on the first floor than they saw fire through the second-floor windows of the 2½-story stucco duplex. The flames burned up through the stairways to the attic, then spread across the attic to the second apartment of the duplex and began to burn down, he said. Rafters were extensively burned, he said.

In the wake of the tragic fire, Meinhart urged people to buy and maintain smoke detectors. He said Christmas is a time when people buy lots of batteries and that it would be a good idea to make Christmas the time each year to replace batteries in smoke detectors.

"Smoke goes up first," Meinhart said, "and since it hits smoke detectors first, you've got a chance to get out before being overcome by smoke."

Mutual aid from Waltham, Watertown, Weston, Wellesley and Boston covered Newton fire stations while the blaze kept firefighters here busy from 11:04 p.m. Saturday to 2:34 a.m. Sunday when the fire was declared extinguished.

Newton Engine 7 was stationed at the fire scene until 3:58 a.m. to guard against the possibility of the fire starting again.



Careless cigarette disposal was blamed as cause behind fire.

Chief says don't drink and drive

NEWTON — Last year, the holiday season was marred by drunken drivers, serious accidents and death on the highways of the commonwealth, noted Police Chief William Quinn last week.

In the year since, Quinn said, "new and positive laws were passed to cut down on drinking drivers and the resulting accidents, injuries and death."

The chief, in an advisory issued prior to the Christmas and New Year's weekends, urged residents holding parties to "avoid serving excessive amounts of alcohol, ow whenever a friend, relative or acquaintance does have too much, arrange for a ride home."

Quinn said that simply supplying hot coffee for guests who have consumed alcohol does not diminish the effect of the drinks on the system.

"The drink for the road should be had at home," Chief Quinn said.

Magic of dance films

Main library film on the magic of dance is "The Romantic Ballet" Wednesday, Jan. 19 at 7 p.m. with the Russian performance of "Les Sylphides." Free and open to the public. Also: "Out of the limelight, home in the rain" a 1980 film about a dancer's difficult life, which includes a complete performance of Frederich Ashton's ballet "Marguerite and Armond."

'Reagan-Begin and us' topic of Jan. 12 session

BROOKLINE — The Combined Sisterhood will hold its annual breakfast program Wednesday, Jan. 12, at Temple Emeth, Brookline, with a meeting to include a panel discussion on "Reagan, Begin and Us."

Members of the panel will be Dr. Leonard Fein, the Honorable Yuval Metser and Professor Benjamin Bruade.

Serving as moderator will be Rabbi Richard Yellin of Congregation Mishkan Tefila.

Dr. Fein, a writer, activitsist scholar and well-known interpreter of contemporary Jewish life, will discuss the Jewish viewpoint on President Reagan's attitude toward Israel, and Prime Minister Begin's attitude toward the United States.

Braude, assistant professor of history at Boston College, will give an historical and factual analysis of the United States government's handling of American-Israeli relations.

Metser, consul general of Israel for the New England area, will discuss Israel's viewpoint of the Reagan administration's relationship with Israel as well as future US-Israeli relations.

The Combined Sisterhood meeting has had large attendance each year in the past.

For reservations and information call Temple Emeth at 469-9400.

Shadow puppets planned

NEWTON CENTRE — "Till Eulenspigel's Merry Pranks" will be presented by the Underground Railway Puppets and Actors, on Thursday, Dec. 30 at 2 p.m. in the Mason-Rice School.

The program is sponsored by Arts in the Parks, with aid from a grant from the New England Foundation for the Arts.

This shadow-puppet production, set to the music of Strauss' tone poem, was commissioned by the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

The story of the legenday Flemish trickster is a shadow puppet spectacle played on 20-foot screens.

Tickets are $2. For information, call Arts in the Parks at 552-7120.

Parking proposal pondered

"People are paying hard currency for parking. Fifty cents a night is a nominal amount," said Baker.

Richmond amended the fee to $15 a month.

Baker, Richmond and Alderman Verne Vance all felt some revenue should be gained by the city for the parking privilege.

"Let's study and review it for six months, because there appears to be great concern about on-street parking," said Depasquale.

Against on-street parking, but leaning more in favor of municipal lot parking is the traffic commission and the police and fire chiefs, according to Sheehan.

Climber Jeff Lowe at summit, in photo by David Breashear.

As village waited they scaled peak

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON CENTRE — As a village elder recited Bhuddist prayers for them some three miles below, a 27-year-old Newton man and his climbing colleague scaled the frozen, windswept slopes to the top of a Himilayan peak - the first successful wintertime assault on the mountain.

David Breashear of Newton Centre and Jeff Lowe of Colorado reached the top of 21,000-foot Kwangde, in the Mt. Everest region, earlier this month, becoming the first climbers to make the climb in the winter.

In just four days, with spartan gear and a lot of "commitment" the pair made the climb, as recounted by Breashear last week on his return to the Garden City.

During the time the Americans spent on the mountain, Breashear said, villagers far below worried about them and a village elder recited Bhuddist prayers for the climbers' safe return.

Using 300 feet of rope and a 150 foot haul line, the pair climbed the north face of the mountain in what is known as "Alpine" fashion.

"This means we used no fixed ropes, which are like umbilical cords leading a climber in trouble back to safety," said Breashear. "Because we didn't use an 'umbilical cord' we had to give our climb more commitment."

Alpine style carries more technical hazards, something Breashear said makes the climb more satisfying.

Although he only recently returned from the adventure, Breashear showed no signs of frostbite or an overly "rugged" complexion commonly linked to serious climbers. At 27, he is considered young compared to his list of mountain conquests.

Farewell to 1982

Revaluation, Prop 2½ top year in review

By Sarah Clayton and Kevin Kennedy
Staff Writers

NEWTON — The second year of Proposition 2½ brought continued economic pressures on the city and its departments. But the greatest of all headaches for members of the Board of Aldermen and Mayor Theodore Mann was the stormy protest from hundreds of residents over the accelerated revaluation of property in the city.

The revaluation conducted by Finnegan Associates of Acton was challenged in several heated public hearings. Taxpayers questioned the fairness and consistency of the job done by Finnegan for $600,000 and many blatant errors were uncovered.

Indicative of the mood of taxpayers was an overflow crowd of 1,500 residents at the first public hearing held at City Hall. This forum was abruptly adjourned by fire officials citing public safety concerns. Consequently, numerous smaller hearings were held.

Grim economic realities set the mood for the year overall as Reagonomics and Prop 2½ both took their toll. Voter dissatisfaction with Reagonomics was one factor which led to Democrat Cong. Barney Frank's win over Republican Cong. Margaret Heckler for the newly-redesigned 4th Congressional District seat. The race became a national symbol as a test of the Reagan administration's policies.

City unions held protests in response to wage offers and tight times brought the unions, including Newton's teachers, together in "solidarity" protests. Although city unions remain without a contract as the new year dawns, teachers settled for 5.5 percent as work-to-rule and the refusal to write recommendations wore on patience and sympathies of students and parents.

Several major fires occured in the city during the year, including a "suspicious" fire in the Newton Corner Gorin and Leeder buildings only days after the last tenants left to make way for development by the Druker Company.

And, finally, it was a year of two freak events of nature – an earthquake and a mini-tornado.

JANUARY

Mayor Theodore D. Mann starts the new year sworn in to a fourth term and calls for increased "unity" in the city. The city's 24 aldermen and eight School Committee members take the oath of office and voters see some new faces on both the School Committee and Board of Aldermen.

A taxpayer purused property value list during one hearing on the revaluation in 1982.
(Andi Goodman photo)

State Department of Revenue officials begin inspection of the city's revaluation figures in early January with city officials promising residents new property values would be in the mail in two weeks. It would be many months later before residents got their notices.

Newton Corner residents of the Gorin and Leeder buildings receive eviction notices over the New Year's weekend from developer Ronald Druker.

Newton businessman Vincent Filippone vows to fight city payment of Mayor Mann's $10,000 legal bill stemming from a $1.1 million lawsuit filed by the mayor's former secretary, Diana Ossinger. Filippone attempts to gather 2,000 signatures needed to put the question of payment on the ballot, but falls 100 short of drive.

Church and school officials of St. Jean's school on Watertown Street take a hard look at the school's $31,000 deficit and parents plead for a chance to raise money and save the school.

Three years after Murray Road School was vacated, a plan for its reuse surfaces. Aldermen consider conversion of the property into eight condominiums by Galen Development Corp.

Hundreds of residents feel tremors of an earthquake centered in Laconia, N.H., which registers 4.4 on the Richter scale here.

City moves to a new system of processing parking tickets at City Hall with hopes of speeding up the collection of a backlog of more than $350,000 in overdue tickets.

In a controversial interpretation of state public records law, school Superintendent Aaron Fink refuses to release names of any of the 96 applicants for Newton North High principal search to replace retiring Principal Richard Mechem.

FEBRUARY

The Newton Graphic files a Freedom of Information request for names of applicants for North principalship. On advice from city solicitor, Supt. Fink continues to refuse to release names. The state supervisor of public records agrees to review case. Later in the month, 39-year-old Marya Levenson of Cambridge is recommended by Fink and approved by the School Committee for the job.

Also in February, a Superintendent Search Committee begins interviews with some of the 110 candidates vying for retiring Aaron Fink's job. The Graphic files a complaint under the state's Open Meeting Law with the Middlesex D.A.'s office in a challenge of closed meetings held by the search committee. The Search Committee's action is upheld by D.A.'s office until the pool is narrowed to semi-finalists.

The School Committee lifts self-imposed restrictions on potato chips and hot dogs in attempt to reduce a $160,000 deficit in the lunch program. A hiring freeze is also placed on cafeteria staff in the secondary schools.

Chief Assessor Harold Brady says property tax impact notices to Newton's approximately 22,000 homeowners are in the mail. When the mail arrives, the tax revolt in the city starts to heat up as young and old visit city hall to dispute assessments.

Brady is later demoted to assessor after being voted out of the top spot by two of his colleagues. Assessor Robert Palmer assumes role as chief.

Day 8th graders learning history with celluloid

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTONVILLE — No one ever said making an animated film was an easy task. But for a group of F. A. Day Junior High students, a demanding moviemaking project sure beats studying the Molasses Act the old way.

Normally, students would be lectured on the Molasses Act as one of many events which led up to the war for this nation's independence from England.

Instead, they are making a five-minute animated film about the act.

"Let's face it," says Marge Montgomery, one of two social studies teachers working with the 50 students on the animated film project. "The Molasses Act isn't the most thrilling aspect of American history."

Yet, according to Montgomery, the students have learned the act backwards and forwards as a result of their excitement about making a film on it.

"They became passionately interested instantly," says Montgomery.

The Molasses Act was one of many acts passed by the British parliament as England sought to gain more effective control over the American colonies.

An important item of trade between the 13 colonies and the West Indies, molasses was first given a six-penny duty in 1733 with the passage of the Molasses Act. This was lowered to three pence a gallon in 1764 because the previous duty had been largely ignored and was impossible to collect.

The Day eighth grade students are also making a little of their own history, in a sense, since their just-completed film may one day be part of a series made by students on the acts which led up to the American Revolution.

Rob Stark, a Newton resident and six-year veteran social studies teacher at Day, was the other teacher involved with the project. Stark believes the film made this year by the two social studies classes could be added to by students each year, ultimately resulting in a 15-20 minute film.

"If it comes out well enough and the sequence is good," he says enthusiastically, "we'll use it in other schools in the system."

Like Montgomery, Stark also marvels over the students' drive in producing the film.

"Everybody really focused in and went to business, especially during the filming, which is crucial," he stresses. "It sure beats lecturing to them about the Molasses Act."

Although the project developed by Stark and Montgomery is a first for Day Junior High, the school is already known for fabulous animated films produced by art students under the direction of teacher Ray Lavin.

Following student research and discussion of the Molasses Act, Lavin discussed with students the process and work involved in making an animated film.

From their meeting with Lavin, the students under Stark and Montgomery began work on various "storyboards" or outlines for presenting the story of the Molasses Act on film. Segments of several students work was combined into the final movie and everyone contributed to the final product.

City commission sues over alleged illegal land filling

By Gary Dorion
Middlesex County News Service

CAMBRIDGE — The Newton Conservation Commission and Building Commissioner filed suit against a Newton Highlands resident and three others in Middlesex Superior Court charging them with violating the state's fresh water wetlands protection laws.

Named as defendants in the action are Philip S. Levoff, of 61 Beaconwood Rd., Newton Highlands, Lee S. Ellis, of 65 Beaconwood Rd., P. Coan and Co., 205 Lowland St., Holliston, and Antaramian Realty, of 241 Walnut St., Newtonville.

Filed by the Conservation Commission and acting Building Commissioner James Cameron, the suit alleges Levoff, assisted by the other defendants, illegally filled portions of his property, which is partially fresh water wetlands.

The suit alleges Levoff filled the land without submitting a notice of intent to the Conservation Commission, which never gave its approval. It also claims filling the area damaged trees, shrubs and plants and significantly altered the contour of the land.

In addition, the officials allege that the land consequently lost flood-water-storgae capacity.

According to the suit, Levoff, on several occasions, was ordered by the commissioner to restore the land to its natural state and to remove the fill, but Levoff, to date, has refused to comply.

The officials are asking the court to force Levoff to restore his property, pay the city's legal bill, or alternatively, to award damages to the city so the Conservation Commission can restore the land. The alternative measure would include costs of over $7,500, according to the suit.

The defendants have 20 days in which to make an official response.

North concert features the University Dancers

NEWTONVILLE — The Newton North Open Campus Program announces that the University Dancers, an exciting young company composed of faculty and selected dance majors from the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, will be performing on Monday, Jan. 10 at 12:45 p.m. in the auditorium.

The concert is part of the University Dancers' annual January tour which, in previous years, has taken the company to schools, colleges and community civic and cultural centers throughout Massachusetts and New England.

The tour not only exposes audiences to the pleasure and diversity of dance, but also provides the dancers with valuable performing and touring experience.

The program selected for the concert will feature works in a variety of dance styles and themes. "Journey Upon Revelations," choreographed by graduating senior Dianna Williams, is a modern dance of vibrant ethnic rhythm and of the celebration of unity. Faculty membver Andrea Watkins has choreographed two pieces for the company: "Through the Edge" a strong dramatic dance to the music of Leos Janack and "Mountains and Molehills" a rare comic piece, using ony the dancers voices for accompaniment. Another comic work on the program, Mark Morris' "Canonic Waltze Studies," is also featured.

This dance takes a satirical look at the world of ballet, while maintaining its integrity as an intricate study of the canonic form. Richard Jones fills out the repetoire with two contrasting pieces in the jazz idiom.

First the spirited "Neuf," a crisp and yet sultry piece for nine dancers, done with a Spanish flair. "Shout," on the other hand, takes its inspiration from Baptist Rivival Meetings. To the music of Duke Ellington, the dancers jump, shake, shimmy and shout: giving 'witness' as the spirit enters them. Truly a more varied program would be difficult to imagine.

The public is invited to this program at no charge. For more information, contact Newton North at 552-7511 or 552-7447

Addendum

A story in last week's Newton Graphic about the Totem Pole dance hall and Norumbega Park included three old photos of the buildings.

Credit was not given to the Jackson Homestead for loan of those photos. We regret the omission.

Year in review: Election in sight

Robert McIntosh, the owner of the Newton Health Club, wins an appeal for license to continue operation in Newton Upper Falls following a December police raid resulting in three arrests of club employees on prostitution charges. McIntosh faces charge of "maintaining a house of prostitution" for which a Middlesex Court judge will find him "not guilty" in June. The three women's cases are continued without findings and each is charged $500 in court costs.

Over 120 residents and firefighters rally at City Hall to show support for keeping the Manet Road Fire Station open. The elimination was recommended by Mayor Mann as a means of coping with Proposition 2½ and was later approved by aldermen.

A three-alarm fire guts an office building at 1320 Centre St. leaving seven firefighters injured and requiring mutual aid from nearby communities.

Costly sewer problems at Day Jr. High prompt Warren Jr. High parents to raise issue of delaying June '83 closing. School Committee members show no support for reopening their June 1981 decision to close Warren.

MARCH

A $39.1 million school budget is approved by the School Committee and passed on for review by aldermen. Although the budget cut about 33 positions, it was up 3.7 percent.

After its own interviews, the School Committee narrows the field for the superintendent's position from seven to three finalists – Dr. Percy Clark, Jr., Dr. Troy Earhart and Dr. John Strand – all from outside of the system. A former committee member raises question of an illegal executive session during the process.

Over 400 competitors brave 35 degree weather to compete in the 4th Garden City Marathon.

St. Jean's Church pastor announces at Sunday services the church's school will close its doors at the end of June after 55 years.

Newton Highlands residents urge rebuilding of Hyde School's building damaged in spring 1981 fire in a survey conducted by the Newton Highlands' Neighborhood Area Council. Meanwhile, a feasibility study conducted by Kubitz and Pepi, a Wellesley architectural firm, moves forward.

Firm hired to conduct revaluation begins review of appeals filed by over 8,100 homeowners since tax impact notices were received. Many aldermen and taxpayers claim the job is plagued with inconsistencies, but officials say any delay would force the city to make an $11 million budget cut.

APRIL

Clark and Strand emerge as finalists for superintendent after a 6-2 vote. The School Committee finds itself in a deadlock over the pair. "Twin" closed door sessions of four members each are successfully challenged by The Graphic under the Open Meeting Law.

Later in April, the deadlock is broken and Dr. John Strand, former superintendent of schools in Pelham, N.Y., is named new superintendent with a three-year contract.

Newton is hit by a major spring snowstorm in early April.

A rift develops over the city's Memorial Day Parade jointly funded and held by the city and the Nonantum Children's Christmas Party Association over the city's decision to alter the parade route and eliminate the march through Nonantum. Efforts to resolve differences fail and separate parades are held.

Newton's "Heartbreak Hill" is again a heartbreaker for many competitors in the 86th annual Boston Marathon.

MAY

Aldermen approve a $96.7 million city budget calling for elimination of 45 city positions, 33 school jobs and closing of the Manet Rd. Fire Station. The school budget ($39.1 million) emerges unscathed for the second year in a row since the school board lost fiscal autonomy. The Fire Dept. budget contains the greatest cut of 9 percent.

Chamber of Commerce Vice-president Lewis Songer charges that city businesses are being treated with "contempt" by assessors under the plan to tax commercial property at 150 percent. Many small businesses will be forced to leave the city, Songer says.

Within one week, two city officials give notice of their intention to resign. Department of Public Works Chief Charles Thomas' notice is followed a few days later by a resignation letter from Building Commissioner Allan Fraser.

JUNE

Property tax notices are mailed to homeowners and commercial property owners. A classification plan approved by aldermen sets the commercial rate at the maximum allowed by state law – $36.29 or 150 percent. Residents are taxed at 90 percent or $21.88.

Mayor Mann wins his day in court when a Middlesex Superior Court judge rules the city must pay Mann's "reasonable" legal bills under a city ordinance insuring city officials. The judge finds a suit by 28 taxpayers, led by Vincent Filippone, to block the payment lacking merit.

Day Junior High students gathered around the 'stage' as they produced a film on the Molasses Act, frame by frame.

(Photos by Richard Lodge)

Film allows a new look at days of old

From page 1

Students spent three weeks in their social studies class (45 minutes a day) developing the stories and the artwork to tell each story.

Most of the artwork involved cutouts from construction paper with attention to movable pieces.

Montgomery says some of the students recoiled from the idea of the film when they began to think, 'I can't draw.' She candidly explains how she helped students get over their fear by demonstrating her own success in cutting out suitable figures and backgrounds despite her "zero artistic ability."

Montgomery, who also teaches English at Day, says the project makes a good English lesson as well as history and art lesson. "It's perfect because it's composition," she stresses.

While five minutes of film may not seem like much, the actual art work and filming which goes into producing an animated film of that length is amazing. Working in shifts of groups of six students, three school days were required for the actual filming of the seven scenes in the film.

To make characters or objects move convincingly, students had to take two frames or clicks of the camera for every one-eighth of an inch a prop was moved. Sound will be meshed later with several talking characters.

Student Lara Solomon's artwork of a man being tarred and feathered – designed to give a fairly gruesome picture of before, during and after the unpleasant punishment – involved tedious filming. Another scene of a colonial man rocking in a rocking chair required long filming in order to have realistic movement.

Like any big Hollywood production, the actual filming went one day over schedule. Luckily, the three student directors, Susanne Goddard, Malcolm Fleschner and Jenny Margulis, were able to take things in stride. But then, unlike the real world of filmmaking, there was no budget to fret over.

The directors for the animated film, standing with part of the artwork used in the film, include (from left) Susanne Goddard, Malcolm Fleschner and Jenny Margulis.

Climbers made ascent for wintertime record

"The oldest man in the village thought it was impossible to make the climb and he's seen climbers come and go since the first climber came to the area," said Breashear.

Breashear later learned the whole village was very worried about the pair of climbers when they failed return when expected.

"They were sure we hadn't made it and when they saw us come into the village on December 4, they threw us a party and served us chang, a milky beer made from rice," said Breashear.

"The average angle of the mountain was 70 degrees and the wind was enough to jolt you around, blowing gusts between 40 to 60 miles an hour," he recalled of the assault.

Fine snow penetrated their clothing and got into everything, but it was just something you had to live with, he added.

Temperatures were not as cold as first speculated, but were actually around 10 to 15 degrees above zero during the day and a few degrees below at night, said Breashear.

Climbing the north face meant the two climbed with out the benefit of direct sunshine, but this made for solid footing in the ice, said Breashear.

"When we reached the summit, we had to spend a night in a snow cave, because of the wind and cold, but the other nights on the mountain were spent swinging in a hammock anchored in rock," he said.

The hammocks were anchored under rock ledges to protect the climbers from falling rock and ice.

Keeping their hands ahead to pull themselves forward meant poor circulation to their hands and Breashear said they had to frequently swing their arms around to keep them from freezing.

"We chose this mountain because it was a very difficult technical climb, appealing to people who shy away from the more mundane routes," said the Newton man.

Spending a total of $6,500 on the trip, which included flights on small planes, landing on very short runways and meeting up with Nepalese porters for a two day hike to their base camp at the foot of the Kwangde, Breashear said the people of the area are very cordial.

Living in stone houses and making their living primarily from farming and as porters and guides to mountain climbers, Breashear said visitors may feel very "foreign" at first, but the Nepalese people are always smiling and treat foreigners well.

Climbers may be away from civilization, but not free from bureaucracy, since the Nepalese Minister of Tourism charges a fee to climb each of the towering peaks in their section of the Himalayas.

"Kwangde has a small fee of $200 for permission to climb it, compared to a nearby 26,000-foot mountain which would cost us $1,200 to climb," said Breashear.

Next year Breashear will participate in a group effort to scale the east face of Mount Everest - a side never before climbed.

Breashear said although the 11 member expedition will not be using oxygen tanks, something unheard of given the altitude, he said being part of a group effort is more "mundane" and gives one the feeling of being a "cog in the wheel."

"I'll be going as the expedition's photographer, so I'll have more opportunity to be creative and won't feel like a cog," he said.

When not involved in climbing, Breashear either pursues photography or takes on a custom remodeling job, if it's a challenge, he says.

Can cable TV be controlled?

Think of cable TV as a monthly bill to go along with the regular payments you now make for heat, light and the mortgage payment.

You will be paying for what you are now getting for free on sponsor-only commercial television since the tube made its 1948 bow.

Already, the blending in of pre-cable TV is taking place, most notably in professional sports and the top-rated movies. Fewer and fewer pro sports attractions can be seen without shelling out cable dollars. It is a sure bet there won't be any once all of the nation is hooked on the cables mushrooming throughout the land.

Legitimate concerns exist as the inevitable occurs, with billions of dollars to be reaped. Will the quality of content be better than the system which has prevailed for a quarter century?

Can it be controlled at any level of government, local or otherwise? Are there rewards for any apart from the profits and salaries to be taken by those who provide the product?

Although cable already has 28 million customers — 34 percent of all TV homes at last count — the answers to such questions are difficult to come by. Except for the big boxing matches and other professional sports promotion of quality, reports are generally that the total content is lackluster.

Local option on the issuance of single franchises for a city or town has led to a wild scramble to be on the ground floor.

This is reminiscent of the early days of radio and pre-cable TV. Eventually, there will be a shakeout with probably no more than a half dozen major companies dominant.

But the growing pains are creating problems as entrepeneurs promise more than they can deliver. It can be seen that the improvement in content and range will be gradual, giving current network operations plenty of time to work into a transition.

The exceptionally large number of channels, up to 80, will be the principal difference in making cable TV the great force it will be in the future.

This means specialization and access to more information on different subjects than Americans have ever had. This in combination with home computers spells the coming of a whole new way of life.

It's something to be bullish about, a great advance in the communications ballots revolution. The possibilities are seemingly limitless.

Local programming is held out as a major inducement in the franchise sales pitches. In Newton the local cable company's backing for local production, volunteer work and local programming has been substantial.

It will, of course, be important to see that the effort put into channel use is maintained once the original promotional flourish has ended and the routine scheduling takes over.

Because of the local franchise option, the federal government says it can't control content, as it does now in radio and other television. So, the municipalities will have to be vigilant. How effectively remains to be seen.

Newton Graphic Opinions

Letter from the editor

'82 letters, mixed bag

Sometimes it starts with an angry phone call to the editor, a suggestion that a letter be written and then, the thoughts are down on paper, shared with other readers.

Sometimes the mail brings a pastel envelope with just a few lines of thanks printed inside. And at times, the letters to the editor come on official city or commonwealth stationery, with a few words of criticism — or occasional praise.

However the letters come in, they stand as the newspaper readers' forum in the Newton Graphic. Over the past year they have covered a wide range of issues and personalities.

By far in this election year of 1982 the ballot questions and opinions on various candidates dominated the "letters to the editor" page of the Graphic. Earlier in the year, when the issue of revaluation was drawing standing-room-only crowds at City Hall and raised the blood pressure of city officials and taxpayers alike, the letters poured in on the subject.

With the selection process for a new school superintendent and Newton North principal questioned by this newspaper, readers wrote down their none-too-laudatory thoughts and sent them to our mailbox.

But above all, readers around the city sat down and penned their thoughts ranging from nuclear disarmament (for and against) and abortion (likewise) to whether or not people should use first names, when first introduced to another individual.

A random sample of letters to the Graphic in 1982 found an average of five readers a week fired off their thoughts, giving us an idea of how readers viewed the job we were doing, as well as how they were thinking about issues of the day.

Revaluation drew the second largest number of letters to the editor — second only to the myriad epistles on election personalities and issues.

A rough count showed some 22 letters mailed in, primarily critical of the revaluations process and the reassessing firm of Finnegan Associates. Those who took to the "letters" page to air their views were not without a sense of humor, even on such tough topics as revaluation.

One letter-writer noted that since Finnegan Associates had started the revaluation process, the ducks in "the lagoon" outside City Hall had kept "a constant vigil on the tax fortress" and had been doing "an extraordinary amount of quacking all day long."

The '82 election in the fall brought more than 50 letters to the editor, with the periodic sparing matches between readers representing both sides of issues.

One reader expressed criticism of Cong. Barney Frank in his race against Margaret Heckler. Those critical words drew a week's worth of mail by readers rebutting the original letter.

Showing a savvy candidate's awareness of the value of the letters page, former candidate for the US Senate, Ray Shamie, took to the typewriter with a letter to the Graphic dated Dec. 31, 1981, blasting Ted Kennedy for a variety of votes and statements. Shamie felt, apparently, the best way to fire up the campaign at that time was to launch in as the new year dawned.

Letter-writers took the mayor and aldermen to task for a variety of things; voiced concern over the nuclear arms advocates' saber rattling; enlightened readers about the Baltic Holocaust in which Soviets deported and condemned thousands of innocent Eastern Europeans; and suggested ways to make the Garden City safer, and cleaner.

The "thanks you" letters were evidence to the wide variety of things which touched the day-to-day lives of people in Newton in 1982. Readers wrote to thank the Fire Department for quick response in an emergency; to thank the police for courteous and helpful service; to thank the voters for voting and the city for setting up such things as the Office of Consumer Protection; and to thank the aldermen for supporting the school budget. The list of "thank you" letters seemed to go on and on.

Some readers even took the time to thank the Graphic for fair and timely coverage while others sent us mail to protest what they perceived as biased stories or unfair treatment of issues.

One reader thanked us for publishing a story about the problem of child abuse while others wrote to just thank us for publishing photos which brought them joy.

As always, we welcome letters to the editor on a variety of subjects. The letters can be praise or criticism, suggestions or concerns. To get across what is on your mind in 1983, write The Newton Graphic, Box 341, Newton Highlands, Mass. 02161.

Bonded in Boston

Opening up the space

Local developer Alan Green's appointment to the city's Conservation Commission was unanimously approved recently by the aldermanic Administration and Planning Committee.

Green, developer of the prestigious Gables condo complex on Dedham Street, was asked to answer a list of questions submitted by Alderman Rodney Barker concerning his ideas of the future of conservation land in the city. And Green replied that he thought it best to "keep open space open as long as possible."

He also told the committee the best housing developments "are those done with environmental sensitivity."

Green spent months last spring trying to convince Weston residents the best possible use of 32 acres of open land across Wellesley Street from the high school was to put a 42-unit luxury condominium complex on it.

The proposal was nixed in May at Weston's Town Meeting after it became the center of a town-wide controversy and a crucial issue in the Weston selectmen's campaign.

Newton attorney Frank Wright's nomination to the ConCom was also unanimously approved by the committee.

How do you spell relief?

Relief may be in sight for motorists who regularly get caught in traffic jams along Highland Avenue near Route 128.

Selectmen in Needham recently gave unanimous approval to a request to the state for a new Needham exit off Route 128 and road improvements on Highland Avenue to cut down on traffic in that area.

Newton Alderman Marcy Richmond, head of a subcommittee which has been monitoring progress on the "Needham corridor," reported the most recent developments to the Administration and Planning Committee recently.

An informal consensus of the Newton committee applauded the progress, which Richmond described as "the first positive step in 15 or 20 years."

The proposal, which also calls for improvements along Needham Street in Newton, was prepared jointly by town officials in Needham and Newton and will be presented as a package to the state.

Road improvements which include making Highland Avenue four lanes from Route 128 to the Newton line and on Needham Avenue in Newton from the two towns' border to Route 9 are also called for in the proposal.

TAC's ink from Inc.

Word from the Technical Aid Corp., located on Wells Avenue in the office park, is that the company (TAC) has been ranked number 216 in Inc. Magazine's roster of the 500 fastest growing private companies in the country.

The Inc. 500, as it were, are featured in the cover story for December.

Technical Aid Corp. registered some $81 million in sales for 1981, ranking the company as the third highest of the 500 in terms of sales volume.

By the way, TAC "supplies contract professionals to the computer, medical, engineering and clerical fields," according to company literature.

Haunted house hustler

The recent Newton Jaycees newsletter notes some well-deserved praise for Peter Coletti, who spearheaded the annual Halloween Haunted House in the West Newton Armory.

The week-long "House" was jointly sponsored by the Newton and Waltham Jaycees and brought in some 4,200 people, with about $900 going back into the coffers of the two Jaycees' groups.

Can you imagine all those people paying to be terrified? All for a good cause.

Better late than never

In the BLTN column this week we give belated recognition to a number of talented Newton youngsters appearing this season in the Boston Ballet production of "The Nutcracker," which runs through Dec. 30.

Tops on the list is Jennifer Galfand, playing the lead child's role of Clara, with her sister, Lauren, performing as one of the mice.

Maribeth Bourgeois is playing a reindeer, Nirvana Shaw has performed as an angel in the production at Hynes Auditorium and Nicole Eldridge is laying one of the children at the Christmas party scene of the popular ballet.

Bonded in Boston

The First National Bank of Boston, representing an investor group, scooped up $7.535 million in AAA rated bonds shortly after they were issued by the Garden City, according to Mayor Theodore Mann.

The mayor has always pointed proudly to the city's top-of-the-line "triple-A" rating and at a recent press conference he offered the Bank of Boston buy-up as an example.

"Our bonds sold immediately at one of the most attractive rates — 6.76 percent for long-term bonds — in recent times," said the mayor.

Newton is currently the only city in the state to receive a AAA bond rating from Moody's rating service indicating to an investor a solid investment, according to Mann.

The bond issue raises the total city debt to $12 million, about a sixth of the allowable debt under state laws, with the bond money earmarked for sewers, water meters, energy conservation, renovations and asbestos removal, to name a few projects.

"We've done fairly well so far, but there are extremely trying days ahead for us," the mayor noted, referring to the effects of Prop 2½ on the budget.

Take my wife, please?

The recent survey of Garden City parents eyeing private schools as an alternative brought in a lot of information for public school officials to scrutinize, but it also brought some curious reasoning.

Under the question to parents who were considering enrolling their kids in "non-public" schools, the majority cited religion or quality of education as the reasons for the move from public to private.

However, one respondent wrote down as the reason for the shift "My wife."

Wonder how Newton school analysts are figuring that one in...

Letters

Urges call to legislators

To the editor;

Citizens who are concerned about public transportation and wasteful use of tax dollars should urge their legislators on Beacon Hill to vote against the Transportation Bond Act as long as it contains the section which would strip away the MBTA's management rights.

Section 8 of House Bill 6585 (Senate 2113) would rescind the hard-won Management Rights Law which is just beginning to be implemented.

The League of Women Voters estimates that this rider on the Transportation Bond Act can result in unnecessary expenditure of $30 million in MBTA funds as well as the elimination of some improvements in transit service.

This amendment was attached to the Transportation Bond Act on the floor of the Senate at the request of Senator Joseph B. Walsh of Boston and passed without any discussion. The League recognizes that the rest of House 6585 makes necessary changes in the Transportation Bond act, but it is recommended that the "management rights" amendment be removed before the main bill is passed.

Section 8 would not only return every condition of MBTA employment to the bargaining table, it would make responsible and efficient management of the MBTA impossible.

A phone call to 722-2000 will get you the names and phone numbers of your legislators and it is a simple matter to call and leave a message with an aide. Please let them know that this hasty and ill-considered measure is not in the public interest.

Reader says 'thanks' to two

To the editor;

(Although as a matter of policy The Graphic does not print unsigned letters, this one came in without a name on it, written on a fine holiday card, with a message from which many could benefit.)

Dear sir;

An item to report by a 50-year taxpayer of Newton to show how well things "work for the good" in our city.

On Monday, Dec. 13, at 10 a.m., I had an appointment in Newton. Transportation by a gentleman from another suburb (was provided).

Very icy and slippery! A sand truck went up the street with two city of Newton employees.

My driver parked his car in front of the doctor's and proceeded to help me. I went down and could not get up. He tried to help and he went down.

These city of Newton employees came and helped us up and into the house. He had fallen a second time.

Result - ambulance to Newton-Wellesley Hospital. He had a fracture and of the left forearm which had to be reset. His left hand fingers were bleeding very badly.

His relatives took him to their hospital and he saw his own doctor and an orthopedic doctor.

I wanted these two men who so kinldly took their time to assist us, to show them how grateful we both are. Otherwise we'd have stayed there indefinitely. I am 87 years old and want to keep on my feet.

Gratefully
A Newton Graphic subscriber

Thanks for interest

To the editor;

On behalf of the Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce, Spofford Hall and Region West Family Counsling Service, we wish to thank you for your participation and for helping to make our conference on Employee Alcohol Assistance Programs the success that it was.

We hope the conference was useful to you in identifying the impact of alcoholism and other personal problems on people and businesses. We also hope that the conference was informative in demonstrating how Employee Assistance Programs can reduce both human and financial costs.

In our effort "not to let it end today" as Judge Monte Basbas implored us, we hope to receive your feedback and be of whatever further assistance we can.

Review of '82: Teachers' woes

A body is found in the closet of a Boylston Street home and medical examiners rule the cause of death to be from a self-inflicted bullet wound to the head. The man's identity remains a mystery at year's end.

A two-alarm fire rages through Mt. Ida Junior College's library and administration building causing $400,000 in damage. A 22-year-old Needham man, working as a campus security guard, is charged with setting the blaze. A trial is still pending.

A Haitian immigrant is charged with the fatal stabbing of a fellow male employee at Legal Seafoods Restaurant in Chestnut Hill. William Odney, 28, of Dorchester, is charged with first degree murder and a judge orders psychiatric evaluation. The case has not yet come to trial.

JULY

Parents throughout the city let the courts know they are outraged at the suspended sentences given two Newton teenagers and one West Roxbury teenager convicted of starting the fire which caused $2 million damage to Brown Jr. High School.

Commissioner of Public Works Charles Thomas leaves the city's employe to take a position with Antaramian Construction Company. The Manet Road fire station, in Chestnut Hill, closes its doors for the last time.

A long awaited court decision gives the city the right to keep $130,000 it garnered in interest while witholding some $2 million in Middlesex County assessments between 1979 and 1981.

Officials from cities and towns along the route of the Boston Marathon meet at City Hall to discuss charging race sponsors for public safety and cleanup costs if the race becomes a commercial enterprise.

The Newton Rider bus service is rescued from collapse by a combination of service cutbacks and grants from local businessmen and the Cousens Fund.

rips up trees at Crystal Lake and dumps hailstones "as big as golfballs" on parts of the Highlands.

A baby boy is found abandoned in the lobby of Newton-Wellesley Hospital early one morning; more than 200 families rush to adopt him.

Some of the last residents of apartment buildings at Newton Corner move out to make way for construction of two four-story office buildings.

City assessors are granted a 90-day extension of the deadline for processing more than 6,000 applications for abatements on property taxes. The assessors are also granted an additional $92,000 for temporary staff needed to process the abatements.

AUGUST

Superintendent of Schools Aaron Fink steps down after 13 years in office and John Strand gets down to business quickly. The job continues to be the highest paid position in the city at over $54,000.

Allegations of unsafe working conditions and wage scale violations spur aldermen to investigate an $885,000 asbestos removal project at Newton North. The Florida-based firm awarded the contract fails to complete the job on time, and the state Labor Department applies for 35 criminal complaints against the contractor. The company ultimately pays $27,000 in back wages to workers.

The city pays the final $521,250 of $1.6 million owed Martin Roach to settle a dispute which began in 1969 with the city's taking Roach's land by emminent domain. The courts ruled Roach was underpaid for the land.

The Hospice of the Good Shepherd, a health care facility for terminal patients, wins approval of its plan to take over the old Claflin Elementary School. Price of the old school off Lowell Ave. is set at $116,000.

A HUD study labels Newton as one of eight "troubled" suburbs in the state after an analysis of economic, housing and population factors.

Building Commissioner Allan Fraser leaves his post, telling aldermen he is "glad to get out of the city."

SEPTEMBER

Newton schools open with an unprecedented decline in enrollment, a drop of 6.4 percent, attributed to increasing enrollment in private schools, a trend the new superintendent pledges to challenge.

A five-alarm fire, the first in the city's history, sweeps through a block of Newton Corner buildings earmarked for demolition. Authorities say the fire which gutted the old structure is of "suspicious" origin.

The Barney Frank-Margaret Heckler race for the seat from the newly formed 4th Congressional District, termed a "top priority" race by Republicans and "a referendum on Reaganomics," finally gets into gear with a debate at the War Memorial Auditorium. Both run unchallenged in the September primary, but

Lose weight in course

NEWTON — The Newton Health Department is offering a free 10-week weight reduction program, beginning Monday, Jan. 10.

The sessions will be held on the evenings from 6:30 - 8 p.m. in Newton City Hall Cafeteria, 1000 Commonwealth Ave. Weigh-in begins at 6:30 p.m., and classes commence at 7 p.m.

During the 10 weeks, the program will focus on health eating, diet recipes, exercise and group support.

Registration for the Diet Class can be made by contacting the Health Department at 552-7058.

Newton faces suit over sewage

By Gary Dorion
Middlesex County News Service

CAMBRIDGE — A Waban couple Wednesday filed a $30,000 suit in Middlesex Superior Court against the City of Newton in connection with damages to their Evelyn Rd. home basement when a city sewer line allegedly spewed raw sewage from a lavatory.

Represented by Boston attorney William Landau, Jospeh L. Paley and Roxy Ann Paley, of 210 Evelyn Rd., claim the city was negligent in its operation or control over the sewer system.

The suit alleges the Paleys returned home June 6, 1982 to find the basement flooded with sewage to a height of 11 inches and that sewage was spewing from the basement's lavatory.

According to the complaint, the finished basement contains paneled walls, wall-to-wall carpeting, built-in closets and drawers, bookcases, furniture, photographic equipment and kitchen facilities. The suit does not specify which of those items got damaged.

The Paleys, who have lived at that address since 1969, are requesting trial by jury in the matter and are also asking the court to award legal costs in addition to $30,000 in damages plus interest.

Retired Men list schedule

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — The Newton Retired Men's Club meets on alternate Thursdays in the Newton Highlands Congregational Church at the corner of Lincoln and Hartford STreets. Meetings, which are open to retired men from Newton and other area communities, start at 9:30 a.m.

Light refreshments are served.

On Thursday when the regular meetings are not held discussion groups meet at St. Paul's Church, Walnut Street, Newton Highlands, also at 9:30 a.m. The bowling group meets each Thursday at 1 p.m. at the Chestnut Street Alleys in Needham.

The Investment and Financial Group meets at the Second Church, Chestnut Street, West Newton, on the first Wednesday of each month at 1:30 p.m. The speaker on Jan. 5 will be Richard Bowers.

Other side clubs include bridge, golf, hobbies, travel and walking.

The program for the month of January is as follows:

Jan. 13 — Mayor Theodore Mann speaks on "Affairs of the city of Newton." Today is also "Founders' Day" with installation of new officers and presentation of the Golden Eagle awards.

Jan. 27 — Speaker from Natick Labs speaks on "Clothing and equipment development" at the military research facility.

Renovators

Mayor Theodore Mann (center) symbolically took a wrench and ladder for the start of renovations - when the first chandelier came down of the Marriott Hotel ballroom. Pictured with the mayor are (left) John Burgess, Marriott general manager and Douglas Blackwood of Newton, chief engineer.

Hotel ballroom tagged for refurbishing in Jan.

AUBURNDALE — A major renovation project started last week at the Newton Marriott Hotel as a complete refurbishing of the ballroom area was begun. Ballroom completion is expected in mid-January, just in time for the "Norumbega Nostalgia Night" planned as a fund-raiser for the Newton Historical Society.

Marriott Director of Catering David Giampietro said, "There will be many added benefits to guests attendinq events in our ballrooms," noting that the grand opening of the renovated areas will actually be celebrated on the "Nostalgia Night."

The Historical Society and Jackson Homestead have planned the evening as a fund-raiser, with a number of old photos, ticket stubs and programs displayed to bring back memories of the Totem Pole dance hall and Norumbega Park, which once stood on the sight of the Marriott Hotel.

The renovated ballroom, according to Marriott officials, will include a new color scheme, draperies, wall coverings and new chandeliers.

"Improved sound and lighting are being installed for meetings and other pgorams, including additional wall sound proofing, " Giampietro noted.

The Junior Ballroom, Salons F, G and H will feature the same colors as the main ballroom area but willhave different designs and patterns.

Stroke Club meets in city

NEWTON — Massachusetts Easter Seal Society's Greater Boston Stroke Club will hold its monthly meeting at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, Jan. 13, at the Eliot Church, 474 Centre St., Newton Corner.

This month's meeting will include a recap of the 1982 year and planning and evaluation of the club for 1983.

Easter Seal Stroke Clubs are open to anyone who has had a stroke and to their family and friends. New members are always welcome and there is no cost to join.

A special Easter Seal Young Adult Fellowship Club has been organized to meet the recreational and social needs of young adults who have suffered a stroke or traumatic head injury.

The club, which serves young people ages 15-35 from across the state, meets periodically in various locations in Massachusetts.

For more information on Easter Seal Stroke Clubs, contact the Greater Boston Easter Seal office at 482-3370.

Fund set up to aid fire victims

NONANTUM — A relief fund to help the victims displaced by a fire in Nonantum recently has been set up in a local bank.

Anyone wishing to help out the Mullen family, displaced in the two-alarm blaze which killed Nina Mazzola of 18 Morgan Place, can make checks payable to the Mullen Fire Relief Fund, c/o the Shawmut Community Bank, Watertown Street, Nonantum, 02158.

Donations can also be dropped off at the bank.

Commission votes to act on liquor license

NEWTON — Noting the voters of the city of Newton have never voted to allow taverns to be licensed within the city, the Board of License Commissioners have taken action against Brandon's Inc., 398 Watertown St., Newton, and given the owner, William Brandon, 90 days to meet the requirements as a restaurant or face the rollback of his closing hour to 11 p.m. or the possibility of a revocation or suspension of his restaurant - all alcoholic six day license.

The licensed premises has held a 1 a.m. closing hour, and this has been rolled back to midnight, effective Jan. 1, due to the failure of the licensee to conduct his business as a restaurant, according to the commissioners.

In presenting the alleged violation to the commission at its Dec. 21 meeting, Carleton P. Merrill, administrative director and agent for the commission, said the licensee had not had his premises open for lunch, that there was no menu posted or available and that "it was obvious" that the licensee was not making any attempt to have food available and "was only interested in selling alcoholic or wine and malt beverages."

Merril cited sales figures secured from the licensee and from the state Department of Revenue, which showed the "very small volume" of food sold in comparison to the sales for beverages.

Both License Commissioners Martina T. Jackson and Jerome Pearlstein pointed out to the Brandon that State Law define a restaurant as a space that is equipped with adequate and sanitary kitchen and dining room equipment and the capacity for preparing, cooking and serving of suitable food.

Inspection of the premises by the Commission members showed that the licensee does not have a kitchen, and only has a shelf with a hot-plate and a radar range on it.

Other action taken by the Licensing Commission was the approval of an application for a restaurant, all alcoholic seven day license, with a midnight closing, to Chinese Tea House, Inc., Maureen Y.M. Hsu, to be located within the existing premises of Justin's, as holder of a common victualler license, at 240 Needham St., Newton Highlands. Justins will be vacating the premises in early January.

The Commission also approved the application of the Newton Lodge of Elks for three additional automatic amusement machines, for use by club members and guests only, at 429 Centre St., Newton.

Approval was granted for a change of manager at Blanchard-Newton, Inc., package store goods, 675 Wasington St., Newtonville; approval was granted to Alden Merrell Corp. for a common victualler license at 51 Langley Rd., Newton Centre; and to Bond and Burkhart, Inc. for a common victualler license at 47 Langley Rd., Newton Centre. Approval was also given on the application of Topo, Inc., d/b/a Ches Daniel for a change from a six day wine and malt beverage license to a six day all alcoholic license.

Further, the Auburndale Cafe and Food Shop, Inc., 277 Auburn St., Auburndale, had its application for a renewal of the restaurant - all alcoholic - seven day license approved with the licensee having constructed a kitchen area within the newer licensed premises. The licensee formerly was located at 277 and 279 Auburn St., with the kitchen area within that section of the restaurant which is no longer rented by the licensee.

All 1983 renewal affadavits for license were also approved at this December meeting.

1982: what a year it was

a hint of the final outcome of the November election is to be found in Frank's garnering 10 times as many votes as Heckler.

Also in the primary, Newton voters follow a statewide trend in choosing Democrat Michael Dukakis over incumbent governor Edward J. King. Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, John Kerry, loses to fellow Newton resident Lois Pines in his hometown, but wins statewide. Another Newton resident, Bill Schmidt, wins the primary for County Commissioner to move into the election unchallenged.

The decision of more than 400 teachers to picket City Hall in protest over stalled contract talks is a harbinger of dramatic confrontations in future months. Teachers say the city's refusal to respond to their demands is undermining morale in the school system. The mayor tells them Proposition 2½ will not allow for salary increases being requested.

Mayor Mann, in his annual address to the aldermen on the state of the city, warns that Newton's financial health is threatened by Proposition 2½ and inequities in state aid distribution.

Just as the aldermen approve the appropriation of more than $14,000 to pay the mayor's legal bills, a state court orders the money be withheld pending the outcome of a taxpayers' suit aimed at stopping the payment.

Nonantum residents rally against a proposal that the city buy St. Jean's School to develop a $2 million, 46-unit housing project. Aldermen put off a decision on the matter until 1983.

OCTOBER

The Frank-Heckler debates heat up quickly after the Republican congresswoman accuses the Newton Democrat, in the closing moments of a debate, of advocating prostitution and pornography during his years as a state representative.

Extra-Strength Tylenol comes off the shelves of Newton stores as a nationwide scare results from seven deaths in Chicago, which are traced to cyanide-laced capsules.

Discontent among city workers erupts in "Solidarity Day," when more than 500 teachers, sanitation workers and members of other unions picket City Hall. All 11 city unions remain without contracts.

A proposal to ban "trick or treating" in the midst of the Tylenol scare is soundly defeated by the aldermen.

A proposal by the mayor to farm curbside rubbish collection out to a private contractor has city workers and some aldermen extremely upset. The mayor promises millions in savings over the years; city workers promise to fight the proposal "tooth and nail."

The city is awarded $96,000 to build a parking lot near West Newton Square, and supporters of the project look forward to the end of almost four years of planning.

A 59-year-old Jamaica Plain man stages a daring daylight holdup at the Pioneer Financial Bank in Lower Falls, holding customers at gunpoint and escaping with $67,000. The suspect, laid off from his job as a janitor at the bank a month earlier, is arrested at his home hours after the robbery.

NOVEMBER

City election results reflect state and nationwide trends as Barney Frank overwhelms Republican Margaret Heckler, in the 4th District race. The city also strongly backs the Dukakis/Kerry ticket and Scott Harshbarger for district attorney.

More than 200 Newton South students stage a walkout to protest the squeeze being put on them by stalled contract talks between teachers and the city. Teachers are adhering to a "work to rule" decision which has them working only during school hours. College recommendations are not being sent out, and the students say they are "sacrificial pawns."

John A. Sulik comes to the city as the new commissioner of Public Works.

An Assessing Department request for $68,000 to pay temporary staff needed to process abatement applications and correct erroneous data in the department's computer prompts a call for a $17,000 audit of the assessors' methods. Critics charge the department's techniques are "chaotic, antiquated and mismanaged," and the assessors are given just enough money to keep going until the audit is done.

City teachers reach an agreement with school officials and ratify a two-year contract which promises a yearly 5.5 percent raise.

DECEMBER

Parents are upset by the news that head lice continue to pose a problem in the city's elementary schools. So far this year, 109 cases of head lice have been reported.

A Middlesex Superior Court jury disagrees with the testimony of three Newton men who say they were beaten by three Waltham policemen during a scuffle at a restaurant. The court rules the police did not violate the men's rights and orders the police to return to work.

The Licensing Commission, complaining that rowdies from neighboring towns rush to Newton to take advantage of late hours at some bars, decides to roll back all closing times to 1 a.m.

Proposals to allow all-night parking on some city streets and municipal parking lots are stopped dead in the Board of Aldermen, with no action promised until next year.

The problem of commuter traffic on residential streets in Chestnut Hill brings more than 100 residents out for a meeting of the Traffic Commission. Critics and city officials dispair of finding an easy solution to the complex problem.

MassBay offers course on landscaping skills

WELLESLEY — Landscapers can sharpen management skills and earn educational credits at the upcoming "Short Course" to be presented Jan. 11 - 13, at Massachusetts Bay Community College, Wellesley.

Organized by the Associated Landscape Contractors of Massachusetts and the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Massachusetts, the three-day seminar is targeting the young, established company in the landscape construction or maintenance field.

Professionals from the trade and academia will discuss how their particular area of expertise applies to individual companies' operations.

Leading contractors of Massachusetts are joined together in the A.L.C.M. The group is responsible for initiating regionally recognized programs of public information, education, and professional training in the landscape industry.

Visual arts program will begin on Jan. 3

LOWER FALLS — Creative movement and the visual arts, a two-morning-per-week program, taught by Phyllis Bernstein and Joan Kurzweil, has been found by many participants to be the perfect pre-kindergarten experience.

In the twice-weekly sesssions, the environment is nurturing, encouraging and fun. It is in this setting that the child becomes comfortable learning - and learning things that are both traditional, and those concepts which are less frequently approached with children.

Children experience holidays through making up stories and then enacting these stories in costumes which they have made. They learn about the colors in music - they also think about nature, feelings and family. It is a special kind of class which can expose a maximum of 15 children to two who are so able to present such an interesting curriculum for 3 and 4 year olds. Such unique and sensitive teachers.

Arts in the Parks, Newton Recreation Department is the sponsor of this class which meets from 9:30 to noon Tuesday and Thursday mornings at the Newton Lower Falls Community Center (formerly Hamilton School). Beginning Jan. 3 through March 21; again from March 28 to June 6. Each session is $165 Send checks made payable to Arts in the Parks, Newton Recreation department, 70 Crescent St., Auburndale, 02166.

Chiropractic for Health

by Dr. David G. Rutman, Chiropractor

REDEFINE YOUR EATING HABITS

Although triglycerides are a normal type of body fat, elevated levels of this substance can lead to clogged and hardened arteries. The result can be circulatory problems, or, even, heart disease. One of the primary causes of an elevated triglyceride level is the excessive eating of refined carbohydrates. Although this type of sugar is rapidly absorbed into the body, the unused portions are stored as triglycerides (fat). A high level of triglycerides results in its adherance to the walls of blood vessels. This deposit, known at plaque (similar to dental plaque), can harden and as a result can lead to hardening of the arteries (atherosclerosis).

Enjoy good health today and planning for optimum helath tomorrow requires a good understanding of the body's needs on the part of every individual. Chiropractic today realizes that optimum results will be obtained by a combination of chiropractic applications along with an educated patient approach. For the information and insight that will help you enjoy a healthier tomorrow, call DR. DAVID G. RUTMAN, CHIROPRACTOR, 4593 Washington St., Roslindale. Tel. 323-5022. Hours by appt. including 3 eves. a week. VISA & MasterCard accepted.

CHIRO TIP:

Excessive alcohol intake can also lead to elevated triglyceride levels.

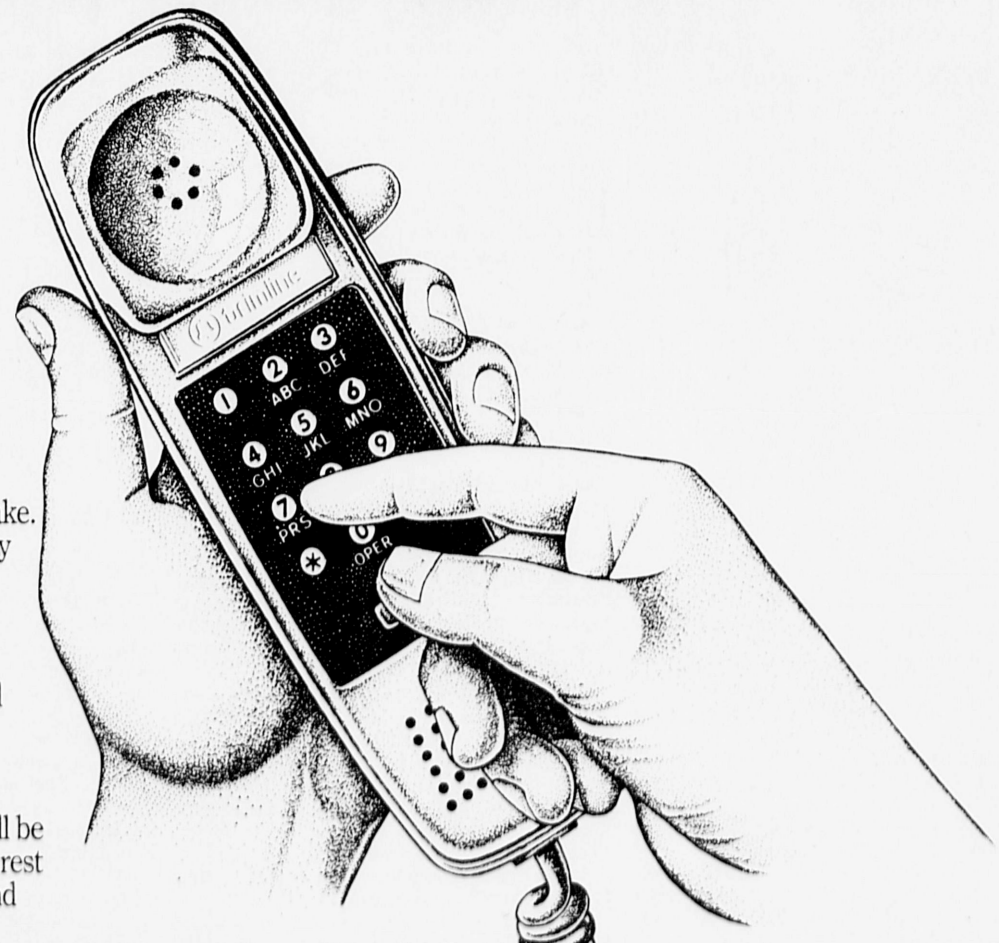
As of January 1, to get service or phones call your Telephone Business Office.



It's the first call you should make.
And in some cases, it's the only call you'll need to make.

How do you get service?

The best way to arrange telephone service is to call your local Telephone Business Office. Why? Because we're going to eliminate all our PhoneCenter Stores on January first (some will be going to American Bell, and the rest will be converted to New England Telephone Service Centers).

So, making that one phone call to your Telephone Business Office is all you need to do.

And it's very easy to do. You'll find the number on the first page of your phone bill, or listed in your telephone directory.

How do you get telephones?

New England Telephone is still providing phones, subject to availability. But we don't have PhoneCenter Stores any more. So how do you get phones from us?

Simple. Just call your Telephone Business Office. The Service Representative there will handle all arrangements and tell you how and where you can pick up your telephones. Or, if you prefer, have them delivered to your home or business.

What's next?

This is one of several changes that have resulted from a ruling of the Federal Communications Commission, which affects how you'll get service or telephone equipment from New England Telephone.

But despite these changes, New England Telephone will still be your local phone company.

We'll be here, working harder than ever to see you through the coming changes. And doing our best to see that you barely notice any change at all.

But to do our job right, we need to stay in touch with you. So let's talk. If you have questions, call us on our "Let's Talk" line 1 800 555-5000. We've got the answers.

Let's talk

Adele Smith-Penniman ordained into ministry

NEWTON CENTRE — Adele Smith-Penniman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Smith of Newton Centre, was recently ordained to the Unitarian Universalist ministry. The service was conduced on Dec. 12 at the First Parish Church in Fitchburg.

A candidate for ordination in the Unitarian Universalist Association must have completed three years of study in theology, and receive approval from the national association and a local congregation.

At a recent interview, Ms. Smith-Penniman recalled some of the experiences that led her to choose the ministry. "My concept of a church," she said, "is a community where people raise faith questions and develop ways to translate faith into response."

Smith-Penniman brings to the ministry more than 10 years of professional experience in education and psychology. A graduate of the Newton Public Schools and Bennington College in Vermont, she holds a master of arts degree in psychology from Columbia University. While in New York, she taught and counseled young people.

She entered the seminary in 1979 and received her masters of divinity degree with honors from Harvard University.

While at Harvard, she worked for the Worcester Pastoral Counseling Center. Following graduation, she became a clinician at the Worcester Area Community Mental Health Center.

She served her ministerial internship at the Church of the Covenant in Boston. She has been a staff member of the Black Ecumenical Commission, a statewide organization, and president of the New England Black Women in Ministry program.

She also served three years on the National Council of Churches Commission on Women in Ministry.

Ms. Smith-Penniman will be seeking a parish position and combining ministerial duties with pastoral counseling and social outreach efforts.

Currently she teaches part-time at Mount Wachusett Community College in Gardner. She lives in Ashburnham with her husband, Keith Penniman, and their two daughters, Leah and Sarah.

Multi-Service Center selected for $500 grant

NEWTON CENTRE — The Newton-Wellesley-Weston-Needham Multi-Service Center has been selected as one of 40 agencies across the United States to receive a $500 grant to conduct a special holiday youth project. The Multi-Service Center is a non-profit agency that provides services to runaway and homeless youth.

The grant will support the Emergency Housing Program at the Multi-Service Center. The grants are the first to be awarded by the newly-formed National Fund for Runaway Children, which is based in Washington, D.C.

"This special grant will help us greatly in beginning a therapeutic activities program for kids who are in residence at the Multi-Service Center," said Executive Director Lowell Haynes.

The National Fund for Runaway Children began operations in September, 1982, following an article on runaways in Parade Magazine, entitled, "Who Will Help the Children?"

The National Fund is administered by Act Together, a national, non-profit agency that promotes comprehensive services to "high-risk," troubled youth. The National Fund activities to date have been staffed by volunteers who are responding to the massive national outcry of concerned citizens who want to help runaway and homeless children.

"These $500 grants are the result of donations from people concerned about these children. They come from the $2 allowance of a 9-year old whose brother can't be found, and from a 92-year old who wants his $10 to make a differnece," said Joyce Strom, Act Together's Executive Director. "These people, and thousands like them across the country, responded so quickly to our appeal to help these children that we wanted to respond in kind. We turned this initial activity around in 2½ months and are getting the money back out to communities across America. During this holiday season, when we think of families and homes, we hope these grants will help these children who have neither. The National Fund is proud to award this grant to the Multi-Service Center, and we encourage the people in your area to support them."

Bobby Mitchell, Assistant General Manager of the Washington Redskins and a former all-pro standout for the Redskins in the National Football League, chose the grant winners through a random drawing from requests sent in by runaway projects in 46 states and the District of Columbia, after an initial careful screening of the requests by the National Fund.

The National Fund works cooperatively with representatives from the Youth Development Bureau of the Department of Health and Human Services, the National Youth Work Alliance, and the National Network for Runaway and Youth Services.

Library lists free films for kids

NEWTON — During January, seven films for children will be screened at the Newton Free Library's Main Junior Library and at the West Newton Branch Library.

The films which will be shown include "Goliath II" and "Zookeepers" on Tuesday, Jan. 4 at 2:30 at the Main Junior Library (around the corner from the Main Library) and Wednesday, Jan. 6 at 3:30 at West Newton, 492 Waltham St.

On Tuesday, Jan. 11 at 2:30 at the Main Junior Library and Wednesday, Jan. 12 at 3:30 at West Newton, a half-hour film, "Seal Island" will be screened.

Three short films, "Kelly", "The Juggling Movie," and "The Meadows Green" will be shown Tuesday, Jan. 18 at 2:30 at the Main Junior Library and Wednesday, Jan. 19 at 3:30 at West Newton Branch.

An exciting adventure story, "Avalanche" will be screened on Tuesday, Jan. 25 at 2:30 at the Main Junior Library and Wednesday, Jan. 26 at 3:30 at West Newton Branch. "Avalanche" is an hour-long film about a group of children who are spending their holidays skiing in the Alps.

Two boys violate the safety rules and decide to climb the mountain alone. As they climb, an avalanche alert is posted. Fortunately, the other children and their guide realize the boys are missing and set out to find them.

The Newton Free Library offers numerous pre-school and school-age story hours as well as films.

Pre-registration is required for all children's program except films. The minimum age for pre-school storytime is 3 1/2. For more information call 552-7157 or the Branch where the program is scheduled.

Newton Health Dept. kicks off the New Year with 'no-smoking' clinic

NEWTON — The Newton Health Department is kicking off the New Year with a special eight hour "Stop Smoking Clinic" sanctioned by both the Lung Association and the American Cancer Society.

The program will be held on the following four days: Jan. 17, 20, 24 and 27, from 7-9 p.m. in the auditorium of the Newton Community Service Center, 492 Waltham Street, West Newton. A nominal fee of $10 will be charged for materials and refreshments.

The goals of the program are twofold: identifying reason for smoking and learning appropriate techniques for quitting. To realize these goals, trained staff members of the department will lead participants through a series of activities and group discussions.

Through the program, emphasis is placed on sharing experiences and mutual support to help participants get through the difficulty of breaking a bad habit. The group wil also focus on living without cigarettes.

Statistics show that 50 percent of successful quitters have done it cold turkey, while the other 50 percent do it gradually. The first 48 hours are often the most critical and the time when support, particularly from peers, is needed. A Stop-Smoking group can help a quitter get through this period.

Many people decide not to quit because they feel it is too late - the damage has been done; yet unless irreversible disease has begun, stopping smoking begins to pay immediate health benefits. One's senses of taste and smell become more acute. After a year, there is an important drop in the risk of heart attack, and after 10 years, lungs can return to almost a pre-smoking condition.

Join the 30,000,000 other Americans who have quit smoking. For information and to register for the Stop Smoking Clinic, call the Health Department at 552-7058.

GREECE
Not only are more Americans visiting Greece and staying longer, but they are going in the spring and especially the fall rather than the high summer season. The weather is still great and the crowds are smaller. Many travelers enjoy the quiet of the more remote of Greece's 1400 islands. The archeological wonders of Athens are certainly not to be missed and the nearby sites of Epidaurus, Delphi, Mycenae and Corinth offer day trips to more ruins. Week-long cruises in Greek waters are also popular. Itineraries include the Greek islands and ports in Turkey, Israel and Egypt. Greece offers a good value in cultural heritage and dazzling beauty.
At FLEMING WORLD TRAVEL & TOURS, 15 Crescent St., Waltham we can offer you superior, professional service in all aspects of travel. Our experienced staff is trained in domestic and international travel so whether your next trip will take you to Greece or somewhere closer to home call on us. Trustees study City Hall site for new library

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The Newton Library Trustees want to sell the city's 12 branch libraries and issue a bond to make their dream of a new 70,000 square foot central library a reality, says trustee Michael Lipof.

"The branch libraries in commercial neighborhoods could be sold and they will not only yield cash but ongoing tax revenue," said Lipof.

A preliminary study has begun to determine construction costs for a new main library to be located across from city hall at Homer and Walnut Streets to replace the aging Newton Corner facitliy, according to library director Virginia Tashjian.

"A rough cost estimate for a new 70,000 square foot library would be around $7 million," said Lipof Monday.

Lipof points to the city's small $12 million debt in relation to its legal borrowing capacity of nearly $80 million as justification for issuing a bond to finance a new building.

"The mayor has done a fine job in keeping the debt down, but there comes a time when decisions have to be made for the cultural benefit of the community," said Lipof.

Lipof favors floating a bond issue on the city's high credit rating.

"It's unfair to shut off one section of the city in favor of another, said chairman of the Administration and Planning Committee Robert Tennant. Branch libraries are convenient for people who don't have any cars, he added.

Left in the air are plans to renovate the Warren Junior High School as the new main library. The aldermnaic Administration and Finance Committee decided not to act on a feasibility study concerning the school as a new main library, because of the trustees' solid opposition, according to Tennant.

"We are unaminous about a completely new building and it's about time the city pursues the idea of a new building," said Lipof.

According to Tennant, his committee is looking into the matter of who has the authority to accept or reject a building — the aldermen or the trustees.

"Do the trustees have the authority to refuse or accept a building, what is their authority in regard to site selection and building design?" Tennant asks of City Solicitor Daniel Funk.

"Warren Junior High is the only answer they're (the trustees) going to get for the next 10 or 12 years," said Tennant. "It's a solid building and I think it's a good idea to control its ownership in case 25 years down the road the number of school age children increase."

According to Tennant, the trustees plan to spend $2,500 for a study of the Homer and Walnut Street location to "convince the committee it's the best site."

Tennant believes the Homer and Walnut Street location is a better spot for a City Hall annex should the need arise in the future.

"Newton probably has one of the best socio-economic levels in the state and a great library director, but we just don't have the physical plant to operate from," said Lipof.

News about 2 in military

NEWTON — Marine Lance Cpl. Joseph Panaggio of Melbourne Avenue, Newtonville, is serving as a member of the international peacekeeping force in Lebanon.

Panaggio is a member of the Battalion Landing Team 3/8, 24th Marine Amphibious Unit out of Camp Lejeune, N.C.

Traffic through Chestnut Hill raises concern

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Residents and officials pointed last week to a closed bridge between Brookline and Newton as the cause behind heavy traffic flowing through Chestnut Hill neighborhoods.

Reservoir Road bridge, which crosses the MBTA tracks on the Brookline/Newton/Boston line, was declared unsafe by the Department of Public Works in 1974 and subsequently residents of Brookline had the road closed permanently because of traffic woes on their streets, says Brookline Asistant Town Engineer Jack Harris.

"Whether there could be any successful legal action to get the bridge reopened is unknown, but if were reopened it would certainly relieve some of the traffic pressure in the area," said Alderman Verne Vance on Wednesday.

Art Ridge of the DPW, district 8, said the Reservoir Road bridge was closed on May 28, 1974, because it was in poor condition and would not support the minimum load requirement of six tons. He said no cost estimates are available to get the bridge back into shape.

A Dec. 7 report of the Newton Traffic Commission said the Reservoir Road bridge is the reason Beacon Street east of Hammond Street and Hammond Street south of Beacon Street was declared an Urban Systems Project eligible for state and federal funds.

"However, the project is a result of the closing of the Reservoir Road bridge on May 28, 1974 at the Brookline/Newton/ Boston line," says the report.

As a result, says the report, traffic previously using the Reservoir Road bridge now must use Beacon and Hammond Streets.

State Senator Jack Backman (D-Newton/Brookline) said he does not believe the closing of the Reservoir Road bridge is that significant to the traffic probelms.

"The bridge really isn't that big and if it were reopened much of the traffic would end up on Hammond Street," said Backman, adding that he felt a study of the area is needed.

Ever since 1977, Newton has been designating various traffic restrictions in the area in an effort to curb commuter's attempt to cut through residential streets in the area, according to the report.

Both Beacon and Hammond Street (south of Beacon Street) are burdened with nearly 20,000 cars each day, according to the Traffic Commission report.

Part of the comprehensive recomendations by the city traffic engineer, Dave Tannozzini, include making College Road a two way street to relieve traffic.

Boston College says it would be opposed to making College Road a two way street, because of the more than 1,600 students who have to cross the road each day, says Student Affairs Vice President Dr. Kevin Duffy.

"To make it (College Road) a two way street would be a severe pedestrian hazard," said Duffy on Wednesday.

Duffy points to the Reservoir Road bridge as a cause of the problem and thinks everyone involved in the traffic headache should sit down and come up with an agreeable solution.

City Engineer Paul Guinta believes the Reservoir Road Bridge "started the whole thing" as well.

"The closing of the Reservoir Road Bridge started the whole thing and it diverted a lot of traffic to Newton," said Guinta Wednesday.

A meeting last week of the Newton Traffic Commission, although it was not a public hearing, attracted nearly 100 residents who voiced many different viewpoints on the traffic problem, said Guinta.

Children in the Newton Headstart program, based in the Unitarian Church in West Newton Square, waited anxiously for a recent visit by Santa Claus.

Santa (played by Bob Hugley) brought a present and a smile to this youngster in Headstart as teacher Jody Shrier, dressed as an elf, helped out.

Newton South grapplers suffer a key loss

NEWTON — The Newton South wrestling team has yet to face anyne on the mat in anger, but it has already suffered a crippling blow.

Coach Charlie Hurwitz is faced with the prospect of starting the season without one of the best heavyweight wrestlers in the state. Bob Baker, who went into the state meet a season ago, suffered an injury in a preseason match. It is not known at this time how long Baker will be out of action.

"Losing Bobby right now just means the rest of the team will have work that much harder," said Hurwitz, who has been associated with the wrestling program for 15 seasons. "He is a top flight heavyweight and those a rare. We do have a solid corps of wrestlers and hopefully we won't have to depend on the heavyweight match for the win.

"We have one of the toughest schedules around," said Hurwitz. "The schools in our area have excellent wrestling programs. We had a good season last year and we hope to build on that."

The Lions were 10-5 last season with nine wrestlers back. Newton South is solid through the middle of the lineup with experienced wrestlers. They can also move a few people around. The team's overall flexibility should help it in the tighter matches.

Newton South opens the season Thursday afternoon with a tri-meet at Catholic Memorial. The Lions will be going against CM and Natick.

The battle for the starting slot at 100 pounds has been a close one. Three wrestlers have a shot going into the final week before the first match. Alan Mirski and Steve Bennett will wrestle-off for the starting job. John Cullen is also fighting for it. All three are new to the varsity scene, but Mirski is an experienced junior varsity wrestler.

Bob Bennett, Steve's older brother, is secure at 107. He became a starter late last season and finished strong with three straight pins. He is a junior and solid. Mark Colling owns the 114-pound class. As a sophomore, Collin finished second in the sectionals at 121. He is moving down a weight class because of a glut of good wrestlers around the 121-weight class.

Tri-capt. Steve Arduino wrestled was fifth in the district a year ago at 107, but he is making the jump to 121. Arduino is experienced and he has increased his strength for the added weight.

John Rosenson showed last season what type of wrestler he was. Rosenson got off to a 6-1 start before he injured himself. He is fully recovered this season and plans to hold down the 128-pound post.

The Lions have three wrestlers locked in a battle for 134. John Lombardo, Mike Lombardo (no relation) and Jamie Klingsberg all have a shot at the starting job. John Lombardo has junior varsity experience, but Mike Lombardo and Klingsberg are pushing hard.

The next three weight classes may be the strength of the Lion team. Rob Shone, who wrestled well at 147 last season, will move down to 140. A strong Mike Newmark has come into his own at 147. Chris Kiah will handle the duties at 157. All three are seasoned performers and should backbone the team.

The Lions have an opening at 169. Tom Bryant and Charlie Smith are new to wrestling and they will be vying for the starting post. The loss of Baker may force 187-pounder Mike Welch to move up to heavyweight. John Linder would move into 187 if Welch should be forced to move up.

"A lot depends on the situation," said Hurwitz. "In the past, we haven't had too many matches decided at heavyweight. We have to hope our luck holds out."

WALTHAM — A poor-shooting fourth period was the major contributing factor in the Waltham High girls' basketball team's 61-51 loss to Medford Thursday night in a non-league contest at the Dr. Cohn Gym.

The Hawks were held to just eight points in the final period, while the Mustangs poured in 20 points to capture the win. Waltham entered the fourth period holding a slim 44-41 lead. Pam Gealey led the Medford attack in the fourth period and she finished with a game high 19 points.

Guard Jeane Gately led all Waltham scorers with 13 points. Gately did a solid job of controlling the Hawk offense. Inside, center Sue Giangrande paced the offense with eight points. Waltham was victimized by a cold-shooting fourth quarter, while Medford got the hot hand.

Medford grabbed the early lead by outscoring Waltham, 18-12, in the first quarter. The Hawks came back with 16 points in each the second and third quarters to gain the lead. The loss dropped Waltham's record to 1-1 on the season.

Newton South couldn't overcome a poor first-half performance in a 61-34 loss to Lincoln-Sudbury. The Lions fell behind, 32-12, at the end of the first half and never seriously threatened the lead in the second half.

Katrina Antonellis paced the Lion offense with a 12-point effort.

Co-captains Beth Kelley and Kathy Maguire teamed up for 42 points Thursday night, but it was not enough for the Newton North girls' basketball team, as second half mistakes led to a 55-51 loss at Haverhill.

The Tigers led 24-14 at halftime mainly because "we took good shots and played good defense," according to Newton North Coach Allyson Toney.

The story changed dramatically after the halftime intermission, though. The Tigers missed their first couple of shots, and Haverhill scored on each of the ensuing possessions to narrow the gap. After that, Toney said, the Tigers' inexperience began to show.

"We only had two players on the floor with varsity experience (Kelley and Maguire)," she said, "and the inexperience led to a little panic after those quick baskets."

Toney said her troops starting taking shots that "weren't in their range," began turning the ball over too much and starting committing unnecessary fouls.

As a result, Haverhill rebounded from their 14-points first half showing to a resounding 41-point second half effort to ensure the victory.

In addition to her 23 points, Kelley also picked up over 20 rebounds, while Maguire, a junior guard added 19 points in the losing effort.

The loss evens the Tigers' record at 1-1, with their next game coming Monday at Wayland. They will not open their Suburban League season until Jan. 4.

South hoopsters wallop Wayland

NEWTON — It's only the second league game of the season, but the Newton South boys' basketball team sent a message reverberating throught the Dual County League Tuesday afternoon.

The Lions dismantled perennial league power Wayland, 81-58, at the Newton South High Gym. Newton South shot out to a 22-11 lead after the first period and never lost the lead or control of the game the rest of the way.

Crafty guard Meatchie Russell led the way for the Lions by scoring of his team-high 17 points in the first quarter. Russell dazzled spectators and foes with a combination of driving layups and outside shooting.

While Russell put points on the board, Newton South premier center Scott Anglin made sure Wayland wasn't putting any on the board. The 6-4 Anglin blocked six shots in the first half alone and he pulled down seven rebounds.

Anglin's inside intimidation forced the Warriors to an outside attack, which wasn't too successful. Wayland's top shooter guard Daryl Hilliard hit just one of 19 shots for the game finishing with four points. The Lions took advantage of the Wayland misses by running a disciplined fast break.

Things slowed in the second period for the Lions as Russell was forced to sit with three fouls. Tracy Hairston continued to do a good defensive job on Hilliard and the Lions held a 36-23 advantage at the half.

The Lions cemented the issue in the third quarter by scoring 29 points. Russell returned to run the offense and he led the Lions to a 49-29 lead with five minutes to play. Anglin blocked two more shots before he sat down with a total of 12 points, 13 rebounds and eight blocked shots.

Hairston finished the contest with 11 points. Swingman Mike Oglesby carried the offense for the Lions in the second half and he finished the game with 15 points. Wayland's top scorer was forward Bob Airazian, who led everybody with 22 points.

Mark McHugh scored four points in overtime to lift Watertown to a 56-54 triumph over Stoneham in a Middlesex league contest at Stoneham. The Red Raiders scored six points in the overtime with McHugh getting a bucket and sinking pair of freethrows.

Stoneham tied the game on two free throws by Mark Speffarfino with seven seconds left. Stoneham had a chance to win the game when Watertown was hit with a technical foul for calling timeout when it was out of timeouts. The free throw was missed and the game went into the extra session.

Backcourter McHugh controlled the overtime to give Watertown the win. The sophomore finished the game with 12 points and five steals. His backcourtmate Ari Davidian led the team in scoring with 21 points. He was 10 of 16 from the floor. Forward Mark Fierri held Stoneham in check up front with 11 points and 12 rebounds.

In Weston last night, the Wildcats had a three-point halftime lead, but Lincoln-Sudbury came roaring back with the first 11 points of the second half en route to a 52-41 victory.

Weston had scored the final seven points of the first half to go into the locker room with a 23-19 lead, but in the third quarter managed only four points, as turnovers and a stalled offensive attack spelled their doom.

Mike Morris, with 12 points was Weston's only player in double figures, while Jack Cort added eight.

The Wildcats are still looking for their first Dual County League victory, against a pair of losses. Overall, they are 1-2. On Thursday, they will try to change that as they travel to Acton-Boxboro.

Newton South girl hoopsters in romp

SOMERVILLE — The Waltham girls' basketball team started the season by going to a foreign gym and coming away with a scrappy 33-30 opening-game victory over Somerville Tuesday afternoon in a non-league contest.

The Hawks got a basket by junior center Sue Giangrande with 45 seconds left to cement the victory. Waltham busted out to a 14-6 lead after one period and was never headed.

Somerville hung close and came to within two points with a minute to go. Maria Orlando hit a free throw to put the Hawks up by three and Giangrande sunk a driving layup to insure the triumph.

Giangrande was the game's high scoer with 13 points and she also grabbed 12 rebonds. Guard Jeane Gately chipped in with six points and six steals for the Hawks. Orlando finished with eight points for the winners. Waltham will host Medford Thursday at 5 p.m.

Newton South parlayed 37 points from the combination of Katrina Antonellis and Cecilia Wilcox with some tough man-to-man defense, as they trounced host Wayland, 63-36, Tuesday afternoon for their first victory of the young season.

After going into halftime with a modest, 22-12, lead, the Lions exploded after intermission, scoring 41 points in the second half. "Our offense just clicked in the second half," Lions Coach Sue Bradbury said.

She also cited the fact that the Lions' depth enabled her to go to the bench enough to keep up the constant defensive pressure.

Bradbury also praised the reounding efforts of forward Erica Cushna, who, along with the 5-9 Antonellis and the 5-8 Wilcox, used their height to great advantage.

Both Antonellis, who finished with 19 points, and Wilcox, who tallied 18, spread their points evenly throughout the one-sided contest.

Tigers hang on to beat Walpole

NEWTON — The Newton North boys' basketball team picked up a few more believers Monday night by hanging on to beat Walpole, 58-56, at the Reggie Smith Gym in a non-league game.

The Tigers own a victory over Walpole in the first game of the season. North proved it was no fluke by breaking the Walpole press and hitting key free throws down the stretch to gain its second win of the season. North is 2-0 on the season and it will face cross-town rival Newton South Thursday night, 7:30 at South.

"The players are working at it very hard," said Newton North coach Jerry Phillips. "They all want to be out there and it shows in our play. We force our opponents by pressing and trapping. We've got a lot of people that want to play and we're trying to take advantage of it."

Newton North is stocked with forwards to press to opposition's frontcourt. Phillips consistently switched John Coppola, Eric Fortune, sophomore Greg Lee, Deane Morreale and Jim Berrigan up front. These fresh troops were able to control the backboards and get the ball out on the break.

Guards John Humphrey and Marco Coppola did the rest. Humphrey was the game's leading scorer with 19 points. Coppola, meanwhile, sank two free throws with six seconds left to insure the hard-fought Newton victory. The senior played a controlled contest and he finished with 17 points.

Newton North was rolling along in the fourth quarter gaining a 54-46 advantage on a coast-to-coast driveby Humphrey at the 4:20. The Tigers would score just four points the rest of the way as the Rebels rattled off a 10-2 run.

"We just got out of our successful patterns," said Phillips. "The momentum definitely shifted to Walpole and we had to struggle to hang on. Our players came up with some big plays on defense to hold the lead. This team is a hard working, enthusiastic group and they stuck with it."

Walpole's streak was piloted by swingman Mark Langmead. The senior got the hot hand in the fourth period and he scored 10 of his 12 points in the period on a variety of soft outside jumpers. The North offense was sputtering and Walpole cut the deficit to 56-52 on a pair of Langmead jumpers.

North's lone field goal in the final four minutes was a pretty jumper from the top of the key by Humphrey. Ennio Manto played well on defense at forward for North, but he and Deane Morreale missed on offensive end for Newton.

Walpole point guard Peter Brown hit two free throws with 1:06 to play to bring it to 56-54. Fortune went to the line for North when he was followed on an offensive rebound. He missed the first free throw and didn't get a chance to get the second one off when both Mark Coppola and Walpole's Scott Collins were called for a double-lane violation.

It was a jump ball and Coppola won the tap to Mark Coppola, who was then called for traveling. Coppola atoned for his error on the defensive end by tying up the ball for a jump, which he won. The Tigers came down and with 16 seconds to go Morreale was fouled. He went to the line and missed the front end of a one-and-one shooting opportunity. Walpole got the rebound, but Coppola stole the ball at midcourt with eight seconds to play. He was fouled and sank the free throws to ice the contest.

John Coppola finished with eight tough inside points for the Tigers. Walpole had four players in double figures. Collins paced the team with 16 points, while Alan Fish dropped in 12 for the Rebels. Pete Brown had 14 from the guard spot, including a pair of three-point plays in the third quarter. Langmead had 12 points.

Lion hoopsters blast Lincoln

NEWTON — The Newton South boys' basketball team has been making a habit of starting garbage time earlier and earlier. This of-course is great for the Lion second unit, which has been playing more than the first unit recently.

South's lastest instant trash act was a 76-47 dismantling of Dual County League rival Lincoln-Sudbury Thursday night at the Newton South gym. The win improves newton South's record to 2-0 in the league and 3-0 overall.

It didn't take the Lions very long to gain an immediate advantage over the dazed Warriors. Behind the exploits of basketball heavies Scott Anglin and Meatchie Russell, Newton South rolled out to a 12-4 lead midway through the first period. The Lions extended the lead to 29-4 at the end of the premier stanza holding Lincoln scoreless for the final six minutes of the period.

The starting unit came out for most of the rest of the game, but Newton's reserves held the lead and built it to as high as 70-35 in the fourth quarter. The first team set the pace, however, with an offensive explosion in the opening frame.

Russell was a thorn in Lincoln's side on both ends of the court. He had five steals, five assists and seven points in the first period alone. Russell finished the contest with 13 points, 10 steals and 10 assists in under 12 minutes. His ballhandling on offense and defensive ball hawking couldn't be controlled by Lincoln.

Enter, Scott Anglin the team's big man. The 6-3 Anglin was a force underneath as usual. He led the game in scoring with 22 points. Anglin popped in 11 of those in the first period. He also pulled down nine rebounds on the game.

Senior Gene Lindsey netted 11 points for the Lions. Drew Chase paced the Lincoln offense with 14 points, while teammate Craig Carter had 10 points. The Lions will host Newton North Thursday night.

The summary:

NEWTON SOUTH(76)-Scott Anglin 8-6-22; Russell 4-5-13; Lindsey 3-5-11; Hairston 3-2-8; Ogelsby 3-1-7; Sullivan 3-0-6; Kushner 2-1-5; Gaines 2-0-4; Johnson 0-0-0; Steve Anglin 0-0-0. Tot. 28-20-76

North skaters learn lesson in loss

BOSTON — If you look at it in the short term, the Newton North hockey team lost a game, but if you sit back and examine it in the long run, the Tigers gained a valuable lesson.

Newton North was defeated by a strong Boston College High team, 4-2, Thursday night at the UMass Boston Arena in a non-league fray. A Catholic Conference team, BC High is a well-oiled hockey machine. The Tigers played a 2-2 game with the Eaglets until the final three and a half minutes of the contest.

It was at the 11:39 mark of the third period when BC High's Tom Benson scored to break the tie. Joe Doyle added the insurance goal just 1:19 later for the winners.

"I just think the team got a little tired at the end," said Newton North coach Don Crowley, who saw his team suffer its first loss of the season after two victories. "They came out hitting us and it was a good clean brand of hockey. We stayed with them for most of the game, but we made crucial errors in the late going and they took advantage of them.

"This game will no doubt help us down the road," said Crowley. "It was a valuable experience for the team to play a team like this. The players will realize what kind of shape they have to be in to take the physical pounding."

The Tigers trailed, 1-0, going into the second period. Newton North played its best hockey of the game in the middle frame. North picked up a pair of goals in the first 12 minutes to grab the lead. It was short-lived, however. BC High's Doyle scored just 41 seconds to gain the equalizer.

"We played strongly in the second period," said Crowley. "They were just so well conditioned and kept dishing out the hard contact. We tried to hang on in the third period and we almost did it."

Newton North goalie Steve MacKay played well in the goal stopping 30 shots. In just his third varsity start, MacKay shows signs of being a quality netminder. "I guess every goal results from a mistake," said Crowley. "The two goals scored in the third periods were caused by mistakes we made in our end of the ice. BC High was good enough to take advantage of them."

Newton North will start Suburban League play Wednesday at Quincy.

Hockey captain asks fans' support

To The Sports Editor:

As a member of the Newton North hockey team, I am asking the student body for support on behalf of our team.

We had our opening game on December 15, at the Watertown Skating Arena. As I skated onto the ice and looked up at the stands, I counted 23 adults and 10 kids.

If one half of those adults were from the other team's town, you can see the support our team was getting.

During the last period, the cheerleaders for the next game were hanging banners all over the rink and the stands were beginning to fill with fans. I think you can understand how we felt.

We all work very hard, from our coaches, to our third-string goalie in order to give our school and the City of Newton a team we can be proud of.

So come on Newton North, we need your support!

Melrose pins Newton North matmen

NEWTON — A series of tight losses proved to be Newton North's worst enemy in a 31-22 wrestling loss to Melrose Thursday night at Newton in a non-league encounter. The loss dropped Newton's record to 2-1-1 on the season.

The Tigers were also hurt by their inability to pin opponents. Melrose won four matches by pins, while Newton could manage just one win by pin. The Red Raiders won just five matches and tied two others, but the four pins provided the margin of victory.

Newton North's lone wrestler to pin was tri-capt. Leo Butera at 187. The senior pinned his opponent in the third round at 5:49. North's Jim Walker won his match at 169 by a 4-0 decision. Foster Lin was awarded the team's effort award for his 3-0 victory at 121. Mark Fabian was also a 5-0 decision winner at 107.

John Bresnahan tied at 140 as did teammate Steve Hartman at 147.

Lion icemen halted by 2nd period blitz

BRIGHTON — If hockey games were scored like boxing, with the winner of the most rounds emerging as the winner of the match, then the Newton South hockey team would have tied their 1982-83 lidlifter with Concord-Carlisle Monday afternoon, 1-1 with one round even.

On points, however, the Lions came out on the short end of a 10-5 score at the Cleveland Circle Rink as their Dual County League rivals erupted for six unanswered goals in the second period to break a 2-2 deadlock.

Things started out well for Newton, as John Jewett broke the ice only 18 seconds into the game, with an assist going to Willy Roesner.

John Hutchinson got the first of his pair for the Patriots at 2:05 to tie the score, but Mark Paglia put the Lions back on top (another assists to Roesner) at 5:06.

Newton's slim lead held up until the 10:07 mark when Concord's Dave Witherell scored the first of his pair (to go with four assists) to tie up the game. The Lions cause was aided by the fine play of senior goalie Rich Wenning, who stopped 10 shots in a fine first period.

The score stayed knotted only until 3:01 of the second stanza, when Patriot Charles Pessia put the visitors on top--for good--with the first of his two goals. Going into the final third of the middle period, the Lions were still in good shape, trailing only by two, 4-2. In a span of three minutes, however, the Patriots turned a tight contest into a rout, scoring four goals and assuming an 8-2 lead after two periods.

The Lions regrouped some in the final period, as Jewett, Paglia and freshman Alex Brigham sandwiched goals around a Patriot pair to make the final 10-5.

The Lions will try again for their first victory of the season on Thursday, when they take on powerful Acton-Boxboro at the Assabet Rink.

Newton PeeWee AA tips Lexington

NEWTON — Lance Connerney picked up two goals, including the game-winner in the third period, as the Newton PeeWee AA squad edged Lexington 3-2 Thursday night at the Fessenden School Rink.

After Lexington got the game's first goal four minutes into the contest, Connerney tied the game up at the nine minute mark, as he converted a pass by Fred Mitchell from the right wing.

Jay Cappello put the winners on top for the first time when he converted a Will Bachner pass at 4:22 of the second period. The lead did not last very long, however, as Lexington tied the score six minutes later after intercepting an errant clearing pass.

Connelly's game-winner was also the prettiest goal of the night, as linemate Peter Menges set him up as He was crossing the blue line and splitting the defense. Fred Mitchell also collected an assist on the play.

Playing a major role in the victory were goalies Charlie Goldman and Doug Michaels, both of whom have been outstanding all season, allowing only 44 goals in 22 games.

Newton wasn't as fortunate Wednesday night, as they dropped a tough 4-3 decison to Hyde Park at Fessenden. Will Bachner got a pair of Newton goals, one in the second period, unassisted, and another in the third period, with David Frechette getting the assist. Mike Dezotell picked up the third Newton goal, with goalie Goldman getting the assist.

The loss came in spite of some outstanding goaltending from Goldman, who stopped 31 shots, including 21 in the third period, when Newton concentrated on the offense.

Newton also played three time last week, tying two and winning the third. In a 9-1 victory over Malden, the line of Jay Cappello (three goals, two assists), David Frechette (three assists) and Will Bachner (four goals, one assist) led the way. The dynamic trio had help from defensemen Robbie Misasi, David O'Connor and Michael Olsen, who did an excellent job of clearing the defensive zone and feeding the forwards.

A third period goal by Mike Dezotell gave Newton a 1-1 tie with Woburn, and goals from Fred Mitchell and Peter Menges helped forge a 2-2 tie with Framingham.

The flurry of activity left the Newton PeeWee AAs with an overall record of 12-6-4, with their next action coming Monday afternoon, when they take on Watertown at the Watertown Arena.

Rec co-sponsors '21' event

NEWTON — The Newton Recreation Department is co-sponsoring one of several statewide "21" Basketball Tournaments to benefit the American Cancer Society.

The divisions for the competition are: Elementary (grades 5 and 6), Junior High (grades 7 and 8), High School (grades 9 and 10), High School (grades 11 and 12) and Open (beyond high school). There will be a male and a female winner in each division. There will also be a special Senior Adult division (age 60 and over).

All events will be played at Newton North High School from Dec. 28 to 30. The divisions for grades 5-12 will be played afternoons from 2 to 4:30 p.m. The adult divisions will be played evenings from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

The preliminary rounds of the tournaments will be played statewide until January 31. Between February 12 and March 15, quarterfinal rounds will be played. The semi-final rounds will take place between March 7 and March 11. For those who make it, the finals will be played during halftime of a Celtics game in Boston Garden on March 18. For further information call the recreation office at 552-7120.

Other sponsors include: the First National Bank of Boston; Spot-Bilt and Shoot Straight, Inc.

KGB victor in volleyball

NEWTON — Len Velichansky and Paul Austin scored 12 points apiece to lead KGB to a 15-1, 15-0, 15-3 drubbing of Barry Brothers Monday night in Newton Men's Volleyball League action at the Hawthorn Gym.

Scott Bolio paced Barry Brothers with seven points.

Also last night, ShortSets, behind Bob Procter's 17 points and 14 from Andreos Zahopoulos, topped Aronson Insurance 12-15, 15-4, 15-7. Peter mayer led the losers with seven.

In the final match of the night, LAG topped the Nets 13-15, 15-4, 16-4, led by Bill Fitzpatrick's 15 points.

Jim Gilreath added seven for the winners, while Randy Doherty paced the Nets with eight.

Elks Hoop Shoot highlights year

The Elks' National Free Throw contest, the "Elks Hoop Shoot," is the largest and most visible of the many youth activities sponsored by Elks lodges throughout the contry. Nearly three million boys and girls between the ages of 8-13 will participate this year.

The "Elks Hoop Shoot" has served to highlight the Elks national commitment to youth. But the program started originally as a local Elk activity in Corvallis, Oregon in the mid-1940's.

Out of that local program grew the national program, now in its 11th year. Each of the over 2,200 lodges was encouraged to establish its own local contest involving boys from ages 8-13. From the local area contestants would advance through district, state, regional, and national competitions.

From the millions of youngsters who participate, six champions are named – one boy and one girl – in each of three categories: ages 8-9; 10-11; and 12-13. The winners each receive a trophy and their names are inscribed at the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Massachusetts.

The "Elks Hoop Shoot" has been effective not only in developing champions but character as well. Educators and parents have endorsed the program. One parent wrote, "It teaches a person how to win in good grace and how to accept the moment of defeat without bitterness...."

Aerobic dance classes start Jan. 10

An aerobic dance exercise class for senior adults sponsored by the Newton Recreation Department, will begin Wednesday, Jan. 10, at 6 p.m., at Sacred Heart School Hall, Newton Centre.

The cost of the 10-week session is $20. Make checks payable to:

Newton Senior Adult Association, 70 Crescent St., Auburndale, Ma., 02166.

All-America honors for Newtonite DiMartino

Junior linebacker Eric DiMartino, who led the Ohio Wesleyan University football team in tackles for the second consecutive year, has received honorable mention on the 1982 Sports Information Director's Division III All-America Football Team. He is a former Newton North High School grid standout.

DiMartino, selected by a panel of 15 sports information directors across America, was also a 1982 first team All-Ohio Athletic Conference Blue Division selection and was voted by his teammates the Bishops' most valuable defensive player.

An economics major from Medford, the 5-11, 190-pound inside linebacker was in on 150 tackles, including eight quarterback sacks. Thirty-six of those stops were unassisted.

In the Bishops' 16-10 victory over Denison, DiMartino collected 19 tackles and an interception and was in on three stops which halted key Denision drives late in the game. Folowing the game, the 19-year head coach called DiMartino's effort "The most outstanding individual performance that I've known about as a head coach."

DiMartino led the team in tackles in eight of nine games and in 15 of the last 17 Bishop contests. He has twice been named Ohio Athletic Conference Defensive Player of the Week and received honorable mention on the 1981 All-OAC Team.

In 1981, DiMartino led Ohio Wesleyan with 109 tackles. As a freshman member of the Bishop baseball team, he was named Rookie of the Year after leading the squad with a .369 batting average.

The Newton North High School product also played football and baseball at Tabor Academy.

Our policy on weddings

NEWTON — The Newton Graphic welcomes wedding or engagement announcements when one or both of the partners are from Newton.

There is no charge.

Weddings, accompanied by a black and white photo of the bride or couple, should arrive within two months of the date of the ceremony in order to be considered for publication.

Wedding forms are available at the Newton Graphic office, 18 Pine Street, Waltham.

If you wish you can follow the format used in weddings and engagements published in the Graphic, including a brief background on both parties as well as parents' names.

Please include a telephone number of a person familiar with the wedding or engagement details in the event we have any questions.

Leisure times

Wednesday, Jan. 5 — Sweet and sour Salisbury steak, Delmonico potatoes, seasoned cabbage, pumpernickel bread, fruit gelatin with topping.

Thursday, Jan. 6 — Open-faced hot turkey sandwich with gravy, mashed potatoes, green beans, whole cranberry sauce, fresh fruit.

Friday, Jan. 7 — Macaroni and cheese, pea soup, tossed salad, oatmeal bread and chilled fruit.

Grandparents rooting for this tyke's success

NEWTON - Two sets of grandparents in Newton are rooting together for their granddaughter in a national talent search.

Hailee Joy Lampert, just pushing a year old, is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eric and Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Lampert, all of Newton.

Hailee placed first in the Local Preliminary American National Talent Search this month. Hailee will now compete in the Mid-American National Pageant in Cincinnati this month.

Representatives from leading companies which use child models, as well as from advertising agencies, are expected to look at the entries in Cincinnati.

The winners compete for top prize of $1000 scholarship bond, diamond rings, wardrobes and a complete portfolio.

Frank backs effort on loans

NEWTON — Congressman Barney Frank, D-Mass., last week applauded President Reagan's plan to begin soon to attach the wages of nearly 47,000 federal workers unless they repay almost $68 million in delinquent student loans.

The plan, announced eariler by Education Secretary Terrel. H. Bell and Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., calls for warning letters to be sent to current and retired federal employees and military personnel who hold almost 51,000 unpaid loans, advising them to pay off their loans or face having 15 percent of their salary withheld until the balances are paid in full.

"I'm pleased that the Administration is taking steps to recapture the defaulted student loans held by federal employees," Frank said in a press release.

Film due on cable tv

Newton Free Library's first cable television production "Between the pages" by Sarah Burrows airs Tuesday, Jan. 4 on Newton Cable, channel 3, at 7:30 p.m. in a program which highlights library activities, programs and exhibits.

Free film planned

Main branch of the Newton Free Library in Newton Corner hosts the free film "The Summer of my German Soldier" Wednesday, Jan. 5 at 7 p.m., 414 Centre Street. Public is invited.

Anti-war fundraising concert tonight

WEST NEWTON - A concert featuring folk music, as well as works by Mozart and Bach is slated for Wednesday, Dec. 29 in the Second Church of West Newton, with proceeds going to benefit the International Physicians for the Prevention of Nuclear War (IPPNW).

The concert will begin at 8 p.m.

Dr. Bernard Lown of Newton, president of IPPNW, which was organized in 1980, will be bring greetings from the worldwide movement at the start of the show.

Featured artists will include folk singer Ken Meltz of the Boston Paulist Center, and Ronald Knudsen, violinist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra and conductor of the Newton Symphony. The program, with all musicians volunteering their talents and time, is organized by Paulette Bowes, clarinetist, of the All Newton Music School in West Newton.

The beautiful Mozart quintet K. 581 will be performed by Meltz, accompanying himself on guitar. Meltz will also perform a number of folk and traditional peace songs.

In recognition of what Dr. Lown has called "The sprititual dimension of man," Professor William Holladay of Andover Newton Theological School will speak briefly for the religious community.

The concert will close with the chorus "Dona Nobis Pacem" from Bach's B minor Mass, performed by members of area choirs and led by David Carrier' Second Church Music director. A festive reception will follow the concert.

The church is located at 60 Highland Sstreet, just off Route 16 in West Newton. Call 969-5927 or 244-2690 for information.

Look before you reap.

There are many good ways to make your money work for you. And some not so good. So don't leap into anything without taking a long, hard look. Especially if you have no savings in reserve.

And if you don't have enough savings, look into U.S. Savings Bonds. Because Bonds do make sense.

They guarantee the interest. They're guaranteed against loss, fire, and theft. And the Payroll Savings Plan is a sure, easy way to guarantee savings. Federal income tax may be deferred and there's no state or local income tax.

A little is set aside each payday for U.S. Savings Bonds. Your savings will grow until you're ready to reap the rewards of regular saving.

Saving is one of the most important financial decisions you'll ever make.

If you complain about your health care plan, meet some people who don't.

"We found a terrific pediatrician through West Suburban. And now the cost of the kids' office visits doesn't come out of my husband's paycheck."
Betty Millen
Mother

"I chose them for cost. I saved $20 a week on premiums plus out-of-pocket expenses. I'll stay with them because they're convenient, courteous, and affiliated with an excellent hospital."
Anthony Ferolito
Fire Lieutenant

"It's a godsend. Paperwork used to drive me crazy, but now there's no paperwork or red tape. It's less expensive for me and my employees, and I've heard nothing but excellent comments. I've recommended West Suburban to many business owners."
Leonard Scafidi
Business Owner

Most health care plans inspire complaints, not praise. And paperwork for employers, out-of-pocket expenses for employees, delayed claims, and skyrocketing premiums give everyone plenty to complain about.
At West Suburban Health Care Plan, we've solved these problems and more. Whether you're in the doctor's office or in the hospital, you'll receive the highest quality health care available.
So if you've been complaining about your health care plan, remember West Suburban. We're the health care plan with the satisfied customers.

Newton newsmakers

NEWTON — Mel Weinberger of West Newton, a commercial and investment property broker, has joined the commercial division of R.M. Bradley and Co., Inc., according to John T. Fallon, chief executive officer of the Boston-based real estate firm.

Weinberger, who also has been active in condomimium development, previously was with Little and Co. and Data Realty Corp. He is a graduate of Babson College and Andover Academy.

Kenneth D. MacDonald of Chestnut Street, Waban, has been selected for inclusion in the upcoming 19th edition of "Who's Who in the East". This is a publication of individuals from Canada and the Eastern United States who have made significant contributions in their individuals fields.

MacDonald was selected to be among the business leaders, because of his involvement in local and national business activity. He is currently vice president of M.G.M.S. Associates, Inc., and executive vice president of M.B.S.C. Inc., both of Cambridge.

He also serves as national audio-visual chairman for the Appliance Parts Distributors Association and sits on the Manufacturer's Council to HUD.

Dr. Thomas Mangione of Chester St., Newton, has been named director of the UMass/Boston Center for Survey Research.

Since 1979, Dr. Mangione has served as associate director of the Center. He replaced Dr. Floyd J. Fowler, who will remain as a senior research fellow.

Dr. Mangione holds a B.A. from Claremont Men's College and an M.A. and Ph. D. from the University of Michigan. Before coming to the University in 1973, he served as assistant study director for the Center for Survey Research at Michigan. He has taught at Boston College as well as at UMass/Boston.

BayBank Middlesex has elected Felix M. Pilla Regional Advisory Board member for the Newton area, according to Giles E. Mosher, Jr., chairman of the board and president.

Pilla, president and chief executive officer of Newton-Wellesley Hospital, Newton Lower Falls, will serve as liaison between BayBank Middlesex and the region, monitoring special banking needs and business development opportunities prevailing within the Newton community.

A 1959 graduate of LaSalle College in Philadelphia, where he received a bachelor of science degree in business administration, Pilla also holds a master of science degree in hospital administration from Columbia University in New York. Additionally, he is a registered nurse.

Donald W. Putnoi, M.D., of Newton, has been elected chief of the Division of Ophthalmology in Waltham Hospital's Department of Surgery.

Board certified in ophthalmology and a fellow of the American College of Surgeons, Dr. Putnoi has been a member of the hospital's active medical staff since 1974. Also he is a member of the staffs of Newton-Wellesley, St. Elizabeth's, and Glover Memorial Hospitals, Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary, and Tufts New England Medical Center.

Dr. Putnoi is a member of the faculties of Tufts and Harvard Medical Schools.

L. Paul Melman of Newton has been honored as a recipient of the GTE Warner Award for Technical Achievement.

A member of technical staff at GTE Laboratories in Waltham, Dr. Melman contributed to the development of an optical fiber connector to improve optical communications by reducing light loss when aligning the hair-thin fibers.

He was one of 29 employees honored throughout GTE, whose significant technology contributions have helped GTE's businesses.

Dr. Daniel S. Cheever, superintendent of schools in Weston, is the newly appointed president of Wheelock College, Boston, to begin July, 1983.

The announcement of Wheelock's eighth president, a former Newton School administrator, was made by Sally Reeves Edmonds, chairman of the Board of Trustees.

Dr. Cheever has been school superintendent in Weston since 1978. Before that, he hald the superintendent position in Lincoln for five years. His background includes work at Education Development Center (EDC) in Newton, and a number of teaching and administrative positions in public schools in Massachusetts and other states.

Allene Lummis Russell of Chestnut Hill was elected to the Wellesley College Board of Trustees for a six-year term.

Russell is a trustee of Lesley College, a member of the Park School Corporation and has been a board member of both the Harvard Medical School Wives and of the Wellesley Alumnae Achievement Awards Committee, and has served as president of the Massachusetts General Hospital Language Clinic Alumnae Association.

Upon receiving her A.B. in mathematics from Wellesley in 1946, Russell pursued graduate work in education at Boston College and Boston State College and completed the program of education in therapy for specific reading disability at Massachusetts General Hospital. A former nursery teacher at St. John's School, Houston, Texas, she later was coordinator of volunteers of the Houston Civic Theater. She has tutored in the Watertown Public Schools, the Park School and is presently tutoring at the Rivers County Day School.

Robert J. Bowdring, employed by Cyborg Corporation of Newton, was recently elected to membership in the Boston Chapter of the National Association of Accountants.

The National Association of Accountants is the world's largest management accounting organization with over 90,000 members worldwide, affiliated with 340 local chapters. The Boston Chapter is the oldest of these, chartered in 1920, and is among the largest with approximately 900 members.

Milestone

With a symbolic buck in the background, Brandeis University National Women's Committee President Cynthia Shulman of Newton Centre presented a check to Brandeis President Marver Bernstein, bringing the organization's total contributions to the brandeis Libraries to $20 million since 1948. The National Women's Committee is now the largest friends-of-a-library movement in the world.

Arts in Parks brochure announces programs

NEWTON — If you are new to the area; trying to "learn how to play" with your two-year old; frantically trying to find a knitting teacher patient enough to teach you to make neat button-holes; hoping to learn to make a baby quilt for your new grandchild:

If you're still looking, the next place to look is the Arts in the Parks Winter Brochure. This will lead you to a roster of courses and events happening for the next few months.

Arts in the Parks, the Cultural Arts Division of the Newton Recreation Department, offers a full complement of adult crafts courses, morning and afternoon children's courses, and a variety of "happenings" such as a community concert band, whose weekly rehearsals culminate in a performance in Springfest; four trips to hear the Boston Symphony Orchestra preceeded by lecture/lunch at the All Newton Music School; announcement and description of a two week Festival of the Arts in Newton, scheduled for April 23-May 8.

To obtain more information on these exciting happenings, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to Arts in the Parks, Newton Recreation Department, 70 Crescent Street, Auburndale, 02166, or call 552-7120

3 free films slated

Free Library films Wednesday, Jan. 12 at 7 p.m. include: "Mind, body and spirit" on modern Chinese medical practice and how it relies on taditional skills; and "Something for everyone" about organization of communes in today's China. Also: "One Hundred Entertainments", focusing on the performing arts.

Newton's legislators urged disability probe

NEWTON — Governor Edward King has signed into law a resolve setting up a full-scale probe of the state's Disability Determinations Services (DSS).

The agency has been the target of hundreds of complaints by handicapped individuals who claim they were improperly denied benefits.

The call for an investigation was initiated by Sen. Jack H. Backman (D Brookline-Newton) and Rep. A. Joseph DeNucci (D - Newton), co-chairmen of the Legislature's Joint Committee on Human Services and Elderly Affairs.

According to Backman, "Based on our initial legislative hearing on the resolve, it appears that the state went overboard in terminating benefits for people who were genuinely disabled and unable to support themselves.

"Among those thrown off the rolls was a man who had four spinal operations, a severely brain-damaged sixteen year-old boy and a little girl who could barely breathe due to respiratory cystic fibrosis.

"We were told that DDS disqualified more than 40% of the recipients whose cases it reviewed last year," Backman said, "Yet, an administrative law judge testified that more than 70 percent of the agency's opinions which were appealed were overturned. We want to find out why these tragic mistakes occurred. More importantly, we will make recommendations so that similar injustices never take place again."

Under the proposal, which is now Chapter 11 of the Resolves of 1982, an eleven-member commission will conduct an investigation of "the quality and conduct of the Disability Determination Service of the Massachusetts Rehabilitation Commission." Sen. Backman and Rep. DeNucci will be members of the special investigating commission, along with the Secretary of Human Services, the Commissioner of the Department of Public Welfare, the Commissioner of the Massachusetts Rehabilitation Commission and six persons selected by the Governor.

The Resolve requires that the gubernatorial appointees include a legal services attorney who has worked with disability cases, and Administrative Law Judge with experience in hearing Social Security Disability appeals, a union member who works on social security disability cases, a representative of the federal Social Security Agency and two recipients of disability pensions.

Under an emergency preamble to the bill, added by Gov. King, the special commission will begin its work as soon as the gubernatorial appointees are named. To aid the investigation, the Mass. Rehabilitation Commission is required to give the commission complete access to all records, papers and files concerning disability cases. A final report must be filed by the end of May, 1983.

Youths booked after break in

NEWTON CORNER — A Newton boy was arrested and complaints will be sought against two other juveniles in connection with a break last week into the Hunnewell Market on Centre Street, police said.

Police said intruders gained entrance into the market, located at 441 Centre St., by breaking a door in the rear of the building.

Nothing was reported missing according to a police report.

About 4:30 a.m., a 16-year-old West Newton boy who was pushing a shopping cart was arrested in West Newton Square, police said.

This program is scheduled to run through the end of March.

Senior Adult Association: The Newton Senior Adult Association was organized to meet the recreational needs for all seniors in the city. Benefits to members are:

Swim Program: Swimming is an excellent form of exercising in adult life. The Newton Recreation Department, in cooperation with the School Department offers an on-going program on Fridays from 1 to 2 p.m. at Newton North High. Please use the Hull Street entrance to the facility. Instructors are Tim Cotter and Kathy Mullen with Recreation leaders Nancy Sullivan and Richard Dore. This program is free.

A 20-minute exercise program is followed by swim lessons for Beginners and Intermediates. Also, lap lanes are set up for anyone wishing to lap swim. According to one expert, swimming has by far the greatest long-term values of any exercise activity for both sexes of all ages.

Aerobics - A dance exercise program especially for senior adults. You learn a set of dances, one at a time, adding new ones when the old ones become familiar. First you learn and practice new steps, then put them together into combinations, which the instructor, Mary Harrington or Lynette Leka calls to the music, so that you can follow and enjoy exercising.

The first two dances are for warming up and stretching, followed by more strenuous "aerobic" dances, and finish with slow "cool down dances".

A new session will begin Monday and Wednesday, Jan. 10 from 11 a.m. to noon at the Hamilton Neighborhood Center, 541 Grove Street, Newton Lower Falls and Thursday and Thursday, Jan. 11 at the Newton Centre Hut, Tyler Terrace, Newton Centre from 11 a.m. to noon. Cost is $20 for a 10-week session. Unlimited attendance. Make checks payable to the Newton Senior Adult Association, 70 Crescent Street, Auburndale, MA 02166, Att: Judy Dore.

R.A.P. Retirees Athletic Program - The Retirees Athletic Program's purpose is to bring people together to participate in athletic activities. Warm up exercises, led by Sue King, followed by badminton or volleyball play. Classes are held at the Hamilton Neighborhood Center, 541 Grove Street, Newton Lower Falls.

Cookbook Project - The Senior Secrets Cookbook is now in its second printing. Senior Secrets II is just off the press. The project was started the Spring of 1981 when Judith Slamin visited the 5 senior housing developments and demonstrated her famous Coconut Pie. This sparked the idea that each senior wanted to share a recipe as well. Every recipe submitted is bonafide tried and true - except the Elephant Stew which was stolen from the recipe file of Harold Springham. Order your cookbook now. Limited quantity available.

Travel Club - Although the Newton Recreation Department does not sponsor the Senior Travel Club, it does announce that the club meets the 4th Tuesday of each month at the Newton Corner Drop-in Center, Lincoln-Eliot School, Pearl Street, Newton Corner. Don and Nickie will host a House Party for the Travel Club Wednesday, Feb. 9, Rowley. See Travel Club officers to reserve a place, Pauline Richards, Ann Rabbitt, Helen or John Curtis.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

CREATIVE HOME FINANCING

If you're in the market for a home of your own, you're probably in the market for a home loan, too. A conventional mortgage is usually the first kind that comes to mind, but other alternatives do exist.

These include • privately insured loans • GI-insured loans • FHA/HUD-insured loans • Farmers Home Administration loans • urban "homestead" loans • "house-to-house" loans • variable interest rate loans • graduated payment mortgages and • HUD's subsidized homeownership program.

To learn about these possibilities, talk to a member of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® before you start looking. REALTORS® are real estate professionals, and forms of financing are part of their expertise. They can tell you what's available in your community, and how you can qualify.

"High School Record-Setters," three paintings based on photos taken from The News Tribune of Waltham athletes, by Ralph Hamilton.

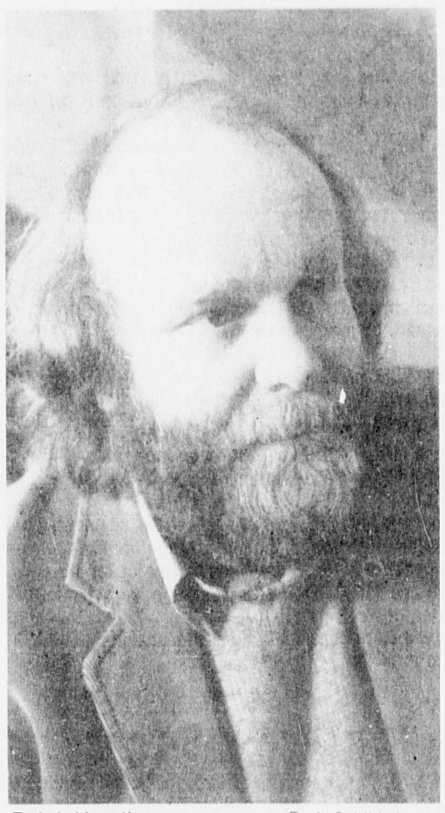
A brush with life



Ralph Hamilton Rudy Schild photo

By Catherine Enns
In Focus Editor

Ralph Hamilton is an artist, and that is all he is.

He isn't a waiter, too, so that he can pay the rent. He isn't a store clerk so that he can buy paints and canvas. He is an artist full time.

And he is making it.

He didn't choose an easy path. "You have to make concessions," said Hamilton, 36, who still lives with his parents on Chestnut Street in Newton. "I have not made concessions in my art, but I have had to in my life in order to do the art."

His singlemindedness really began back when he was a student at Newton South High School. "I started painting around that time and thought it was the thing for me," he said.

"The real test was on the day I graduated (from Massachusetts College of Art). I had to decide if I was going to paint or make a living. My career started that day."

That was 14 years ago. Now Hamilton counts his artistic triumphs. He is represented by one of Boston's most prestigious art galleries, Thomas Segal. One of his works on paper was purchased in September by the Museum of Fine Arts. He made his first international sale this year.

It has been, he said, "a steady incline."

"When I started out, New York was the place to be if you were going to make a name as an artist," the bearded Hamilton said. "Resisting that was very difficult. I thought if I went to New York, I would be lost. Now I can say with a bit of a smile, New York comes to me."

His studio, where he has gone daily since 1973, is at the Boston Center for the Arts. A painting of a group of kindergarten chairs he did in 1969 hangs on one wall. The focus of the painting is a chair away from the others.

"I realized it was a self-portrait, with that chair singled out," he said.

The painting is symbolic of Hamilton's progression, too. It shows the artist's obsession with the object. Now Hamilton, who is a figurative painter, blurs the subject so that it is almost a ghost on the canvas.

"It's a logical step," he said. "There was no waking up one morning and changing. I'm just as fanatical now."

Hamilton's earlier works were stylistic paintings of objects in which he intentionally left out elements. What he retained on canvas made the painting stronger, but more revealing.

Those holes in the painting eventually transformed themselves into blurred images — what Hamilton calls "the slipping of the paint."

Hamilton does the majority of his work from photographs, mostly out of newspapers. They are of people, disasters, sports events, anything that strikes him. Hamilton said friends are always sending him photos they think he might want to use. (His "Collapsing Fire Escape" was based on the Pulitzer Prize winning photos by Stanley Foreman of a woman falling to her death.)

He has used photos published in The News-Tribune. The painting "High School Record-Setters," a triptych of three smiling boys, was taken from Tribune pictures of Waltham High School athletes.

The painting acquired by the MFA, an oil on paper of two baseball players, is titled "Double Play #3."

It was from a series Hamilton did in 1978 that he thought would never sell. Cliff Ackley, curator of prints and drawings at the MFA, who had been following Hamilton's career since 1969, chose very carefully, Hamilton said. It wasn't until last summer that he picked the painting and Hamilton said he was "surprised" by the choice.

Aside from the artistic sensibilities of the painter, the viewer is inclined to look at the painting and say, "Oh — sports."

But it was the photograph of the event that intrigued Hamilton.

"I don't like sports. I don't watch sports. The photographs have an artless quality about them. They say something about human relations."

Hamilton is so true to the photographs he uses that friends who knew sports informed him after seeing one of his basketball paintings that one of the players was Dave Cowens and that it was taken in Boston Garden because the floor was parquet.

Out of this documentation style that could turn into photorealism in the hands of some artists, Hamilton adds his trademark, the blurred image. His paintings seem like an eye to an event in which things happened too fast to put it in focus.

"I pay a lot of attention to the abstract elements, the real shapes and forms," he said. "But to me, the important thing is what the painting is about — not what the paint is about (which is the philosophy of most abstract painters.)"

Hamilton uses a projector to enlarge the image and traces it carefully on the canvas. Then he begins to lay down the paint conventionally, "like a sophomore in college would do."

From this very realistic rendering, he uses a paint brush to blur the edges.

"I'm pushing the image aside to get at the root of the image," Hamilton explained. "I put the drawing and painting down very laboriously and very straight forward, and then I brush the painting, turning it around from all sides."

Sometimes, he said, the painting is brushed so much the image is lost. Then he must start all over again.

For the last year, Hamilton has been working on a major series entitled "14 People" — a series of 14 six-foot high paintings that will be shown and sold together.

"They are 14 people I know very well. I knew I wanted to do a series of portraits and decided to put them all in the same pose," he said. One of the paintings is a self-portrait.

"My main concern was to keep the level of intensity up," he said. "I wanted to try to make each one better than the other."

Although Hamilton's struggles have turned themselves into successes one-by-one, he is still not where he wants to be in his career.

But he is staying put.

"I consider myself a Yankee and I don't plan to leave New England," he said. "But I want a national reputation or an international reputation. It may take until I'm 50 or it may happen next year, but I'm going to do it."

'To me, the important thing is what the painting is about — not what the paint is about.'
-Ralph Hamilton

'Other woman' sometimes prefers another man

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Your column on "MOMMA" (Mistresses of Married Men Anonymous) prompted me to write to you for the first time. You've had many letters from rejected women, but I've never seen anything in your column about the rejected male. I'd like to ask a few questions from the point of view of us hurting men.

My mistress and I had the late dates, stolen hours, tears, broken promises, etc. However, we were in our 60s! We'd been seeing each other for several years and planned to marry as soon as I got my freedom. But before that happened, she ended the affair suddenly, and I mean suddenly. One night she went out with a man who had just lost his wife, and they were married shortly thereafter.

There were two big differences between him and me. He was free, and worth several million dollars more than I was.

I was left cynical and brokenhearted. My question: Do most women go to the highest bidder? — HURTING.

DEAR HURTING: No. But they tend to favor the men who are free to marry.

DEAR ABBY: In response to "Disgusted with Women," who claims he's not a bad-looking guy but doesn't have any "luck" with women (they keep giving him phony names and numbers): Maybe he needs to ask himself if he's trying to wing it on his looks alone.

As a single woman (divorced five years ago), I have encountered guys to whom I have given phony names and numbers because they came on too strong and refused to take "No" for an answer.

I recall the men I lied to as egotistical, unwilling to listen, insensitive and inconsiderate of my wishes not to be pawed in public (or in private). After being told "No" politely and in no uncertain terms several times, if they still persisted, I gave them a phony name or number to get rid of them. It beat screaming in public. — DISGUSTED WITH EGOMANIACS.

DEAR DISGUSTED: What's wrong with looking a man straight in the eye and saying, "No, you may not have my name or phone number because I really don't care to see you again"? It would save a lot of time.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were married earlier this year in a formal ceremony. We considered asking my husband's 9-year-old niece to be the flower girl, but we decided against it when we learned that another niece (age 13) felt left out.

However, we did use my husband's dog, Lady, in the ceremony as the ring bearer. Lady is 11 years old and my husband raised her from a pup. Everyone who knows us knows that my husband rarely goes anywhere without Lady. Our friends are still talking about how cute Lady looked trotting down the aisle with the ring box in her mouth.

Now, nine months later, we receive this very upsetting letter from my sister-in-law telling us how badly we hurt them by using a dog in the ceremony instead of their daughter.

Abby, we never promised that their daughter would be in the wedding — we only considered it briefly. Don't you think we had the right to plan the kind of wedding we wanted? — S. IN NOVATO, CALIF.

DEAR S.: Yes. Your relatives have no bone to pick with you since Lady did not replace their daughter in the ceremony.

DEAR ABBY: I'm curious. Have you received any letters yet from British soldiers who sheepishly have brought home war brides from the Falkland Islands? — L. MOSS IN DETROIT

DEAR L.: No. Perhaps they've succeeded in pulling the wool over our eyes.

Obituaries

John N. McMullen

Retired Newton Police captain

NEWTON — John N. McMullen, retired Newton Police Captain, died Sunday, Dec. 26, at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital after a lengthy illness.

McMullen began his career with the City of Newton in 1923 when he joined the Department of Public Works. In June 1940, he assumed the duties of a police officer assigned to foot patrol in Nonantum, later working at police headquarters as a desk officer.

He was promoted to Sergeant in 1947, and two years later he attained the rank of Lieutenant and was assigned to the Detective Bureau. In 1959 he was appointed Captain and Commander of the Detective Bureau with the additional responsibility of being the Police Prosecutor in the Newton District Court.

During his tenure as a detective he investigated many major crimes, including the holdup of the Newtonville branch of the Newton National Bank, in which he arrested two suspects who were later convicted of the famed Brink's robbery.

McMullen's skills as a prosecutor became his hallmark. He was self-trained in criminal law and many young lawyers learned their courtroom skills under his tutelage at the Newton court.

When the Miranda decision was being criticized as resisted in police circles, McMullen came in for national attention when the Associated Press picked up a statement made in a speech to the Kiwanis Club of Newton. McMullen stated, "I am not mad at Miranda, it has led to improved investigation techniques, more convictions and is filling our jails." Since then, convictions throughout the country have increased by 20 percent and most jails and prisons are over-filled.

Capt. John N. McMullen

Capt. McMullen taught criminal law in the Newton Police Academy, in In-Service Training programs for Newton and other local departments, and also in a private police promotional school.

He retired from active duty in 1971 after 48 years of service with the City of Newton.

He is survived by his wife, Sally (Boyd), and sisters Helen, a Newton teacher, Grace Burke, who worked for the election commission, and Anna Kenslea, who worked in the city clerk's office. He is also survived by a brother, Dennis, of Marshfield, a sister, Anna Peppard of Auburndale and several nieces and nephews. His late brother, James, was the principal of Concord High School.

Captain McMullen was a member of the Newton Police benefit and Memorial Associations, the Newton Lodge of Elks, and Honorary Member of the Sons of Italy, a member of the original Nonantum Boys' Club, and the Holy Name Society of Our Lady Help of Christians Church.

A mass for the Dead will be celebrated on Wednesday at St. Ninian's Cathedral, Antigonish, Nova Scotia, with burial in St. Ninian's Cemetery.

Jewish humor is series topic

BROOKLINE — The Adult Jewish Studies Committee of Temple Ohabei Shalom has announced that registration is open for a four-part series on Jewish humor to be taught at the Temple, 1187 Beacon Street, Brookline, on consecutive Sunday mornings beginning January 23.

The course, entitled Medicine Men, Messianists, and Moveable Furniture, will be led by Moshe Waldoks, co-editor of The Big Book of Jewish Humor. Waldoks is the producer of ALEPH: A Jewish Community Affairs Program in cooperation with Continental Cablevision, Newton's cable franchise.

He was a contributor to the Second Jewish Catalogue and is a popular lecturer and performer appearing on college campuses and for community organizations throughout the United States.

Waldoks is fluent in Hebrew and Yiddish, is active in the Havurah movement, and is the Baal Musaf at traditional High Holy Day services at Temple Emanuel in Newton.

The registration fee for Waldoks' course on Jewish humor includes admission to four class sessions (each preceded by bagels and coffee) and a copy of The Big Book of Jewish Humor, which will be used as a textbook for the course. Registration fee for Temple Ohabei Shalom members, senior citizens, and students: $16.00; others: $22. Registrants who already own a copy of the book will receive an $8 credit against their registration fee.

Advance registration is encouraged. For further information, or to register, write or call Temple Ohabei Shalom, 277-6610.

Hebrew College slates new courses

BROOKLINE — It may be wishful thinking but Spring at Hebrew College is scheduled to arrive Sunday, Jan. 30, with the start of spring semester of college courses-in-English.

Seven courses in the new English-for-credit program will be offered, thanks to the success of the first-semester program which attracted 83 new students to the 43 Hawes St. campus.

The courses, all worth two credits, include S.Y. Agnon's Short Stories, given by Prof. Gila Ramras-Rauch; Themes in Criminal Justice in Jewish Jurisprudence, given by Rabbi Joseph Stern; Coping with Personal Crisis, in which Prof. Tzvi Abusch will examine the crises that confronted Abraham, Jeremiah and Jonah; Major Trends and Developments in Jewish History from 1492 to Present, given by Prof. Benjamin Ravid; Modern Jewish Philosophy; Martin Buber and Mordecai Kaplan, given by Davin Wolock; the Political Milieu of Jewish Education, given by Daniel Margolis, and From Jerusalem to Yavneh, which may be taken for independent study with the consent of the instructor, Prof. Arnold Wieder.

Each course meets for two hours once a week, generally in the early evening hours or on Sunday mornings, and costs $75 per credit hour. Courses may also be audited for $60 each.

Also on the spring agenda for those with minimal Hebrew background are Ulpan conversational Hebrew courses at beginner, intermediate and advanced levels. The Ulpan program is an informal, conversational, intensive language-training program pioneered in Israel to train olim (new immigrants) in the language of their new home.

A typical Ulpan class includes 12 to 15 students taught by experienced, native-speaking instructors prepared to infuse each class with the culture and spirit of Israel.

New city bus set for seniors

NEWTON — Mayor Theodore Mann announced the start of a new transportation program for senior citizens on Jan. 4. The service, a cooperative effort by the Human Services Department and the First Baptist Church of Newton, which is supplying the van, is for people 60 and over who do not have access to other means of transport.

The program will operate on Tuesday and Fridays within Newton, Mayor Mann said, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Rides will be provided to essential services such as medical appointments and social service agencies or programs.

The program is assisted with funding from the state Department of Elder Affairs Council on Aging Formula Grant.

Stephen Holmes, chairman of the Council on Aging, said that persons who wish to use the new bus service should call the Dept. of Human Services at 552-7170 at least a day in advance.

He stressed that the new service is geared for those who have no other means of transportation.

Interface plans holistic views

NEWTON — "An Overview of Holistic Medicine" is an evening talk on Monday, Jan. 10, with Rick Ingrasci, M.D., at Interface. Dr. Ingrasci, co-founder of Whole Health Associates, a holistic health center in Watertown, will discuss various aspects of holistic health including: the role of stress, diet and physical fitness in health and disease, alternative healing systems, corporate wellness programs, and the spiritual, social and environmental dimensions of health.

The evening talk be be held at 7:30 p.m. at 230 Central St., Newton. For more information, call 964-0500.

"Superlearning: Accelerated, Humanistic, Holistic and Fun" is an evening talk on Friday, Jan. 14, with Lynn Dhority, Ph.D., on the concept of accelerated learning, which allows us to learn at three-to-five times the traditional pace.

Drawing on modern brain research as well as holistic and confluent learning models, Dr. Dhority will discuss the role of relaxation, imagination and play in the learning experience.

The lecture will be held at 8 p.m. at Interface, 230 Central St., Newton.

Temple forum features noted Rabbi Leifman

CHESTNUT HILL — Congregation Mishkan Tefila Forum presents its first Shabbaton weekend of study and prayer at the Temple on Friday, Jan. 14 and Saturday, Jan. 15.

Rabbi Morton Leifman will be the keynote speaker. His topic will be "Tension between Generations." Rabbi Leifman is assistant chancellor of the Jewish Theological Seminary, assistant professor of history, and dean of the Cantor's Institute. He presents his material in an affable and personable manner.

This special weekend will include Friday evening and Saturday morning services followed by a catered luncheon and a series of discussions, workshops, and activities for adults, teenagers, and children 8-12. The Shabbaton will conclude with Havdalah.

For further information, contact Judy and Richard Kagan, chairmen, at 965-2984 or Harriet and Steve Buchbinder, forum presidents, at 965-2059.

Kenneth Sabbag is editor-in-chief of the North High newspaper.

Therapists conduct divorce rate study

NEWTONVILLE — Therapists at the Institute for Remarriage and Stepfamilies in Newtonville have studied the reasons for the high divorce rate in second marriages, paying particular attention to those marriages that involve stepchildren.

Jamie Kelem Keshet, a Newton resident and the director of the institute, has identified three consistent, distinct stages that stepfamilies typically pass through. These are: "acceptance," the first stage, in which new steprelatives are recognized as members of the family; "authority," the second stage, in which the adults establish authority over the children; and "affection," the final stage, in which family members relax their defenses and enjoy each other.

Each stage has particular problems which must be resolved, according to Keshet.

Understanding these stages is important for stepparents committed to their new family. Ignorance of them often causes bewilderment, anger or guilt because of the intense, unexpected drama that can grow out of competing family ties within an extended stepfamily, Keshet says.

To help stepparents understand the adjustments required by their new family life, the Institute for Remarriage and Stepfamilies is offering a series of free lecture-discussions. These will be presented alternate Monday nights at 8 in the offices of Riverside Family Counseling, 259 Walnut St., Room 14, Newtonville.

The Institute for Remarriage and Stepfamilies specializes in individual, group and child counseling for stepfamily members. Short-term, singie issue counseling and short-term groups for remarried couples are also offered.

Director Jamie Keshet is the author of a forthcoming book on stepfamilies and their sometimes troubled growth toward harmony and mutual affection. Her husband, Dr. Harry Keshet, who will give the Feb. 28 lecture, is the author of Fathers Without Partners: A Study of Fathers and the Family After Marital Separation. He also served in 1981 on the Governor's Special Commission on Probate and Family Court Procedures.

The schedule of lectures follows:

Jan. 17: What's It All About? Life in the Stepfamily. An overview of stepfamily life, the first lecture will focus on the new couple relationship, and relationships with children and ex-spouses.

Jan. 31: For Stepparents, Especially. This lecture will address the particular pitfalls and potential benefits of the stepparent role. Suggestions for stepparenting will be shared. The particular difficulties of adolescent stepchildren will also be addressed.

Feb. 14: Ex-Spouses and Triangles Within the Stepfamily. The focus will be on the role of the former spouse and the effect on the stepfamily of the continuing relationship between the previously married couple. Suggestions will be shared for managing a family with more than two parents in it.

Feb. 28: Joint or Sole Custody in the Stepfamily. This lecture will describe differences in custody and visitation arrangements, and their effects on the remarried couple and stepfamily.
